"Yes, sir, I've got it all fixed up!" Paddy-foot Whispered excitedly.

Mister Bob-Cat liked the dark. His eyes worked better. But he also liked the sun. It felt so good and warm on his back.

So, as he couldn't have both at once, he took turns hunting and sunning himself, and just now he was having his sun-bath on a narrow ledge of rock in a wolly wild place down in Dixie Land.

For Dixie Land, my dears, is not all cotton-fields and tobacco fields and sugar fields and peanut patches and orange groves. It has some very wild places. And it was in one of the wildest places that Mister Bob-Cat was stretched out in the sun.

That's where the Twins found him. Their busy little shoes had guided them there because the Fairy Queen would be sure to ask about her mountain folk.

Mister Bob-Cat was as sound asleep as Rip Van Winkle, so the Twins did not bother to wake him up. They were about to turn away when they heard voices whispering.

Tiptoeing very softly toward the spot where the voiecs came from, they beheld a strange sight.

There was Paddy-foot Rabbit and Drummer Partridge and Hooty Owl, all three with their noses together like foreign ambassadors.

"Yes, sir, I've got it all fixed up!" Paddy-foot whispered excitedly, wiggling his long ears. "I just been to see Mister Otter and he promised. He says he'll do everything we asked him to and he'll be there at exactly three minutes past sunset. Now come along, you two birds and I'll show you the way."

You may be sure that by this time the Twins were bursting with curiosity.

But they stayed 'round, and at sunset, Mister Bob-Cat woke up and shook himself and stretched.

"Supper-time!" he remarked with a yawn. "Guess I'll climb a tree and see if I can find an owl or a nice fat partridge. Goodness! There's Paddy-foot Rabbit right over there now. I might get him."

And away he leaped.

"Shucks!" said Mister Bob-Cat.

"Well, I declare!" grinned Mister Bob-Cat, licking his whiskers. "I'm certainly lucky." And he dug his toe-nails in that tree and shinnied up in two shakes.

"But Hooty Owl lifted his wings and flew away like a shadow.

"Shucks!" said Mister Bob-Cat again. That was stupid of me to miss two good dinners!"

That very second Drummer Partridge began to drum, and Mister Bob-Cat stopped making remarks about himself, and began to lick his whiskers again. "I'll have a fine meal yet," he said and pussyfooted off in the direction the new sound came from.

THE BLUES

According to all figures, scientific data and physicians' reports, Americans are subject to attacks of "the blues" more than the people of any other country.

"The blues" may be diagnosed as a chronic state of being out of sorts, cut of tune with everyone and everything, yourself included. There are melancholia, gloom, depression, a distinct lowering in mental tone and poise, physical inactivity with organic disturbances of the stomach, liver and spleen. The feeling is one apart from sorrow. The common "blues" may be said to resemble sorrow only as mist resembles rain.

The attack may be attributed to being broke, to falling hair, jazz music, unrequited love, taxes or your mother-in-law.

"The blues" may be banished by courage, patience and determination to accomplish the task set for you.

Yours is a job worth having and you can do it better than anyone else. "The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well." The sunshine of such a mind is a real tonic. Too many people underrate the real value of giving happiness as a positive health factor.

As civilization grows, we seem to depart more and more from the natural way of living. Our bodies to function less automatically. We seem to require attention like a machine. Stop worrying, eat within reason, sleep one-third of your time, be on the job, don't daydream. Enjoy the blue sky and the blue sea, but keep away from "the blues." They spoil your temperament, ruin your digestion, blight your business chances and cause the loss of friends. Decide for sunshine against "the blues."

OOoo! MOMMIE, LOOKIE!

This wild ferocious, man-eating beast was turned loose on the sidelines the day Pittsburg and Syracuse played their thrilling 3 to 0 battle, the latter eleven winning. It is a stealthy manoeuvres of the Pittsburg panther and is symbolical of the team, which is known as the Panthers. In real life the panther is Bill Banestal, a cheer leader de luxe.

MEDIATION BOARD FOR LONGSHOREMEN.

Will Deal With Wage Dispute At St. John, N.B.

OTTAWA, November 20 (Canadian Press). — A Board of Conciliation has been established under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act to deal with a wages dispute growing out of the expiry of an agreement between various shipping companies trading to the port of St. John N.B., and certain of their employees, members of the International Longshoremen's Association, Local 273

The Board was established upon the application of the employing companies, who have been in negotiation with the Longshoremen's Committee.

The existing agreement expires at the end of this month

Says Vicks Is Only Remedy For Croup

Quebec Mother Enthusiastic Over Vaporizing Salve.

Every mother wants her children to be active and to grow strong through outdoor play. But frequent colds sap their vitality, cause loss of school standing, and keep youngsters puny and delicate.

Mothers who use Vicks VapoRub for children's colds find that the kiddies can play outdoors and that their cold troubles can usually be checked overnight.

Applied externally, Vicks acts like a liniment or poultice. In addition, the ingredients are vaporized by the body heat and are inhaled directly into the inflamed air passages. This double action quickly loosens up a cold.

Mrs. Leon Crandall, Box 247, Lake Megantic, Quebec, writes: "I used Vicks VapoRub for my little girl when she had croup, and I found that it relieved her at once. It is the only remedy for croup, and I would not be without it."

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Through Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

CHARGE OF MURDER FOLLOWS STABBING

TORONTO, November 20 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Freda Damasky died in the General Hospital last night from knife wounds inflicted when she was stabbed many times about the body in her home last Saturday morning.

Joseph Camby, a former roomer, alleged to have stabbed Mrs. Damasky, now faces a charge of murder.

Blood transfusions were made to try to save the woman's life, but the many deep gashes in her body proved fatal.

Morris, her eight-year-old son, who was slashed across the face by the knife said to have been in the hands of Camby, is now out of danger.

Mrs. Damasky was 32 years of age.

An inquest will be held to-day.

Camby will be examined by medical doctors. The police believe he is not sane. In the cells of the Police Court yesterday morning he screamed until he was removed from the City Hall to the jail.

MRS. DAVIS NERVOUS WRECK

Tells Women How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine, and any one seeing me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee St., Winnipeg, Man.

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

MONUMENT TO WOLFE AND MONTCALM, 1826.

(Copyright by Canadian Press)

Nov. 20, 1826—Fitting tribute to two great men and brave soldiers, Wolfe and Montcalm, was paid on this date at the laying of the corner-stone of the monument in Quebec to these heroes of undying fame One of the chief personages present at the corner stone laying was the tenth Earl of Dalhousie, who was then a young man and afterwards became Governor-General of India.

Incidental to the ceremony and speeches in connection therewith was the strengethening at the same time of the friendship between the English and French in Canada.

THE COUNTRY BEYOND.

Resistlessly on Time's swift tide
Toward our destined goal we glide,
The Country Beyond, the great divide—
Emmanuel's land.

Dear land of beauty, passing fair,
Of sunny clime, and salubrious air,
And the tree of Life with fruitage rare,
By the shining strand.

We know not, if 'twill be short or long,
Till we join that innumerable throng
Who sing unceasing the glad new song,
Round the Great White Throne,

Where sickness never comes, nor pain,
Nor death, nor parting, yearnings vain,
And ills that follow in sin's dark train,
Are for aye unknown.

O, sweet, 'twill be to leave behind,
Sorrow of heart and care of mind,
And sweet repose at last to find,
For the way-worn soul;

So let us cast each weight away
That would our onward course delay
And strive to win, while yet we may
That heavenly goal.

And God will needful strength bestow,
His footprints on life's pathway show
And give them grace,

To follow Him o'er roughest height,
Or darkest vales, and guide them right,
Till they reach His home of glory bright,
And see His face.

HEAVY EXPORT OF PULPWOOD

Big Increase Over Total For Last Year—October Showed a Decline.

OTTAWA, November 20 (Canadian Press). — Pulpwood to the value of $1,078,000 was exported to the United States from Canada in October, according to a report prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

This is a decrease both in quantity and value over the September figures, which show that $1,172,000 worth of pulpwood was shipped to the States, but it shows a great increase over the figures for October, 1922, when only $992,000 was realised from this source.

DEFINE ATTITUDE OF THE WORKERS

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—That attitude of Workers' Party toward trade union movement should be clearly understood by the public, was the statement of General Organizer John Flett of American Federation of Labor last night. Mr. Flett, who is one of the veterans of the Trade Union movement on this continent, was disturbed over recent events, which showed that the public regarded the Workers' Party as an organization in close touch with the Trade Union movement.

"It should be made known that, in the opinion of the American Federation of Labor, the Workers' Party is a Communist organization which has not yet made clear its identity," he said. "It will not sail under true colors because of the policy set down in Moscow. Officials of the Third Internationale claim that the barrier against Communism is the democracy of the American continent and the American Federation of Labor. Its instructions to its propagandists are to get possession of it. The Federation realizes this, and has warned its leaders against these 'borers from within'."

STEAMER HURONIC DOCKED AT POINT EDWARD DOCK

SARNIA, Ont. Nov. 20.— When the steamer Huronic docked at Point Edward at noon yesterday a cordon of provincial police and special officers stepped from the North ern Navigation sheds and took up a close watch on the movement from the vessel while the big cargo of flour was being brought ashore.

Until the last sack is removed and a further search of the vessel made, it will not be definitely known whether Joseph Daniel Lockwood, ex-Toronto burglar and gun man, is aboard or not.

Captain Wright and his fellow-officers, interviewed early this after noon were prepared to lay odds that the ex-policeman and jail breaker was not aboard. His whereabouts remained a mystery this afternoon.

THERE WILL BE NOBODY TO SUCCEED THE LATE GEORGE R. HUNTINGTON

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 20.—Directors of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, meeting here yesterday, postponed selection of a president to succeed the late George R. Huntington, and declared a four per cent. annual dividend on both preferred and common.

Edward W. Beatty, president of the Canadain Pacific Railway, after the meeting, said:

"It is expected that an announcement will be made before the end of the year, after another directors' meeting."

The dividend is to be paid out of the accumulated surplus earnings of the years ending December 31, 1909 to 1919, inclusive. The dividends will be paid December 17.

LARGE CARGO OF GRAIN SHIPPED OVER WEEK END

FORT WILLIAM, Nov. 20. — Twenty-five boats cleared over the week-end from Port Arthur and Fort William, carrying out 5,184,000 bushels of grain, of which nearly one million bushels were coarse grains, chiefly oats. Two boat-loads of screenings went to Duluth. Considering the amount that moved several days during last week, this was not an extraordinary movement for the two days at the week-end.

Only one boat is reported as being under the spouts last evening, but eleven boats are on their way up the lakes light for grain, and several of the vessels now discharging freight and coal will take grain on their return trip.

One line of American steamers has two million bushels of space under charter for the latter part of November.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

A Successful Bazaar Held in the Armories—Personals.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 19.—A most successful bazaar, the first of the season, in this village, was held in the Armouries on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church. The sale began at 2 p.m. and apparently there was no lack of patronage until the closing hour arrived. The Armouries, because of its size and bare white walls, presents many difficulties in the way of decorating it attractively but Saturday's event saw the undertaking happily accomplished. The gaily colored streamers which marked the various booths, with harmonizing draping of counters, and artistic display of wares, together with a generous supply of silver tinsel intertwined with the dainty pinks, blues, and greens used in the color scheme, added brightness particularly after the lights were turned on, made a pleasing and effective picture immediately upon entering the large doors which gave admittance to the buys scene.

The section devoted to children's wear was in charge of Mrs. G. S. Gervan, Mrs. Harry Hall and Miss Alberta Russell; Miss Kathleen Lancashire, Mrs. S. Pritchard, Mrs. W. E. Russell and Mrs. Milton Fallis looked after the fancy work, while in the "Country Store" where chickens, butter, home-made baking, and many other supplies for the pantry were dispensed, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Mrs. E. Armstrong, Miss Ethel McKnight, Mrs. W. E. Ball, Miss B. Syer, Miss F. Larmer, Miss M. Hales, Mrs. A. Miller proved themselves most obliging and capable clerks. The apron booth was apparently supplied with everything one could possibly desire in this line of useful articles with which every good housekeeper desires to be generously equipped, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. R. McMahon, Mrs. H. Ingram and Miss Dorothy Armstrong attending to the wants of all comers and being kept busy throughout the afternoon.

A dainty array of handkerchiefs greeted one in a pretty booth near the entrance the "saleslades" being Miss M. E. Fisher, and Mrs. R. J. Doak. Of course, the "Fish Pond" attracted the kiddies particularly though the grown-ups as well seemed to like to "try their luck" and see what mysterious package the line would haul from the "Pond's" alluring depths, Mrs. H. R. Armstrong, Miss M. Finnimore, Miss E. Hunter, Margaret Armstrong and Ruth Thorndyke looking after this important section, while in the opposite corner a tempting display of homemade candy, flowers, and other goodies drew a constant stream of intending purchasers, Miss Anna gussell, Miss Anna Hawthorne, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, and Mrs. E. Whyte being most attractive as their wares rapidly disappeared.

The afternoon tea tables were well filled from 3 until 6 p.m., the chilly air out of doors making especially welcome the hot drink "which cheers but does not inebriate," the capable waitresses being Mrs. W. T. A. Deyell (who poured tea), Mrs. J. Hunter, Misses Thelma Ball, Gwendolyn Hunter, K. Thompson, Eleanor Pritchard and Mrs. J. Kennedy.

The Aid has usually served a full course meal at 6 o'clock but decided this year on account of their fowl supper on the 27th inst. to eliminate this feature, the absence of the long tables giving more room for the booths and more floor space for those who came to buy, making an agreeable improvement on the arrangements of former years.

The total receipts were in the neighborhood of $300.00.

List of Subjects

The list of subjects for this week at the evangelistic campaign being conducted by Rev. H. Arthur Barton, in the Methodist church, promises some splendid addresses and is as follows:

Miss Blanche Clarry, graduate nurse of New York City, is holidaying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Clarry.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Price, of Orillia, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Doak, for the holiday week-end, Mrs. Price remaining over for a more extended visit.

The many friends of Miss Annie Kells, who recently underwent a serious operation in the General Hospital, Toronto, will be glad to learn that she is convalescing favorably and may possibly be able to return home, with her sister, Miss Mary Kells, this week.

Evangelist H. Arthur Barton, who is now entering upon the second week of his special services here, is at the home of Mrs. J. Hatherly, Main Street, during his stay in Millbrook.

NO MORE WEAK and DIZZY SPELLS Since She Used MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills

Miss Bertha Charrette, Regina, Sask., writes: "I have had a lot of trouble lately, with what I thought was heart trouble, and after my unusual exertion I always felt sick.

My doctor advised a complete rest and change, but this I was unable to take.

I became interested in Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so started taking them. I have now taken three boxes and am so much improved I can go about my daily work without feeling any after ill effects, and have not had any weak or dizzy spells for some time. Your medicine has done me more good than anything I have ever taken, and I will gladly recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills to any woman who is weak and run down."

Price 50c per box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Tiger Lives Well on Six Cents a Day

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(United Press)—George Clemenceau, "the Tiger," came back to Paris the other day feeling like a two-year-old, in spite of his eighty-two years and some odd days. This is what he ascribes it to:

Up at 2:30 every morning and to work on a philosophic treatise, now finished, and for which half a dozen Paris publishers are bidding.

Breakfast at 6:30, consisting of vegetable soup, two kinds of fish, two thick slices of meat, topped off with coffee and cream.

Midday meal comprising a thick soup—two helpings be it noted—fish, meat and fruits.

At sundown or thereabouts much more soup, with lots of vegetables and half a dozen kinds of friut thereafter.

The Breton matrons who owns the hotel where M. Clemenceau spends his vacations likes her guest so much that she charges him 20 sous—exactly 6 cents—a year for board and lodging.

MILLBROOK BOY HIGHLY HONORED

Jim Larmer Given an Unexpected Ovation by School Associates.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 19.—The regular weekly meeting of the Litarary Society of the Continuation School was held on Friday afternoon, an interesting feature being the debate on the subject: "Resolved that Intemperance Causes More Misery than War." The affirmative was ably upheld by Misses Loretta Barnard and Agnes Breckenbridge, while excellent arguments in support of the negative were advanced by Ernest Burnham and Frank Kidd, the former winning by one point. The judges were: for the affirmative, Miss Florence Fallis; negative, George Elson, and neutral, Jean Burnham.

The singing of the opening chorus, "O Canada," was followed by a song, "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean," by Elsie and Vera Weeks, Pearl Lamb, Jean Gervan, Elizabeth Russell and Kathleen Fowler, and Gertrude Gray contributed a reading, as did also Audrey Winslow. A piano solo by Hazel Armstrong, and a reading, "When Teacher's Cross," by Hazel McMahon, immediately preceded the debate, and while the judges were coming to a decision, remarks were made by the critics, Miss Vera Weeks. The final number was a song in honor of Jim Larmer who had won the five-mile road race in Peterboro on Thanksgiving Day, the words being composed by some of his fellows pupils. Those who sang were Walter Sayles, Keith Barnard, Nelles and Lawrence Rowland, their efforts being heartily applauded, though needless to say the "hero of the hour" was considerably embarrassed by the unexpected ovation. The words, which are not exactly Tennysonian as to their poetic merits, are as follows:

Our Jimmie went a-runnin'
For seventeen years or more.
He gained a lot of medals
He'd never had before.
He thought he'd keep on runnin'
Till he could understand
How he would be the champion
Upon the Millbrook strand.
Every time that he's about
You can hear the girlies shout:

CHORUS:
Larmer—He's the boy,
I'll say he can run,
He's never on the bum;
He sometimes runs for you and me,
He always runs for his girlie,
Larmer—he's the boy,
I'll say he can run.

He's got another medal,
And it is very grand;
It's grander than the others,
And, "Say that's going some."
His father think s he's clever,
And so for medals he strives,
His mother says, "That boy's so smart,
He'll be world champion yet."
Just one look and we can tell,
When we hear the girlies yell:

The above was sung to the classic tune of "Peanuts, Five a Bag" and is most popular around Millbrook's "Hall of Learning" at the present time.

No Royal Road to Public Utilities Advertising.

"There is no royal road in public utilities advertising, but you will find the advertising columns of your own town newspaper the direct avenue to the minds of your customers" said Arthur W. Hawks, Jr., manager, publication and advertising department, Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Company, Baltimore, Maryland, in an address delivered at Atlantic City, October 17 before the American Gas Association.

He followed up saying "it pays better to advertise in newspapers and costs less than any other way we know." He also says "advertising dollars go further and bring back more than any other place we put them, if you use this newspaper space to tell your customers the truth about your company."

CHURCH UNIFORMITY NOT DESIRABLE END

Unity by Common Creed Not Possible, View of Rev. Dr. Black.

TORONTO Nov. 19. — Rev. Hugh Black D.D. of Union Theological Seminary, New York, in an inspiring sermon delivered yesterday morning to the students of the University of Toronto in Convocation Hall, in speaking in the subject of "The Christian and His Church," declared, "I do not believe external unity in the Church is possible, or if possible, desirable. It is certainly undesirable if it mean's uniformity, you will never unite the Church by logic or by definition; you will not unite it by a common creed or by a common jack of creed; you will not unite it by a common organization; but you can, to all intents and purposes, unite the Church by a common purpose and receive 'the unity of the spirit in the bonds of peace.' The great purpose of extending the Kingdom of Heaven on earth, can unite us as brethren in a common task."

The year's best book by America's best woman writer

"BLACK OXEN"

by GERTRUDE ATHERTON

(Copyright, 1923, by Gertrude Atherton.)

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested, Dinwiddie declaring that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter, but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering, determined to find out who she is, follows her home from the theatre one night. Luck is with him, for she has forgotten her keys and he helps her get into the house. She asks him in and finally tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; that Mary is ill in a sanitarium in Vienna. Clavering is skeptical.

Though maintaining a strict aloofness from society, Madame Zattiany continues to attend all the first-nights at the theatre. Clavering meets her there a few nights later and engages in spirited and friendly conversation, thereby incurring the envy of the rest of the audience.

(X. (Continued)

The delayed curtain rose and the house was silent. First-nighters, unlike less distinguished audiences, never disgrace themselves by whispering and chattering while the actors are on the stage.

At the end of this, the last act, while the audience, now on their feet, were wildly applauding and fairly howling for the author of the first authentic success of the season," Clavering and Madame Zattiany went swiftly up the aisle. A few others also hastened out, less interested in authors than in taxicabs.

He handed her into her car and she invited him to enter and return with her for a sandwich and a whiskey-and-soda. He hesitated a moment. "I'll go with pleasure," he said. "But I think I'll walk. It—it—would be better."

"Oh!" A curious expression that for the second it lasted seemed to banish both youth and loveliness spread even to her nostrils. Sardonic amusement hardly described it. Then it vanished and she said sweetly: "You are very considerate. I shall expect you."

He did not walk. He took a taxi.

XI.

She opened the door as he ran up the steps. "I never ask my servants to sit up," she said. "Judge Trent warned me that the American servant is as difficult to keep as to get and must be humored. When I think of the wages I pay these pampered creatures and the amount of food they consume; and then of my half-starved friends in Austria, it makes me sick—sick!"

There being no reply to the axiomatic truth involved in these words, Clavering followed her silently into the library. The log fire was still burning and ye hastily replenished it. They took their little supper standing and then seated themselves in easy chairs on either side of the hearth.

"Why don't you bring over your own servants?' he asked. "Time and democracy might ruin them, but meanwhile you would have comfort. Surely you brought your maid?'

"I've had no maid until now since the beginning of the war. I rarely left the hospital. Heaven knows where my other servants are. The young men were mobilized and those that returned alive were either killed in the revolution or turned revolutionists themselves. No doubt the new government would have turned Mary's palace in Buda Pesth into a tenement house if it had not still been a hospital. We left during the revolution and lived in Vienna. Servants with the virus of Bolshevism in their veins would be worse than these."

"Were you ever in danger?"

"Oh, many times," she said indifferently. "Who was not?"

"Was that what broke your cousin down?"

"That and the hard work in Vienna trying to relieve the distress—while half-starved herself. Of course we had almost no money until the United States Government restored our properties."

"Will she join you here when she is well?"

"No, Mary Zattiany will never be seen again."

"Ah? As bad as that? Her friends will be distressed. I understand they saw her abroad from time to time before the war—particularly Mrs. Oglethorpe. That old set is very loyal."

"Loyal! Oh, yes. They are loyal, Mrs. Oglethorpe was ready to give me over to the police. She seemed to think that I had murdered Mary—no doubt during the revolution, when it would have been quite easy. And she seemed to resent quite bitterly my resemblance to Mary in her youth—as if I had committed a theft."

"Probably it made her feel her age. I wonder you saw her."

"I was coming down the stairs as she crossed the hall. Be sure I would not have seen her if I could have avoided it."

"Why?" He left his seat restlessly and leaned against the mantel-shelf. "That sounds impertinent. All my questions have been impertinent, I am afraid. But—I should warn you—I gather that both Mr S. Dinwiddie and Mrs. Oglethorpe think there is something wrong—that is, unexplained."

"Really?" She looked intensely amused. "But that is interesting. Of course I knew of Mr. Dinwiddie's curiosity from Judge Trent—but I rather thought——"

"Oh, yes, you have floored him completely. But I fancy he's more curious than ever. I—I—wish you would confide in me. I might be better able to defend you if the necessity arose."

"Don'd you believe I am what I represent myself to be?"

"It is a terrible thing to say to a woman like you, but——"

He expected her to rise in her majesty and order him to leave the house, but she merely smiled again and said:

"You forget Judge Trent. Do you think if I were an impostor he would vouch for me?"

"I believe you could make any man believe what you wished him to believe."

"Except yourself."

"Remember that a newspaper man—However, I'll speak only for myself." He thrust his hands into his pockets and tried to summon his saturnine expression, but he had an uncomfortable feeling that he looked merely wistful and boyish and that this highly accomplished woman of the world was laughing at him. "For my own sake I want to know," he blurted out. "I haven't an idea why I suspect you, and it is possible that you are what you say you are. Certainly you are far too clever not to have an alibi it would be difficult to puncture. But I sensed something that first night . . something beyond the fact that you were a European and did a curious thing—which, however, I understood immediately. . . . It was something more. . . . I don't think I can put it into words. . . . you were there, and yet you were not there . . . somebody else seemed to be looking out of your eyes . . . even when Dinwiddie thought he had explained the matter. . . ."

"You mean when he assumed that I was the illegitimate daughter of Mary Zattiany. Poor Mary! She always wanted a daughter—that is, when her own youth was over. That is the reason she was so fond of me. Do you think I am Mary's bastard?"

"I did—I don't now. . . . I don't know what to think. . . . I have never lost that first impression—wholly."

She stirred slightly. Was it a movement of uneasiness? He was horribly embarrassed, but determined to hold his ground, and he kept his eyes on her face, which retained its expression of mocking amusement.

"But you think I am an adventuress of some sort."

"The word does not apply to you. There is no question that you are a great lady."

"Of course I might be an actress," she said coolly. "I may have been on the stage in Vienna when the war broke out, become accidentally associated with Countess Zattiany, won her confidence, owing to the extraordinary resemblance—our blood may have met and mingled in Cro-Magnon days—stolen her papers, led her to talk of her youth—of course every one knew Countess Zattiany's record in European Society—forged her power of attorney with the aid of an infatuated clerk, poisoned her—and here I am!"

He laughed. "Bully plot for the movies. This is a new angle, as they say. I hadn't thought of it. And a good actress can put over anything. I once heard a movie queen, who was the best young aristocrat, in looks and manner, I ever saw on the screen, say to her director—repeating a telephone conversation—'I says and he says and then I saw he hadn't heard me.'"

For the first time since he had known her she threw back her head and laughed heartily. Even her eyes looked young and her laugh was musical and thrilling.

XI.

Then she demanded: "And do you think I am an actress—who got an education somehow?"

"I think you are an actress, but not that sort. Your imaginative flight leaves me cold."

"Perhaps you think I had Mary's personality transferred and that it exists side by side with my own here in this accidental shell. There are great scientists in Vienna."

"Ah!" He looked at her sharply. "Button, button—I feel a sensation of warmth somewhere."

She laughed again, but her eyes contracted and almost closed. "I fear you are a very romantic young man as well as a very curious one."

"I deserved that. Well, I am curious. But not so curious as—interested."

"I hope you are not falling in love with me." Her deep voice has risen to a higher register and was light and gay.

"I am half in love with you. I don't know what is going to happen——"

"And you want to protect yourself by disenchantment?"

"Perhaps."

"And you think it is my duty . . ."

"Possibly I'd fall in love with you anyway, but I'd like to know where I stand. I have a constitutional hatred of mystery outside of fiction and the drama."

"Ah." She gazed into the fire.

"She rose swiftly and came close to him."

"Mr. Dinwiddie, no doubt, is making investigations. If he verified my story, would you still disbelieve?"

"I should know there was something back of it all."

"I should know there MMMMMMM You must have been a good reporter."

One of the best."

I suppose it is that."

Partly. I don't think that if you were not just what you are I'd care a hang. Other people's affairs don't excite me. I've outgrown mere inquisitiveness."

That is rather beside the point, isn't it? It all comes back to this—that you are afraid of falling in love with me."

"You don't look as if it would do me any good if I did."

"Why not let it go at that?"

"I think the best thing I can do is to get out altogether."

She rose swiftly and came close to him. "Oh, no! I am not going to let you go. You are the only person on this continent who interests me. I shall have your friendship. And you must admit that I have done nothing—"

"Oh, no, you have done nothing. You've only to be." He wondered that he felt no desire to touch her. She looked lovely and appealing and very young. But she radiated power, and that chin could not melt.

He asked abruptly: "How many men have you had in love with you?"

"Oh!" She spread out her hands vaguely. "How can one remember?" And that look he most disliked, that look of ancient wisdom, disillusioned and contemptuous, came into her eyes.

"You are too young to have had so very many. And the war took a good slice out of your life. I don't suppose you were infatuating smashed-up men or even doctors and surgeons."

"Certainly not. But, when one marries young—and one begins to live early in Europe."

'How often have you loved, yourself?"

"That questions I could answer specifically, but I shall not."

He calculated rapidly. "Four years of war. Assuming that you are thirty-two, although sometimes you look older and sometimes younger, and that you married at seventeen, that would leave you—well, eleven years before the war began. I suppose you didn't fall in love once a year?"

"Oh, no, I am a faithful soul. Say three years and a third to each attack."

"You talk at times singularly like an American for one who left here at the age of two."

"Remember that my family went with me. Moreover, Mary and I always talked English together—American if you like. She was intensely proud of being an American. We read all the American novels, as I told you. They are an education in the idiom, permanent and passing. Moreover, I was always meeting Americans."

"Were you? Well, the greater number of them must be in New York at the present moment. No doubt they would be glad to relieve your loneliness."

"I am not in the least lonely and I have not the least desire to see any of them. Only one thing would induce me—if I thought it would be possible to raise a large amount of money for the women and children of Austria."

"Ah! You would take the risk, then?"

"Risk? They were the most casual acquaintances. They probably have forgotten me long since. I had not left Hungary for a year before the war, and one rarely meets an American in Pesth Society!—two or three other American women had married Hungarians, but they preferred Vienna and I preferred Europeans. I knew them only slightly. . . . Moreover, there are many Zattiany's. It is an immense connection."

"You mean you believe you would be safe?" he caught her up.

"Mon dieu! You make me feel as if I were on the stand. But yes, quite safe."

"And you really believe that any one could ever forget you?"

"I am not as vain as you seem to think."

"You have every right to be. Suppose—suppose that something should occur to rouse the suspicions of the Countess Zattiany's old friends and they should start investigations in Vienna?"

"They would not see her—nor their emissaries. Dr. Steinach's sanitarium is inviolate."

"Steinach — Steinach — where have I heard that name lately?"

Her eyes flew open, but she lowered the lids immediately. Her voice shook slightly as she replied: "He's a very great doctor. He will keep poor Mary's secret as long as she lives and nobody in Vienna would doubt his word. Investigations would be useless."

"She is there then? I suppose you mean that she is dying of an incurable disease or has lost her mind. But do not imagine that I care to pry further into that. I never had the least idea that you had—— Oh, I don't know know what to believe! . . . Won't you ever tell me?"

"I wonder! No, I think not! No! No!"

"There is something then?"

"Do you know why you still harp on that absurd idea that I am what I am and still am not? Do you not know that it is—the simple explanation?"

"No, I do not."

"It is merely that European women, the women who have been raised in the intrigues of courts and the artificialities of what we call 'the World,' who learn the technique of gallantry as soon as they are lancee, where men make a definite cult of women and women of men, where sincerity in such an atmosphere is more baffling than subtlety and guile—that is the reason your American girl is never understood by foreign men—where naturalness is despised as gauche and art commands homage, where, in short, the game is everything—that most aristocratic and enthralling of all games—the game of chess, with men and women as kings, queens, pawns. . . . There you have the whole explanation of my apparent riddle. You have never met any one like me before."

BE LIBERAL IN FEEDING POULTRY

(By JAMES ABRAHAM)

October to December is the most important months or should be in the Poultry keeper's calendar, for this is the period the spring-hatched chicken begin to lay?

It is the winter eggs that pay, and every effort should be made to keep up a continuous supply while prices are at their best.

While the weather this year remains fairly warm, birds will benefit much by a run out and especially where the land is ploughed up for grain or etc., following, as there is plenty chance on such land for the birds to pick up plenty of worms and grub, by thus doing the land and themselves good at the same time.

To begin with it is no use of expecting the birds to lay unless they are hatched from a good productive laying strain, and are thus, as it were, bred to laying, and when once a good laying strain has been secured it should be the aim and object of the poultry keeper or farmer to feed his flock well and not to stint them, that is, if he deserves to keep up the egg yield.

Another thing to remember, and which is so often forgotten, is that a portion of the hen or pullets food has to go to keep her, and is not utilized for the production of eggs. To be able to lay at all the pullet must receive a sufficient diet to keep her bodily vigor and supply her needs, while the surplus will be devoted to egg production. It is the duty of the poultry keeper so to feed and balance his rations that the birds be able to carry out both these functions. A generous ration must be decided upon, and there is no doubt such food as good oats ground sharp and good sound midlings together with a certain amount of fish or meat meal and household scraps for a diet conducive to egg production.

The Question of Mash.

This important question of mash, and whether it should be fed wet or dry has been much debated among poultrymen. Some maintain that the fowls require mash wet or dry once a day. It seems to me the dry feeding is becoming most popular the advantage of the dry mash is that it saves labor, and if a plentiful supply of water provided, each bird will only take into its system just the amount of moisture which nature prompts it to do, while there is no danger, with dry foods, of fermentation and food going sour, which frequently sets up all sorts of internal troubles.

Where a few hens are kept in the kitchen garden or back yard, the owner may porfit a little by feeding wet mash, for by this means the mash may have incorporated in it many of the household scraps. Thus such a mash may be fed in a crumbly state first thing in the morning or the last thing at night. I need not in this place point out that to feed such a mash in a sicky state is to invite trouble among the birds, and plenty of it!

Do not forget the green food which is so essential the farmer can be assured of his supply, but these birds who are confined and kept on the intensive system some sort of green meat must be provided, in the nature of cabbage, turnip and sweet marigold, and will prove very acceptable to the stock. Grain must be given once a day. Some believe in giving grain first thing in the morning while others say at night. That is a matter of opinion. I certainly think the birds need exercise first thing in getting up. Grain scattered among the litter will provide this, and by their scratching for it will get exercise and stimulate their circulation but like everything else this must not be overdone.

Some beginners make the fatal mistake of crowding to many birds together, and thus run the risk of diseases sweeping the lot away. This plan is greatly to be depreciated. It is alright with birds who are at liberty at all times and have access to roam over, there can be little fear of them over-crowding. Yet in confinement this is another matter, and the runs will become foul and stale with the consequent loss of health and with it loss of egg producing power.

Even on grass runs there should never be too many birds together, for grass will grow rank and coarse, tainted ground will result, and here again, is a fruitful source for disease to break out.

While on the subject of feeding and the fatal policy of stinting the food, I do not want our readers to think I advocate to lavish and also to think to a wasteful diet. On the contrary, birds should only be given just as much as they will clean up and no more. As when one sees food left in the troughs you must know you are over feeding.

The Best Spice Of All.

One hears of a great number of spices advocated for by the use of fowls to promote egg laying and to keep the birds in good sound condition. Now there is no doubt birds do need toning up every now and then, in this they would also benefit from a dose of Epsom Salts occasionally, but, at the same time my opinion the very spice of all, and one which rarely fails to do all that is needed to keep the fowls in good health and excellent laying condition, is that spice we all need more or less—common sense!

A good dose of this applied three times a day and never forgotten, will help both birds and ourselves more than can be easily imagined. Let it be among the first things laid in store if the poultry man wishes to make a success of his flock.

WINE

The beer stein is losing out in Germany, wine glass taking its place, according to returned tourists.

Nations are said to take on the characteristics of the liquors they drink. If the Germans discard beer and become a nation of wine drinkers it'll have a decided effect on their national psychology. Beer creates stolid, phlegmatic temperament. Wine effervesces the emotions. As for whisky and brandy, they really belong in the category of drugs.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

TO SERVE WITH SALAD

Many hostesses like to serve the salad just before the main course of meat and vegetables rather than after it.

A vegetable or fish salad is very acceptable right after the soup, but a fruit salad seems to give a better balance to the meal if it follows the main course.

In any event a salad course properly served includes a wafer or something of the sort with the salad itself. The accompaniment may be served on the plate with the salad or on a large plate, each person helping himself.

These little tidbits may be used with a fruit, vegetable or head lettuce salad which does not gain its piquancy from cheese.

Cheese Crackers

Four tablespoons grated American full cream cheese, 2 tablespoons butter, paprika, small square crackers.

Rub cheese and butter to a smooth paste. Spread mixture on crackers, dust with paprika and toast just before serving.

If the crackers are ready on the toaster it's a simple thing to pop them in the broiler while clearing the table and taking in the salad. This insures their hot crispness with the salad.

Cheese Cups

Bread 24 hours old, cheese, melted butter.

Cut bread in slices two inches thick. Cut in small rounds with an open top, small cutter. Hollow out a tiny cup-shaped depression in one end of each round of bread. Dip in melted butter, fill depression with grated cheese and put in a hot oven to melt the cheese and slightly brown the bread. Dust lightly with paprika before sending to the table.

Cheese Squares

One cup soft cheese, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons soft bread crumbs, ¼ teaspoon mustard, ½ teaspoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon minced sweet pepper, few grains sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, paprika, squares of bread.

Cut bread not more than three-eighths of an inch thick. Cut off crusts and cut in two-inch squares. Toast quickly. Mix cheese, butter, bread crumb, pepper, mustard, vinegar, sugar and salt to a smooth paste. Spread on toasted squares, dust with paprika and put in a hot oven to melt the cheese. Serve at once.

Cheese Balls

Whites 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, grated cheese.

Beat whites until stiff and dry. Beat in salt and paprika and add enough grated cheese to make the mixture the right consistency to form into marbles. Drop in deep hot fat and fry to a golden brown. Drain on heavy brown paper and heat in the oven to serve.

Cheese Straws

One cup grated cheese, 1 cup bread crumbs, 2-3 cup flour, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 2 tablespoons milk, dash mustard.

Cream butter, add flour, crumbs, cheese and seasoning. Mix thoroughly. Add milk and mix well. Turn onto a floured molding board, roll one-quarter inch thick, cut in straws one-quarter inch wide and four inches long. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes.

SILK AND CREPE

There's a queer looking new material on the market for millinery uses. It has a tiny silk tassels scattered closely over a foundation of crepe.

CANADIAN GROWN CLOVER AND ALFALFA SEED IN DEMAND

(Experimental Farms Note)

The profits which may be secure from the sale of clover and alfalfa seed and the importance of home-grown seed for obtaining hardy plants, are two of the reasons why many farmers are saving their own seed. More farmers, however, might increase their revenue considerably by the saving of seed and larger acreages of second cuttings of clover and alfalfa might advantageously be used for seed production.

The winter-killing of red clover which frequently occurs would undoubtedly be lessened to a great extent if only home-grown seed were used. Imported seed, especially that produced in southern climates, is very likely to be from varieties too tender for our Canadian winters. These are facts which increase every year the demand for home-grown seed.

Growers of alfalfa are realizing more and more that in order to secure a good stand of plants, hardy seed is essential. As the acreage being sown to alfalfa is becoming greater every year, the demand for Canadian-grown seed is increasing, and the good prices being paid for this seed should lead more alfalfa growers to save their second cuttings for the production of seed, Canadian-grown Grimm alfalfa has proven the most hardy sort at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa.

The crop either clover or alfalfa, which is usually the second cutting, should be cut for seed when the majority of the heads or pods are ripe. Many failures in the saving of seed are due to cutting before the seed is ripe. Rub out in the palm of the hand a number of heads or pods taken from different parts of the field and if the seed shells easily, it is ready for cutting. The best means of cutting is to use a machine which will leave the cut plants in windrows, so that they will not be driven over as the cutting is continued. A board table is sometimes attached to the rear of the cutting bar of a mower by bolts fastened through holes drilled in the bar. The table is allowed to drag and a man with a rake follows to keep the cut plants pulled back from the bar, and to rake them off in windrows. An old-fashioned reaper discharging the clover or alfalfa at every rake may also be used with success for this purpose. When the crop is tall enough it may be cut with a binder. Two upright boards which hold the sheaf are slackened and allowed to drop, and the machine trips continually. The plants, instead of being tied into bundles, are passed on to the stubble in a continuous stream.

The crop may be threshed in the field, or it may be brought directly to the barn, but if it is stored in the barn it should not be threshed until the weather is dry and frosty. A clover huller is the best machine for threshing, but an ordinary thresher is often used. When the threshing machine is used it is boarded up in front of the cylinder with the exception of about 12 inches at the left. The back of the cylinder is boarded up in a like manner, leaving about 10 inches open on the right. The concave is placed close up to the cylinder which is run fairly fast.

For any further information on the saving of clover and alfalfa seed, the Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, would be glad to reply to any inquiries.

HOLD-UP

Pomeroy, Chicago reporter for over 50 years, was stopped the other night on a side street by a tough individual with a gun. Took a lot of arguing before Pomeroy convinced the gunman his name was O'Connor.

"Beat it, youse!" the gunman advised. "We're lookin' for a guy named O'Connor to bump him off."

Some idealists think they could "reform" by gentle treatment a hard-boiled customer like this Chicago gunman.

WHAT IS HIGHER CRITICISM?

(By J. H. BURNHAM)

To the Editor of The Examiner:

1. What is Higher Criticism?

It is the critical analysis of the Bible with a view to finding just what it is and just what it means.

2. What is a Higher Critic?

A person who with an impartial mind investigates the Bible and says whether it is in whole or in part or not at all the work of a Divine Author speaking through inspired writers.

3. Is Higher Criticism general?

Yes. More than ninety percent of the evangelical clergy are higher critics.

4. What is its immediate object?

The test of Truth and of Fact.

5. What does it mean by Truth?

The attitude of the Creator or Creative Impulse towards Humanity and the Christian evidences.

6. What is meant by Fact?

Historical facts or actual occurrences.

7. What is a possible result of Higher Criticism?

The overthrow of the Bible as a means of communication between God and Man, in human eyes.

8 If Higher Criticism found the Bible to be a fictitious record of what the Bible purports to set out, would that free humanity from the necessity of believing in it?

The higher critic thinks so.

9. Can anybody be a higher critic?

Yes—who pursues his criticism sincerely. There is no monopoly of investigation.

10. Would an adverse opinion of the Bible free an honest inquirer from any obligation to believe in it?

So the higher critic assumes.

11. Then no written message has been handed to men from God which men are bound to obey without investigation and without first satisfying themselves of its authenticity?

So higher critic claims.

12. What is the logical effect of such an attitude of mind as that embodied in Higher Criticism?

To place without penalty man's eternal destiny in his own hands. For if he reject God and even the idea of God after an honest investigation Higher Criticism attaches no blame to him.

13. What is the difference between Higher Criticism and the old way?

The old way assumes the Bible to be the Word of God and leaves it to God to convey His message without criticism of the method employed while Higher Criticism assumes nothing and requires that proof shall be forthcoming to satisfy mankind. A man may believe what he himself considers worthy of belief.

14. Is it, according to Higher Criticism, necessary, to escape punishment for a person to believe in Christianity at all according to Higher Criticism

No.

15. Has Higher Criticism found Jesus Christ Himself to have been in error?

Yes. Christ, for example, assumes the Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch and the Davidic authorship of the 110th Psalm; modern scholarship denies both. (Rev. Professor Jackson—"Studies of the Old Testament").

16. Does Higher Criticism deny the inspiration of the Bible?

No but it reserves the right to form its opinion concerning it. It is this reservation of the right the absolute right—to an opinion that is the fundamental principle of Higher Criticism.

17. If people have such a right the there can be logically no condemnation for having it and exercising it?

No.

18. When a book is condemned as full of inaccuracies and mistakes, what is likely to be the opinion regarding it?

In what way would the ordinary inquirer seek to find if a book was a message from God? By asking through analysis or by asking God through prayer?

And if in answer to prayer, God said to a man that the Bible was His Word would a believer stop at that or continue his inquiry? If the answer to prayer may be obtained without doubt why the Higher Criticism and what does it indicate?

What moreover, is the effect upon the young of ridiculing the Bible and urging people to trust in themselves and their own measures?

To read the resultant records of the churches is to read their death-rate. They are falling in pieces which no union can cement together. The growth of societies for good has been enormous. They almost encumber the earth. But what of the ancient bulwarks of the Faith—the churches? Who has done this thing? Those who are leading the people away to seek from themselves rather than from God. The first step of the great apostasy has been made. What will be the next? Why does the man-in-the-street laugh?

The above is, so far as I can find, the meaning of Higher Criticism, and if I am in error (and I speak for many besides myself) some of the clergy might do worse than enlighten us.

Respectfully yours,

J. H. BURNHAM.

BALDWIN WILL HAVE A FIGHT

Mr. Asquith's Chances in Paisley Have Improved

LONDON, Nov. 20. — (Canadian Press.)—Premier Baldwin is being opposed in his own constituency, the Newdley division of Worcester by Sardius Hancock, formerly Liberal agent in West Worcestershire, who ran against Mr. Baldwin last November and reduced his majority by seven thousand.

"Prime Ministers have been beaten before by Nonenties," Hancock says.

Mr. Asquiths' chances in Paisley appear to be improved by incursion of an Independent Labor candidate, Local Councillor Brown, who plies a horse cab for hire in Paisley and admits that his real object is to defeat the official Labor candidate.

Winston Churchill will have a hard fight in West Leceister. This town at one time was hard to fight in its Liberalism as Birmingham in its Conservatism, but in the last election returned a Labor candidate. Churchill's Unionist opponent will be Captain Alfred Instone. The Labor candidate will be Pethwich Lawrence, a barrister, who was an advocate of womens 'suffrage in its violent era.

H. H. Asquith arrived in Glasgow this morning to commence his Paisley campaign and was given a noisy reception. A large body of University students were on the station platform when the train arrived bearing the former Premier. They cheered and insistently called for a speech, but Mr. Asquith declined to accede to the noisy invitation.

Party Funds.

J. H. Thomas, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, announces the National Union of Railwaymen has decided to give ten thousand pounds from its political fund to the National Labor Party for use in the general election.

Theer is not one chance in ten million of a Liberal-Labor pact, declared Stephen Walsh, Miners' agent and representtaive of the Ince division of Lancashire, who is again the Labor candidate in that constituency. Lancashire miners who always take a line of their own in the House of Commons, intend standing strong for nationalization of mines.

Speaking in Northwest Camberwell, Right Hon. T. J. MacNamara, former Minister of Labor, said that tariff reform is a Jerry-built, spatchcocked scheme built on shifting sand to be hustled through in three weeks.

"No wonder Lord Derby said 'thank goodness, he is not a candidate'," said Mr. MacNamara. "He would be howled off the stage by pit, stalls and gallery if he were. Fatuous policy invites electorate to cut off its nose to spite somebody else's face.

THE MISSION IN ST. JOHN'S

The Right Rev. Dr. Bidwell, Lord Bishop of, Ontario, continued last evening in St. John's, the preaching mission commenced on Sunday. There was a very large congregation present, and the interest manifested was intense. The Bishop is a preacher of great ability, and a teacher of the Bible of high rank. His manner is telling, direct and simple, so that any one can understand.

The theme which is being followed throughout by Bishop Bidwell is: "What shall I do with Jesus which is called Christ?" "Christianity," said he, "centres about the Personality of Jesus Christ, that is a Personality which, whatever else people may do, cannot be ignored. It must be reckoned with. Pilate's attitude to Jesus was due to a fear inspired by the strangeness of the thing with which he was confronted. Many people stop at belief in Christ when, as a matter of fact, the Christian life really begins there. "If any man will come after me let him DENY himself." Self is the centre about which human interest revolves. Jesus' plan was to reverse that order and to look at things not from our own but from His point of view. In our business relations, where it is quite possible to be true to Christ, as well as in our own homes, a question we cannot honestly overlook is "What shall we do with Jesus which is called Christ." We have the great privilege of knowing One who can lead us in the way of truth. "I am the light of the world," said He. If we are to see things in the glare of that light we must see them from God's point of view. Jesus saw the world as God's world. We fail to see Him often because we look at the world from our own point of view.

After the address the Bishop gave a short study on the meaning of the Church as one, Holy, Catholic, and Apostolic. There can be no other but one because Jesus Christ could only found one church. It is Holy, because it stands to witness to the reality and supreme value of the soul. It is Catholic, because it contains the whole teaching of Jesus—not a section of it. It is Apostolic, because it retains the Apostolic sacraments, Ministry and Custom.

REV. JOHN CLIFFORD DIED TO-DAY ON DUTY

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. John Clifford, Baptist preacher of International prominence died suddenly this morning in the Council Chamber of the Baptist Union. He was 87 years of age. He was long a leading figure in the Baptist church in England.

Rev. Mr. Clifford made a visit to Peterboro in 1911.

Intense Rheumatic Pains Relieved

Peterborough Woman Gets Wonderful Relief From New Herbal Remedy, Dreco, and Gratefully Voices Its Praise.

"For many years I have been troubled with rheumatism in my shoulders," says Mrs. Charles Griffin of 149 Lake street, Peterborough, Ont. "Although I tried many different kinds of medicines, nothing seemed to do me any good. The pains were so intense at times that I would have to give up my work and lie down before I got any ease. Sometimes it was worse than others, but a dull, aching pain was there always. It worked on my nerves so much that it affected my whole system and I didn't have nearly the energy I should have had.

"When I heard such splendid reports of Dreco and its work in cases similar to my own, I decided to give it a trial. It has worked wonders for me. I felt 100 per cent. better before I had finished my first bottle and I hardly ever feel any signs of rheumatism now. My whole system is improved and I feel much better in every way. I am, therefore, glad to recommend Dreco to anyone who suffers as I did."

Dreco cleanses the system of all impurities and restores the kidneys, bowels, liver and stomach to normal, healthy activity. Aches and pains cannot live in a healthy system, so one by one they disappear as Dreco restores you. Dreco is made from herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, in Campbellford, by J. E. Birks, and by a good druggist everywhere.

BALDWIN

very popular along the middle class women, whose distrust and dislike of Lloyd George is intense. The Premier's rebuke of Lloyd George for his unseemly levity on the subject of 'tin cans versus tin kettles is not an issue to lay before intelligent people."

Baldwin's strongest plea is that unemployment is the only issue before the electorate and that the needs of the people at home must come before all else. His claim that Asquith's Liberals abandoned free trade in 1916 when they accepted the resolutions of the Paris Economic Conference and subsequently adopted the safeguarding of industries policy is entirely justified. The crux of the question really lies in the argument that the British Premier is really carrying his Liberal policy to a logical conclusion and substituting scientific for the amateur handling of the matter.

The British temperament does not like logical conclusions, and usually prefers the rule of the thumb to scientific methods. Baldwin now alleges that the Safeguarding of Industries Act—the extension of which he declared at Plymouth last month as adequate to his purpose—would be quite an insufficient cure for unemployment. Therefore he appealed to the country.

A Stodgy Document.

Here a large section of Conservative opinion does not agree with him, and holds that his assertion is not proved since much might have been done by extending the safeguarding of industries principle without throwing away a safe Conservative majority.

On the other hand, the Liberal Party manifesto signed by Asquith and Lloyd George is an even stodgier document than Premier Baldwin's. Apart from its proposal to co-operate with the United States for the prompt settlement of the reparations question, it only holds out vague promises of reform, and suggests a cure for unemployment in homeopathic doses of Liberalism.

Practically speaking, these manifestos do not affect the situation. It is doubtful whether they will influence a single vote.

The campaign speeches and the personalities of the speakers are much more important, but the most important of all is the course of events abroad.

The news yesterday that the Anglo-French rupture was deverted in Paris when Poincare had agreed not to insist upon fresh measures of coercion against Germany is likely to do the government more good than any amount of talk. No criticism of Baldwin is more damning than to censure him for having put Britain out of action in Europe by dissolving Parliament at the supremely critical moment of European affairs.

THE FEDERATION MEETING TO BE HELD IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Nov. 20—Resumption of negotiations between the wage committee of the Railway Association of Canada and the Railway Shopmen who form Division No. 4, Railway Employees, American Federation of Labour, will take place here on Wednesday.

The members of the wage committee are R. A. Payne of the Canadian Pacific Railway, C. E. Brooks, Canadian National Railways; A. B. Crilly, C.N.R.; George Hodge, C.P.R. and John Burns, C.P.R.

The employees committee will be led by R. J. Tallon, president of the division, Frank McKenna, vice-president and Charles Dickie, secretary.

A year ago reductions went into effect, being seven cents for mechanics and nine cents for car-men.

The men asked an increase of ten cents an hour last spring and negotiations have been in progress since then.

MORE PROTECTION

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Believing that more adequate police protection was necessary if girls and womeni were to go unmolested in Ottawa streets, several members of the Ince division of Council of women will approach the police commissioners to increase the local force. This was introduced in the form of resolution put forward at the meeting of Council yesterday. A further resolution will also be forwarded to local magistrates urging that all assault cases where evidence would be given by girls and women, be tried in private without the presence of the press.

FIRST FROSTS HALT PLOWING

Cavan Farmers Hope Winter Will Delay Its Advent — The Sunday Services.

CAVAN, Rev. R. T. Richards occupied his own pulpit on Sunday evening and delivered an excellent address from the text Matt. 6:31, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all these things will be added unto you," emphasizing the fact that material wealth is not the greatest thing in life, but rather spiritual wealth.

Harvest Home Service.

St. John's church, Ida, held their harvest home service on Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Freeheeler, Bethany, took charge of the service.

Mr. D. C. King, Peterboro, sang two solos which were much appreciated by the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance and little son were the guests of Rev. R. T. and Mrs. Richards on Sunday.

Mrs. David Hunter celebrated her 87th birthday on Thursday, November 15th. Her many friends wish her many more.

Miss Bertha McNeil goes to Toronto on Tuesday to attend the Women's Institute Convention, which starts on Tuesday. She goes as a delegate from the Cavan Women's Institute.

The Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. James Paul, on Thursday, November 29th.

Mr. Wilfred Franks, Kitchener, who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Matchett, goes on Tuesday to Manvers to visit his grandfather, Mr. George Wilson, and other friends.

Mrs. Creighton Carr spent a few days at Newcastle last week.

Plowing Halted.

The heavy frost of Sunday has put a stop to the ploughing, which the farmers hope is only temporary, as there is quite a lot to be done yet.

Threshing of grain is almost finished, just a few jobs left. Some people still have their clover to thresh.

Mr. Gerald Staples was a visitor to Peterboro on Monday.

Some of the deer hunters have returned.

Messrs. Thomas and Archie Staples of Lifford, went north for a few days and shot a two hundred pound deer.

REGINA CAPITALS WON HOCKEY GAME

First of Two Game Series Won Over Ottawa Senators by 5-2--Brilliant Play.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Regina Capitals defeated Ottawa Senators, Stanley Cup holders, 5 to 2 here last night in the first of a two-game pro. hockey series, the winners of which will meet the winners of the Calgary-Edmonton series in a sudden death game next Monday night.

Despite the fact that both teams lacked practice, particularly the Ottawa aggregation, the play was much faster and more exciting than Saturday's contest between Edmonton and Calgary. Regina won through a brilliant effort in the last period, when they punctured the champions' net on four occasions, while a brilliant effort by Nighbor in the closing moments, when Regina was playing single-handed, added a final tally to the Ottawa count.

BURNS PAPER AS OATH IN COURT

Non-Christian Chinese in Judge O'Connell's Court Caused Legal Flurry.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—The burning of a paper on which his name was written was the form of a Chinese oath taken with all due solemnity in the general sessions court before Judge Daniel O'Connell yesterday. It was taken by Charlie Wong, a witness in the case in which his cousin, Garnet Wong, is charged with obtaining $50 from members of a Chinese club on the alleged pretence that it was to pay for police protection for gambling on Sunday.

When Charlie Wong was called to the witness stand it was found that he was not a Christian.

Mr. Arthur Slaght, K.C., counsel for the defence, said: "I am informed that for an oath to be binding on this man that you have to kill a chicken or break a saucer on the witness' head."

The court looked aghast at the thought of a chicken being killed in the court room. Saucers also were as scarce as chickens. Judge O'Connell then looked up legal forms for Chinese oaths. Although the killing of a live chicken was recognized as the proper oath for a "heathen Chinee" in Hong Kong, the Judge discovered that in British Columbia the form of oath was to burn a piece of paper on which the witness had written his name.

So the witness was handed a piece of paper and a pencil, and he wrote "Charlie Wong." He was handed a match, lighted it, and was all ready to set fire to the paper. Then came an objection from the interpreter, that if this oath was to be binding it had to be written in Chinese. Charlie Wong obediently complied, and then carefully burned the paper, while all the court sat watching and in solemn silence.

A CURTAIN RAISER FOR THIS EVENING

Kiwanis Revue Will Go Over the Top i Big Extravaganza.

Sharp at a quarter past eight o'clock this evening, the curtain at the Grand Opera House will go up for the prologue to the much-heralded Kiwanis Revue, "The Garden of the Shah," on which Director Martin B. Chenhall and his cast of energetic performers have been spending so much time and thought during the past few weeks.

Every preparation has been made, and every contingency foreseen, to give the public a snappy, colourful production that will carry out in theatrical annals, as well as in other lines of endeavour, the significant motto of the Kiwanis organisation—"We Build."

With a double bill packed with fun and frolic appropriate scenery and bright, gay costumes, tuneful song and dance numbers carried out by accomplished vocalists and graceful dances, with plenty of zip and vim to the staging, the double presentation of Southern plantation and an Eastern garden, with romance woven about the story of both, promises to be a memorable event.

After the prologue, given by the children of the Jackson Park Camp and the Shelter, the darkey plantation is shown. The part of the heroine in this section is taken by Miss Ernestine McManus as Rose, Mrs. Walter Byers has the role of Judy, and the male roles include those of Richard played by Harold Snelgrove, Scudder by Jack Dewart, Old Holly Timms (a shady lawyer) by Jack Marshall, Pilot Farley by Jack McKone, the first mate by C. E. Clark, waiters by Joe Wearing, Bob Mackey, Stewart Gordon, and Vern. Morphet, and policemen by Harry Huffman and Jack Green.

There is a chorus of Southern planters, their wives, sailors, and servants.

The musical numbers in this section include: An opening medley, the "Bell Song," "Sleep, Ma Honey," "My Wonderful Rose," "Ah's Dun Contented," "Honey Chile," "Noah's Ark," "My Honolulu Lula," and "This Wonderful Hour."

In the second and most important section of the dual programme, "The Garden of the Shah," in Persia, the role of the Shah's daughter, Zohdah, is taken by Miss Mathilde Masson; Lohlah, her friend, is enacted by Miss Gretao LeBarr, and Nowobeh, Zohdah's old nurse, is Mrs. Walter Byers. Hugh M. Niven is Ted Harding, and A. M. Irvine plays the part of Billy Cummings, the two being the Canadan mining engineers who come to Persia to work the Shah's gold mine. Vern Morphet is Samuel Johnson Jackson (coloured). Alex. Dick is Perunah, the Shah himself, D. G. Melte is Somegraba, the Shiek, Walter Byers is Chief of Police, Jack Jeffries is Commander of the Guards, and the Three Wise Men are Joe Wearing, George Henderson, and Alex. Donley.

There are choruses of girls, attendants, police, and guards

Musical numbers in this section include: "I Am a Persian Rosebud," "A Prophecy," "My Persian Rose," "Since Your Eyes Have Told Me" (duet), "De Tamin' of de Shrew," "Chains of Love" (duet), "What We Were and What We Are" (duet), "I Am King of My Desert Throne," and the "Song of the Three Wise Men."

At the Wednesday evening performance, the second night, the Kiwanis Bantam ball team will be the guests of the Kiwanis Club.

LEAGUE MEETING IN MARK STREET

Vice - President Miss A. Throope in the Chair

Last evening the League of Mark Street Methodist Church, conducted by the vice-president, Miss A. Throope, held a good meeting, attended by about forty of the members. The meeting was opened by the president, Mr. V. Boorman, and prayer by the pastor, Rev. R. Bamford, followed by a short business session, in which a motion by Miss F. Stenton and Mr. C. Agnew, was passed, to arrange for a play to be given in the near future.

The vice-president, Miss A. Throope, then took charge of the proceedings. Devotional exercises were taken by Miss D. Young and a Scripture reading given by Miss F. Stenton after which Miss A. Throope took the topic. A heartily encored vocal solo was given by Miss K. Halliday.

A social hour followed, with service of dainty refreshments of pie and ice-cream, the waiters for the occasion being Misses P. Bettes and R. Hamblin and Messrs. C. Agnew and P. Oke.

The Financial Board held a business meeting last night, at the close of which the members were guests of the League. A very gratifying report was given, stating that an amount of $400.00 had been removed from the liabilities of the church.

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(United Press).—Sterling continued to recover in the early dealings, advancing nearly two cents from the previous close on overnight confirmation of the news that the Allies had averted a split. Stocks reflected this development in a generally buoyant tone in the early dealings Baldwin moved up a full point to a new high on the movement despite Vauclains denial that a special distribution to stock holders was contemplated. American Locomotive Studebaker, American Can, Corn Products and other industrial leaders also scored fair gains, while Rails were fractionally higher.

Following the display of strength in the early dealings, Bullish Demonstrations were resumed in many sections of the list. Pool managers lost no time.

In taking advantage of the prevailing buoyancy and substantial advances took place in Gulf States Steel and various other group favorites. Steel Common went into new high ground on the movement in response to the belief in trade circles that the operations of the Steel Corporation in the first two months of the last quarter of the year will compare favorably with the average in the third quarter. Even allowing for a moderate falling off in December, it is safe to say that steel will close the fourth quarter with a substantial surplus and that another extra dividend will be justified.

Surplus after dividends in the third quarter exceeded $15,000,000.

REV. J. CRAWFORD BROWN CONDEMNED BOLSHEVISM

HAMILTON, November 20. Canadian Press. — Speaking on "Has the World Destroyed Democracy?" at Westminster Presbyterian Church last evening, Rev. J. Crawford Brown of Toronto, told of the rise of autocracy in mililtary and legislativ affairs.

He condemned Bolshevism, despotism, prohibition and church union.

Prohibition was a failure as it did not have public sympathy behind it, and statistics showed that it had been responsible for a tremendous increase in crime. Church union likewise was another example of the autocratic spirit of a few to legislate for the many.

THREE ATTACKS MADE ON CHANCELLOR STRESEMANN

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff Corespondent.)

BERLIN, November 20. — Three attacks on the political life of Chancellor Stresemann, were in preparation to-day as the Reichstag reconvened.

Resolutions of "no confidence" from the Nationalist, Socialist, and communist parties were listed for discussion by the Chamber.

While the votes probably will come separately, and possibly be spread over the week, the immediate future of the Stresemann Cabinet was considered by many well informed persons to be extremely precarious.

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

COBOURG, Nov. 19.—The deputation that went to Ottawa to interview the Minister of Public Works with reference to improvements to Cobourg Harbor, returned with encouraging reports of promised consideration of the same. The deputation consisted of Mayor F. D. Boggs, Deputy Reeve McGuire, Couns. Fullerton, Odell and McArthur; Mr. Harry Field, President of the Cobourg Board of Trade; Capt. Nicholson, General Manager of the Ontario Car Ferry Co.; Mr. M. E. Maybee, M.P. for Northumberland, and Mr. C. W. Kerr, of Toronto, and Cobourg, who introduced the deputation The deputation brought before the Government the urgent need for repairs at Cobourg Harbor, and asked for consideration of the matter with a view to having these effected the coming year. It was pointed out that the larger part of Cobourg's traffic is through traffic to points beyond Cobourg, and therefore the harbor is of general utility to the province, rather than a means of revenue to the town. It was accordingly felt that the ratepayers should not be called upon to bear any part of the expense of harbor repairs. Each member of the deputation, while presenting the matter from different standpoints, emphasized the importance of Cobourg Harbor as a harbor of refuge, it being the only deep water harbor on the Lake that is open winter and summer. The Minister made no direct response but the deputation returned highly pleased with their visit.

Dredging About Done

Dredging at the harbor will be completed shortly for this season. The dredge Sir Lawrence and outfit, which has been here is expected to winter at Trenton.

Poultry Show to be Held Here

The annual poultry show of the Northumberland and Durham Poultry Association will be held ar Cobourg on December 26, 27 and 28. The show was held in Cobourg three years ago and was very successful and efforts will be made this season to make it a bigger and better event than ever before. The committee in charge are arranging a very attractive prize list and enthusiasm points to the best show in Central Ontario. Through the efforts of the County Association the class of poultry in this locality has been greatly improved. Five years ago a local Poultry Association was organized here in connection with the County Association. Last Tuesday evening a meeting for reorganization was held when following officers were elected:

Honorary President—F M. Field, K. C.

Honorary Vice-Presidentx—D. C. Deck, R. T. Mahan and T. J. Stenhouse.

President—Dr. E. W. Hayden.

Vice-President—John Morrow.

Secretary-Treasurer—Thomas McKind.

Directors—W. J. Copeland, W. H. Dundas, Richard Walker, Isaac Whitefield, James Whitefield, Fred Cockburn, Wm. Jenkins, H. Stinson, W. May, W. Sloper, Geo. Manton, C. Ling and J. Swan.

Social Event at Eddystone

On Friday evening a pleasant event took place in connection with the work of the newly organized Baptist church at Eddystone, where service is conducted now each Sunday afternoon by Rev. L. H. Coles of Colborne. It took the form of a chicken pie social, which was followed by a lecture by Rev. C. H. Schutt, M.A., B.D., Toronto, who took as his subject, "Travels in the Holy Land." The supper was held in connection with the reopening of the church.

Boy's Parliament

Three Cobourg boys are in the field as candidates for the Boy's Parliament of Ontario, which is to be held in Toronto in January. They are Hubert Harris, Percy Climo and Jack Hutton.

Mr. M. W. Sparling, of Cobourg, a well-known boys worker, is the returning officer for the riding.

East Northumberland Candidates

Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Colborne, has been appointed returning officer for East Northumberland. There are three candidates in the field: Gordon Lapp, of Brighton, Bernard Hodgins of Colborne, and Wilfrid Sprung of Hilton.

The divisional returning officers are: Colborne and Cremahe—Rev. H. W. Foley, Colborne; Percy—Rev. S. A. Kemp, Warkworth; Brighton village and township—Rev. A. K. McLeod, Brighton; Murray—Rev. J. R. Bick, Wooller; Campbellford and Seymour—Rev. C. F. McIntosh, Campbellford. Election takes place on Nov. 24.

Held Clinic Here

Dr. D. E. Robertson, orthopædic specialist at the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital, who came here to address the Cobourg Rotary Club, held a clinic for crippled children in connection with the commendable work which is being done by local Rotarians along this line. Five children were examined, and Dr. Robertson recommended a treatment for four of these that is hoped will have beneficial results.

Local and Personal

Mr. John Noble has had a radio installed in his home at Coldsprings.

Mr. Thomas McBride and Mr. Cooper, of Hamilton township, have returned from a hunting trip in the North country.

A successful Thanksgiving bazaar and chicken supper was held at Colborne on Thursday in connection with the work of Trinity church there.

On Sunday evening at the Methodist church, Colborne, five members of the Young People's League, who attended the recent Bay of Quinte conference convention at Belleville, gave interesting reports of that gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wright have removed from Codrington to Rochester.

Mr. H. A. Croft has returned from Quebec where he was engaged in construction work.

Mr. R. H. Souch, of Providence, a highly respected farmer of Darlington township, has passed away in his 70th year.

An older boy's and leaders' conference is to be held at Bowmanville next Friday under auspices of the Ontario Boys' Work Board.

Messrs. Jim Caswell, A. Toms, E. Moise, E. Walton and W. Jackson, of Newcastle, are hunting in the North country.

Syracuse Health Officers Tell How to Keep Winter Ills From Spreading.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 20.—There is no known cure for a cold, according to Syracuse municipal health authorities.

There may be medical compounds which temporarily relieve distress, "breaking up a cold" it's all "bunk," the health officers indicate.

They have the following to say about colds in general:

"With the onset of cold weather we are accustomed to expect the appearance of that vagueliy understood bodily disturbance known as a common cold. All "colds" are not alike, as most everyone can testify, and what we have in mind is really a group of closely allied maladies of varying severity.

Are Communicable.

"There is widespread agreement that common colds are infectious and easily communicable. A little observation will soon convince anyone that this is true. Like many infections there are certain predisposing factors, which are of considerable importance in enabling the excitant of a cold to establish itself as a discase producer.

"The change of weather condition from warm to cold, or from cold to warm, excessive and, unusual amounts of irritating substance in the air we breathe, a dry atmosphere such as is produced in our heated offices and homes, the pent-up existence and lack of exercise in winter as compared to summer, the failure to dress warmly and comfortably, undue exposure, and particularly the failure to keep the body from becoming wet and chilled, and numerous other facts predispose to common colds. Some persons are very susceptible and others are highly immune to common colds. Abnormal conditions, such as diseased tonsils, may in certain instances be important predisposing factors.

Not Insignificant.

"Colds should not be considered as insignificant and harmless infections. Some are accompanied by serious disturbances, such as quinsy, involvement of the bronchi and lung tissue, damage to the kidney and other serious complications.

"As colds are highly communicable those afflicted should make every effoqrt not to transmit them to others. Persons sick with colds should take befter than usual care of themselves.

"There is no specific cure for common colds— not even the old and often-tried remedies containing various amounts of alcohol. Some substances will give a temporarly feeling of well-being and add to the comfort of the patient, but there is nothing known in the way of a specific which will cure a cold. The best advice is to take good care of yourself—don't give the cold to anybody and consult a physician."

NEWS OF BURNBRAE AND THE DISTRICT

Rawden Community Club Held a Meeting---Personal Mention.

BURNBRAE, Nov. 20. — On Friday evening a very helpful meeting of the Rawdon Community Club was held in the Methodist church, at Wellman's Corners. Rev. J. J. Black of Burnbrae, gave an address. The community singing was very enjoyable. There were several instrumental selections solos and duets. The closing feature was a very spirited debate on the subject, "Resolved,—A tidy, ill-tempered wife is better than an untidy good-tempered wife." The decision of the judges was in favor of the affirmative.

Mrs. John Thompson of Menie is spending a few days with Mrs. James Waters, Seymour West.

Miss Clarge of Seymour West spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Donald, Burnbrae.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL WILL MEET SOON

A Two Days' Session of the Executive Committee Will Be Held in Georgetown. Ontario, November 21 and 22.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press).—A two days' session of the Executive Committee of the National Council of Women of Canada will be held in Georgetown, Ont., November 21, 22. Among reports to be submitted are those on the finance of the Council, the machinery and future policy of the Council, maternity care in Canada, and the League of Nations. Discussion will include that on participation in British Empire Exhibition, in conference on prevention of the causes of war, and child welfare week.

A resolution will be presented asking for Federal legislation against the use of "quilt stock" as filling for some mattresses, pillows and cushions for domestic use.

Other resolutions will include the request for the acceptance of monthly reports for grading in public and High schools, also that it be made unconstitutional for one person to stand for two offices in the election of the National Council of Women of Canada. A plan of rural settlement developed by Mr. Algar-Bailey will be supported by a resolution urging the Federal Government to have the plan tried in a few suitable districts, with a view to determining the value of natural community life in farming territory.

Speakers will include Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, Mrs. H. D. Warren, Toronto, on Girl Guides.

A meeting of the Provincial Executive will be held at the close of the National. Speakers: M. Algar-Bailey, on Rural Settlement; Miss Mary Power, on the Ontario Provincial Board of Health; Secretary Richardson, on the League of Nations.

Mrs. A. Mowat, President of the Peterboro Council of Women, left for Georgetown to-day to attend the two-day meeting of the executive of the National Council of Women, which will be held there to-morrow and Thursday. Mrs. Mowat will also attend the meeting of the Provincial Executive, held at Georgetown at the same time.

Jocelyn's Judge — by Jack Lait

"TAKE the Court of Domestic Relations this afternoon, Miss Hanleigh," said the city editor of the "Eagle" to Jocelyn, the highly-bred girl who was struggling with a reluctant career as a reporter.

Jocelyn had never been in any sort of courtroom before. She had seen plays with trial scenes, in which the unexpected witness usually stepped out of the crowd and tossed in the startling denouement, after which the unjustly persecuted prisoner, who had kept silent to save a married woman's honor, was immediately released without due or any other process of law.

The Court of Domestic Relations, she knew, was a branch to which was assigned all abandonment cases, matrimonial squabbles, non-support complaints and the like, usually conducted by a jurist who had proven himself a human sort, who could give sound advice rather than serve the letter of the criminal statutes, who had an insight into the peculiar relations between men and wives, so different from those reacting from any other contacts of human association.

And Judge Monson, one of the deans of the bench, had made his name a household symbol by his kindly, astute, penetrating and paternal adjudications of the sorry tangles that came before him in a procession that might have been an endless stream of mourners in the wake of that celestial institution, matrimony.

Jocelyn was quite fluttered by the assignment. Her routine of petty items, for the most part doomed to make linotype filler before she started, had been the daily disappointments of her reportorial months. They were almost always stories without any possibilities "around the corner"—with no probabilities that the unexpected might bob up, that a new and sudden unforeseen twist might blow up an inside "brief" to a front-page scream.

But the Court of Domestic Relations—anything could happen there; any question, any answer, had potentialities for a "human interest feature." For this category of husband and wife, home and children, mother-in-law and hootch and vamps and all the other perils that beset it, withal that it made grist for the joke papers, was still the most thrilling and absorbing and exciting in all the departments of mortal adventures.

Jocelyn had no trouble finding the room or the reporters' table. No one questioned her. A trial was already on. A foreign woman, ill-clad and untidy, was telling the court in broken but eloquent English what an all-around lowlife the thick-necked structural iron-worker below, her husband, had turned out to be. Judge Monson did his best and talked his prettiest, but she wouldn't have any more of the hulk who had promised to love and honor her, and would be satisfied with nothing except peace bonds over him so he wouldn't knock her brains out and a suspended sentence that would descend on him the moment he failed to send her $15 any Saturday. Some downtown shyster of her national "colony" had apparently coached her thoroughly. And she got what she asked, because it was her legal right.

One after another they came, and Jocelyn felt gooseflesh as she watched and heard the squawking, intolerant, embittered victims and quitters. The brutalities and the sordid disillusionments as they poured from the lips, often battered and bloody, of the wives; the shame-faced confessions of husbands whose women had gone awry despite the oaths of church and State; the squalid, shabby temples as they appeared in the testimony, those institutions sung and spread-eagled about—the American homes of the honest poor. They made the highly-tuned girl ill, these true-life stories of misery and banality, of curses and blows and depravities.

Could this be "life?" Could this be the sort of knowledge that men like Dickens had churned into classics and O. Henry had polished into gems? Yea, indeed, how few of us know how—or why—the rest of us live. Melodrama? We yawn over it. Yet life is overcharged with it—with all the old situations, the old combinations—the triangles, the cruel parents, the unfaithful wives and husbands, the drunken beasts, the cowering women and children, the jezebel and the moron and the murderer, and the thief and the liar, and the bully and the vampire and the cur.

Jocelyn felt that these unfortunates and malefactors were "copy," but she knew they were not her sort of "copy"—these were for older, wiser, established commentators, who were permitted to voice opinions, draw conclusions, point morals. The names were unspellable, the people were mainly from the lowest strata of the submerged rabble.

There are more poor folks than there are prosperous, and more Slavinskys and Bagglios and Schmidts and Olsens than there are De Puysters and Ribblesdales. But the poor, somehow, want to read about the rich, the feeble want to know about the mighty; and on the other hand, the lucky minority cares little for chronicles of the neglected, unappetizing proletariat. A stranded duke still makes better stuff than a deserving white-wing, and a divorce for incompatibility in Paris that separates a languid society dame from a vapid cocktail mixer sparks more reaction than a butcher-knife and brass-knuckle thriller when the Slovack teamster's shrieking bride tears into the courts of her adopted land to cry for justice, vengeance and protection, or some lamenting Rachel of the slums spills a tale that would have made Bill Sikes blush.

Jocelyn's set, she knew, had their own difficulties. Their post-honeymoon affairs were not all serene and placid, either. But they usually had the good taste to camouflage the nasty goings-on, to get their freedom in Reno or in chambers, and to have champagne and cologne sprinkled over their differences instead of raw blood and garlic.

She was no wide-eyed boob who had grown to approaching twenty and still believed marriages were made above and pappa loved mamma by some axiom of nature. She had heard scented scandals, even of broken vases and giddy hangovers. One of her classmates had already been married and separated, having found the refined youngster to whom she entrusted her life a cad, a philanderer, a rotter, a loafer, a liar, a welcher and a fraud—but a gentleman! Everyone knew all about it, everyone discussed every phase of it, but there was no public exhibition of the mess before gawking strangers, no washing of dirty crepe de Chine where leering bystanders could hear and sneer.

"What's the difference? We were married, and that's that."

Yes, the common people were certainly common.

The clerk called a new name—the People vs. McGuire, Mrs. McGuire having told the judge how her man had knocked her cold because she wouldn't give him their last fifty cents for a slug of bootleg poison, had been disposed of—ten days was the disposition, as Mrs. McGuire couldn't see any reconciliation. The new case was the People vs. Watkins.

Watkins? At least it was an American name. It sounded strangely to Jocelyn's ear after the Mc's, the Inskys, the Hausens and the Opuluses that had strung before. And as the policeman came through the jail door with a neat, well-dressed young man, and a trim, pretty, up-to-date girl moved forward from the spectators' section to the prosecuting lawyer's table, Jocelyn noted that this was to be something outside the ordinary in the Court of Domestic Relations.

The witnesses were sworn and the attorney for the People arose and set forth his case. Theodore Watkins, the young man in custody, had been arrested on a warrant sworn to by his wife, Madeline, the young woman at the table, charging abandonment. Abandonment was no trifling matter—it carried a five-year prison penalty. The prisoner's plea was not guilty. He had no lawyer. Judge Monson stroked his chin and said he would appoint one, but young Watkins demanded his prerogative of defending himself.

"A man who acts as his own lawyer," said the court, "has—as is the old saying—a fool for a client."

"That's right, Your Honor," said Watkins. "I have one of the worst chumps in town for a client, and my client has one of the finest examples of a sap in the world for a lawyer. Just the same, I'd like to ask my wife a few questions myself after she tells her story."

The State called Mrs. Watkins to the stand. A remarkably pretty girl she was, dressed not flamboyantly but in the height of the mode, made up discreetly and expertly, a far cry from the slatternly, sloppy wives of woe who had sat in that chair in rags and wrappers.

Answering the smooth, practised succession of questions from the professional prosecutor, she related that she had married defendant, Watkins, less than a year before; they had taken an apartment in a fairly good part of town—he was assistant manager of a brokerage office—and had lived serenely, more or less, until two months before the arrest, when Watkins had packed up his belongings, moved away, and since then had refused to contribute to her sustenance despite several demands.

"You may cross-examine," said the judge.

Watkins arose, walked to the witness, raised a finger. The following colloquy ensued:

Q.—Before I married you you were a chorus-girl, weren't you, Maddy?

A.—I was, and I am yet—or, rather, again.

Q.—We were married at the tapering-off point of a stew-party, weren't we?

A.—What's the difference? We were married, and that's that.

Q.—Have you always been a loving, true wife to me?

A.—That's not the question. If I've done anything wrong, sue me in the divorce courts. In the meantime you've got to kick in every week or little Madeline wants to know the reason why, Mr. Lawyer.

"Here, here," said Judge Monson. "I like to allow very broad latitude in questions and answers in this court, especially in this instance, where a defendant is representing himself. But please confine yourselves as closely to the issue as is possible. The charge here is wife abandonment. The law does not permit the husband to desert his wife and make her a charge on the community or force her to return to work, no matter how she may have aggrieved him, as long as she continues to be his wife. Please proceed."

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you were never dependent on me for support?

A.—I'd be in a fine box if I was, on your shoe-clerk salary. But I'm entitled to my share of it, whatever it is, and I want it, see?

Q.—What are the other sources of your income?

A.—I work. I earn $35 a week with a show.

Q.—My salary is $75, and you call that a joke, yet you work for $35?

A.—That's my business.

Q.—But you don't live on that $35 now—since I abandoned you, do you?

A.—That's my business, too.

Q.—Oh, is it? I'm afraid it is. I'm afraid you're all business.

"Just what do you mean by that?" asked the judge.

"Your Honor," said Watkins, with emotion, "ever since the first day I met this girl in a high-jinks gang at a cabaret after the show, she—"

"I object," cried the prosecutor. "The defendant is not on the stand; he is acting as his own counsel and cross-examining my witness. It is highly improper for him to testify at this time and in this manner."

"Oh, what's the difference?" asked the judge. "He's been sworn. Let him tell his story now or later, as long as I get the gist of the germane facts. Go on, young man."

"Ever since that night, and long before, married or unmarried, she has been wearing clothes that cost more than I earned altogether; she has jewels worth a small fortune; she keeps a car and a chauffeur—keeps them now, although I abandoned her and she earns $35 a week—honestly."

"I object," cried the prosecutor.

Mrs. Watkins only smiled sardonically, tilted her chin upward and crossed her knees.

"Go on," said the judge.

"I left her because she wouldn't stop taking—or getting—money from outside sources, sources which I could not explain by any but the most shameful conclusions, and which she would not explain to me. When I waited for her at the stage door she would slip out through the front and turn up at all sorts of disgraceful hours. When I bothered her too much at the theatre she gave up her place, but continued to drive her car and get expensive presents and maintain herself like a millionaire's bride. She wouldn't be in half the time when I got home at dinnertime. She would roll in, plastered, when she got ready—sometimes not until noon.

"Oh, Your Honor"—and here he broke down and his voice cracked—"I can't tell you—I'm ashamed—the humiliations and tortures I suffered from this lovely, cruel, conscienceless girl!"

"I object!" cried the prosecutor.

"Oh, sit down," said the judge.

Mrs. Watkins elevated her nose, vised the ceiling, curled her sweet lips.

"She married me on a drunken dare. I was fascinated by her and would have gone to the end of the world just to have her smile on me. When we came to—man and wife, oh, my God!—she told me I was a nice kid, and if I'd behave myself and not get silly and try to be one of those interfering husbands we could live together when she hadn't anything better to do.

"I burned up. I told her she was my wife, and she'd be my wife in every sense of the word. She looked at me about like she's looking right now. I started in to convince her, to win her, to plead with her, to fight for her, to make her see what it meant to both of us. But she wouldn't have it. One night I caught her kissing a man in a taxi, and I dragged him out and gave him a licking. She cussed me out and called me things that I wouldn't repeat here, and she threw everything in the room at me and then took her hat and pranced out.

"That was the blow-off. When she got back I was gone. That's the situation, Your Honor. I'm willing to go back to her—even now—I love her, every fibre of her. We've had some wonderful hours together—few but heavenly. And I love her to distraction."

"Oh, cut it short," interrupted Mrs. Watkins, with a bored expression.

"I'll go home with her right now, Your Honor," continued Watkins, "if there's any way under the sun that I can turn her into a decent wife. If not, I won't live with her if all the courts in the world say I must and if the penalty is life in the penitentiary."

"H'm," observed Judge Monson. "How about this, young lady?"

"Oh, he's an old-fashioned fogy that don't want me to have a little harmless fun. He wants me to be an old woman and stay home and knit and cook. Well, I'm not cut out for that kind of life. But, as I understand it, that's all apple-sauce. He married me and he's got to support me—I mean, he's got to give me a share of his salary. He hasn't got a thing on me that he can divorce me on, I'll tell you that. What he told you was all he knows. The rest is just guesswork. Now, he did take the air on me and he is my husband. How about it?"

"I'm afraid she's right," said Judge Monson. "I am sorry, Watkins, but you must give this girl $25 a week hereafter, and I'll hold you guilty of the charge, with sentence suspended subject to your compliance with the order of this court. She's a hard one, your wife, and I sympathize with you, because I think I understand thoroughly. I should advise you, informally, to watch for evidence and sue for divorce—the conditions are quite obvious. For the present, however, the law is on the woman's side."

"Very well," said Watkins, brokenly, "I'll pay. I can't throw away my whole life just to teach her a lesson . . . thanks."

Mrs. Watkins, with a smile of victory, came down, picked up her gloves and vanity bag, put a very exact bit of rouge on a very specific line along her lips, and tripped out with a smile over her shoulder at the judge—who did not smile back. Watkins was getting his release at the clerk's desk. Jocelyn rose and walked to the bench.

"Judge Monson," she said, "I'm a reporter. Will you please tell me something? If that boy doesn't pay that woman every week, will you actually send him to prison?"

"Yes. This is a very informal court, but the law, nevertheless, prevails. This case is by no means unique. I have had dozens similar to it. It isn't always the husband who is the brute."

Well, here was a story. The law, which affected every soul in the community, had convicted itself of a crime, confessed its own guilt, and proclaimed it would go on acting as accessory and would blackjack its victim the moment he rebelled against the paradoxical, inexcusable situation. Here was one instance, interesting and surprising of itself, that pointed a broad condition, illuminated a crying evil.

If this was what men were elevated to the bench for, why elevate them? They couldn't deal equity. They could punish one miscreant and had no power over a worse one. It seemed a sad problem—

Jocelyn went back to the office and told the story—with all its highlights, all its color, all the injustice and drama of it. She stood, expectant.

"Oh, tell it in a hundred words," said the day city editor. "Just another one of those chorus-girl-broker things. Nobody takes 'em seriously. . . . And, by the way, please make it snappy, because Mrs. Silvernail is giving a coming-out party to her daughter to-night and we want a column or so—plenty of names."

REFUSE TO GUARANTEE $4000 TO REGINA TEAM

Queen's Willing to Play If They Defeat Tigers — McKelvey In Saturday's Game With Special Boot

KINGSTON, Ont., November 19.—Queen's held a light work out at the stadium this afternoon in preparation for the Tiger game on Saturday. The players will be down to strict business for the remainder of the week and Coach Hughes has promised them plenty of exercise. The "Q" squad realize that they are up against something real for the first time this season, and they may have to extend themselves.

All the players weer on hand last night. "Red" McKelvey will be in Saturday's game, and it is stated that he is having a special boot made that will afford him protection for his injured toe. The players appeared to be in good shape to-day—none the worse for the Saturday's play with Toronto Argonauts.

It was officially stated at Queen's University on Monday morning that provided the senior team defeats the Hamilton Tigers in Kingston on Saturday next Queen's would play Regina in the Dominion championship contest on December 1st.

The Queen's Athletic Board of Control will not agree to guarantee the western team the sum of $4,000, which was done last year, for the Eskimos of Edmonton.

HELP YOUNGSTERS TO LEARN HOCKEY

Message of President Fry of O.H.A. to All Clubs in Province.

W. A. Fry is broadcasting among the hockey clubs of Ontario the following letter which conveys a constructive message from the President of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association:

President's Office,
Dunnville, Ont., Nov. 1, 1923.

To all Hockeys Clubs
under the Jurisdiction of the O.H.A.:

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of a communication from Mr. W. R. Sexsmith of Portage-la-Prarie, Man., President of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, which explains itself:

"The winter season is fast approaching and I would like to make a special appeal to the Officers of various branches of the C.A.H.A. to make an extra effort this year to promote Midget, Juvenile and Junior Hockey in their respective branches. Senior affiliations will look after themselves, but the boys need the support of the Officers, and if you take up this work and interest others in various towns and districts within your Association you will find that the work will be a pleasure, and you will be surprised with the results that you obtain. The kid of today on the back lot with a hockey stick in his hand may be a big star in a few years to come, and he certainly appreciates anything that is done for him, and given half a chance will trebly repay you for the time and labor in the enthusiasm an willingness with which he will take hold.

'In connection with Midget Hockey in the Province of Manitoba, I have personally organized a number of Leagues, and they are meeting with great success. In the first place I generally make arrangements with the rink management to give the boys some extra concessions, and it is not very hard to get the rink management to give them an hour or two free a week for the affiliated league. Then call a meeting of the boys, explaining the situation, give them a little talk about the branch connection and the Dominion-wide affiliation, and suggest that they form a League and elect their officers. When this is done, decide how many teams the town or villiage can carry, and, if three, have the meeting pick out three boys who outstanding among themselves as hockey players to act as captains, and have the boys make application to their officers if they want to play. The names are selected, and the three captains get together and choose up sides, afterwards naming their clubs. The boys themselves know right well who are good players, and they start off right from the start with fairly evenly matched teams, are not connected with any outside clubs or affiliations, and right from the start they feel the responsibilty of carrying on themselves. We make it a point in Manitoba to issue regular cards, and they prize them as much as they would a gold watch.

"This method is merely a suggestion on my part, but there are a good many other ways that could be adopted. I would ask you to give your hearty cooperation in this movement, which I think you will agree is very essential if we are to keep up and increase the high standard of amateur hockey throughout the Dominion."

Mr. Sexsmith has had a wide experience, not only as a player and referee, but in executive capacity, and the important suggestions he makes for "reforestation" in hockey are worthy of adoption by every club in this Province. We would appreciate your giving them your serious consideration.

With best wishes for a successful season.

Faithfully yours,
W. A. FRY,
President O.H.A.

SOCCER NOTES

The last regular soccer meeting of the season 1923 was held last evening in Chamber of Commerce rooms, Mr. J. Cairns, president, presiding, who has completed the best year in soccer annuals.

It was unanimously agreed that the president present the Peterboro and District Football Association Gold Medals to the G.W.V.A. players, League champions, in the near future, at a date specified by the G. W.V.A. exectuive.

The annual meeting of the P. and D.F.A. will be held on January, the seventh day, in Chamber of Commerce rooms, at 8 p.m. The following rule is taken from minutes of association: "That at future annual meetings, only clubs representatives, club captains, club secretaries, of each club in membership, with this association, shall have a VOTE.

M'TIGUE STARTS THE MACHINERY

Which May Drag Himself Into Suit For Slander By His Manager.

(By Ed. Curley in the New York American)

Now 'tis a funny thing that Mike McTigue, who is lucky enough to be mentioned as the light heavyweight champion pugilist, is suing his manager, Joe Jacobs, for an accounting of his fights in this country since Mike beat Battling Siki. How Mike beat Siki is still a mystery.

Getting down to cases, McTigue has taken part in three battles since he returned from the other side. The only fight in which he showed any ability was his second fight with Young Loughran at West New York, N.J. His first fight with Loughran was terrible, though Mike skinned by with a slight margin.

Lucky to Get Draw.

Down at Columbus, Ga., McTigue was fortunate to get a draw. If young Stribling hadn't been fearsome of fighting a champion he would have walked home with the victory. We saw the fight and we will say that McTigue was lucky to get a draw.

Now we will listen to the chatter of Louis Shapiro, who is attorney for Jacobs. Louie knows the fighting game pretty well; in fact, the never misses a battle. Generally one fights shy of a lawyer, but Shapiro is so well known that no one figures him as a mouthpiece.

In his office yesterday Shapiro furnished enough figures to create amusement in a morgue. In an offhand manner he produce the charge of McTigue and everybody present got a giggle out of them.

What started a loud guffaw was the statement of McTigue that in his few fights in Europe he received $6,556. That was the gross, but in three battles over here he received more than $12,000 net.

Fighter Asks $2505.

For the fights on the other side McTigue claimed that his total expenses were $14,945. He wants Jacobs to account for a difference of $2,840, and then insists that Jacobs settle for his share of the vast dicrepanmy on the other side. All he wants from Jacobs is $2,505.56

What hits one as bordering on the ridiculous is McTigue's charges for automobile trips. He never paid less than a dollar a mile, and in all charged $2,840 for riding in the gas buggies.

This strikes us that the jockeys of taxicabs here are losing time driving through traffic, for if they take the trip abroad they can become millionaires in a short time. When Mike figured up his expenses he produced a grand deficit of $8,288.86 which we'll admit is a GRAND deficit.

The funny part of McTigue's contract with Jacobs is that after two years and two months he suddenly discovers that the contract is wrong. When he is shown a triplicate agreement he remembers that he signed it properly. Then he denies thta his physician, Dr. Jordan, treated him until his memory is brushed up.

Mike Reverses Himself.

Another denial is that McTigue's contract for his fight with Stribling called for $7,500 instead of $10,000. The fact that his manager signed this contract while Mike was looking on was forgot ten by the fighter. We know that McTigue knew he was to receive $7,500 for he told us so.

The whole story of the battle between fighter and manager is that McTigue started suit. Now Jacobs is going to serve McTigue with papers calling for $50,00 damages for slander. In addition, the firm of Shapiro & Witte is suing McTigue for $1,000 for services in drawing up his contract with the Columbia Theatre and is also bringing suit for $1,966.84 for Jacobs's share of McTigue's fights in Europe, to which Joe is entitled under the contract.

In his statement of expenses on the other side McTigue says he paid sparring partners $100 per week and stood for their board at $50. This aws a great laugh for over here no sparring partner ever cost half that much. In fact a sparring partner would be delighted to get $10 a day.

BOWLING

GREAT BOWLING LAST NIGHT AT ALLEYS.

Last night was productive of some great bowling at the Water Street Alleys, and great interest was shown by the large crowds who were on hand to witness their teams in action. The Mercantile Five Pin League and the City Ten Pin League got away to a good start last night and the scores set up by some of the bowlers was excellent in view of the fact that the league just opened. The Crescents in the Ten Pin League took three straight from the Quakers and all their men were rolling in great form. The Quakers' bowlers also showed up well and turned in some nice scores.

In the Mercantile Five Pin League the Westclox took three straight from the Lock Works. From some of the scores in last night's bowling it looks as if some records will be broke before the season is over. Wyatt turned in a nice high single score when he knocked the pins for 279. Nicholls for the Lock Works got a nice score for three games when he rolled up 607.

In the Examiner League the new team, the Directors, got away to a good start when they took two out of three from the Comps. There was some good bowling done and the players in this league are improving every game. George Cairns was the high man of the evening with 492 while Rolly Glover got the high single with 208.

There was great interest shown in all the games and spectators crowded the alleys watching their various teams in action.

Tonight in the Ten Pin League the C.G.E. meets the Belmont Club and a large crowd is expected over to see these two teams in action.

In the Mercantile Five Pin League the Merchants Press meet the Wm. Hamilton team.

CRESCENT TOOK THREE FROM THE QUAKERS.

Last night at Solomon's Alleys the Ten Pin League opened and some of the boys whene in mid-winter form. The Crescents showed up some good scores having three men over the 500 mark. Pidgeon was on top with 541, Green 526 and Captain Sharpe 504. For the Quakers Cunningham was high with 498. Following are the scores:

McGRAW PLANNING FOR NEW PITCHING STAFF NEXT YEAR.

Signing of Ainsmith First Step in Bolstering Up Weak Department of Last Season.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Practically a brand new pitching staff for the Giants next year is the prediction around the roaring forties of baseball. This department was the weak spot on last season's National League champions so the prediction sounds logical and reasonable.

Old General Consensus Fan also offers the prophecy that in the effort to bolster his twirling staff Manager McGraw will clear shy of better times upon the acquistion of the most promising "youngsters" he can corral.

This will mean a radical departure for John J. as in the past he has been prone to favor age and experience rather than youth in selecting his pitching staff. Art. Nehf, Fred Toney, Jack Scott, Jess Barnes and several others were secured from other clubs when they were past their pitching prime.

This system worked for a time, but last year it went to smash on the rocks, the Yankees doing the smashing.

The signing of Eddie Ainsmith, the veteran catcher is looked upon as the first step in bringing a flock of new boxmen to the esteemed Polo Grounds. Ainsmith has long been known as just about the best developer of young south paws and right paws that has ever appeared in big leaguedom.

The bird who spent his summer rocking the boat is now back among us shooting guides for squirrels by mistake.

SOFT BALL SCORES

The Gurners aspirations for a championship in the soft ball league are well founded. They have a snappy outfit and last evening they trimmed the K. of C. aggregation by 18 11. Each team chased around the circuit practically at will, taking big chances, and there were many misplays.

Piercy pitched steady ball for the winners and "Herbie" Wolfe grabbed off some hot ones around second.

The playing off the Knights improved as the game progressed and in the last few innings they were giving the Gunners a merry game.

The line-ups were:

K. of C. — J. Rutherford ss; Murphy ss; O'Hern c. Rose p; Claire Wolfe 1b; G. Rutherford 2b; Cronin 3b; Cecil Wolfe lf; Sheehy rf.

Score by innings:

K. of C. .. ..00003224—11
Gunners .. ..70001505x—18

Orangemen Won.

The L. O. L. 50 took a game away from the Dragoons without much argument by a 15 to 4 count.

The fifers supplied most of the baseball played, pulling some snappy work.

The line-ups were:

L. O. L. — Batten 2b, Jeff Hardill ss; Dobson c; Jack Hardill 1b; McGee lf; Hall 3b; Helson rf; Fitzgerald ss; Nicholls p.

Score by innings:

L. O. L. .. ..42401103—15
Dragoons .. ..21100000— 4

THE HOCKEY YEAR BOOK

The Hockey Year Book, which made its first appearance today, is a credit to the game and to the publisher George King, 84 Victoria Street, Toronto. The book represents months of efforts. Typographically and pictorially, it is a master-piece. From cover to cover it is embellished with group photographs of champion teams, including the pioneers in the game; in fact, the history of Canada's great winter pastime is told in pictures. Old-timers will be interested in the handsome halftones of the teams, who were prominent a generation ago, while the younger enthusiasts will enjoy the reproductions of the more recent winners. The book is not only lavishly illustrated, but is literally crammed with much interesting information regarding individuals, clubs and leagues throughout the country.

STAR CLUSTERS OF 1923 RUGBY

Many Great Players in American Game This Season — Rockne Best Coach.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—While the national gridiron has been cluttered up with really great players this fall, there have been no outstanding individual stars to compare with Jim Thorpe, Glen Killinger, Bo McMillan or George Own, a set of players who couldn't be kept off any All-American team.

Backs of quality abound in the east, west and south, but they are of such equal ability that it is almost impossible to pick three outstanding backs without leaving a half dozen that are almost as good.

No quarterback in the country is better than Pfann, the great Cornell star, or Smythe, the Army brilliant, but there are several who are almost as good. Workman, of Ohio State, must be considered as one of the best. Richeson, of Yale, is a real star and Mike Palm, of Penn State, could not be left out of the select group.

Surroundings make all the difference in the world. The spectacular winning team gets all the spotlight and its stars get the prominence.

Koppish, the Columbia back, is one of the finest players in the country, but he will not be heard of in the west or south, because Columbia has won very little fame even at home.

Wycoff, the Georgia Teck back, is one of the finest in the country. No less a celebrity than Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame coach, branded the Tech star as the best back he had seen this season. And Rockne has not only seen many of the best backs, but he has three of the greatest.

In Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden, Notre Dame has one of the most versatile and generally fine backfields in the country. Miller is one of the outstanding stars of the season.

Yale has a wonderful array of backfield talent in Richeson, Neals, Neidlinger, Mallory, Stevens, Pond, Bench and Murphy. They are all so good that the coaches can hardly pick a regular quartet. For quality and quantity perhaps the Yale backs are the best in the country.

Michigan has a great backfield in Kipke, and All-American for sure; Steger, Uteritz and Miller.

Illinois has one of the best backfields in Grange, a half-back, who is almost an offense in himself.

Linesmen of great ability are scattered all over the country.

Garbisch of West Point is, no doubt, the best center in the country. He has been playing long enough to be the greatest.

Bach of Notre Dame and Millstead of Yale are two of the greatest tackles of the season, and Sundstrom of Cornell and Weiderquist of Washington and Jefferson are not far behind them.

Farwick of the Army and Gendenk of Penn State are the two outstanding guards in the east with Hubbard of Harvard and Aschenbach of Dartmouth running close to them.

The best ends of the year include McRae, Syracuse; Berry, Lafayette; Luman, Yale; Smith, Princeton; Mayl, Notre Dame.

No list of the great backs will be complete without Darling of Boston College, Glennon of Holy Cross, Dunne of Marquette, Ramsey of Cornell, Tyron of Colgate, Wilson of Penn State and Hamer of Pennsylvania.

Beyond all doubt, the outstanding coaches of the season have been Knute Rockne and Tad Jones.

It is fortunate in the past and to be hoped in the future that Rockne will always bring his Notre Dame team to the east for an early season game. Coaches all gather to see Rockne's new styles and they take the pattern home with them.

Three of the plays which Yale used with great effect upon the Army were taken from Notre Dame's stuff and altered only slightly. Yale did it so well that the Army was fooled the second time by the same plays with which Notre Dame fooled them.

Little St. John's college in Brooklyn, picked up all its plays from what the squad saw Notre Dame pull against the Army, and it has been one of the sensations among the small eastern colleges.

Tad Jones, after several years of disheartening effort, finally equipped the Yale team with some modern clothes and Yale seems to have come back to the front, to stay perhaps for a long time.

Jones maintained during his seasons of adversity that he was building a system, and if Yale would be patient with him he would deliver. Yale was patient because there were powerful influences back of Jones to silence the radical wing of the house that howled for a new coach.

Yale is in an era of prosperity as far as material is concerned, and probably will be for several years to come. With such fine material and smart equipment, Yale ought to be back with a boom.

All of the eastern coaches, since they saw Notre Dame's team this season, probably will go back to deception as the most valuable weapon of defense.

Notre Dame has more than twenty plays which start from the same formation. The team has backs who can run, throw and receive and with the forward pass as its greatest threat, the offense was perfect.

Yale had almost the same kind of material and it is now using the same kind of plays.

THE ARGONAUTS MAY OPERATE TWO TEAMS

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Argonauts have decided to operate teams in the O.H.A. Senior and Junior series and expect to be strong contenders for Championship in each. Alex. Romeril, who was manager of the Argonaut football team this fall, will coach the seniors and will play centre. He was with Granites for four seasons, dropping out early last winter when he was injured.

Double Blue claim that all of last year's players, with the exception of Roy Worters and possibly Joe Sullivan will be available again.

YALE HAS BEST ELEVEN IN YEARS; DOPES TO BEAT LEADING RIVALS

The best team that Yale has had in years.

That is the opinion of the football experts as to the Blue eleven of 1923 coached by Tad Jones.

Things have been breaking rather badly for several years at New Haven, but it looks as if the team of this year will wipe out the disgrace of some past reverses.

Yale dopes to win over Princeton and Harvard. The decisive defeat of the Army by Yale give some idea of the strength of the Bulldogs. Yale beat the Army 32 to 10 while the best that Notre Dame could do was to win by a 13 to 0 score.

Early in the year in the game with Bucknell, Jones lost the services of his star back Charley O'Hearn. A broken leg put him out for the rest of the season. It was feared that the loss of O'Hearn would slow down the backfield but the team had the proper spirit and kept up its winning ways.

HOCKEY OUTLOOK IN SOO DISTRICT

"Red" Green and a Few Others May Hit the Trail.

SAULT STE. MARIE, November 20. — Canadian Press. — While the Sault sympathizes with Sudbury in the loss of "Red" Green and the danger of losing other players, the locals feel that Sudbury should carry on during the season with a three team circuit, including Iroquois Falls, just as North Bay did during the lean hockey years in the north. The Sault had hoped that Sudbury would have its strongest team on the ice this winter, as the locals never had better prospects and look forward to a strenuous ice battle like those of the two preecding years.

The Sault will not have any trouble securing games during the season with Sudbury out, but a senior schedule without Sudbury would not seem right. The A.A.H.A. will provide all contests the Soo can handle if Sudbury drop, and other teams in Ontario are anxious to meet the Sault in Exhibition games.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Flapper" has become a household word during the last few years. Its association with a certain type of young female who was supposed to "flap" her immature wings at any and all times has made it a familiar term. Now we have "zipper," as an expressive word, applied to another type of girl. These young ladies "zip," and their methods appear to be a trifle more sophisticated and advanced in scope than the artless poses of the former "flapper."

"Woman Proof" shows the "flapper" at work, the "zipper" trying her hand at the subjugation of an adamant young man, and a third type, the old-fashioned girl, a lady who hasn't had much show of late years. However, as a "zipper," Louise Halliday, played by Lila Lee, did succeed in finally winning the elusive Thomas Rockwood, the role played by the ever-popular Thomas Meighan in "Woman Proof," one of George Ade's comedy successes, showing at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of the week.

The plot is one of those foregone conclusion affairs in which Meighan shows to the best advantage, evidently, carrying the thing along by the sheer weight of his personality, and the puzzled, kindly charm which he knows so well how to get across to his audiences. Thomas Rockwood belongs to a family whose legacy of a million each depends on the carrying out of their father's will, that the bequests shall revert to the Rockwood Home for Old People if each of his children is not married by the end of five years. Thomas' older and younger sisters and his kid brother all manage to select a mate before the expiration of the time, but a condition is that they shall all marry, the four ceremonies being required to capture the legacies.

Thomas is obdurate, and his family resort to various measures to bring him to his senses. He is more interested in building a mighty power dam than in looking at girls, that is, until Lila Lee floats along and mesmerizes him. The element of doubt injected by a crafty guardian who wishes to build the Old People's Home with the Rockwood money causes a postponement of the final ceermony until the very last day of the time limit. Then two of the couples are married on board a trans-Atlantic liner, their radio responses being broadcasted to the other two couples, going through a similar ceremony in the church at home.

With the programme, there is a new idea in "movie" cartooning, with Hy. Mayer's facile hand bringing his pen and ink creations to life on the screen, in a novel and entertaining manner, and the comedy, "I'm On My Way," with Harold Lloyd as the central figure, shows the comedian in one of his old roles, that of a victim of various unfortunate minor occurrences. Harold is just about to be married, and waits for his bride in the home of one of her friends, where the family, "from frying to gander size," as their father expresses it, plays hob with his dignity and looks. Like the Scotsman, the prospective bridegroom loses his "enthusiasm" after an hour or so spent in contemplating the results of matrimony, and the final reel shows him fading down the street, while the lady watches his fleeing figure in vain.

ONLY TODAY AND WEDNESDAY FOR VOTING IN CONTEST.

Only today and Wednesday are left for getting votes in for the Capitol Popular Star Contest. At present Norma Talmadge leads in the number of votes received but Gloria Swanson is rapidly overtaking Miss Talmadge while Mae Murray and Alice Terry are others who are climbing rapidly. The winning star will be shown at the Capitol in his or her latest picture the first three days of next week.

A ROYAL DIVORCE GREAT HISTORICAL SPECTACLE FASCINATING LOVE SCENES AND GOOD STORY

Battle of Waterloo, Burning of Moscow, Retreat from Moscow, Some of the Big Thrills

A well filled house greeted the opening of the Super-British production "A Royal Divorce". It is really a big fine production and its appeal is to all classes; all characters are well played with Napoleon and Josephine outstanding. We did not get the names of the English artists, but the acting is flawless. From the opening scenes of the little corporal as a friendless unknown youth in a military school at Brienne to the final dramatic moment in the Battle of Waterloo it casts a spell over the minds of all beholders The musical accompaniment is also worthy of special mention.

AT THE GRAND.

"JUST MARRIED."

This city will be privileged to see one of Jules Hurtig and the Messrs. Shubert's notable productions with the same identical cast of characters and the same identical presentation which won for it the unqualified approval of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago during long triumphant engagements. The play referred to is "Just Married," the famous laughing success written by Adelaide Matthews and Anna Nichols, authors of "Scrambled Wives" and "Nightie Night." It is a honeymoon farce comedy in three acts.

The story of "Just Married" centers about a gently stimulated young man who gets aboard the French Line steamship "Lafayette" by mistake, just before she sails for Bordeaux, France, for New York. There are several oddly assorted couples aboard, old and young, married and unmarried—and some honeymooners, willing and unwilling. From the time the stimulated gentleman come aboard, without any effort or will on his part, they are all so bedevilled, scrambled and messed up that there is apparently no untangling their difficulties. There seems to be only two ways out—either the ship must put back to Bordeaux, or the young man must be thrown overboard. Things come right eventually after three hours of hearty laughter, however, and the voyage peacefully proceeds. "Just Married" comes to the Grand on Saturday, November 24, matinee and night with the only company presenting the comedy, and includes George Synder, Wallace Ray, Ben Ells, George Paige, Yates Price, John Riley, Robert Barclay, Walter Hagerty, Fred Atkins, Joseph Atwood, Ruth Thomas, Constance Cameron, Therese Quadri, Lillian Paige, Jane May and Marie Ainsworth.

One of the many laughable scenes in "JUST MARRIED," the famous laughing success, booked at the Grand Opera House, for matinee and night, November 24th. Seats on sale, Thursday. November 22nd.

THE DUMBELLS —in— "CHEERIO"

The following notice clipped from the dramatic page of the Toronto Mail & Empire of August 28, is of interest to local theatregoers at this time, as The Dumbells are billed to appear here at the Grand, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"A capacity audience at the Grand Opera House last night gave a great welcome to the ever popular Dumbell boys in their clever presentation of Captain Plunkett's fifth annual overseas revue, "Cheerio", which is as bright as its title suggest, and replete with good songs, catchy music, artistic dancing, smart sayings, and other attractions. There are over two hours reals enjoyment, the interest never being allowed to lapse. The opening chorus was appropriately enough, "Cheerio", capitally rendered by all the Dumbells. Then followed a breezy sketch, "In and Out", which set forth some of the humors and incidents associated with hotel life. The proprietor, as impersonated by T. J. Lilly, was an interesting character who never failed to rise to any occasion. Stan Bennett, who has marked capacity for taking off the dude, excelled himself, if anything, as Hon. Vere de Vere, his experience of going through the process of a shave at hands of novice barber being diverting. His song, "Yes, I Have No Pyjamas", was a hit. Gordon Calder as Ophelia Coy, an actress, added to his great reputation as an interpreter of lady roles. Jim Foley, in the character of Won Lung, was a Chinaman almost to the manner born, and no better compliment need be paid to his acting. Pat Rafferty was a clever bell hop, Morley Plunkett was a typical hotel clerk, John Hogan was at home with "Anybody" and all the other characters were well sustained.

Al. Plunkett scored a big success with his song, "Germs," while Ross Hamilton was a perfect lady, both in singing and action in "Building a Bungalow", his voice probably never having been heard to better advantage. Al. and Morley Plunkett added to their great reputation in the song "So We Go On", and Ben Allen was highly appreciated for his rendition of "On the Road to Anywhere." A skit, "Disorderly Room," the scene of which was laid in France, gave Stan. Bennett another chance to shine, and he was well supported. "Annie" was a song rendered by Gordon Calder, in a classy Highland uniform, all the Dumbells joining in. Captain Plunkett's overseas orchestra was again a source of enjoyment. "A Little Tragedy of Old Chinatown" and "O'Brien's Party" were pieces well done. Al. Plunkett scored once more in a cycle of new songs, and a number of other items went towards completing the long and altogether enjoyable program."

Canadian Book Week

The Canadian Authors' Association has set this week aside as Canadian Book Week in order to throw as much attention as possible on the works of Canadian Authors.

It is not necessary to publish a list of those who have enriched or endeavoured to enrich their country with a literature, that it may call its own. The roll grows yearly and numbers those who have made a name for themselves in almost every branch of literature. We have had our philosophers, poets, essayists, novelists, religious writers and scientists. Many of them have become known by their writings far beyond the confines of Canada.

Special attention will be given this week at the Public Library to the wants of those who wish to become acquainted with the writers of their own country and any question will be gladly answered which asks for information on Canadian topics of any description. If replies cannot be readily given, care will be taken to obtain the necessary information at the earliest date possible.

Patriotism is one of the most misused terms in our language. It is used as a cloak for many enterprises which ethically and in even a practical sense are not patriotic, but it may be applied to Book Week in a perfectly legitimate manner, for surely there can be nothing more patriotic or more deserving of attention than enlightment on the lives and works of those authors who own Canada as their country.

Persons interested can be supplied with a fairly complete list of Canadian authors if they will enquire at the receiving desk of the Library.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY HONORS DR. BANTING

With Professor J. J. R. McLeod, He Will Receive Degree of Doctor of Science.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press).—At a special meeting yesterday afternoon, the Senate of the University of Toronto decided to confer the degree of Doctor of Science on Dr. F. G. Banting and Prof. J. J. R. McLeod, in recognition of the honor done them in securing this year's Nobel prize in medicine. For the conferring of these degrees a special convocation will be held on Monday, November 26, at 5 p.m., and to this function all graduates in medicine of the University of Toronto who live in Ontario are being invited. The Board of Governors already had decided on a complimentary dinner to be held in the great hall of Hart House on the evening of November 26. Although the number of guests is necessarily limited to 350, and invitations must be restricted to medical men only, an endeavor is being made to have every part of the Province represented as well as all medical societies, associations and faculties.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION MET

Queen Alexandra School Parents Met in Social Gathering — Musical Numbers Good.

Last evening, an entertainment for the parents was held by the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, and the large room was filled to capacity with those attending. The guests were received by Mrs. S. F. M. Touchbourn and Mrs. F. H. Dearborn. The principal, M. H. Park made an efficient chairman. He expressed for himself and the Association great pleasure at the good attendance, also told of the formation of a cadet corps at the school, stressed the need for uniforms and suggested that the Association help to get these.

A splendid programme was provided by the pupils of the school, with a song by Jack Clayton, violin solo by Donald Morrison, piano solos by Margaret Reid, Marjory Lang, Teddy Kingdon, Isabel Davidson, Phyllis Payne, Hedley Vickers and Arfere Tedford; recitations by Ina Terrace and Margaret Walker, a cornet solo by Willie Derrington, and two selections by Will, Fred and Stanley Peryer, members of Peterboro's Junior Band. Mrs. Clayton acted as accompanist.

All listened with great pleasure and profit to Mrs. W. R. Morris, who spoke in her usual interesting manner. Mrs. Morris complimented the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association on its success, and urged that all women, now that they have a voice in the municipal elections, should know who is running for the office of Mayor and particularly for the Board of Education, matters vital to the interests of selves and children.

A Grand March, led by Mrs. Clayton and Mr. M. H. Park, was followed by games and contests. Mrs. R. Davidson was in charge of the excellent programme, and arrangements for the refreshments, which were served later, were supervised by Mrs. F. Holmes, served by the pupils who had taken part in the programme.

SEVERAL REPORTS LOCAL BURGLARS

Nothing Serious Reported as Result of Night Prowlers.

Peterboro last night was a mecca for thieves, judging by the number of alarms received at the police station and investigations made by the Examiner to day. All districts of the city seem to have been visited by the nocturnal wanderers looking for a chance to steal, but all appear to have been frightened away.

The residence of W. Y. Scollard, 548 Downie street, was surrounded at one time, the men in this case having a car in readiness, but making no attempt to break into the house.

Mrs. Scollard was not at home during the evening, and did not known of the pseudo burglars until she was informed this morning by Miss Blodgett who lives near by.

When Miss Bloogett was passing the Scollard home between 11 and 11.30 last night she saw a man apparently peering through one of the windows. A second man stepped in front of her from behind a tree, and on her passing he whistled, when a third man came into view on a verandah across the street. Miss Blodgett noticed the car parked at a corner, but did not venture close enough to take note of the number. All the doors were open, she said, as though for a quick get-away.

That the young lady is correct in her statements is shown by the presence of strange footmarks in this morning's snow, and they were still visible under the Scollard windows in the mud.

So far as could be learned, no entry was effected in that neighborhood and the children of Mrs. Scollard, the eldest of whom is 16, who were in the house throughout the evening, heard no alarming sounds, and were as ignorant of the visitation as was their mother.

One of the men is described by Miss Blodgett as being short and stout, while the other was long and thin.

Stories of masked marauders come from allp arts of the city.

JOSEPH LOCKWOOD STILL UNCAPTURED

Provincial Police Have Given Up the Search for Wanted Man.

SARNIA, November 20. Canadian Press. — After combing the steamer Huronic thoroughly from bow to stern, after the cargo had been unloaded last night, and maintaining a vigil around the ship, and along the wharf until an early hour this morning, Provincial Police here to-day gave up the search for Joseph Lockwood, the ex-Toronto policeman and alleged burglar and gun toter. The officers are now convinced that he escaped from the ship and probably swam ashore at Port Arthur after being brought on board in handcuffs at Duluth. If he had been in hiding in some unknown part of the boat, the police point out, he would have tried to get ashore during the night.

SHOWER HELD IN HONOR OF MISS WINTERBOTTOM

A very successful miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Lashbrook, when the girls of the Porcelain department of the C.G.E. honored Miss Winterbottom in view of her approaching marriage. The gathering took place on Friday evening, and was attended by much merry-making. At an appropriate time the bride was seated and a toy waggon was drawn in with prettily decorated basket. Little Esther Lashbrook and Edwin Wheeler were charmingly dressed as bride and bridegroom, and a mock ceremony was performed by Bert Lashbrook.

The basket being opened and the articles presented to the bride-to-be she thanked the hostess and guests in a few well-chosen words, although she had been taken completely by surprise.

Refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in games and music, concluding with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

MAIN LINES OF BRITISH FIGHT CLEARLY DRAWN

Conservative Press is Beginning to Pull Together-Can Electors Be Persuaded?

CHANGED VIEWPOINT

(Special to The Examiner)

LONDON, November 21 (By Wickham Steed, former Editor of the London Times, Editor of The Review of Reviews, Copyright). — The fight is thickening all along the line. The Labour leader, Ramsay Macdonald, yesterday made a triumphal progress by car from London to the West country, addressing crowded and enthusiastic meetings at Slough, Reading, Gloucester, and Bristol.

If the seal of the supporters can atone for the lack of funds, the Conservative hope of taking the Labourites at a disadvantage will be wrecked. Meanwhile, the National Union of Railwaymen voted $50,000 from the union funds as a free contribution towards the election expenses. Local branches of various unions also gave relatively large sums, and the members of the Party generally are contributing one million shillings.

Asquith also started his campaign at Paisley before a crowded hall on the twentieth anniversary of his first attack on Joseph Chamberlain during the Tariff Reform agitation. After a disvaraging comparison between Chamberlain's and Baldwin's political quality, Asquith denounced the election as one of the most discreditable adventures in the whole history of political trickery.

Alluding humorously to the policy of "wait and see," for which he was denounced during the war, the speaker remarked that Baldwin's policy was "vote and see" what would become of the "fumbling, fuzzle-headed, half-hearted projects of a semi-Protectionist Government."

He challenged Premier Baldwin to give the names of trades on the verge of extinction, and alleged that no single industry was endangered.

Prodigal Returned.

In London the Conservative Party killed the fatted calf for the return of the prodigal Birkenhead, whom they entertained at a luncheon at the Constitutional Club. Lord Birkenhead denied seeking office now or in the future, and declared that Free Trade and not Protection was on trial. He regretted that the Prime Minister had not adopted Joseph Chamberlain's entire programme, and instanced the British motor car trade, which Asquith had saved by putting a 33 1-3 per cent. import duty on foreign cars, and urged that the unpreparedness of the Asquith Government for war had been due to the adherence to a system of one-sided (unilateral) free imports.

Lord Balfour begged the Conservatives to bury the past and unite all efforts to get a strong majority, since a bare majority would be insufficient for their purpose.

Austen Chamberlain declared that re-united Liberalism was a much more dangerous enemy than Socialism, and adjured everybody to support the Prime Minister without observations, because even on Baldwin's limited programme it would be possible to achieve more than is yet within sight.

Lords Derby and Robert Cecil, both of whom are moderate Free Traders, also gave the Premier their support in order to promote Conservative unity.

Issues Outlined.

The main lines of the contest are thus fairly drawn. Except North, Rothermere and Beaverbrook, whose papers continue to assail the Baldwin programme directly and indirectly, the Conservative press is beginning to pull together. As the struggle proceeds, the issues will probably be narrowed down to a question as to whether the masses of the electorate can be persuaded that some measure of Protection is a cure for unemployment. There is increasing evidence that the women of the middle and upper classes are attracted by Baldwin's blunt honesty and repelled by Lloyd-George's "tin can" rattling. The Welsh Wizard's big speech in London this afternoon is awaited eagerly.

Twenty-five thousand applications have been made for seats in a hall which does not contain more than 5,000. Lloyd-George is expected to play on Baldwin's admission that Protection will probably involve some rise in prices.

During the pre-war Tariff Reform controversy, such an admission might have been fatal to any Protectionist, but during the war British wage-earners learned that high wages usually leave a margin over the high prices on food and other commodities. Consequently they may not be scared by the "high price" bogey.

All Parties Eager.

The most effective rejoinder to the Prime Minister may come from the Labourites who maintain that in peace time an increase in wages never quite keeps pace with an increase in prices, and that the difference always goes into the pockets of the capitalists.

Whatever the outcome of the campaign, it is now clear that it will be fought amid growing excitement. The resentment at the dissolution of Parliament is now superceded by an eagerness by each Party to turn to their own account the opportunity Baldwin provided.

The result should give a clearer indication of the political tendencies of the English and Scottish electorate than any available since the war.

BELGIUM UNDER YOKE OF NO FOREIGN POWER

Had Been Neutral In Rhineland—The Foreign Minister Insists That Germany Must Pay Reparations—Would Maintain the Entente.

DEFENDS POLICY.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 21—M. Jaspar the Foreign Minister, made a two hours' declaration in the Chamber yesterday on the Government's foreign policy, defending its action during the past four months recess. His speech contained many formal denials of charges which have been brought against the Government.

The Government, the Minister declared, had observed strict neutrality in the separatist movement in the Rhineland; its representative at Aix La-Chapelle had never obeyed the injunctions of a foreign government Nor was Belgium under the yoke of wardship of France or Great Britain

A Neutral Position

With respect to separatism, the Belgian Government's policy was "to remain neutral and wait until personalities or authorized organizations expressed the will of the country."

The failure of the proposal for an expert committee of inquiry has been a great disappointment to Belgium, which firmly hoped that such a body would be convinced that the world questions of reparations and Inter-Allied debts were indissolubly connected.

The insistence of M. Jaspar that Belgium must receive full payment of reparations evoked tumultuous cheering. He claimed that the occupation of the Ruhr had been a success and added that if the negotiations failed, Belgium and France had the means to make the German magnates yield.

Another burst of cheering came when he recalled that the three Socialist members in the German Cabinet had agreed to the delivery of a passport to the former German Crown Prince.

The Minister's speech was mainly occupied with the necessity of maintaining the entente.

EXPLOSION OF RIVER STEAMER

Captain and Engineer Killed on Monongahela River--Boiler Fragments Blown Ashore.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Two men were killed and two others narrowly escaped injury when the steamer Marion, of the McClain Sand Company, Point Marion, Pa., exploded in the Monoghalea River, eight miles south of here last yesterday. The victims were Reuben Wishart, 40, captain, of East Millsboro, Pa., and Mack Newcomer, engineer, of Point Marion, Pa. The steamer was destroyed.

The bodies of Wishart and Newcomer were blown from the boat into the rive and late last night had not been recovered. John Crow, fireman, and Ralph Wisden, cook, were working on one of the flat boats the Marion was towing when the explosion and both escaped injury.

Fragments of the boiler were blown to the shore on either side of the river. The steamer settled in about ten feet of water until the keel rested on the sand at the bottom with but a few feet of the spars appearing above the surface.

Officials of the McClain Sand Company stated that the craft had been in commission for 15 years and was valued at $20,000. They could assign no reason for the explosion of the boiler.

CECIL IS STILL A FREE TRADER

Supports the Government Plan to Relieve Unemployment — A Business Proposition.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Government received valuable support yesterday from Lord Robert Cecil, who in a farewell speech to his constituents at Hitchin, while frankly admitting that he still was a free trade, said that under the present exceptional conditions of unemploment it was unadvisable to reject without consideration any proposal the object of which was to give the Government greater power to negotiate with foreign countries regarding tariffs.

"Surely to ignore such a proposal would be pedantry gone mad," he declared. "This is a business proposition, not a theological argument."

Lord Roberts argued that it would be no infringment of free trade to adopt preference duties or to take steps to make foreigners admit British goods more cheaply than they do at present. Therefore, he advised his fellow countrymen to give the Government liberty to set forth its proposals, especially as he could find nothing in the programmes of either the Liberal or Labor Parties adequate to remedy unemployment.

Lord Roberts, upon whom a peerage was recently conferred, holds the office of Lord Privy Seal. Denying rumors that he intended to resign, he said he would support the Government as long as it promoted the work of the League of Nations.

GERMANS FAIL IN EFFORTS TO BUY UP OLD WARSHIPS

United States Decides Not to Sell to Foreign Buyers.

HAMBURG, Nov. 21—America's decision not to sell any cast-off war ships to foreign buyers on the ground that such action would minimize war, has attracted much attention in Europe. Several German firms made inquiries in Washington concerning battleships which were to be scrapped, as the vessels were desired by them for the iron and steel they contained.

About the time the policy of the United States government was announced, it was learned here that several battleships upon which construction began during the Czar's regime, but which never were completed, had been sold by the Soviet government to a British wrecking concern to be used as scrap iron, and melted down. Word to this effect came from Petrograd to German shipping companies who were interested in the deal but whom, it appears, were out-bid by the British.

Included in this Russian sale were 15 war ships and 5,000 locomotives, some of which had been the pride of the Russian state railway in the days when the trans-Siberian express was in its prime.

CYCLIST CRASHED INTO AUTOMOBILE

Rex Spence, Coasting Down Smith Street Hill Struck Car and Was Thrown Through Windshield.

Rex Spence, living on the River Road, was removed to Nicholls Hospital last night, following an accident in which he was precipitated through the wind shield of an automobile, sustaining cut to his face.

Roy and Rex Spence were cycling west on Smith street hill, near the Oval, on the left side of the road. They admit they were travelling at a fast rate. G. H. Watson was driving his car east on the hill, accompanied by his wife. He saw the boys coasting down the hill and turned out to the left and stopped his car. Rex Spence turned to the right, crashing into the car with such force as to bend the radiator. He was thrown through the wind shield, breaking both sections and cutting his face. His nose was so badly lacerated that it required several stitches. Mrs. Watson suffered a cut on one hand.

Both boys declare the car was not visible until the cash occurred.

FRANCE FINDS DEARTH OF SHORT DISTANCE RUNNERS

Outlook For a French Olympic Victory Not Very Good.

PARIS, Nov. 21. — The French outdoor 1923 athletic season has just closed, and in the absence of startling performances by newcomers coupled with the necessity of relying upon Antwerp veterans, the outlook for a French Olympic victory in the 100 and 200 metres distances next year is acknowledged by the French Olympic Committee and leaders of the French Athletic Federation as very gloomy. Andre Mourlon, with a mark of 10 4-5 seconds, will be lucky to reach the finals, they declare.

Verquin of Tourcoing and Hirlimann of Strasbourg are the most promising youngsters developed this year, but neither of them has bettered 11 seconds. The former belongs to a football club which plays association football league games each week, which is regarded as likely to take the edge off his form. Hirlimann is a mere stripling and cannot stand hard training.

Cerbonney, Degrelle and Cailleteau, all youngsters, will carry the French hopes in the 200. Cerbonney recently equalled the French record of 22 1-5 seconds for the distance and set a mark of 35 1-5 for the 300, but these times will not win at Colombes. The French, realizing this, are bending every effort to train men for the longer distances, 5,000, 10,000 and the Marathon, in which they hope to make a better showing.

RICHEST WEST NOW IS TRANS-PACIFIC

American Department of Commerce Says the Best Advice Is Still "Go West, Young Man" But There's a Longer Way to Go.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(Associated Press.)—"East is West" in American trade and the advice "Go West, young man" is still applicable, the Department of Commerce declares pointing out that there is still a new west, rich in undeveloped natural resources and with the capacity to absorb great quantities of American manufactured products.

"Beyond the bounds of the old West lie the oriental and other trans-Pacific countries," the department says. "There the great stretches of East, from Bering to the Indian Ocean, have become the modern West for the American business man. The trans-Pacific countries claim about one-fifth of America's total trade now, and the business is growing. Moreover, all the fundametnal elements that make for sustained growth are there.

"In no quarter of the world is there larger opportunity for the application of America's business energy and acumen than in the trade of the trans-Pacific countries. We need their raw materials, and, for the most part, this buying does not present complications affecting the welfare of our own producers of raw materials. They need our finished products and, getting them, will build up economic structures which for genertaions can absorb more and more of the products of our labratories, our foundries and our factories."

Desire Revision of Power Treaty

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Revision of the Treaty of 1909 between Canada and the United States regarding the diversion of waters from the Niagara River for power purposes is held to be "desirable" by the State Department, it was said yesterday, on the ground that a more equitable division than that fixed by the treaty now is possible and should be made.

Letters to the State Department from Members of Congress have contained statements that the Canadian Government would look with favor upon a revision of the treaty, but State Department officials explained that no definite action had yet been taken by them for placing the proposition before the Canadian authorities or suggesting that the treaty revised.

DAINTY SHOES, SIZE 14, MADE FOR AFRICAN CHIEF

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 21.—A local shoe company here has just completed and is sending to Africa a pair of No. 14 shoes, veritable schooners, which are to be worn by an African chief, Wembo Nyama, who lives in a village which bears his name.

Requests for the footwear came from Dr. C. P. M. Sheffey of this city, who is engaged there in direction of the Southern Methodist Board.

FIRST KISS WAS FREE, BUT SECOND COST $50

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 21.—When Walter Schew, twenty-three, appeared in the City Court he found he had indulged in a very expensive kiss.

"He's a brute. He forced his attention on me," said the young woman complainant.

"I kissed her once and when I tried to kiss her good night she slapped me," said Schew.

"Fifty dollars or thirty days," said the court, and Schew paid the fine.

GERMANS EAGERLY BUYING FRENCH LUXURIES.

BERLIN, November 21 (Associated Press). — French wines French perfumes, and French food supplies of various sorts came back into the German market with a rush immediately after the announcement of Chancellor Stresemann that the passive resistance in the Ruhr was at an end.

Bills of fare in prominent cafes and restaurants again are being written in French, and all the signs declaring French and Belgians would not be served have been removed.

Most of the larger German hotels and cafes had extensive cellars filled with French wines. Much of this has been sold as Italian or Spanish wine during the passive resistance period, but the Spanish and Italian labels have now been replaced by French labels, and customers who have been clamouring for French wine are happier.

BETTER IF BIRDS IN HAND HAD BEEN IN THE BUSH

OTTAWA, Nov. 20. —(Canadian Press Despatch)—The old proverb that "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" was rather rudely disproved in Hull police court today when a fine of $135 was imposed by Judge Roland Millar on John Hudson, an employe of the Royal Ottawa Golf Club, who pleaded guilty to a charge of having 135 partridges illegally in his possession. the specific charge was of keeping them in reserve to sell to different members of the club.

GERMAN SPEED RECORD.

BERLIN, November 21. (United Press.) — An airplane of the German-Russian Aerial Company established a new commercial speed record between Koenigsberg and Moscow, flying the distance in 5½ hours despite heavy fogs and storms. This nonestop flight of 1200 kilometres was made in an average speed of 218 kilometres per hour.

PETERBORO' ENGINEERS HEARD FIRST ADDRESS ON ST. LAWRENCE PLAN

At Annual Dinner Last Night by Special Permission of the Department of Railways and Canals, D. W. McLachlan Explained the Proposed Route — Many Brilliant Speakers.

MOST SUCCESSFUL

Hearty good will and jollity characterized the annual dinner of the Peterboro Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada held last night in the Empress Hotel, Ross L. Dobbin, president of the local branch was in the chair, and a galaxy of brilliant speakers contributed to the outstanding success of the evening. Prominent among those who addressed the gathering was D. W. McLachlan, M.E.I.C., graduate of McGill University, holder of the British Association Medal in Civil Engineering, and engineer in charge of the proposed St. Lawrence Ship Canal surveys, who explained the scope, difficulties and advantages of the improvements under consideration in connection with that waterway. This is the first official statement made public in an address by a government official, and special permission was sought and obtained by the local branch to have Mr. McLachlan give an authoritative exposition of the diverse proposals now before the Commission.

W. J. Francis, president of the Canadian body of the Engineering Institute, and Fraser S. Keith, secretary, honored the local branch by their presence, and contributed in no small measure to the success of the event. Visitors from several branches of the Institute in Ontario and Quebec brought the greetings of their cities, and representatives of sister professions in Peterboro conveyed their felicitations. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, represented the Parliament of Canaad.

There was a French flavor imparted to the occasion by the presence of several distinguished Quebec engineers, two of who addressed the meeting in their native language.

Congratulations were showered upon the Peterboro branch and upon the management of the Empress Hotel for the excellent programme and the splendid cuisine which marked the dinner, and return invitations were extended by representatives from other branches.

W. J. Fracnis.

Mr. Francis, the third Peterboro man to be elected president of the Canadian Institute, congratulated the local branch on the reputation it holds throughout Canada. The business-like undertakings of this branch he declared, are a source of gratification to the Council of the Institute. "The Engineering Institute of Canada is a very different body to-day from what it was a few years ago. The forerunner of the present organization was a Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, in 1887. Gradually the body changed from a purely technical body to one with a very much wider scope.

The objects now are: To develop and maintain a high standard in the engineering profession, to facilitate the acquirement and dissemination among members of information regarding their profession; to advance the social and economic life of its members, to enhance the usefulness of the members of the Institute to

REPORT 130 MEN KILLED AT BONN

No Official Confirmation of Story of Sanguinary Clash of German Factions

DUESSELDORF, Nov. 20.—The Separatists in their fight with the Loyalists near Bonn last Saturday lost 130 men killed, and in addition were completely routed. The peasant Loyalists literally annihilated the band of Separatists who invaded their territory in an attempt to detach it from the Reich and set up a Rhineland Republic, according to a despatch to the Duesseldorf Nachrichten. It is asserted that the peasants, infuriated over the attempt of the Separatists, attacked them with axes, scythes and other farm implements.

There is no confirmattion from any source of the report contained in the Nachrichten despatch. The local delegate of the Inter-Allied Commission says there is reason to believe the report, which refers to last week's fighting near Suebengierge, is greatly exaggerated. Originally it was stated that 23 persons had been killed in the fighting.

DEATH OF NOTED GERMAN BANKER

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Dr. Rudolf E. A. Havenstein, president of the Reichsbank, died yesterday from heart disease.

He reached the zenith of his career during the war, when, in the popular estimation he ranked next to Von Hindenburg as a purveyor of the sinews of war. He was an old style Prussian functionary with all the latter's merits and faults His critics hold him to blame for his obstinacy in not exhausting all possible means to prevent the mark from falling into the abyes.

Havenstein started his career as a lawyer and later occupied various high posts in the Prussian Finance Ministry; then, in 1907, he became president of the Reichsbank, when the importance of that institution had considerably waned owing to the active competition of other banks but the following year he laid down a new policy, reassuring for the Reichsbank a leading place.

Civic honors and degrees were heaped upon him during and after the war, but when the monetary inflation became more acute and profiteers reaped big profits at the expense of the community he was severely attacked for stubbornly refusing to release the Reichsbank's gold, except in favor of the Ruhr campaign. His position became more and more difficult, but he never wavered in his purpose and died virtually in harness.

Dr. Havenstein's successor will probably be Dr. Hjalmar Schact, Currency Commissioner of the Reich and Managing Director of the Darmstaeder Bank.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, Nov. 20 — Sunday marked a red letter day in the evangelistic campaign being carried on under the joint auspices of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, with Rev. H. Arthur Barton, Ottawa, in charge. Four public services made a heavy day for the evangelist, the congregations increasing in numbers until at night the gallery was required for their accommodation.

The solo, "He Watches Me," sung by Rev. S. T. Tucker at the morning service was much enjoyed. Following his usual custom, Mr. Barton gave his Scripture lesson, Psalm 34, from memory, its verses coming out with a new meaning as they were given proper expression and emphasis. The subject was, "A Choice That Made a Great Leader," with Hebrews 11:25, "Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God," as the text. With two paths before him—sensual self-seeking, wealth, royal status, or to do the will of God and be the leader of Israel, Moses made the great decision: "Good-bye, Pharaoh, my lot is cast in with Jehovah and His people," and as a result his memory is imperishable. As a legislator even Blackstone has been helped by the Hebrew lawgiver in the compilation of his legal code, and from this one standpoint of his greatness the destinies of mankind have been helped extensively and permanently, probably more than by any other purely human individual in the annals of the world.

Character is built largely by our choices; shall I, or shall I not? There are three choices that mould the eternal destiny of a soul—that of occupation, a life partner, and a life leader. "The world is written all over with sadness sadness because of mistakes in connection with these things. Human wrecks hit the shore every day because Satan was chosen for pilot and guide instead of Christ."

Entering the Christian life a lot in God's Kingdom is given each for cultivation. What is your spiritual lot like this morning? Weed-packed, or fruit-decorated? Conversion does not mean the end of the struggle but simply marks the beginning of the tussle with spiritual enemies.

There are choices within choices in married life and in church life. Shall respect and affection make a man choose to spend his evening with his wife at home rather than at the club? Shall a Christian attend lodge meetings, or prayer meetings? "Fraternal orders spring out of the warp and woof of the church after all." There are pleasures in the palaces of sin but there is an awful sting in them and they become just one big question mark when one is overcoming the results of dissipation. It is equally true of coarse or refined sins that they have a trick of losing their power to satisfy. On the other hand 'spiritual peaches never pall upon the taste. There is no market for wild oats," but the pleasures of godliness grow brighter and stronger as the unclouded glory of the Creator and Redeemer is revealed. "The clearer the impression, the more intimate the fellowship; the more sensible the presence, the greater the delight. There is nothing like God. The Kingdom of God cannot come as soon in this world unless you do your part."

After addressing a meeting of the combined Sunday schools at 3:00 P.M., Rev. Mr. Barton conducted a gathering for men in the town hall, his opening request being that "any ill-will shall come to ashes during our hour of fellowship together." Reading (from memory) part of the Sermon on the Mount for a lesson, the speaker concluded by reciting Kipling's "If," with dramatic effect, and one could not doubt, accomplishing the helpful purpose he had in view.

A solo, 'Drifting," by Mr. F. N. Alcorn, and a "Prayer of Purity" by Mr. Barton, preceded the address for which the speaker chose as his text, "The Stone Soldier, With the Gun Front of Him, That Adorns the Front of This City Hall." His father having been an amateur artist, Mr. Barton had been privileged to study beauty of form and complimented the community upon their taste in choosing a memorial.

That we are in danger of forgetting the lessons which the war taught us was the main thread running through an address marked by eloquence and an underlying sense of the deep spiritual values of life. What does the monument say to us? Beware the next war; boost the League of Nations, in connection with which point the speaker scored the United States because "she has not yet shown herself Christian enough to enter the League." Beware also of compacency lest Job's sarcastic remark, "No doubt ye are the people and wisdom will die with you," be again applicable to Canada, Britain, and the States as it was in pre-war days. "When the caveman looked out from under German helmets civilization slipped back in a night ten thousand centuries."

Since the Armistice we have reached a mountain peak as to scientific investigation, but have sagged morally, and the only way to improve matters is to face facts. The assets of a community do not consist in its fine buildings, etc., but in the character of its citizens and co-operation in business, church and civic affairs alone will help to build manhood and kill selfishness. "Every brand of sin is rooted in the muck of selfishness. A man may be a giant in business, but a toothpick as far as spreading the principles of Jesus Christ is concerned. Brotherhood is a new continent, spiritually, which we are only just discovering and Jesus Christ needs you men to help build a democracy which will honor the personality of every man, for personality is a sacred thing more valuable than automobiles, wealth, industrial prosperity, fine houses, or fame. Though you may have to sweat entally to to come to convictionn through the tunnel of doubt, keep an open mind to adapt the old truths to the new conditions of a new age. Spiritual Columbuses are persecuted today. Have you "flunked yellow" in the fight against secret sin, or in the battle for civic righteousness? Try Christ, He'll make a new man of you.'

Rev. G. S. Gervan had charge of the song service on Sunday evening, the quartette, "Have Thine Own Way, Lord," contributed by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Rev. G. S. and Mrs. Gervan, being particularly appreciated. The large congregation gave undivided atttntion as Evangelist H. Arthur Barton developed his subject, "The Successful Fool" from the 12th chapter of Luke's gospel. "Beware of living for what you can get, rather than for what you may become."

"A successful life depends largely upon right relationships. If farming be your occupation fail not to link Christ-culture with agriculture. The doctrine of human depravity has been overworked, there is an embryo Jesus in the worst of men. Only a fool would make a bargain with Satan to sell the moral and spiritual nature for wealth and pleasure, since he cannot guarantee one hour of life in which to enjoy these material gains. Soul waste is the greatest sin under the stars. God says, 'Fool,' while we say, 'many years.' Your opinion of yourself may be one thing, and God's opinion a very different thing. Some people seem to regard Christianity as a bitter pill they had better swallow before they die to escape swallowing a bitterer one just after death. If God sees the plant of real penitence growing in a human soul He pardons that soul then and there."

LATEST STYLES IN HATS, PLAIN

When Going to Opera or Hop It Is Needed Only to Arrange Your Locks In the Most Becoming Fashion.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—Up to this season we have not had to worry about putting an appropriation for the evening hat into our clothes budget.

Before going to the opera or hop or whatever function seemed to call for a display of our evening finery we needed only to arrange our locks in the most becoming fashion and concentrate the expense on the gown and wrap.

This season promises to be different, for the evening hat is back and because of its novelty designers are inclined to make the most of it.

The evening chapeau may be just a glorified framework of beads, preferably pearls, jet or rhinestones, with much hair revealed.

It may be a turban of gorgeous gold or silver cloth, draped becomingly about the face and minus a crown, so that the well brushed hair may be revealed.

It may be some novel variation of the bandeau or a headdress of feathers and lace, or a ruffle of black lace wired to make a wide frame for the face.

In Paris, where the cloche hat is so firmly established in the favor of the fashionable woman, this model is also developed in evening models of satin or metal cloth with a huge bow of maline or lace perched in the middle of the crown to give an effect of airiness and fragility.

Frequently the hat is the pointof concentration for all the color of the costume, and brilliant greens, American beauty and sapphire blue turbans are most effective with the black velvet and satin-backed crepe gowns that are so prevalent.

The Egyptian effect, although it has been greatly overworked, is decidedly not passe when it comes to headdresses, and jeweled bands with jeweled medallions and drops over the ears are seen on some of the most fashionable women of New York and Paris.

Another pleasing effect is the Russian cap with a draped band encrusted with jewels, mounted on a sort of skeleton crown of velvet or gold or silver cords.

With nearly all types of evening hat the hair is worn as sleek and highly polished as possible, and all effects of softness are obtained by the hat rather than with the hair.

GERMANY SECOND IN SHIPBUILDING.

Meantime, the United States Is Building Practically Nothing and Standing in Sixth Place.

(By GUS. M. OEHM)

BERLIN, Nov. 21 (United Press).—Germany is making rapid strides to regain her place in the shipping world—standing second only to Great Britain in the amount of tonnage in course of construction.

Meantime, the United States is building practically nothing, standing in sixth place, with Italy, France and Holland following Germany in the number of tons now being built.

According to Lloyds quarterly Great Britain and Ireland had on Sept. 30, 1,271,195 tons of shipping under construction, 76,000 tons less than at the end of the previous quarter year. Compared with the amount of one year ago it is 345,000 tons less. To this should be added 242,000 tons, because the strike of the blacksmiths caused the cessation of work on this amount.

The rest is 1,029,000 tons which are actually under construction, the lowest figure Lloyds register has shown in fourteen years. Before the world war the average yearlyamount was 1,890,000 tons. During the last quarter 66,474 tons were launched, against 239,373 tons in the quarter before. The new start of building ships amounts to 111,860 tons, against 241,283 tons in the quarter before.

In other countries at the end of September, 1,106,502 tons were under construction, which is 50,000 tons less than in the last quarter. For the chief countries the following figures are stated:

Great Britain	1,271,195 tons.
Germany & Danzig	345,983 tons.
Italy	145,423 tons.
France	142,660 tons.
Holland	104,491 tons.
United States	99,383 tons.

Only 227,549 tons were launched, 100,372 tons were started. The last figure is said to be inaccurate, as no accurate figures could be had from Germany. The world tonnage being under construction amounted to 2,052,000 tons, which is 1,394,000 less than the highest pre-war figure of June 30, 1913.

Italy is reported to have a surplus of 300,000 people to send abroad this year.

LIFE'S JOY NOT IN EXTERNALS

Ramsay MacDonald, the British Labor Chief, Casts Up Simple Means of Happiness.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The joy of life is not in outward things, and the vast majority of the present generation will make their great mistake.

Socialites have often been charged with a lugubrious outlook on life, but MacDonald belies the charge.

"Certainly there is ample joy in life if we do not deliberately forbid it as an unwelcome guest", MacDonald declared, in setting forth his recipe for joyful living.

"There is joy in a pipe and the open road, the Labor leader declares, and there is joy in work.

"Some people find joy in lugubriousness, so when they speak we ought not to misunderstand them," MacDonald said.

Tramping the Hills.

"We have just had joyful days in the hills tramping in rain and mist, in company with a band of young folks who enjoyed every drenching equally with every hour of glorious sun, and who spent as jolly a night in a bed of heather under a stone on the hillside as beneath blankets at home.

"This generation is allowing itself to trust too much to outward things for joy. A good walking stick, a pipe and any weather are enough; any pocket treasure like "The Open Road" or one of the Golden Treasury volumes add luxury to the elements.

Canker of Worry.

"Get our people away from the pettifogging vanities and the empty wilderness of towns, get them away with nature from self-regarding and sighing introspection and they will find joy abundantly. I know the awful canker of worry that thousands of the most decent of my fellow beings have to bear in these times, and we are miserably selfish creatures if we forget. But joy elbows no other sentiment out of our hearts when it enters into possession itself. If it an extra, not a substitute.

"All luxurious aids to joy are substitutes. Then at home, our old Scott songs of ga yhumor and lyrical love, a novel or two like 'Tristam Shandy', Burns of the Elizabethans, an honest day's work behind one and decent memories around one, with perhaps a youngster sleeping in the corner—what cloud can keep joy out of that?

"And then, there is the greatest joy of all, the joy of working so that all our people may possess the circumstances and capacity to be full of joy themselves. Don't talk to me of a cheerless life."

WINTER FAIR NOW OPEN IN TORONTO

Canada's Greatest Agricultural Exposition Was Opened Last Evening.

TORONTO, November 21 (Canadian Press). — Unfolding in brilliant beauty, Canada's greatest agricultural exposition, the Royal Winter Fair, last night made its second bow to Canadians.

One more mark of merit, scaling with popular approval the success of an exhibition which since its inception a year ago, has gained an international reputation, was freely given when the opening day witnessed an attendance of nearly 20 000 people.

In the presence of the vast throng which taxed the seating capacity of the huge coliseum at the Exhibition Park, Ontario's Premier formally declared the Royal Winter Fair to be opened—the Fair which, for the next nine days, will bring before thousands of Canadians, the message of their country's prosperity and progress.

17,000,000 Autos In Use By January.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—By January 1 the world will have in operation 17,000,000 automobiles, passenger cars and trucks, according to an estimate by M. H. Hoehli, chief of the automobile division of the Commerce Chamber. Of that total he said 14,000,000 will be running in the United States, or about one to every eight persons, whereas in the rest of the world the proportion will be about one to 112 persons. The number of cars in operation is expected to show on January 1 an increase of 17 per cent. over the same date a year ago.

FARMERS VIOLATE ECONOMIC CANONS, BANKER DECLARES

Have Produced All They Could Since Noah Built the Ark—Crop Control Urged.

NEW YORK, November 21. — "Farmers violate all the rules of economics" was the declaration of Edwin McKnight, banker and agriculturist, of Medina, in a letter appealing to the Political Union for Progress in Government to help solve the problems of the farmers. He said in part:

"The farmers of the United States are a large number of manufacturers with an enormous productive capacity. They manufacture their perishable products without any orders obtained beforehand from their consuming customers. They have not the slightest idea how much they should produce or how much money they will receive. They manufacture all they can and have done so ever since Noah built the ark.

"Agriculturists cannot know how much they will get for their productions. When they over-produce, they receive what their customers are willing to pay. They violate all the rules of economics."

Farmers Mortgaged.

Mr. McKnight agreed with the statement, in a Political Union pamphlet, by an Agricultural Society official, that "the farmers think they are organised, but they are not. Farmers receive no practical encouragement or assistance from bureaucratic government, and they are uniformly made the football of politics."

Farmers must have intelligent guidance Mr. McKnight declared. This in his opinion, can be furnished only by governmental agencies. Mr. McKnight added:

"A sales department should aid in obtaining the cost plus a reasonable profit by assisting in securing transportation credits, loans, storage, and by directing an orderly marketing and the disposition of any surplus.

"With intelligent guidance in operation, the sales department should segregate and purchase any surplus at the close of the season, carry it over; then the acreage for the particular crop showing a surplus for one season should be curtailed for the following season in accordance with estimates as to demand."

Regional Market Urged.

Mr. McKnight said the Washington statistics showed that crop losses of farmers yearly ran from 20 to 40 per cent. He believes that regional farm markets should be established to indemnify the producer for these crop losses. Farming must be made a stable industry, he contended. Otherwise the withdrawal from the farms will increase, rather than diminish. He asserted:

"Intelligent Government guidance and intelligent government are synonymous. We already have Government control of railway rates; also the regulation of prices for electric light, gas and power, telephone rates and trolley fares. There are innumerable other regulations that could be cited to indicate a decided trend in our Government toward intelligent guidance to prevent the robbery of one calls of our people by another.

"Our Government should by license not ownership, supervise and conduct regional national farm markets in all of our large cities where one-price standardised farm products could be bought and sold. Thus would grow up an enormous business of producing agricultural products under agreement sealed, signed, witnessed before the seed was planted in the ground."

OBITUARY

DEATH ENDS HUNGER STRIKE OF 34 DAYS

An Irish Republican Succumbed to Self-Imposed Fast.

DUBLIN November 21. — The first death of a hunger striker under the Free State regime occurred in the New Bridge Internment Camp yesterday morning, when Dennis Barry, a native of Cork, succumbed to a self-imposed fast.

Barry was an active member of th eIndependent Republican Army during the fighting against the British. He had been on hunger strike 34 days. His brother was summoned to the camp last Sunday, but the prisoner was delirious and did not recognise him.

Nearly three hundred prisoners are still hunger striking, including many political and military leaders, some of whom are reported to be very weak.

Countess Markievicz, the woman Republican leader was arrested in Dublin yesterday afternoon while going about in a motor lorry, accompanied by a number of young girls, distributing literature concerning the Government's attitude toward the hunger strikers.

The girls struggled with the detectives, but eventually all were taken to the police headquarters.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Mrs. Junor Fell and Broke Her Hip and Arm—Social Events in Town

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 21. — Mrs. Junor, mother of Mrs. Runciman at Meyersburg, fell the other day and broke her hip and left arm. Mrs. Junor is 93 years old. A Birthday Party.

Billie Pearce, son of Mr. Pearce, head carpetner on the new Hydro power house, had a very interesting birthday party Monday afternoon, when he entertained fourteen of his friends, seven girls and seven boys, at his home on Sebastapol street. The table was artistically decorated with flowers. A large birthday cake was in the centre of the table. After supper the evening was spent in games and music. Billie is twelve years old. The party lasted till nine o'clock. Billie received some lovely gifts, showing his popularity among his young friends.

Leaving the Farm.

On Friday evening, November the 16th, a number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. Fred Nelson who is leaving the farm where he has been for a number of years, and presented him with a purse. Mr. John Ingrams made the presentation and in a few well chosen words spoke of the esteem in which he was held both as friend and neighbor.

Mr. Nelson, although surprised, made a suitable reply, thanking his friends for their kindness.

Lunch was served and the rest of the evening was spent in games and tripping the light fantastic.

OMEMEE PEOPLE RAISE FUND OF $800 FOR FAMILY WHOSE HOME WAS BURNED

OMEMEE, Nov. 21.—On Friday evening Messrs. Norman Fee, Wesley Morton, Vincent Jones, Henry Jones, W. R. Boate, George Newman and A. E. Ford met at the home of Jeffrey Widdis and presented Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn Fee with a cheque amounting to over eight hundred dollars.

This amount, with the promise of more and assistance otherwise, was the result of a few days' canvas by them.

The presentation was made by Mr. Boate, who referred to their great loss and to the willingness of the people to express their sympathy so readily.

Mr. and Mrs. Fee thanked those present for the kind help they had shown and wished to convey through them their sincere thanks to those who had given so freely. Mr. Widdis also expressed his appreciation of the sympathy shown to his neice by so many people in so many ways, and rejoiced in the fact that "we live in a good country, in a good time and in a good locality where the hearts of the people are in the right place."

Mr. and Mrs. Widdis served a sumptuous fowl supper to the collectors, and although it was under sombre circumstances they gathered, yet a real social evening was spent together.

CAUTIOUS RUPPRECHT FAVORED AS RULER OF MONARCHY IN BAVARIA

But All the Hitlers and Kahrs in Munich Cannot Persuade Rupprecht to Ascend Throne of Bavaria —He Fears Being Knocked Off.

WISE POLITICIAN.

MUNICH, Nov. 21. — Former Crown Prince Rupprecht is the chief reason why there will not be any hurried attempt to re-establsh monarchical rule in Bavaria while all of the rest of the German republic is still under democratic rule.

All the Hitlers and von Kahrs who can be assembled in Munich apparently cannot induce Rupprecht to make a trial for the restoration of the Bavarian throne. He has no desire to repeat the performance of the late ex-Emperor Karl in Hungary.

Rupprecht is a loyal Wittelsbach and would like to see the monarchy re-established in Bavaria if he thought there could be any permanency to such a restoration.

But he has learned a lot, about European politics in the 54 years of his life. He had a good record in the war and came through it pretty well convinced that the days of the Hohenzollerns were numbered.

His first wife was a sister of the present queen of Belgium. After her death he became engaged to Princess Charlotte of Luxemburg. But that engagement was cancelled before she succeeded her deposed sister as grand duchess. Rupprecht afterward married the younger sister of Grand Duchess Charlotte, the Princess Antonia.

But his experience in his military campaigns in Belgium and Luxemburg and the international complications which speedily arose when there was a prospect that the ex-crown prince of Bavaria was likely to become the husband of the ruling monarch of little Luxemburg gave him a pretty definite idea how the entente powers feel about the restoration of deposed monarchs of the central powers to their old strongholds.

Lover of Peace

Then Rupprecht, though a soldier, is actually a peace loving man. He enjoys living quietly, and is not at all fond of display and excitement. Rupprecht is the idol of the Bavarian public. Even the anti-monarchists have little to say against him. There is no other prince who can replace him in the affections of the Bavarians people. He has two sons, one of 21, and another several years younger, and several daughters. So the succession is well-provided for and he can afford to await developments with patience.

Politicians sputter and threaten all over Bavaria. Ambitous ones who would like to head the cabinet under King Rupprecht. Monarchistic papers always call him king. He is nailed as king at political meetings. His health is drunk as monarch of Bavaria the length and breadth of the effervescent state which has never been happy under Prussian control.

Bavaria's unrest is not new. The Hohenzollerns were not liked any better than is Ebert's government. There are religious and temperamental differences which make it impossible for Prussia and Bavaria to like each other. Under present conditions there are enough communists and extreme socialists to make monarchical restoration extremely hazardous. Also there are enough of the extreme liberals and radicals to make it hazardous for the conservative elements to have splits into divers factions.

Is Fascisti

The so-called Fascisti elements stand with Prince Rupprecht and he stands with them. They have no other candidate for the throne and he is too canny a politician to try being a king on a little island surrounded by an ocean of democracy and standing under the shadow of unsettled reparations.

France has spared no efforts to encourage monarchism or anything else in Bavaria which might tend to the disruption of Germany. Many Bavarian leaders have been attracted by propaganda for an independent Bavaria. But Rupprecht very clearly does not forget that the German Empire did very well under the plans outlined by Bismarck, and is in no hurry to be the first king to make an attempt to smash up the German reich.

WANDERING MINER DIED IN MONTREAL

"Foghorn" MacDonald, Known From Coast to Coast and Arctic to Gulf of Mexico, Had Wanderlust.

MONTREAL, November 21 (Canadian Press). — "Foghorn" Macdonald, known from coast to coast, and from the Arctic Circle to the Gulf of Mexico on this continent died here just before midnight.

Neil Macdonald, The Man from Glengarry, of Highland Catholic stock, was a mining man by profession. He had followed the lure of gold in the Yukon and in Porcupine, hunted for silver in Cobalt and in Nevada, prospected in Mexico. Wherever mining men congregated in Montana or in Ontario and gathered in conversation there would be that story told of "Foghorn." He went to the front with the famous "Black Devils" of Winnipeg. His mining experience led to his being entrusted with the work of starting the famous mine which was to blow the top off Kemmel Hill.

"Foghorn" was relegated to the Canadian Forestry Corps, where his outspokenness was like a breath from home to the lumbermen from Ottawa Valley and Northern Ontario.

LEAGUE RECEIVES QUEER PROPOSALS

Some People Think League of Nations Is a Tourist Agency — A Scotchman Wanted Room and Bath

GENEVA, Nov. 21.—(Associated Press.)—Strange ideals prevail with some people as to the functions of the League of Nations. In more than one country it is regarded as a tourist agency A Scotchman wired from Glasgow asking the League to reserve a room and bath in the best Geneva hotel and buy him a ticket to Rome. An American cabled asking for the names of good American dentists in Milan and the Hague, "as he would soon visit those cities."

Many people get provoked if their grandiose schemes are not attended to promptly. An Englishman wrote an indignant letter complaining that the council had not yet given due consideration to his unfailing scheme to determine the weather in all parts of the world months in advance. Cranks the world over flood the League with weird projects.

MINISTERS VISIT HOMES IN OMEMEE

Rev. Wesley Morgan Returned From China, and Rev. W. H. Nugent From Portland, Ore.

OMEMEE, November 20. — Rev. Walter Henry Nugent, Ph.D., D.D., minister of the Central Presbyterian Church of Portland, Oregon, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nugent. Dr. Nugent has been in the ministry for 26 years all but three of which have been spent in large cities in the United States. He is in the East on church business having attended a meeting in New York last week and having another one scheduled for Cleveland the first week in December.

Home on Furlough.

Rev. Wesley Morgan, an old Omemee boy, home on furlough from China, occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church on Sunday, and delighted a large congregation at both the morning and evening service by his helpful and instructive talk. In the morning he directed his thoughts towards the people of China, and related many incidents in their lives. His evening subject was "China's movement toward the goal of a more abundant life," and again he delighted a large congregation, who are always pleased to receive a message from one who has been absent from his home town for many years, and has been laboring among the heathen in the work of the Master.

It being Missionary Sunday, the choir music was in keeping with the day. Misses Mary and Vera Lowes rendered a very pretty duet in the evening which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

"The Powder Puffs."

A small audience greeted the "Powder Puffs" on Friday evening, owing to the inclement weather conditions. The "Puffs," who entertained a capacity house a year ago, appeared with the original cast with one or two exceptions. When the curtain rose at 8:15, the snappy appearance of the boys in their rainbow tinted costumes, was greeted by a burst of applause. The costumes of the entertainers were just a forerunner of the snappy programme which followed. Choruses, solos, duets and monologues followed in quick succession. Special mention might be made of the splendid vocal selection by Mr. Wilbert Clemett, who sang with great ease and good expression. A duet by Mrs. Hume and Mr. J. L. Brooks was well received. A card announcing Signor "Teddie Marshio," provoked much merriment, and the inimitable "Teddy" again made a name for himself in his solo selection.

A comedy entitled "When our City Cousins go a-Hunting," was cleverly staged and acted. J. L. Brooks made a typical "Si," owner of the woods; Teddy Marsh, his fascinating daughter, with whom "Burlington Bertie (Campbell Mackey) was thoroughly infatuated. "Bertie," an english dude, not knowing much of the ways of Canadian huntsmen, goes to the woods arrayed in cream flannels and wearing the inevitable monocle in his eye. After two days in the starts to fuss for his daily shave, finally Silas comes to the rescue; a heaping cup of lather is produced by Rastus (man of all work), which when being applied gets into the mouth of Bertie, who finds it to be whopped cream. Many other funny incidents occur, the climax coming when "Bertie" shoots the cow on the farm in mistake for a deer. When he finds his mistake Rastus is hired to take the bell from the cows neck and ring it to hoodwink the farmer. "Si" arrives looking for the cow determined to shoot it for straying away, when he finds it. With this intention he starts out from the camp. Soon a shot is heard, and shortly after a terrified negro apepars with the rear of his wedding apparel in rags, but still violently ringing the cow-bell.

The boys deserve much credit for the stage setting for this number, which was most realistic.

Mrs. Hume was pianist for the evening which was closed with the National Anthem.

Debate on "Movies."

The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church was held in the church basement on Monday evening. An interesting feature of the programme was a debate, the subject being, "Resolved, — That motion pictures are more conducive to good than otherwise." Messrs. Kenneth Nurse and Allan Adams supported the affirmative, while Misses Mabel Rowan and Marion Pogue ably upheld the negative. Both sides did remarkably well but the decision of the judges was given in favor of the negative.

A very large attendance was present, resulting in a very enjoyable evening.

QUEBEC'S REPATRIATION PLAN.

In attempting the repatriation of her sons who are in the United States as a first move towards increasing her population rather than by depending upon immigration, Quebec has given her sister Provinces in Canada something about which to think.

Quebec has lost many thousand fine citizens to the New England States, and she hopes by establishing agencies in the principal French-Canadian centres across the border to eventually pave the way for the return of many of those who in the years gone by have crossed the line.

It is felt that such agencies would be able to keep in touch with former French-Canadians who may be considering the question of returning home, and in this way be successful in bringing about the repatriation of many such people.

Canadians generally have always lamented the fact that each year many thousand sons and daughters of Johnny Canuck have made the pilgrimage to Uncle Sam's domains and that comparatively few have ever permanently returned.

Quebec, however, is the first Province that has taken any steps to grapple with the problem, and the working out of this repatriation experiment, the Examiner is sure, will be watched with much interest.

If the Quebec plan produces any definite results the enterprise of our sister Province may offer a lead to Ontario in this respect.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

In an admirable article on the subject frequently discussed by the Examiner, the lethargy of the majority of citizens in the matter of municipal elections, the Ottawa Journal points out that in Great Britain where the people put local affairs in the very forefront of importance municipal administration has long been a model for the world.

The best citizens in the Mother Country interest themselves in the civic administration and vie for positions on local boards.

As an example, it may be mentioned that the first public step taken by the Duke of Devonshire after returning to England when his term as Governor-General of Canada had expired was to contest a vacancy on a County Council against a working man.

The Examiner would rejoice to know that Peterborough was about to swing round to the English habit of taking a deep interest in the municipal campaign.

Indifference in this respect is a handicap to the city's progress, it tends to lower the calibre of municipal representatives, and it is in a large measure responsible for the extravagance too frequently found in civic governments.

The remedy will be found in a general interest in the bringing out of good candidates, in a study of these candidates and their policies in insisting upon definite pronouncements from the various aspirants for office and in a more widespread use of the franchise.

REVOLVERS AND THE O.T.A.

The resolution passed by the Toronto Ministerial Association expressing disapproval of the interpretation of the law in regard to the use of revolvers by police officers in making arrests under the Ontario Temperance Act declares that the police "are deprived of the protection and assistance that they are given in dealing with ordinary criminal cases of much less serious nature."

How can such a statement be justified?

Officers are not deprived of protection merely because they are not permitted to fire their revolvers at people suspected of a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act.

They are simply under the same restrictions in regard to such cases as they are under in dealing with other minor offenders when their own lives are not endangered.

The protection of carrying their revolvers is not taken away from them, but they have been warned that indiscriminate shooting in attempting the arrest of men engaged in an illegal enterprise of a minor nature is forbidden.

Surely the Toronto Ministerial Association does not believe that breaches of the traffic regulations would justify officers in firing upon the offenders if they attempted to escape.

Breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act are exactly in the same category, and the taking of human life is no more warrantable in one case than in the other.

The extent to which law enforcement officials may use firearms is clearly laid down, and it is not in the public interest that their powers in this respect should be widened.

SHYING AT POLITICS.

Secretary J. J. Morrison of the United Farmers of Ontario, who has been attending the fall session of the Canadian Council of Agriculture in Winnipeg, declares that all over Canada farmers' organizations are drifting away from active participation in politics.

Mr. Morrison knows the farmers, and his opinion on this point carries considerable weight.

The trend is definitely away from direct political action, and there seems little doubt that the United Farmers of Ontario, when they convene in Toronto in December, will take a stand against participation as a body in politics.

Many farmers' clubs have already declared against political action, and the feeling that participation in politics has interfered with the success of the farmers' movement along economic and co-operative lines.

Farmers who believed in organization for trade purposes and for the better solution of agricultural problems were estranged when the jump into the political game was taken.

The astounding success scored at the polls in the election of 1919, followed by the formation of a Farmers' Government, temporarily held the movement together in Ontario, but signs of disintegration were soon in evidence, and the disaster which swept the Drury Government out of office this year was the crowning blow.

The convention next month will probably result in a decision that the United Farmers of Ontario will henceforth refrain from political action as a body, but will devote all attention to the purposes for which the organization was originally launched.

MARCHING NORTH.

There was a corn show in Maple Creek, Manitoba, this year. In the 70's, when the Dominion Parliament was considering the practicability of building the Canadian Pacific, there were a number of very sensible men who declared that the project was folly because nothing could ever be raised in the "frozen wilds" that the railroad would be obliged to traverse, says the Border Cities Star.

Today, Manitoba No. 1, which means the best grade of wheat grown anywhere in the Canadian West, is so high in quality that even the restrictive duties of the Fordney-McCumber tariff, which were designed especially for that purpose, cannot keep it out of the United States. The frozen wild story was pure myth; just one of those silly beliefs that are the chief obstacles to human progress.

But Manitoba No. 1 can tremble on its throne, even though it be the best breadstuff, bar none, produced anywhere in the world. Corn is marching north. And corn, because it means the keeping of livestock and more economical farming, challenges wheat wherever it goes.

Left to herself, Nature never allows soil fertility to be exhausted. Her cycles of growth, ripening and decay were designed to add, year by year, to those elements in the soil which make for further growth. Wheat or any other method of one-crop farming is the very antithesis of the way Nature regulates her methods of reproducing life of all kinds. Growing wheat is apt to be soil-mining. It takes the most precious elements from the soil; they are not replaced.

But with corn it is different, for maize is not the food for men that wheat is. Consequently but little of it is marketed in the form of the ripened grain. Were this so, corn raising would be more detrimental to soil fertility than the growing of wheat. But by feeding it to animals Nature's plan for keeping up soil fertility, which looks like magic but really isn't, is fulfilled.

Corn is marching North.

NEARING THE RAPIDS.

Even the most conservative estimate of the Anglo-French situation regarding Germany cannot fail to emphasize the gravity of the moment. France has taken a more serious step than any since the occupation of the Ruhr—a step that may prove to be fraught with even greater potentialities for disruption. She demands that the Allies send an ultimatum to Germany threatening the occupation of the free port of Hamburg by the British and that of Frankfort and the Upper Rhineland railways by the French, thus blocking the main import and export artery in Germany and giving France absolute control of the entire Rhineland, unless Germany gives the Allied Disarmament Commission full liberty and assistance to resume its work.

The Stresemann Government has taken the stand that the Disarmament Commission control cannot be resumed so long as France violates the Treaty of Versailles by the occupation of the Ruhr. Premier Poincare has chosen to link this declaration with the return of the ex-Crown Prince to Germany as affording full justification for the proposed ultimatum. The policy of sanctions providing for the occupations indicated in the ultimatum has been mooted before, but only as a weapon of persuasion. It is a policy abhorrent to the British Government, and the whole efforts of the British Ambassador to France, Lord Crewe, have been directed to persuade the French authorities that no such ultimatum as they propose is necessary, but that a strong protest from the Allies would have the desired effect upon Stresemann and his associates. So far he has not succeeded in making any impression upon the French Premier.

The immediate danger is not to be disregarded. It lies in the possibility of independent French action. On behalf of the French Government, M. Cambon, has notified Lord Crewe that if the British will not share in the enforcement of the ultimatum—should that become necessary—and act in full accord with France, then France will be compelled to act alone.

There will be the gravest anxiety throughout the civilized world until this crisis has passed. After Mr. Baldwin's solemn warning of yesterday, delivered in spite of the British absorption in the coming elections, it will be realized that France cannot take further drastic steps toward the disintegration of Germany without seriously alienating British sympathy. The British dislike the occupation of the Ruhr, but their feeling would go much deeper if that occupation were now extended over their open opposition.

The friends of France—and who is not?—will most profoundly hope that she will not finally separate herself from British policy. A policy which has the support of Lloyd George, Ramsay Macdonald, Stanley Baldwin and was supported by the late Bonar Law, is a pretty nearly unanimous British opinion, even if some journalists do carp. This policy now has the support of the Overseas Dominion Conference. It has also the tacit sympathy of the American Government. French sagacity will be very likely to avoid a collision with so powerful a combination.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Christmas is drawing steadily closer. It is not too early to get that Yuletide shopping under way.

The Liberal manifesto puts an end to any talk of a Liberal-Labour union in British politics. The capital levy could not be swallowed by the Asquith-Lloyd George party.

Thirty-five thousand radio fans have not paid their license to the Government. It looks as if there is going to be some static disturbance for the neglectful ones.

British electors doubtless enjoy the verbal battle between Lloyd George and Baldwin more than they understand the intricacies of the tariff issue thrust before them.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

While gelatin is palatable food, children eating too much may grow up and become shimmy dancers.

Never think the washing powder is breakfast food or that the breakfast food is washing powder.

Always have tomato ketchup handy. By using enough of it you can eat many things you don't like.

The most sanitary way of learning to eat spaghetti is to practice with a clean bunch of string.

Dried peaches and apples are healthy if you don't drink too much water after eating them.

Keep a little canned soup in the pantry. You can either feed it to company or throw it at burglars.

Never pick you teeth at the table. Sitting there feeling as if you would like to is more polite.

What kind of tooth paste do you use? Get a good reliable brand that can be digested easily.

Kitchens should be covered with linoleum so steaks accidentally dropped won't get splinters in them.

Teeth should be brushed with an up and down motion as if you are removing restaurant steak.

Do you know how to shake hands? Shake too hard and strangers will think you are selling something.

Have you a lazy daughter? If she has bobbed hair you might make her use her head for dusting.

How far down do you wish your neck? You may have to remove your shirt before strangers some day.

Take a tip from the laundry. Remove ink spots from clothes by running them through a meat grinder.

Socks with holes in the heels that show may be worn by pulling them on only about half way.

Have you got holes in your handkerchiefs? Make a few more to match and claim it is fancy lace.

If you are getting new silverware you can make it match by always going to the same restaurant.

No matter how great the temptation, never try to bathe the baby with laundry soap and sand.

Vacuum cleaners are more efficient than brooms except when it comes to chasing the cat.

A watched percolator never bubbles.

REFUSAL TO CALL ON KING TUT GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—Refusal to call on King Tut in his tomb in the Valley of the Kings is a novel plea for divorce, on file in the courts heret in the suit of Mrs. Florence M. Boyer against G. A. Boyer, automobile dealer.

She charges that he said he did not care to join her in Egypt and then go on a tour of the Orient, pleading that his business required his time.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 21. — There was more life to the market at the Union Stock Yards on Monday, and 4,378 cattle were disposed of. Yesterday morning's receipts were: 804 cattle, 348 calves, 2,320 hogs, and 1,390 sheep and lambs.

Monday's market saw an advance of 15 to 25 cents a cwt. in all butchers' cattle above the common grade, and this advance held yesterday morning.

This week's improvement in the beeves was due to a demand from the packers, who were in competition with the exporters. For 85 heavy steers the exporters' bid was $6.65, and the Harris Abattoir took them at $6.85 a cwt. For export only 209 steers were obtained this week at $6.35 to $7.00 a cwt. They also took 100 steers at 5 to 6 cents and about 20 bulls at $4.25 to $4.75 a cwt. To make up shipments 17 cars have had to be bought in the country, and as high as $7.00 a cwt. is said to have been paid for these.

There was no difficulty in marketing any good calves yesterday morning and prices were quite steady for all classes at the quotations.

The lamb quality was not good to-day but prices were easier on this account. C. Waugh bought 200 buck lambs at $9.50 a cwt. For the ewes on the market prices held from 11 1-4 to 11 1-2 cents.

from 11 1-4 to 11 1-2cents.

Sheep were steady, with few choice on sale.

Hogs were quoted unchanged at $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. bid by the packers. The prevailing opinion was that $8 a cwt. was being paid in the country, and no sales were revorted here at the bid price.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Although wheat yesterday at first showed an advance, the market later sagged as a result of selling which followed a denial that the United States Government was contemplating relief work in Germany. Closing quotations were easy 1-8 to 3-8c net lower. December $1.02 1-8 to $1.02 1-8 at 1-4, and May $1.08. Corn finished 1-2 to 3-4c down, oats unchanged to 3-8c higher, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 12c gain.

Unexpected strength of the Liverpool wheat market was largely responsible for an upturn in the opening prices here and for a slight further rise that ensued. Reports that American, British and Dutch bankers are considering a loan to Germany may also have induced some buying here. No mention of the American Government was made in this connection, but bears were quick to emphasize a Washington dispatch quoting Secretary Hoover in denial of any Government plan for German relief. Demands dwindled during the remainder of the day and with many trades turning to the selling side the early gains were more than wiped out.

Deliveries which took place on November contracts here and some sales to go to store had a tendency to check any late rally in wheat values. There was talk also that Toledo was continuing to receive imports of Canadain wheat, duty paid, and it was estimated that 700,000 bushels of the foreign wheat had reached Toledo so far this week.

BOYS AND GIRLS AGAIN RUSHING TO HOLLYWOOD

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(United Press.)—The fall rush to Hollywood is on at the rate of more than 100 a week.

Perennially, the movies are swamped with boys and girls who have left the farm or deserted their city homes to become movie stars .Hollywood is considerably perturbed over this influx and the Chamber of Commerce plans to act as "daddy" for the hundreds of movie-struck youngsters who have journeyed West to find fame in the pictures. Conditions are particularly acute at this time, with several of the large studios closed down.

"Most of these young people arrive with practically no money," chamber officials declared: "They think that all they have to do is to announce they are ready to become stars."

Hereafter, young girls who believe they are potential Mary Pickfords or Norma Talmadges will be asked to write to the chamber before making the trip. The chamber will then warn them of the hardships and disappointments that attend ambitions of would-be movie stars.

As an example of the way they come: A little girl arrived in Hollywood not long ago, with her hair curled like Mary Pickford's. She had left the home folks with little money and was destitute. They had sent her all the money they could and she applied to the Chamber of Commerce for aid.

All she had to bolster her ambitions was a clipping from the home newspaper praising her for her acting in an amateur theatrical performance. The paper said she was a "second Mary Pickford."

And she was only one of the many who experience the heartaches, disappointments of Hollywood— and sometimes worse.

SEVEN TEAMS LEFT IN THE INTERSCHOLASTIC SERIES.

In the Intercholastic series of the O.R.F.U. there are seven teams still in the running—Peterborough, Oakwood, U.T.S., St. Jerome Sarnia, Galt and Hamilton.

U.T.S. have a good margin on St. Jerome's for the final game at the Stadium to-morrow afternoon.

Sarnia and Hamilton will play home-and-home games on Saturday and 1st December, with the first in Hamilton. The game will start at two o'clock, and will be played on the Tigers' field. The O.R.F.U. will appoint officials for both games.

Oakwood and Galt, winners of the Interscholastic League, will play a sudden-death game on Saturday in Guelph. Galt are uncertain whether they will play or not, but will make their decision to-day.

SPENDING MAKES THE PROSPERITY FOR THE NATION.

This Buying Makes Jobs For the Army of People Engaged in Manufacturing.

The business outlook is good, according to Jesse L. Livermore, known in Wall street as the largest individual stock market operator. Livermore says:

"During the past few years the people of our country have become accustomed to living on a higher standard than heretofore, and they are not going to be satisfied to live any other way in the future. The money they spend must necessarily mean a larger purchasing power, and that purchasing power is bound to keep business going at a good volume."

Livermore is right. Thrift—the savings instinct—is a fine thing. But spending makes prosperity. For instance, people have become accustomed to buying autos. This buying makes jobs for the army of people engaged in manufacturing the cars.

In turn, these car makers spend the money they receive, thus keeping busy the employes in other industries. The more we spend for legitimate purposes of production, the more jobs there are—and the more prosperity to be divided among all of us.

Common sense, of course, shows us that when a man makes more and spends more, he also should save more.

We can't have luxuries and necessities unless we create them. It's plain that we have to produce more if we want to have more. Larger production is the price of higher standard of living. And the standard of living is flexible—it moves up or down, accordingly as we produce more commodities or not.

Humanity can't consume more than it produces. The ravens don't bring manna in our generation.

22,165 SEEK PEACE PRIZE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—There are 22,165 persons who believe they know how to end wards and they are scattered in twenty-two different nation, it was disclosed when the American Peave Award announced the close of the contest for the $100,000 prize offered by Edward W. Bok.

Twenty-one foreign countries are represented, as indicated by the post marks on plans received, in spite of the fact that the policy Committee published far and wide the fact that Americans only were eligible.

The author of the winning plan will be paid $50,000 on announcement of the selection. Another $50,000 will be paid the winner if the plan is approved by the United States Senate, or when the jury of award decides that an adequate degree of popular support has been demonstrated for the first choice.

THE WHOLE FAMILY WAS LAID UP WITH SEVERE COLDS

On the first appearance of a cough or cold our advice to you is to get rid of it before it has a chance to grow worse; gets settled on the lungs, and causes bronchitis, pneumonia, or other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will immediately relieve the cold or cough on its inception.

Mrs. David Ayres, Kearney, Ont., writes: "Our whole family was laid up with severe colds ,and we didn't seem to be able to get any relief from anything we used until, one day, a friend came in and told me we would be sure to get rid of our colds if we used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I decided to take her advice, and in no time our colds were all gone.

"Now, knowing the value of your remedy, we will always keep it on hand so as to have it in case of emergency."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 35c a bottle; large family size 60c; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Kellogg's Bran gives permanent relief because it is ALL BRAN!

Every member of your family will enjoy better health—eat better, work better, sleep better—if they eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Its natural, positive work for health is actually a blessing to humanity! Kellogg's gives permanent relief from constipation because it is ALL BRAN! It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation.

Kellogg's Bran cleans and purifies the drainage channel; it clears away toxic poisons and frees you from the ravages of such dread diseases as Bright's, diabetes, etc., as well as sick headaches, rheumatism and mental and physical depression. A week's trial of this great nature food will prove that its work for health is wonderful! Consider Kellogg's Bran as a food. It is not a laxative nor a medicine. Bran is the outer coating of whole wheat and contains such nourishment factors as mineral salts and other elements vital in sustaining life!

Kellogg's Bran is cooked and all ready to eat. It is delightful as a cereal, or sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal. Another popular way to eat it is to cook or mix it with a hot cereal. In preparation, add two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person.

DO TWO THINGS—Eat Kellogg's Bran each day for permanent relief from constipation and be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases, with each meal.

First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

EITHER LONDON NOR PARIS ELATED OVER COMPROMISE ACCORD

wn Prince's Return to ermany Likely to Disppear As Contentious ssue — Renewed Renunciation of Prussian hrone.

ARIS, Nov. 20.—It was accepts certain in Paris to-night that Entente will survive the present is, but there is very little enthusiasm for the compromise through which the break was averted.

The provisional character of the accord, so far as the details of this have transpired, is one of the reasons for the coolness toward it. The fact that the British Government was not ready to signify its acceptance after consideration of more than 24 hours, necessitating the postponement of final action by the Allied Council of Ambassadors, is interpreted as evidence that the accord is only moderately pleasing to London.

The conclusion is that both sides are only partially persuaded and neither converted, and that the conflict is sure to break out again when electioneering considerations have been eliminated from the situation. The only definite result that appears clearly from the negotiations is that former Crown Prince Frederick William's return to Germany will be allowed to drop out of the discussion.

Renounced Throne.

The French Government is said to have been trying for several days to keep secret the fact that when the German Charge D'Affaires called on Count Peretti, the French Director of Political Affairs, the other day, he brought re-affirmation of the Crown Prince's renunciation of the throne of Prussia in 1918. He also gave assurance that the German Government would under no circumstances tolerate the return of former Emperor William to Germany.

These assurances were considered in the Ambassadors' Council as practically disposing of the Hohenzollern question, and it was the general opinion that there was nothing more to be done in the matter than to ask the Berlin government to confirm the assurances formally.

It was the willingness of the French to separate the question of penalties from the summons upon Germany to facilitate the work of the Inter-Allied Military Control Mission that made an agreement possible on that question, but it is remarked that there is nothing final in the accord, since France reserves the right to take action in case the German Government fails to afford the requisite security to the military Mission.

Elections a Factor.

It is pointed out in political circles that if there is an advantage to the British Government in preventing a break in view of the forthcoming elections in Great Britain, the French elections are only five or six months off and the French campaign must also be taken into account.

The impression in parliamentary circles is quite unfavorable. Deputies discussing the supposed substance of the accord in the lobbies to-day remarked that Premier Poincare, while very categorical and uncompromising in dealing with the Chamber, showed unsuspected elasticity and accommodation when faced with the eventuality of a break with Great Britain.

"Briand fell from power for making no less significant concessions to Lloyd George," one deputy remarked. "It was not worth while to depose him if his successor finds it necessary to follow the same policy."

May Force Reply.

The Premier may be obliged to reply to attacks when the interpellations on the foreign policy of the Government are resumed on Friday. Discussion of military control in Germany was postponed last Friday on M. Poincare's explanation that he could not speak on the subject while the negotiations were in progress.

The radical party, which voted against the Cabinet on the postponement of the interpellations, was in a considerable majority to-day against voting the motion to post Premier Poincare's speech of Friday last on the billboards throughout France, but the question came up in the order of the day while they were still discussing it, and the motion was adopted by a show of hands in their absence.

LEAVES ARE SHED IN PREPARATION FOR THE DROUGHT

Trees shed their leaves in autumn to adapt themselves to winter drought rather than to winter cold. Threes could easily grow a protective covering or overcoat for their leaves. But water freezes in cold weather and, not enough being available for leaves the trees shed the leaves.

A similar shedding takes place in tropical regions having alternate wet and dry seasons.

Also, the scarcity and small size of trees in the Far North are due to moisture shortage rather than low temperature.

These facts are from a lecture by Prof. George E. Nichols, botanist at Yale.

Threes have a phenomenal ability to adapt themselves to their environment. A beech tree growing in a clearing has plenty of light but less water than it would have in moist woods. So it increases its water-absorbing roots and grows thicker "skin" on its leaves to decrease the amount of water lost by transpiration.

Now take a beech tree growing in dense forest. It has plenty of water, but not enough sunlight. To overcome this difficulty, it stretches higher, trying to rear itself above the other tree-tops. Also, it makes its leaves larger, which increases the leaf surface exposed to the sun's light.

Was Constipated For Several Years

If you have suffered from constipation for years, tried all kinds of remedies without getting relief, if you have been subject to all the miseries associated with constipation, wouldn't you consider it a blessing to be able to keep the bowels regular and in a good healthy condition and prevent disease getting a foothold on your system?

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are indicated just for this purpose; their regular use relieving the worst cases of constipation.

Mr. M. Hedican, Sudbury, Ont., writes. "I have been troubled with constipation for several years. I began to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and find them to be the best remedy I have ever used for regulating the bowels and liver. I always keep them now and recommend them highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BIRKENHEAD IS BACK AGAIN IN UNIONIST FOLD

PLATFORM ORATOR.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Earl of Birkenhead fulfilled his promise to support the Baldwin Government in the election campaign when he struck his first blow for protection in a speech at the Constitutional Club luncheon yesterday. Birkenhead's speech has been keenly awaited as an event of more than ordinary significance for several reasons. In the first place, he, Austen Chamberlain and Sir Robert S. Horne, as well as other Unionists who had a big hand in the Irish Treaty, have been in bad odor with the die-hard Conservative members of their party, who were utterly opposed to any concession to the Irish.

Then it will be recalled that these three deserted the Conservative fold in the stirring days a year ago when they followed Lloyd George "into the wilderness" on the coalition plat form And lastly, a few days ago Birkenhead and Mr. Chamberlain tried to patch up their differences with the Conservatives for the purpose, it is asserted, of securing immediate appointment to the Cabinet. This is declared to have angered some of the influential die-hards in the Cabinet, and they threatened to resign if Premier Baldwin acquiesced; whereupon the Premier discreetly dropped the subject.

Platform Power

So, to-days speech was a great event, and it mattered not so much what Birkenhead said in the way of arguments for protection as that one of the most powerful platform orators in the Empire announced his support of the Government. This Lord Birkenhead did, and Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne were present.

Lord Birkenhead entered the luncheon room arm-in-arm with the Earl of Balfour; they were followed by Mr. Chamberlain, Sir Robert Horne and Sir William Joynson-Hicks all three with arms linked. Balfour, in introducing Birkenhead, delivered what seemed to some a rather pessimistic election address. He said that although for reasons imperfectly disclosed, neither Lord Birkenhead nor Mr. Chamberlain would be taken into the Councils of the Party, their services were to be used on the platform. Judged from the outside they had considerable cause for complaint, but they had not allowed personal considerations to get in the way of their promise to spend themselves to the last to help the Government in a difficult and perilous situation, as to the outcome of which he (Balfour) felt some anxiety.

Lord Birkenhead in replying, declared:

Asked no Conditions

"I never have made any conditions for myself. While I shall give every service in my power to the Government, I am utterly indifferent to the question of whether I hold any, or what, office in the Government, should it be successful."

Mr. Chamberlain, in a brief speech, paid a tribute to Lord Birkenhead and Balfour, and advised a word for protection.

LADIES AID HAVE MANY ACTIVITIES

Trent River Ladies Plan the Erection of a Building for Social Events.

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 20.—Rev. E. O. Seymour took charge of the usual service at the church yesterday afternoon and performed the rites of baptism to two children of members of the congregation.

Social Evening

The Ladies' Aid are holding a social today at the home of Mrs. Jno. Hutchinson, Havelock Road.

The usual prayer and praise service will be held at the church on Thursday evening, after which the Ladies' Aid will discuss arrangements for the erection of a building on the church grounds for the purpose of holding social events in connection with the church. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Hunters Return

The hunters from the North country are arriving daily, a few remaining till the limited time.

A number of friends of Mrs. Jno. Scott attended the funeral today of her aunt, the late Mrs. Sarah Henry, which was held at the Methodist church, Havelock.

The screw brought about a hemorrhage.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Presbyterian Young People Held a Meeting —Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 21.—The Young Peoples' Christian Endeavour of the Presbyterian church held their regular meeting on Monday evening.

"The Value of Moral Character" was the subject by Rev. Mr. Elliott.

Courage has been placed in the dust of what is known as seven Cordia Virtues, said the speaker. If you want to make a man angry call him a coward. Courage has covered men with glory. Courage helps us to overcome difficulties. Men face difficulties sometimes with fear. Compare in your mind deeds of a pirate and a daring sailor. We ought to distinguish the difference between courage and recklessness There are some people that are not as sensitive to danger as others. The best kind of courage feels the danger. Distinguish between courage and daring. Daring is courage at white heat. Courage at its best the soldiers and the sailors are good examples. Courage plays a great part in human life. The warrior is indeed a hero.

The quality of courage is not only a battlefield object. Courage is a very essential quality in human life. The suregon, for example, coming in the midst of contagious diseases. Florence Nightingale, the firemen, the statesmen, the judges require courage. The policeman risks his life several times during the day. Soldiers need special courage for a special battle and we all need courage all through life. There seem to be some who have courage as a birth gift. One of the ways that we can cultivate courage is to cultivate will power. We'll need to cultivate physical and nervous strength. Sometimes a word from one that is courageous helps one who lacks courage. The Day of Penticost the people were very courageous.

Miss Allen's TESTED RECIPES No. 26

Martha's Walnut Wafers

(The California woman who sent us this recipe secured it from an old colored mammy, cook at a famous coast resort. It is a dainty tidbit for afternoon tea)

1 cupful brown sugar
1 cupful chopped walnut meats
2 eggs
1 tablespoonful melted Crisco
4 scant tablespoonfuls flour
½ teaspoonful vanilla
¼ teaspoonful salt

Cream the Crisco, sugar and beaten eggs together. Beat until perfectly smooth. Then add the vanilla, salt, flour and walnut meats. Mix all together well. Then drop by a teaspoon into muffin rings in order to keep them perfectly round. Bake in a hot oven about 10 minutes.

COBOURG NEWS

COBOURG, Nov. 20—A letter received from the city of Guelph with reference to Alberta coal for Ontario consumers was supported by the council of the town of Cobourg in session here. The letter requested the council to adopt a resolution asking that a petition be sent to Sir Henry Thornton and the Dominion Railway Board providing for 50,000 tons of Alberta coal to be brought into the Province of Ontario at the rate of $7 per ton, so as to help out the coal shortage in the province. Upon motion by Councillors Fullerton and McGuire, the council endorsed the resolution.

Joint Hockey for Brighton and Colborne

The villagers of Colborne and Brighton, or at least the hockey enthusiasts of these two places, are discussing the feasibility of uniting their forces for hockey the coming season, and thereby enter a junior team in the O. H. A. and possibly an intermediate team. It is pointed out that games could be played in Brighton where the rink is large enough to meet the requirements of the O. H. A., and that there is no doubt about there being sufficient material for a good junior team. Colborne, it is further stated, can contribute D. Mayhew, Goulding, Wilson, Barrett, Young, Reid, and possibly others, while for Brighton the names of Solomon, Potts, Frise, Cornwall, the Lengdons, Shannon and others are mentioned. All of these are stated to be eligible.

Camborne Circuit Plans Campaign

The Quarterly Board of the Camborne Methodist circuit held an important meeting at Plainville, one of the chief features of which was to make arrangements for the annual missionary campaign. Special missionary anniversaries will be observed at all of the appointments some Sunday soon, and the following day a canvass of the entire circuit will be made. The budget calls for $1,100 as the missionary objective for this circuit.

PRESIDENT OF REICH DEFIED BY COMMUNIST

Burlesque Climax That Ended Session Just As Stresemann Was About to Begin Important Speech.

HOUSE PICKETED.

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—An obtreperous Communist Deputy, Herr Remmele, who refused to obey President Loebe's injunction, caused adjournment of the Reichstag yesterday afternoon, incidentally supplying a burlesque climax to a session which was to have an important bearing on Chancellor Stresemann's immediate political future.

The incident occurred just as Dr. Stresemann was about to present the Government's statement, in which he is staking his prospects of continuing in office at the head of a minority ministry. Deputy Remmele was called to order for vicious interjecion, and then was instructed to leave the Chamber, but flatly refused President Loebe's command, whereupon the President announced a fifteen minutes' recess.

Refused to Leave.

Remmele, who is one of the noisiest Ultra-Radicals, remained in the Chamber and when the session was resumed he again refused to leave, whereupon President Lobbe announced a postponement until Thursday.

Chancellor Stresemann, nervously fumbling the manuscript of his speech, appeared impatient over President Loebe's decision, while a majority of the bourgeois parties were inclined to favor the forcible ejection of H. Remmele. This the President refused to countenance apparently because such a course would appear to be a concession to the reactionary elements.

Remmele's offence consisted in accusing the President of the Reichstag with having the building picketed with plainclothesmen, which prompted him to interrupt the rebate with the shout: "Are we in a regularly constituted parliament or in a prison?"

Had Posted Guards.

President Loebe admitted he had ordered that the building be safeguarded because of numerous threatening letters received by him in which an unnamed writer warned of plots against the government leaders.

The Chancellor had been attacked by the Socialist, Otto Wels, and Deputy Hergt, of the German Nationalists, both of whom declared that their parties deemed Dr. Stresemann unworthy of the Reichstag's confidence.

GIRL VIOLINIST STRUGGLES WAY.

Cecilia Hansen, Demure Violinist, Has Philosophy of Life Which She Practised Herself.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Cecilia Hansen, demure violinist, has come here from Russia with a philosophy of life which she herself practiced to success.

"Set your mind on what you want, above everything else in the world. Then go after it and get it."

That has been her motto, and on that she climbed to fame. She has been acclaimed by New York critics as another musical genius come from Europe.

From her earliest youth, she had set her mind on becoming a violinist of note. At six she was admitted to the violin class of the Rostow Conservatory in Finland. At eight, she made her first public appearance.

War and Exile.

But she hadn't yet reached her goal. She went to Petrograd to study. Then the war came and her career had to wait. She was kept in Russia when the Bolsheviks gained control.

One stormy night she escaped in a small boat and spent 17 hours tossing on the sea, never expecting to land. Eventually she got to Poland and exile.

"But never during the Bolshevik terror or during the horrors of war did I give up my ideal," she assured me. "I worked unceasingly, knowing that things would eventually come my way.

Her Philosophy.

"I believe you can look at life from the large or small end of your opera glasses, as you prefer. I choose to look at my troubles through the small end and have them as far off as possible.

"It isn't easy to minimize your failures and discouragements. You have to cultivate that attitude of mind. When I have discouraging times and everything goes wrong and I feel I'd like to drape myself in garments of self-pity, I put on a pair of hiking boots and a tweed suit, and I walk till I get rid of the mood—rain or shine. I never let any unhappy mood get the better of me.

"As problems pile up on me, I tell myself everything is psychological and my mind can control everything. In other words, I won't recognize discouragements, and eventually they vanish."

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested, Dinwiddie declaring that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter. But all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering, determined to find out who she is, follows her home from the theatre one night. Luck is with him, for she has forgotten her house. She asks him in and finally tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; that Mary is ill in a sanitarium in Vienna. Clavering is skeptical.

Though maintaining a strict aloofness from society, Madame Zattiany continues to attend all the first-nights. Clavering meets her there one night and she invites him back to her house after the theatre. He tells her frankly that he does not believe her story and admits to being half in love with her.

XI. (Continued)

"There are a good many women of your class here now."

"Yes, with avowed objects, is it not? And they do not happen to possess the combination of qualities that commands your interest."

"That is true enough. Perhaps your explanation is the real one. There is certainly something in it. Well, I'll go now. I have kept you up long enough."

He was about to raise her hand to his lips when she surprised him by shaking his warmly.

"I must get over that habit. It is rather absurd in this country where you have not the custom. But you will come again?"

"Oh, yes, I'll come again."

XII.

Madame Zattiany adjusted the chain on the front door and returned very slowly to the library. That broad placid brow, not the least of her physical charms, was drawn in a puzzled frown. Instead of turning out the lights she sat down and stared into the dying fire. Suddenly she began to laugh, a laugh of intense and ironic amusement; but it stopped in midcourse and her eyes expanded with an expression of consternation, almost of panic.

"She sat down and stared into the dying fire."

She was not alarmed for the peace of mind of the man who was more in love with her than he had so far admitted to himself. She had been loved by too many men and had regarded their heartaches and balked desires with too profound an indifference to worry over the possible harm she might be inflicting upon the brilliant and ambitious young man who had precipitated himself into her life. That might come later, but not at this moment when she was shaken and appalled.

She had dismissed from her mind long ago the hope or the desire that she could ever again feel anything but a keen mental response to the most provocative of men. No woman has ever lived who was more thoroughly disillusioned, more satiated, more scornful of that age-old dream of human happiness, which, stripped of its bones, was merely the blind instinct of the race to survive. Civilization had heaped its fictions over the bare fact of nature's original purpose, imagination lashing generic sexual impulse to impossible demands for the consummate union of mind and soul and body. Mutuality! When man was essentially polygamous and woman essentially the vehicle of the race. When the indiqidual soul had been decreed by the embittered gods eternally to dwell alone and never yet had been tricked beyond the moment of nervous exaltation into the belief that it had fused into its mate. Life itself was futile enough, but that dream of the perfect love between two beings immemorially paired was the most futile and ravaging of all the dreams civilization had imposed upon mankind. The curse of imagination. Only the savages and the ignorant masses understood "love" for the transitory functional thing it was and were undisturbed by spiritual unrest . . . by dreams . . . . mad longings. . . .

No one had ever surrendered to the illusion more completely than she. No one had ever hunted with a more passionate determination for that correlative soul that would submerge, exalt, and complete her own aspiring soul. And what had she found? Men. Merely men. Satiety or disaster. Weariness and disgust. She had not an illusion left. She had put all that behind her long since.

It seemed to her as she sat there staring into the last flickerings of the charred log that it had been countless years since any man had had the power to send a thrill along her nerves, to stir even the ghost of those old fierce desires. No woman had ever had more cause to feel immune. Too contemptuous of life and the spurious illusions man had created for himself, while destroying the even balance between matter and mind, even to be rebellious, she had felt a profound gratitude for her complete freedom from the thrall of sex when she had realized that with her gifts of mind and fortune she still had a work to do in the world that would resign her to the supreme boredom of living. During the war man had been a broken thing to be mended or eased out of life; and she knew that there was no better nurse in Europe; it had always been her pride to do nothing by halves; and before men with a certain passive toleration with their minds were responsive to her own. Whatever sex charm they possessed might better have been wasted on the Venus in the Louvre.

And tonight she had realized that this young man, so unlike any she had ever known in her European experience, had been more or less in her thoughts since the night he had followed her out of the theatre and stood covertly observing her as she waited for her car. She had been conscious during subsequent nights at the play of his powerful gaze as he sat watching for turn of the head that would give him a glimpse of something more than the back of her neck; or as she had passed him on her way to her seat. She had been even more acutely conscious of him as he left his own seat while the lights were still down and followed her up the aisle. But she had felt merely amusement at the time, possibly a thrill of gratified vanity, accustomed as she was to admiration and homage.

CROP REPORT

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

All fall work is well advanced, as most farmers have taken advantage of the open weather.

Fall wheat is ready to enter the winter in splendid condition. Little is said about injury from Hessian fly or other insects, and the fields as a rule have a good color.

Roots are all harvested with the exception of some turnips and a few sugar beets. The weather has been very favorable for this class of work

Hastings—It has been a surprise to learn of the large quantities of sweet clover that have been used for ensilage this fall. The increase is partially due, no doubt, to the light corn crop, but all who have used sweet clover for ensilage speak very highly of it as a dairy feed. No bad results have been experienced from feeding it and farmers that have used it say that the cattle take to it just as readily as they do the corn ensilage.

Lambton— Sugar beet harvest has been completed. The average yield will range from 8 to 17 tons per acre testing from 13 to 17 per cent. sugar.

Middlesex—The Fruit Growers Association have sold their apples well ath $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1's, $4.00 to $4.25 for No 2's and $3.25 for Do mestics with 75c per hundred for culls. Apples have culled heavier than usual due to sideworks.

Welland — Apples are practically all packed. They are bringing from $1.00 to $2.00 per bus. depending upon quality and variety.

Oxford—A good many milk producers have been turned away from Toronto Supply Stations and are returning to the cheese factories. Better equipped cheese factories are making butter now instead of cheese as they are both paying about the same.

Lambton—Dairy farming is becoming more widely distributed over this country. A few Ayrshire and Holstein cattle are to be seen in most every district of the county. farmers feel more disposed to dairy ing owing to the ready sale for the produce and the steady income.

Carleton—Pure-bred sheep breeders claim they have never had a better fall for disposing of their surplus breeding stock. The trend of hog prices is very discouraging. At present prices, raisers claim there is not a cent in the business and different farmers have spoken of going out of hogs. Prices this week on the thick smooth basis are $8.00 a cwt. Young pigs weighing from 80 to 90 lbs. are selling around $6.00 each in North Simcoe.

There will not be as many steers fed in Kent County this winter as last year. One drover has eight hundred steers being fed on contract. Farmers are paid as follows: nine cents per lb. for the first cwt of gain eleven cents per lb for second cwt. of gain, and fifteen cents per lb. for third cwt of gain. Cost price of feeder steers runs around 5 1-2 for 1000 lb steers and 5 3-4 to 6 1-4 for steers over 1100 lbs.

Lambton —Young cattle and feeding steers are roaming pastures in good condition. There seem to be a great many hogs being fed by the farmers. The Co-operative Shipping Association at Brigden ship about two carloads a week. These hogs are sold on the graded basis which is proving very satisfactory. Steer feeding will not be so general this winter as it has been for a number of years previous, here is a general tendency to hold off a little by the farmers who have only had feeders for the past three or four years.

Kenora—A farmer at Oxdrift has just returned from making his annual buying trip to Winnipeg. This time he brought down over ninety head of stable feeding this winter. This stock will be handled in a similar manner to that of former years that is to say they will receive sunflower silage and other farm rough age and will be sold in all probability on an eastern market before grass rows next year.

Middlesex —Fat steers have been moving out in large quantities during the last two or three weeks and a few carloads have been brought in from the West, costing around $4.25 per hundred for good feeders

Oxford — There is an abundant supply of grade heifers and cows coming and fresh from $55 to $125. There is a good supply of pure bred stock available at reasonable prices.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

The Twins saw him sneaking home in the moonlight.

Mister Bob Cat chased Paddy-foot Rabbit under the sycamore tree and lost him. Or rather Paddy-foot led his pursuer to the tree and disappeared. Then Hooty Owl hooted overhead and Mister Bob-Cat climbed up after him, but Hooty flew away just in time. Next Drummer Partridge called out a few trees ahead and Mister Bob Cat made a third attempt for his dinner.

Well, lo and behold, Drummer Partridge got away, too, flew right under Mister Bob Cat's nose and left him as hungry as Tom Tucker.

"Goodness! I must be getting dumb!" spat the old fellow in disgust. "Oh, there's Paddy-foot Rabbit again. I'll get him this time!"

But Paddy-foot must have been looking hard, for he scampered off just as he had before, tearing straight for a gum tree, with Mister Bob Cat at his heels. But he shot down a hole just as he had before. Then Hooty Owl hooted overhead and up went Mister Bob Cat again. And when he got away for the second time, Drummer Partridge began, and so they led Mister Bob Cat on and on and on from one tree to another till he was miles away.

"Say!" he said, suddenly suspicious, "there's something queer about this. I can't catch a thing! Besides I'm as far away from home as Bo Peep's sheep. This is a strange tree, and that creek right underneath me. I never saw before. Ugh! It looks deep. I hate water! Wonder where those three are. I don't see them any more! There is the dead branch that Drummer Partridge was sitting on, but he's gone."

Suddenly there was a loud crack. The dead branch had dropped off with Mister Bob Cat on it and fallen splash into the water. "Oh! Oh! Oh!" he shrieked.

But his troubles were not over. Mister Otter reached up out of the water and ducked him. "Promise you'll let Paddy-foot Rabbit alone!" he said sternly. "He's a friend of mine."

"I p—p—promise!" gurgled Mister Bob Cat.

"And Hooty Owl!"

"Y—yes! Him, too, if you'll only let me go!"

"And Drummer Partridge!"

"Y—yes, sir!" nodded Mister Bob Cat weakly. "I—I'll promise anything if you'll only let me get out of this awful water."

The Twins saw him sneaking home in the moonlight. "Hee! Hee! Hee!" they heard three voices snigger.

"Say, Nancy!" said Nick. "When people have wits like that, they don't need much help from the Fairy Queen, do they? The rabbit and the owl and the partridge planned the whole thing!"

COLOR IMPULSE DIRECTS ROUGE

Painted Faces Are Not Vanity, It Is a Way of Responding to the Color Impulse.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The reason some women make up their faces in deep ochres and mahogany tones and others imitate the pink and cream hues of the peach is not, primarily, vanity—it's their way of responding to the color impulse.

This is the theory of Harriet Keith Fobes, jewel expert, who has a genius for putting every gem in its most artistic mounting, and who has delved into the history, chemistry and mineralogy of every known stone.

"This color impulse is manifesting itself in millinery, gowns, shoes, accessories and in jewels," she says. "Women want more color around them, more on their faces, and in their lives. They are getting ready for a renaissance of beauty and gorgeousness such as never has been experienced before.

"Women are learning to wear color more effectively, and are developing much more taste about their facial makeup. The time will come when every woman will work out her own color harmonies and her on personality colors, and then the problem of dressing will practically be solved."

No Puritan Heritage.

The color feeling and the present interest in it is not a heritage from our Mayflower ancestors or Puritan first families. It has been kept alive and aroused in us by the peasants of Checoslovakia, Russia, Armenia and Italy who have come to our shores and revealed to us its possibilities, Miss Fobes thinks.

"The love of jewels and the jewelry craft has been fostered by men, not women," she went on. "Most men are innately fond of jewels and naturally want to bestow them upon the women they love. And they have taught women to care for gems.

"But though men care most for jewels, they lack the taste that women have. That is why for so long so much value has been attached to diamonds—the most impersonal of all jewels. Men have valued them because they represent so many dollar bills.

'Twas Money Counted.

"Formerly men gave women jewels and these were prized for their actual value. Precious stones were supposed to be becoming to everyone. Today women are more discriminating. They want color and form.

"Jade really was what opened the eyes of most women to the beauty of semi-precious stones. Today they are becoming sensitive to the decorative value of crystal, lapis, coral, opals and other colorful stones by which a woman may bring out her own coloring, and have her jewelry as distinctly of her style as her fashion of wearing her hair.

"The museums are being searched for oriental designs and antique subtleties. Women are getting down to art in fundamentals. We never can go back to an era of Quaker plainness again. Instead we will go further in gorgeous costumes and in facial makeup than ever before. But we will do so with much greater intelligence, and with much more telling effect."

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

Urticaria, or nettlerash, is a common disturbance from normal body condition, which shows itself as a skin eruption in wheal formation. It is of rather wide range in cause, intensity and length of attack. It occurs in youth and in middle life, rarely in old age.

In an acute attack, the coming or outbreak of the wheals on the surface of the skin is sudden, producing rather intense itching. They may appear on any part of the body. They come and go rapidly in acute attacks, sometimes with little or no pain. Oftimes these wheals are only the size of a mere inflammatory papule. Sometimes they are large as a 25-cent piece and in other cases even larger. They are more or less oval in shape. They vary from intense red to waxy white.

These acute attacks ofttimes result from some disturbances in the gastro-intestinal system and are somewhat transient in character. The symptoms are a slight rise in body temperature, pulse increase, accompanied by nausea and vomiting. The tongue is furred, the breath foul and there is more or less prostration.

This attack is sometimes the result of a run-down condition and from sorry or unfavorable living conditions. In children, the cause is over-eating or taking the wrong kind of food.

In people who are nervous and sensitive, urticaria may be brought on by the most trivial causes.

Treatment of acute forms may be the giving of a brisk cathartic, such as magnesium sulphate. Fast a day or two. Local treatment, to allay the itching may be a sponge bath of bicarbonate of soda. In chronic urticaria, the sufferer must undergo careful treatment by a physician.

Fruits are good food for such cases and pure water is a good drink. Thorough elimination must be maintained.

THE YOUNGEST AND OLDEST FRESHMAN ARE IN SYRACUSE.

College Age Extremes Have Met at Syracuse University.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 21.—College age extremes have met at Syracuse University.

Here you find the country's youngest and oldest freshman.

Both practically are ostracized from all campus social activities on account of their ages.

Study in Kitchen.

So between them has grown an intimate friendship. They are together almost constantly.

And amid the pots and pans of the hospital kitchen, he and Moses, younger than some of Guindon's grandchildren, meet every evening to study while the kettle is boiling.

Guindon is registered from Poplar Ridge, N. Y. His sole ambition, he says, is to be of service to younger folks.

Boy Genius.

"I've always wanted to help young people," he says. "That's why I entered college.

"I intend to study here two years, work the third, and then return to finish my course.

And his 11-year-old pal, Moses, is the marvel of psychologists.

He possesses the most brilliant intellect in the world in the opinion of Dr. Mark A. May, dean of the department of psychology at the university. Dr. May is recognized as a national authority in his profession.

May Graduate at 13.

The boy, Dr. May says, has passed tests with marks surpassing all existing records for persons of any age.

Moses expects to be a college graduate at 13. He hopes to complete his four-year course in three years.

He completed his high school work in two, graduating when he was 10.

Were the "Good Old Days" Really Good?

WHEN you hear an old-timer sigh for the days of his forefathers, smile quietly to yourself and think of this:

The ancients got along without automobiles, soap, stoves, tooth-brushes, window-glass, breakfast foods, telephones—without practically all of the things we consider the bare essentials of life.

There never has been a time when life bettered itself so rapidly and so consistently as now. New conveniences and new comforts are continually being thought out and brought out for your benefit.

In order to reap the advantages that are yours today, you must read the advertisements. They bring you news of all that the world of invention and discovery is doing to make your work easier, your home life more pleasant, your clothing and food problems less difficult. They keep you informed of all that is new in the markets and stores. They tell you not only about the goods, the styles, the varieties and prices, but also where and when these things are to be had.

The advertisements are messages from the business world to you. Heed them.

Send a donation of $1.20 to join in the great
Poster-Judging Competition organized for the benefit of the Veterans' Associations—

To help solve the financial problems of the Veterans' Associations this Poster-Judging Campaign is being actively pushed throughout Canada.

It provides a game requiring skill, taste and judgment, one in which all the family can join.

BOVRIL LIMITED has given £30,000 (about $138,888), and this provides 2,003 prizes of varying value. The first three are approximately as follows:

1st Prize . . $55,555
2nd Prize . . 13,888
3rd Prize . . 4,555

Every donor of $1.20 is presented a Ticket-folder on which are printed in full colors sixteen famous Bovril Posters.

Which are the 12 best, in order of merit, is what you must decide. The folder shows just how to do it.

It is a fascinating trial of taste and judgment to class these posters in the order which popular fancy will endorse. It is a real game which can be played over and over again, and in which young and old can join and which will interest visitors.

You can make as many trials as you like—a ticket-folder is sent for each donation of $1.20, thus donors of 12.00 would be presented with ten ticket-folders—though only one prize will be given to one person.

IMPORTANT—Donations should be made to any of the following organizations or their branches which are actively interested and ask your help:

CONDITIONS IN ALASKA CANNERIES SCORED BY FEDERAL GRAND JUDGE

Blanket Indictment By American Authorities Charges That Drug Addicts and Former Convicts Are Employed Wholesale.

DEGENERATE CLASS.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 21. — (Associated Press). — Legislation compelling rigid examination of employees to be sent to Alaska for the salmon canning season was recommended in a Federal grand jury report made recently to Judge E. E. Ritchie at Valdez, Alaska. The report recommended that prospective employees should be examined at the port of debarkation to ascertain if any are drug addicts or afflicted with communicable diseases.

The report states that the use and sale of narcotics during the canning season at Bristol Bay, Alaska, is rampant; that cannery workers suffering from social diseases in aggravated form were permitted to work in packing fish; that degeneracy was in evidence and quite common; that the carrying of revolvers was general, resulting in crimes and violence.

In a blanket indictment of the class of employees imported each season for cannery work, the grand jury reported that ex-convicts and narcotic addicts offer the most serious problem affecting the salmon industry. The grand jury report said in part:

"Many of these matters and conditions demand legal action and prosecution, but this grand jury did not convene until after the cannery crews had departed from the fishing fields.

"We recommend that legislation be enacted to require canneries and contractors to furnish their employees with a sufficient supply of wholesome food and sanitary living quarters during their labors; that the Alaska legislature enact such laws as will compel canneries and cannery contractors to pay their employees in money at least once a month; we further recommend legislation that will require canneries hiring men in the States and bringing them to Alaska to return such employees to the port of departure in the States, as numbers of men are left penniless in Alaska by these companies with no adequate provision for their support and transportation outside."

TRAINED DOGS GUARD RECORDS

League of Nations Building With Its Wealth of Documents Is Well Watched.

GENEVA, Nov. 21 (Associated Press).—When people pass the main portal of the League of Nations building, which overlooks Lake Leman, they often stoop to caress two enormous, beautiful dogs which recline there, docile and stretching their huge bulk out on the carpet in lazy satisfaction, blinkingly acknowledging the passing hand of the admiring visitor.

Thus it is in day, but at night these harmless appearing canines become the terrifying guardians of the league temple with all its countless treasure of document and record. One is a great German dog, lithe and powerful, the other a huge St. Bernard, and they go the rounds with the night guardians, running down this corridor and that, poking their noses in a room here and a room there, seeking the possible ill-doer.

Sir Eric Drummond, the secretary general of the League, is taking no chances with the wealth of documentary material committed to his care, and figures out that if men will go to the extreme of trying to steal rattle-snakes, as they did recently in New York, they might take it into their heads to lighten the historical archives of the League of Nations.

FRANCE WILL NOT PAY DEBTS FIRST

Poincare is Determined to Postpone Payment Until Germany Has Settled Debt With France.

PARIS, November 21. (By Webb Miller, United Press. — If the Senator Smoot proposal for a "debt reminder" to France, were adopted, it would still find Premier Poincare determined to postpone payments until France collects from Germany, it was learned here to-day. The Premier would be willing to send a commission to the United States to explain why France cannot pay until her devastated areas have been cared for, and her reparations received, it was said.

BOLSHEVIK RUSSIA IS DOOMED TO FAIL

Recognition By U.S. of Visionary Government, Based on Murder, Anarchy and Theft, Is Opposed By Congressman Hon. Fred. A. Britten, U. S. House of Representatives, Ninth Illinois District, Chicago.

I went to Russia to substantiate my publicly expressed opinion in favor of a Russian commercial treaty.

I travelled unofficially, selected my own guides, sought no favors and really tried to see the good side of that tremendous political theory which is now holding 150,000,000 people in subjection.

I have completely changed my opinion and am quite convinced that any recognition of Bolshevik Russia is only lending strength to a cause which, sooner or later, must fail and I am now positively opposed to recognition of a visionary government whose very foundation is based on murder, anarchy, Bolshevism and theft.

The country is ruled in silent terror by a clique of theoretical dreamers who are too stubborn to admit their wrong.

These theorists are now living in palaces and riding in automobiles. In fact, poor men are the only ones who can afford to ride in automobiles in Russia. The rich have either been killed or driven out of the country. Bolshevism has made all Russia poor.

They have autocratic control of the military, the post, the telegraph, the railways, the police and everything worth while, and anyone who disagrees is instantly converted by their democratic instruments of persuasion, "the gun or the jail."

The red press is the only press permitted in the country and no foreign newspaper or magazine is permitted to enter the country, either by mail or otherwise.

There is no such thing as free speech. Probably the most rigid censorship the world has ever known is now going on in Russia. I heard of the case of a young girl who was put in jail for 8 months because she had written to a relative out of the state, saying she would thank God when the time would come when she might leave poor, unhappy Russia.

Atheism is being generally taught, and religion and Christ are cartooned in ridiculous attitudes.

Most of the churches in Russia are closed because of Government opposition. A large sign at the entrance to the Kremlin Palace reads, "Religion is the opium of the State," while another pet slogan of the Bolsheviks is, "Religion is the tool of the rich to oppress the poor."

I had a long conference with Commissar Tchitcherin, who said an "evolution of nature" had brought about the new Russia, and beyond that so-called "evolution of nature" everything must be forgotten. Property confiscated could not be returned, he said, and everything must start afresh from nature's "evolution."

The new Russia could not be responsible for debts of the former Russia, and there is no intention on the part of the Bolsheviks to ever pay the United States the millions due us.

Tchitcherin said that autocrats and rich men were merely "parasites on labor."

The Communist political party, which rules, is composed of workers. An "intellectual" desiring enrollment in the Communist party must wait 5 years after filing his application. This is done to keep the intellectual out of the party. "Big Bill" Haywood, who is a fugitive from justice in the United States, having been indicted and convicted in the Federal Court and forfeited his bond, is living in Moscow as the American representative of the Communist party.

All Industry Nationalized.

The Government has "nationalized" practically every industry or business and it calls them "trusts." There is the hotel trust, the meat trust, the bread trust, the textile trust, etc., etc., and each of these communal endeavors promotes jobs for those who are fortunate. Watchers and checkers to prevent theft are everywhere.

Black bread was four and a half million rubles per pound and white bread six million rubles per pound.

There is no incentive whatever for anyone in or out of Russia to invest a dollar there under the present Bolshevik Government.

Everything that does not now belong to the State finally and automatically reverts to the State. This is done to prevent individual success. No one should be rich.

The Government insists on doing all the business, and it should be permitted to do so by the rest of the world until it finally "blows up."

The best hotels are used by the Bolshevik leaders themselves, at a minimum cost of course and at a loss to the nation.

Considerable has been said in America about the new Russian money called "Chervonez" which is comparable with the British pound sterling and which has a so-called gold valu eof $4.85. The Chervonez is backed by such gold, silver, foreign deposits and credits as the Government may have, as well as by the crown jewels.

No one can tell how many Chervonez have been printed and no one knows what value has been placed on the crown jewels and other questionable credits, so it is impossible to determine the real value of the Chervonez.

When the present Government breaks up, the Chervonez will be worth no more than the ruble. It has no value outside of Russia, but is maintained at approximately $4.85 gold value by a systematic manipulation of the banks which are owned and controlled by the Government.

"Humane" Murder by Communists.

Shortly before our arrival in Russia 17 men favoring conservative action were led by Communist spies to a friendly meeting place. Each and every one of them was shot back of the ear by an unseen hand as he passed through a doorway. It was explained that this procedure was humane and without the mental pain usually accompanying death before a firing squad.

I met a man who was put in jail for four months because he failed to give up a $5 gold piece which was found on his person. The support of his wife and four children was of no concern to the Government.

People, foreign or otherwise, leaving Russia are taxed on everything they carry above reasonable requirements—as interpreted by Bolshevik extravagance.

A man travelling with more than three shirts, six collars, two suits of clothes, three suits of underwear, one watch, one ring or one overcoat is taxed on the surplus, while kodaks, toilet articles and other unnecessary articles of luxury are heavily taxed.

Petrograd looks like a great summer resort city in the winter time. Thousands of houses and stores are closed and the city has been reduced in population by nearly a half million people. Of those that are left 130,005 are out of employment.

No business is done before 11 o'clock in the forenoon and no service whatever is to be had in the hotels before 9 o'clock in the morning. A cup of coffee may be had after 9 o'clock. Breakfast is served between 11 and 1 o'clock. The so-called "mid-day" meal is served from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening and dinner is served from 11 o'clock at night until 1 in the morning.

The streets of the city are deserted until 10 o'clock in the morning.

men's lack of necessity for competition. From this point of view, they "have suffered from too much protection." In biology, he explains, it is shown that protected animals, those that do not have to rely on their own prowess to meet adverse conditions, fail to reach the high state of development attained by those forging ahead single-handed and fighting past obstacles.

In the west, he recalls, women have led a sheltered life, and therefore men, having all the opportunities, attained their supposed mental superiority. To-day he sees conditions changing. With women entering the professions in continually greater numbers, competing with men in business, and "succeeding as well as men," he predicts that "men will have to step fast to maintain their standard of mental superiority over women after the age of maturity."

Eventually women may be the mental superior of men throughout life, the professor hazards.

BERLIN, November 21. (By Gustav M. Oehm, of the Unitde Press.)—Terrific fighting in the Rhineland, in which more than 130 Separatists were killed in the last week, was reported in delayed despatches to-day from Cologne.

Seventy were reported killed in one battle between the Separatists and citizens loyal to the German Reich, near Aegidienberg.

Serious fighting was also reported in the Siebenerge district.

RUSSIAN EXPORTS OF GRAIN ARE HEAVY

BERLIN (United Press) Nov. 20—Russia, land of famine, is exporting hundreds of thousands of puds of grain to all parts of Europe, according to an agency report printed here.

Between Aug. 15 and Oct. 1 of this year the following grain delivery contracts were signed:

To France, 4,662,000 pud (mostly wheat); to Germany, 4,445,000 pud (1,679,000 pud of rye and 1,300,000 pud of barley); to Holland, 3,408,000 pud (1,249,145 pud of barley); to Norway, 1,240,000 pud (rye), and to Finland, 1,990,000 pud (rye).

Including smaller amounts exported to Denmark, Belgium, Sweden, Lettland, Turkey, Italy and Esthonia, a total of 19,553,000 pud was exported, of which 6,813,000 pud was rye, 5,677,000 pud was wheat, 2,671,000 pud barley, 1,560,000 corn, 858,000 oilcake and 1,963,000 other grains.

Port Arthur, Ont.—The 2,000,000-bushel addition to the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company's elevator here is practically completed.

The proportion of males of all ages to females in the population of the United States as a whole is now 104 to 100.

AS PRODUCER, ACTRESS IS A LAND DEALER

But She Sticks to Little Theatre Idea Even Though Broadway Has Turned Her Down.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The latest Lady Lochinvar to go east, instead of west, and make herself successful in New York is Evelyn Vaughan.

She left San Francisco to become a Broadway star.

She has turned out to be a successful dealer in real estate and has built up one of the most unique residential districts in Gotham.

"Of course," she confides to me, "I really knew less about real estate than a teething baby when I arrived. And I had only money enough for current living expenses. But now I have acquired an interest in ten houses and a theatre!"

It began this way: Miss Vaughan had theatrical successes enough in California to warrant her coming to New York and experiment with the drama. She wanted her own theatre, where she could have a hand in producing the type of plays she believes the average theatregoer wants to see. And she wanted to act in her own plays.

"But Broadway couldn't see it my way" she goes on. "They weren't at all interested in renting a theatre to an aspiring actress who had only theories to offer.

Costly "Reason."

"I could have made them listen to reason—reason that spoke in terms of two thousand dollars a week for rent and a gross gate receipt of $6,000, or that would have built me a theatre for $100,000. But just to let space to some unknown woman who wanted to do slightly different things—that was not to be thought of."

But Miss Vaughan kept thinking. If she couldn't have a theatre on Broadway, why not have one somewhere else? One day, a friend, showing her through the picturesque slums of Greenwich Village, pointed out a group of rookeries on Commerce street that formed an elbow around a miscellaneous assortment of backyards.

She spotted a real old-fashioned barn in the midst of them. Then she knew she had found her theatre. So in a short time she had formed a real estate corporation, had leased the 10 houses and the barn, and was engaged in transforming them into the most modern of studios and living apartments.

The backyards were thrown together into a community garden. The fronts were rebuilt aond restored, and soon a bit of old-world loveliness blossomed right out in the slums.

Old World Here.

Some of New York's most celebrated artists and musicians took out leases as quickly as they could be made out.

"But best of all," Miss Vaughan exclaims, "the Cherry Lane Theatre came into existence—out of the barn—and the Cherry Lane players will open for their first Manhattan engagement early in December.

"And it has all happened in six months."

ADVANCING YEARS NEED STOMACH HELP

If Inclined to Sour Risings, Heartburn, Gassiness, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sweeten and Bring Quick Relief.

Our digestive system with a little help, will pick out of a diversified diet what the body needs to sustain health. It is the sour stomach, gassiness and acid condition that starts trouble all along the line, particularly with people getting on in years. If they will use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating, the stomach will sweeten: eggs, milk, cheese and meat will be digested, gas will not form and the system will thus get nourishment and strength unhindered by indigestion and harmful fermentation. Get a 60-cent box of these wonderful tablets and learn what it means to enjoy meals without consequent indigestion.

GRANDFATHER SEES AUTO CRUSH CHILD

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Four-year-old Ambrose Higgins of 499 East 164th Street, who proudly bore the distinction of having been the only boy to place a wreath on the bier of President Harding when the body lay in state in Washington, was injured fatally by a motor truck in the view of his grandfather, with whom the little fellow had started for a walk. Thomas Egan, the grandfather, had walked a short distance from the East 164th Street address with the boy Ambrose, who told him he wanted to buy some candy in a store across the street.

As he was returning to his grandfather, who stood on the curb, Ambrose became confused at the unexpected appearance of a three-ton motor truck, driven by Charles Meyer, 25 years old, of 306 East Tenth Street. The driver tried to turn the vehicle aside but the boy was knocked down and run over. Meyer commandeered an automobile and, with the grandfather, took the boy to Lebanon Hospital. Ambrose died on the operating table.

In June last the boy's grandmother, Mrs. Rebecca Egan, was killed when the automobile in which she, Ambrose and other members of the family were riding, went over an embankment near Syracuse. Ambrose escaped injury at that time.

The chauffeur of the truck later was held in $1,000 bail for examination when arraigned in the Morrissnia Court.

MORE HOOK-UPS FOR THE RADIO.

Along With Radios Popularity Comes the Question of Popular Interest In Its Technical Development.

Along with radio's popularity, comes the question of popular interest in its technical development.

That, proof shows, is about as high as the new science itself. Just as every radio fan has won over others toward a greater interest in broadcasting reception, he himself has become a convert to the actual development of the science.

Thousands of fans, old and young, are daily scanning radio publications, if they're not seeking information from radio sales clerks, for ways to improve their receiving sets. Hook-ups are as popular as ever, and parts are being improved regularly.

By far the greatest interest in this branch of radio lies in the hook-up. At first it was the simple Copp circuit. Then came the regenerative circuit, which brought out the name of Edward A. Armstrong as one of the greatest radio engineers of the country.

All for Better.

But hardly had his fame reached the peak when other more complicated hook-ups were produced. There came the neutrodyne, considered among the most efficient hook-ups extant. Then the reflex and other arrangements of parts by which it was believed a listener could improve his receiving set.

Yet this is only the beginning of the technical development of radio. Engineers are still striving to eliminate interference, and for this they experiment with hook-ups and new parts with the hope of gaining their goal this way.

All their movements are followed zealously by the true radio fan. He is not so much interested in radio proper, as he is in the improvement of his own set. And any suggestion for improvement is eagerly snatched up and tested.

Amateur's Chance.

In this, the radio amateur is the leader. He is the one who is always tearing down and building up his set. And it is he who comes forth now and then with a new hook-up which he believes may revolutionize radio.

The Grimes reflex circuit, one of the famous hook-ups of today for which the inventor is said to have received half a million dollars, is the product of an amateur's brain. His experience is typical among young amateurs, any one of whom may come out one of these days with even a more effective hook-up.

This universal search for better hook-ups promises to maintain its popularity among the fans, at any rate until the ideal set is found. This ideal achievement, as engineers see it today, would be one that would work well under all conditions of weather and other disturbances, which would be so simple in its operation that any outsider could work it, and which would bring in distant as well as nearby stations at will.

There are a little more than 1,000,000 Russians and 1,686,000 Germans in America, according to the census of 1920.

BRITISH EXHIBIT A WORLD'S AFFAIR

Although the British Suffered a Great Deal From the War They Are Preparing For Large Exhibition.

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Although the British are the most highly taxed people in the world and have suffered as much as any from after-war business depression, they are going full speed ahead with plans for the first big exposition since long before the war.

It will practically be a world's fair. Every clime and every continent, every color and every religion will be represented because all the Dominions, colonies and crown dependencies which make up the gigantic British Empire will have buildings and exhibits.

It will be opened some time in April and run for the greater part of next year.

It has advanced far beyond a mere plan. At Wembley, some miles north of London, I found many buildings almost complete. This was especially true of the immense machinery and industrial arts buildings. They are claimed to be two of the biggest concrete and steel structures in the world.

The Canadian building will be one of the finest o the grounds. It will be of neo Greek style of architecture and Canadians are on the job to see that it is done properly. The structure will house a complete exhibit of the natural and industrial resources of Canada.

I saw the steel skeleton of what is destined to be a dream of oriental beauty—the splendid gold and white building to be put up by India. It will be three acres in extent and the main feature will be two dazzling white minarets, each 110 feet high. Its architecture will combine some of the features of the two most famous gems of India—the Taj Mahal of Agra and the Jama Masjid of Delhi.

The other most striking piece of native architecture will be the building that will house the exhibits made by Burma. It will occupy about two acres. The general design will be purely Burmese. A large part of the external decoration is being made in Burma and sent here. The grounds also will be laid out in Burmese style.

MORE TOUGH NEWS FOR THE FORGERS.

V. C. Ernst Would Rather Take Up Photographic Trail of a Check Raiser Than Eat.

And many a light-fingered gentleman has landed in a cell by dint of Ernst's dark-room strategy.

But it all has begun to pall on Ernst. Got too tame, he admits.

Camera Style.

So he has just put on the market a machine which he thinks will make check raising impossible.

The contrivance—Ernst calls it an "identiscope"—is a double camera arrangement. With one click of the shutter, photographs of a bank depositor and his signature are recorded simultaneously.

Installation in banks and business houses, where such records are necessary, will curb forgers' activities considesably.

And Ernst looks forward to the day when a standardized identification system will be established throughout the country. This, he believes, not only will save valuable time, but lessen likewise the embarrassment to strangers who want checks cashed.

Already in Use.

Ernst declares his invention was born of a desire to prevent crime, rather than detect it.

"It's impossible to stop forgery by any mechanical or chemical means," he says.

"Crooks even can erase the indelible perforations in checks, by an operation simple even for a child.

"But if all bank depositors are photographically identified, as to appearance and signature, duplication and mistakes will be eliminated."

Several of his machines already are in use. They're singing high praise for their efficiency.

Stubborn Coughs

Stop Quick With Home Made Cough Mixture

Not until you make your own cough mixture—a half pint of it for a small sum—will you know how easy it is to stop any bad persistent cough as if by magic.

It's pleasant-tasting, but that don't stop it from knocking out a cough quicker than anything else in the world. Children love it.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

This loosens the phlegm, stops the irritation, allays the inflammation, cleans out clogged nostrils, and causes sore throat and hoarseness to disappear.

With speed almost beyond belief this home made cough mixture stops the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a substance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately covers the membrane like a soothing healing poultice and blessed relief comes at once.

And it is always worth while to bear in mind that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

197 Mark street,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—I see in your editorial of Saturday's Examiner that the anti-vaccinationist comes under the lash of your critical whip for his blindness or folly in seeking to hinder the triumphal march of medical progress. One cannot deny that the battle has ever been stormy and prolonged in bringing into objective reality those great truths and discoveries of science which have often benefited humanity and showed corresponding action in the progress of our civilization but in this matter of the child versus the medical powers their is certainly wide scope for discussion—and perhaps denial of the privilege sought —to treat our children with these animal substances—you cannot to-day — point to those opposed to vaccination as merely a few uneducated or unimportant citizens for they number in their ranks especially in Britain (where vaccination was bitterly fought and partly conquered some years ago) some of the best minds in medical science. There never has been unanimity amongst medical men on this matter and somehow there is in the parent a resentful feel in and justly so, at the suggestion of putting into the body of his child this animal virus. There may be some truth that in the deep laws of correspondences something in this animal virus has an action on some part of the human anatomy, but are we not living in an age, when we can bring into operation correspondences of a much higher type, namely those of a mental order, instead of working towards those higher laws of our being, we seem to be working down in the animal levels. The old maxim of "As you think, so you are" is perhaps too true.

The evidences introduced through the pages of your paper as to the fatal results of this anti-toxin in other parts of the world, does not leave the perplexed parent in any anxious mood to subject his child to a further test of its powers.

Yours in doubt,
JOSEPH GRIERSON.

AS A MAN THINKETH

If a man thinks every one is against him, he will soon begin to treat them so they will be. If he thinks every one is his friend, he will treat them right, unconsciously, and they soon will be his friends. The man who lives his daily life according to this formula has in his make-up a spark of sound and true philosophy that will make his life brighter. If we put into all the relations with out fellows a full measure of friendliness and good will, we are pretty sure to get it back, full and overflowing. On the other hand, if a man is suspicious of everybody, everyone will be suspicious of him. The man who goes about looking for a fight is sure to get licked some day, good and plenty.

True friendliness is founded on sincerity. And sincerity is about the only thing in this world that can't be counterfeited. The impulse toward friendliness springs from the very soul o a man.

The world needs friendliness, and kindness, and good will. Not Sundays only, but every day in the week, and every hour of every day. Think friendly thoughts. If you've got a soul, don't be ashamed of it. Bring it into the office with you. For the soul is the source and fountain-head of every good and worthy impulse. Put your faith in men. Believe they are your friends, and they will be.—Earnshaw Press.

IMPERIAL WIZARD IS WHITE SLAVER.

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 21 (United Press).—Edward Young Clarke, former Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, was scheduled to go to trial here today on charges of violating the Mann "white slave act."

The indictment against Clarke was returned by a Federal Grand Jury here March 1. It charged that Clarke transported Miss Laura Martin, 21-year-old Houston girl, to New Orleans for immoral purposes.

Clarke, then Imperial Kleagle of the Klan, met Miss Martin in Houston in October, 1920, while he was here on official business for the Ku Klux Klan, Federal investigators said.

Later Clarke is alleged to have wired Miss Martin money and met her by appointment on Feb. 11, 1921, at the St. Charles Hotel in New Orleans.

Clarke denies the charges and says the whole affair is a "frame-up" to discredit himself and the Ku Klux Klan.

Clarke made bond of $1,000 on the charges in Atlanta, his home. Federal District Attorney Holden of Houston, however, believing the bond inadequate, asked the court to raise the amount, and it was set at $5,000.

SAYS YOUNG WOMEN LEAD MEN MENTALLY

But Arizona Professor Finds They Fall Behind After They Reach 25 Years.

TUSCON, Ariz., Nov. 21.—(Associated Press.) —Women under 25 years of age are more intelligent than men of the same age, but after the twenty-fifth year men gradually pass women and attain a higher mental efficiency, according to statistics compiled in the administrative and educational departments of the University of Arizona.

The university cites its local statistics to show that the average scholastic standing for women students was considerably above the general university average, while the average for men was lower than the general average of all persons enrolled. The standings were:

Professor Alva O. Neal, university registrar and professor of rural education, contends that high school and college girls usually show more aptitude for study than high school and college boys. A 14-year-old high school girl, he says, is the mental equal of a boy of 16, in line with the condition that most women equal in intelligence men two years their senior until the women reach their twenty-fifth year.

Professor Neal attributes this to the longer period of infancy in men. Women mature more rapidly, he points out, but when men become developed completely they benefit by the increased preparation of the long adolescence. Thus men as adults attain more.

He sees another factor in wo-

PETERBORO ENGINEERS

the public; to promote intercourse between the engineers and the members of the allied professions, and to encourage research and study the development and conservation of the resources of the Dominion." The Institute co-operates with the universities in training students, and every member is endeavoring to carry out these primary objects of the great body he represents. At the present time there are 24 branches, all functioning well. "The members realize their duty as citizens," said Mr. Francis, "and as Engineers they recognize their greater responsibility in the community because of their training."

Fraser S. Keith.

Mr. Keith remarked that it is five years since the first annual dinner was held and during this time the Peterboro Branch of the Institute has been growing in strength and usefulness. Other branches have been heartened by the work of the Peterboro members, who have made the most of their opportunities.

J. A. G. Goulet, one of the Quebec visitors, speaking in melodious French, introduced de Gaspe Beaubien as an engineer of note, and a jolly good fellow. He repeated his introduction in English, praising the local branch on its excellent record, and voicing his thanks for the privilege of attending.

De Gaspe Beaubien, of Montreal, replied in his native language,thanking the president and singers who had contributed so much to his pleasure. Continuing in English he said he knew from previous experience in Peterboro of the wide-awake Branch that he would find. Representing the Montreal Branch with 700 members he congratulated Peterboro on its achievements in engineering, hydraulic and mechanical.

Referring to the industrial situation which he noticed was as dull here as in his home city, the speaker said the railway situation is blamed, Easterners saying that the government should not have been called upon to shoulder so great a deficit, and the Westerners declaring the railway facilities offered them are inadequate. "It might have been better," he said, "had we developed our own Eastern provinces first, and thus done away with the railway problem for the time being. I believe, however, that the time is not very far off when we shall see prosperity and as much work as it is possible for us to do."

St. Lawrence Waterway.

D. W. McLachlan, illustrating his address with reference to large charts and maps displayed on the wall, took his audience from end to end of the proposed improvements on the St. Lawrence waterway, explaining the difficulties at one point, the advantages of another and alternative plans at a third. Describing the St. Lawrence as the nerve centre of Canada, the speaker said the river and the great lakes are the main transportation waterways of the country. In the early days the canoes of the traders reached the great west through the Ottawa river. In 1847 a new nine foot system was inaugurated, running up the banks of Lake Ontario, and in 1901 a fourteen foot system was opened between Montreal and the head of Take 2 Peterboro engineers o the great lakes. This carries down to Montreal about the same amount of freight as travels by rail. There is just about the same tonnage carried down the St. Lawrence yearly as goes out of Montreal to foreign countries.

The system now in use has about double the capacity from Montreal to Lake St. Francis that there is above that point on account of the lower stretch being used at night, the speaker said. The St. Lawrence 14 foot system is capable of carrying twice the traffic it has now and if the level farther up was regulated Mr. McLachlan thinks it might carry four times its present capacity. The problem now is the improvement of the river and the development of power, and the greatest trouble is in connection with the ice. This must be met before the river can be developed as a navigation channel or as a power factor. "We have dodged the ice problem because it is expensive and there is considerable risk attached to its solution. The summer level of the river below the pier at Montreal is 15 feet below the winter level and the winter level is 33 feet above mean sea level. The ice surface makes up so very rapidly over a 45 mile stretch that a bridge is formed, indicating the severity of the winter. The solution, as suggested by engineers after careful survey, is the building of a 30 foot overland route.

Difficult Stretch.

The greatest problem in the developing of the St. Lawrence lies between Lake St. Francis and Prescott, where a project estimated at $87,000,000 is necessary, constructed entirely on Canadian soil. "The work," said Mr. McLachlan, "should be done by Canada. However, we have prepared an alternative that we think may help a little in the financing. It would cost about $5,000,000 more to put the construction on the American side. It would help in the financing of the scheme because they could build it and maintain it. Navigation work would cost $26,000,000; enlargement of the channel and general improvement work would cost $50,000,000 and power development would cost $83,000,000. A very large part of the last named, however, is for machinery and electrical equipment, which could be deferred until the market comes right.

"We are preparing a project which we are going to submit to the government, providing for a rather unusual procedure. It will have the advantage that it does not need so much land and we are going to show a couple of power plants at Ogden Island that would be built 50 years from now and would only operate in summer." Mr. McLachlan described the technical features of the proposition, but said that its ramifications might not be popular in some sections, depriving them of a certain flow of water.

Discussing the assistance to be expected from the United States, the speaker pointed to two treaties, the first in 1870 which says that the United States shall share equally with Canaad in the navigation of the St. Lawrence river, and the second in 1909, enlarging on that provision to the extent that canals connecting the open waters are to be equally available to the two countries. "There does not seem to be any reason why they should not do so," he said.

The St. Lawrence never will be a great success until $40,000,000 is spent in deepening the lakes to 27 feet.

United States has a market to-day for all the power they can possibly obtain, but the load is also going up quickly in Ontario. The power interests could make a profit of five or six million dollars a year, and improvements to navigation would probably produce another ten million dollars.

The tonnage that the United States would have available on this route would be double what Canada would have, estimated at 7,000,000 tons for Canada and 14,000,000 tons for United States. But the Canadian profit would be double what the United States would make, since central and western states in the Union have available another route through the Gulf of Mexico. The saving to Canada would be $2 a ton on transportation between Fort William and Liverpool while the United States would not make nearly that.

There is a disagreement between Canadian and United States' engineers regarding the best solution of the St. Lawrence problem, the engineers from across the line advocating a single dam. "The water now rises at times to within a few feet of the top of the revetment wall at Montreal, guarding the city, and Canadian engineers must be very careful as to what they consent to," Mr. McLachlan declared. "I hope to see a united Canadian Engineers' body opposed to what I believe will be a united American opinion wanting to develop a whole head at one point."

Ontario Needs Power.

T. H. Hogg of Toronto, commented at length on the views put forward by the previous sepaker, taking issue with him on some and heartily agreeing with him on others. "The developmnt of the St. Lawrence is of intense interest to the province of Ontario at the present time," he said, "because we are up against it for a new supply of power."

Dams 8 and 9 are now being developed, but the production from these plants will be absorbed by 1925. A little help may be expected from steam, but if the St. Lawrence project were started immediately it would not be ready in time to meet the needs of the province. Mr. Hogg advocated the Morrisburg project in preference to the Long Sault plan favored by Mr. McLachlan, since Toronto could then be taken off the Niagara system and tied to the Morrisburg plant by a transmission line running along the lake shore.

"We believe it is quite possible to operate that plant all winter," he said. "Our studies of conditions on the river lead us to believe that is a possible solution. This problem must be tackled soon, and it is my belief that within eighteen months we will see some steps taken towards that development and the project started."

E. I. C. Discusses Project.

Mr. Francis announced that at a meeting of the Council of the E.I.C. on Monday night a motion was passed authorising the Council to make available all the bibliography on the project of St. Lawrence development so that members of the Institute may make a study of it on broad lines.

J. M. Oxley, representing the Toronto branch, said the Peterboro annual dinner is famous throughout Canada. He told of an experiment inaugurated yesterday in the departure of the steamer Plummer from Toronto laden with merchandise for Vancouver. The steamer will travel by way of the Panama Canal, carrying freight on this test trip at about two-thirds the railway rate. "That 2,900 tons of merchandise can be carried from Toronto to Vancouver by water at two-thirds the railway rate gives some idea of what a 25-foot channel might do for the central part of the Dominion," he said.

J. L. Rannie brought the greetings of the Ottawa Branch and congratulated the Peterboro Branch on the excellent work done here.

F. S. Lazier conveyed the good wishes of the Niagara Peninsula Branch, and praised President Ross Dobbin on the splendid speakers he had secured for the occasion.

G. N. Gordon voiced his pleasure in the statements made by some of the visitors that so many prominent engineers were either born in Peterboro or received their training here. It is the consensus of opinion in Ontario, he thinks, that a solution of the problems affecting the development of the St. Lawrence should be reached as quickly as possible so that a supply of power to meet the growing needs of the Province may be assured. "On both sides of the House," he said, "there is complete unanimity that an early decision should be reached."

Mr. Gordon declared that the members of the local branch of the E.I.C. are a powerful force in the community.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Ross, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, paid a tribute to the Engineering craft, and spoke in favor of such fraternal gatherings as he addressed last night. "Every gathering of a fraternal nature," he said, "makes a distinct contribution to the welfare of the world."

Dr. M. A. Morrison, saying that the dentist uses the basic principles of engineering in his work, conveyed the greetings of the Dental Society of Peterboro.

Dr. H. M. Yelland brought greetings from the Peterboro Medical Association.

C. S. Brown represented the teaching profession in Peterboro.

S. T. Medd conveyed the good wishes of the Peterboro Law Association, of which he is president.

W. H. Barry, with a sextette, rendered the musical numbers of the evening, consisting entirely of original parodies. Community singing was a feature of the dinner, Mr. Barry acting as accompanist and leader throughout.

ENRICH YOUR BLOOD

With organic iron—Nuxated Iron—it's like the iron in your blood and the iron in spinach, lentils and apples—will not blacken or injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. Entirely different from metallic iron. It quickly helps put strength into your muscles and color into your cheeks. Get your doctor to make your red blood count today, then take Nuxated Iron for a few weeks and watch your red blood corpuscles increase; see how much purer and richer your blood becomes; how much stronger and better you feel; what a difference it makes in your nerves. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. Your money will be refunded if you do not obtain satisfactory results. In tablet form only. At all druggists.

MEETING WORKERS HELD LAST NIGHT

Mr. Taylor Statten Gave an Address on Boys' Work.

A meeting of the workers of all the denominations of the city was held last evening in the basement of the George street Methodist church, with the object of forming a Boys' Work Board, which is connected with the Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers, and also a Provincial Boys' Parliament.

Taylor Statten,representative of all Protestant churches in Canada, addressed those present, and explained the work of the Boys' Parliament, and other bbys' work, and organizations controlled by the churches.

During the last eleven years there has been considerable improvement among church work for boys, the best results being got where there is a community spirit. If the boys are made to feel that this is their organization they will take more interest in it. The Provincial Boys' Parliament has not touched Peterboro very much but it has had great success in other cities and towns. I think there should be a representative from Peterboro sent to the Boys' Parliament in Toronto, said the speaker. We have not had the publicity in Ontario that it has had in the Western Provinces. The best way to start this organization is to lay a foundation and by so doing get it started in the right way.

If you send the right kind of a representative from your city he will be sure to do good work both for the churches and the city when he returns. A Tuxis Boys' Council is able to do more than a city boys' council. The men of the this city who are interested in the work of the boys should get together and form a Boys Work Board. If this board is formed all the Protestant churches who wish to join this are privileged to do so. It should be looked after, that the stronger church or organization should not have any more say than the weaker on. When these men are sent to the Boys' Parliament they speak officially for the church they represent. The proper way to start this organization is to get one or two representatives from each church.

A Provisional Committee was voted on and carried.

Those eleected to look after the organization were Mr. R. Cuffe, the George street Methodist church; Dr. B. Marshall, Trinity Methodist church; Mr. H. Taylor, St. Paul's Presbyterian; A. McLeish, Knox Presbyterian church; B. Fowler, St. Andrew's Presbyterian church; N. Porter, Park street Baptist; Mr. Wager, St. James' church; and F. G. McNeely to represent the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. Cuffe was elected convenor.

After the meeting a banquet was held.

YONKERS MAYOR WAS SHOT WITH REVOLVER

YONKERS, N.Y., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Mayor Walter M. Taussig was found this morning in a garage behind his home, revolver near him, and was taken to hospital, where he died from a bullet wound believed by the police to have been self-inflicted.

FACTS ABOUT THE ILLINOIS MINERS

Alderman Joseph Crowe Has Received a Booklet That Covers the Earnings of Coal Miners.

Ald. Joseph Crowe has received from his brother, Chas. Crowe, who is actively connected with one of the large coal mine industries of the United States, a booklet which covers in extensive and detailed fashion the question of the earnings of Illinois miners, from 1918 to 1922. The booklet's introductory page introduces itself as "an official accumulation and detailed tabulation of accurate and dependable information showing the actual facts with respect to the several subjects that are incident to the employment of labour at Illinois mines, viz: Earnings, daily and an annual, Labour Turnover, Absenteeism, and Average daily production by tonnage men, all four computed by various state districts, also Comparison of Mine Labour earnings with those of other industries, the "Check Off," Classification of Mines and Men Employed and their annual production, Incidental aFct Data, and statement of the operators' viewpoint on certain major questions."

The publication is compiled and is sued jointly by the three coal operators' association in Illinois, and is designed to present the viewpoint held by the operators in the investigation which is now being made by the American Government into facts and conditions with regard to the coal mining industry. The operators claim that the men are overpaid, the men claim the contrary, and it is the intention of the Government to arrive at some decision, by means of a Board of Inquiry into various phases of the question.

In comparing wages of Illinois mine workers with wages of workers in a list of industries, which includes metal trades, textiles, rubber, leather goods, meat packing, chemicals and paints, paper and printing, lumber and millwork and furniture, the operators arrive at the conclusion that "the actual, hourly earnings of all classifications of workmen at Illinois coal mines were at all times, during the seven year period from 1914 to 1920 inclusive, approximately 76 per cent higher than the average earnings of workmen in other industries."

Refuting the argument advanced by the miners that their work year is exceptionally short, the following figures are given, to show that, in comparison with other trades, the miners do not suffer from short time employment: Bituminous Coal Miners; 207 work days per year. Clothing workers; 206 work days, Shoemakers; 195 work days and Building Trades; 190 work days per year.

In the matter of idle plants and equipment that 'too many mines and too many miners," a report states that in "men's clothing manufacture, the building industry, printing, metal trades, and textile manufacture, the faults and inefficiency of management in the matter of production, knowledge of costs faulty labour control, inefficient workmanship, sales policies, idle men, over capacity and idle equipment, as well as restriction of production by management and labour, was in practically every instance equal to and in many cases in excess of that in the coal industry."

With regard to the large percentage of workmen whose charted earnins shows a small annual income, the booklet states that the daily earnings of such employees are approximately identical with those of men making high annual incomes and goes on to say that the men showing incomes belong to either of two groups (a) those working at two or more mines in each annual period, and (b) those belonging to that class of sporadic miners who either perforce or of their own elections, work alternately in the mines and at other occupations.

A chart gives the average earnings per hour and day of skilled workmen in 23 other industries as about 70c per hour, or $5.60 per eight- hour day the highest paid classification (printing-book and job) being 85c per hour, or less than $7 per eight-hour day, and "these must serve a long apprenticeship, during which time their pay is far below the poorest paid, totally unskilled worker in a coal mine."

In a calculation arrived at from a comparison of wages received by 376,938 mine workers of various grades, the conclusion was arrived at that about five per cent. of the daily earnings were low, for reasons noted above; about twenty per cent. of the workers earned wages corresponding to the average and maximum paid skilled men in other industries; sixty per cent. made from $1 to $1.50 an hour, while nearly sixteen per cent. showed an average daily wage of $14.02.

A graph shows the increase in Illinois mining rates, per ton of 2,000 pounds, from the time of the union organization of the industry in 1897, when the rate paid was 26 cents, to the present time, when $1.08 is paid. Another graph shows an ascending rate in day wage scales effective in the state under state agreements, from April 1, 1899, when the peak wage was a little over $2 to the present peak of nearly $7 for an eight-four day.

A section devoted to the "check off," declares that it is a system unique to the coal industry, and found in the United States only, that it breeds irresponsibility among miners' officials, through the easy collection of large sums of money for which they do not have to account. This system of collection of union dues and assessments is calculated as having reached a total in the year 1922, from all shipping mines in the state, of $4,361,061.06.

A compilation of earnings of mine employees for the calendar year 1922 gives a total of 60 per cent. of tonnage men earning 85 per cent of tonnage earnings with an average annual earning of $1,004.86; 65 per cent of day men earning 91 per cent. of day men earnings, with an average of $1,073.71 annual earning, and 62 per cent. of all men earning 87 per cent. of entire earnings, or an annual average of $1,032.04.

The summation of operators' opinions declares that all coal production in the State of Illinois is under absolute closed shop conditions, nor can Illinois coal operators change this condition except through the entire disruption of the mine workers' union. None but a member of the United Mine Workers' Organization can be a member of the board which issues certificates of competency and qualification after examination of those intending to qualify as coal miners, and a certificated coal miner from another coal-producing state has no standing in Illinois except he qualify before this board.

COUNCIL WILL CONVENE SOON

One Little Word is Holding Up a Settlement of Issue.

PARIS, Nov. 21. — (Canadian Press).—Lord Crewe, British Ambassador, received instructions from London this morning regarding the note the Allies are to send to Germany. It was then announced that the Council of Ambassadors would convene as soon as possible.

One little word—the word 'consult'—is what has been delaying final action by Council on note since Monday, it appears from to-day's developments. Decision reached by Ambassadors' decision on that day was that note to Germany would set forth Allied demand that military clauses of the Peace Treaty be complied with and that if Germany failed to satisfy that demand Allies would "consult' as to what action situation called for.

Objections to that word were raised in French cabinet meeting Monday afternoon. It was declared that necessity thus imposed upon France to "consult' her allies every time action was required was just what Germany was relying upon—that no step forward would be made if after making concession to British Government elimination of any reference to penalties, hands of French Government should still remain tied.

TWO MEN HAVE NOT RETURNED

Took Canoe From Summer Cottage — Canoe Found Bottom Up on Chemong Lake With Clothing.

A report from Chemong lake this morning indicates that a double drowning fatality may have taken place there between Friday and to-day, but doubt exists as to the real story of two young men who are missing from a canoe found floating upside-down on the lake.

The canoe was taken from Pigeon Lake on Friday morning by Eddie Martin and Tommy Rice. The canoe was the property of J. S. Coon, 597 Gilmour street, and was at his cottage by the lakeside.

On Friday morning the young men were seen paddling in the canoe past the bridge at Gannons Narrows one using a paddle and the other a piece of plank taken from the wharf at Mr. Coon's cottage.

The bridgeman there talked with the young men and is quite certain he identified Martin and Rice. On discovery that the canoe had been taken, Mr. Coon broadcasted a description of the young men and asked anyone who saw them to recover the canoe.

Canoe Found—Men Missing

Vincent Murphy of Ennismore, informed Mrs. Coon this morning that the canoe had ben found, floating bottom up, on Chemong Lake, and that clothing and cushions had also been found floating on the water. The young men have not yet been heard from.

It is believed that Martin and Rice intended going back to a lumber camp, since they had talked of it and took with them old working clothes. Martin is 17 and had been employed with Mr. Murphy about four years. He was very highly thought of. Rice is 20. Both young men are short and Martin is fair.

Mr. Coon is anxious that their fate should be determined, and suggests that any person seeing the young men should communicate with him.

On Account of Magistrate Masson Being Out of Town, Court Was Postponed.

BELLEVILLE, November 21 (Canadian Press). — Magistrate Masson was out of town to-day, so the appearance in Court of the six Stirling men charged with assault on the Rev. Wm. Bundock and the sequel to the alleged "tarring episode," will not be until Friday morning next.

REGINA MERMEL STAGE MANAGER

Only Woman in Position Appeared on Broadway.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Just when you think there can't be any new job for women to tackle, and when you despair of locating any more women pioneers to write about, along comes the exception.

The only woman stage manager has just appeared on Broadway—Regina Mermel by name. She's young, pretty, determined and has ideals.

"It's just a means to an end with me," she explains, between jumps, for her job consists in attending to all the difficulties of 42 people besides herself.

"To succeed, I believe you have to know all the angles of the business you are in," she goes on. "A banker, or financier, does. He has held the jobs of those under him in authority and he knows how to direct his men. That's the way I'm going to do."

Then it developed that being a stage manager is not the height of Miss Mermel's ambition.

Children's Theatre.

"I'm going to devote my life to the theatre, but what I want to do is to found a children's theatre, to be run on the lines of the one in Moscow where plays for children will be put on by the very finest actors obtainable," she says.

One year she was a playbroker.

"I learned all I could about selecting plays, about prices, royalties, copyrights and all that," she tells me. "Then last year I played in 'The Fool' and studied things from the actor's point of view. Incidentally I learned that if you are two inches too short for a part, it doesn't make any difference how well you could act it—you won't get it.

"This season I decided I must learn the technique of the back of the stage. So when I heard Richard Bennett was managing 'The Dancer,' as well as acting in it, I went to him and told him my ambition."

Bennett didn't counsel conservatism, he was open to reason. Stage managing is a detail job, and women are supposed to have a way with details. So he made her the assistant manager of his show.

Orders Direct.

"But he did think the stagehands and electricians might object to taking their orders from a woman, so he arranged to have me issue them through a man," she laughs. "The men heard of this and came to me in a body. They said they were perfectly agreeable to taking directions from me, and they have co-operated with me at every step."

Some of her duties consist in getting all the actors ready on time, ringing up the curtain, being ready to prompt or jump into a part if necessary, keeping order in the wings, maintaining discipline and at the same time keeping the members of the cast happy and contented.

"But it's a good job for a woman," she insists. "Women have the necessary patience and tact. But there's no glory in it, and no chance to shine."

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

"Conversation Circulation"

IN the days when Conversation Circulation" statements were the basis on which the advertiser bought space, the advertising solicitor who put up his story in the most pleasing manner generally got the business.

In case the advertiser questioned the figures he might possibly go to the newspaper office and look over the circulation records with his own auditors. But neither he nor his auditors knew the intricacies of newspaper circulation records or the possibilities for juggling figures.

Circulation differences and arguments caused bitter battles between many newspapers. Ingenious schemes were used by unscrupulous publishers to put up the appearance of a larger circulation than they had. The prevalence of these practices brought out the necessity for a reputable agency to audit and report on circulation matters.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations was started eight years ago by a nucleus of the leading advertisers, agents, newspaper, magazine, farm papers, and trade paper publishers. Today it has a membership of 1800. The purpose of the bureau is to make fair and impartial audits of circulation records and it is now accepted as the Standard Authority among space buyers throughout the United States and Canada.

Every Publisher-Member of the Bureau is required to make semi-annual statements setting forth the actual net paid circulation. Once a year the Bureau sends an auditor to the office of each publisher to check and if necessary correct his circulations statements.

Study the A.B.C. reports of the publications you are considering and it will not be necessary to argue about competitive circulation.

The Examiner is a member of the A.B.C. and would be pleased to submit a copy of the latest circulation report

KINGSTON, Nov. 21.—The stage is all set for the football game here between Queen's University and Hamilton Tigers Saturday. With fine weather and the playing field in good shape now it is hoped that these conditions will last until Saturday but the authorities at the college are taking no chances, and have placed straw on the playing field in order that the ground will be kept dry. There was a light fall of snow last night but the warm sun of yesterday has dried this up.

The members of the rugby squad are not taking any chances on Tigers winning out on Saturday afternoon and are down to hard practice. It is the intention of coach W. P. Hughes to have workouts every day this week. In case there it wet weather, the team will practice in the arena where there is lots of room.

J. S. McDonnell, Secretary of the Athletic Board of Control, when asked if Queen's won from Tigers Saturday next would the Dominion championship game be played in Kingston, stated that the matter had not been decided. Toronto is making a strong bid for the game on the plea that there will be a larger gate there.

Queens' teams will be at full strength on Saturday. "Red" McKelvey who has been hobbling around on crutches, will be in fine condition for the contest. "Bill" Muirhead has also fully recovered from a kick in the stomach which he received in Ottawa and Chick Mundell will also be on the job. Harry Batstone, who retired from the game in Toronto on Saturday, last, is in the pink of condition and on Saturday expects to be in the game for the full sixty minutes.

It is expected that there will be a record crowd at the game. The grand stand was all sold out a few hours after the plan was opened and the reserved bleacher seats are in great demand. The Hamilton team received five hundred of the grand stand seats and more bleacher seats will be available if they are wanted by the Hamilton fans.

MORE LENIENT TO CHARLES PADDOCK

Attitude of U. S. National A. A. U. At the Closing Session.

DETROIT, Mich., November 20.—Re-election of William C. Prout of Boston, as president of the National A.A.U., acceptance of more than 100 United States . cords, adoption of a more lenient attitude towards Charles Paddoc, and the selection of Atlantic City for the annual convention in 1924, featured the closing session of the National Amateur Athletic Union convention here to-day.

The convention voted to admit the National Horseshoe Pitchers' Association and the National Ski Association to membership.

Kansas City, Mo., was awarded the National Amateur Basektball Tournament for the fourth consecutive year.

BOWLING

GOOD SCORES LAST NIGHT AT WATER STREET ALLEYS

There were three leagues seen in action last night at the Water Street Alleys. Some good scores were made by some of the bowlers.

In the City Ten Pin League the C.G.E. grabbed two game from the Belmont Club. Jackson rolled a nice score of 504 for three games, while Williamson had a nice high single of 198. There was a good crow of spectators to witness these two teams.

In the Brinton Carpet League game the Windsors took three from the Carlton. Taylor was high man for three games, while T. Martyn had the high single with 221.

In the Mercantile Five Pin League the Wm. Hamilton team took three from the Merchants Press. Frost of the Wm. Hamilton team had the high three games with 606, while Roberts of the same team had the high single of 245.

Tonight the Examiner Intershop League teams will be seen in action. Eight teams from this league will be rolling tonight.

The Quaker Oats League will also play tonight.

WM. HAMILTON WON THREE FROM THE MERCHANTS PRESS.

In the Mercantile Five Pin League at Solomon's Alleys last night the Wm. Hamilton took three from the Merchants Press. Frost was high for the winners with 606 and Miller was high for the losers with 533. Roberts had the high single with 245.

HIGH RIGGER OF WOODS AIMS HIGH IN FISTIANA

Bercot As High Rigger

"Dode" Bercot As Fighter

SEATTLE, Nov. 21.—It's all right for a high rigger to aim high. That's why Dode Bercot, fighting bearcat of the logging woods, thinks the time will come when he will wear Benny Leonard's lightweight crown.

But possibly you don't know what a high rigger is? You wouldn't if you've never been in the back woods. A high rigger is an active gent who combines acrobatics with courage to a high and practical degree.

Armed with spiked boots, a coiling rope and an ax he climbs to the top of a forest giant—sometimes a hundred feet, some times higher.

Clinging perilously he chops off the top of the tree, courts death as the wounded pine sways crazily, and then struggles upward to the topmost peak.

The beheaded tree becomes a mast for a high line cable which is used in snaking logs out of the wilderness.

That's what a high rigger does. You can imagine that it is a strong man's job. It is. That's how Bearcat Bercot got his fine physique. They call him the best built lightweight in the game.

So far most of his triumphs have been purely local. All told he has had 28 fights. Most of them came his way by wide and impressive margins, many by knockouts.

Bercot will be sent against some of the big leaguers this winter, and if successful, will go east to meet the stars.

FIRPO'S MANAGER SAYS POLICE THREATENED HIM

When He Protested During First Round of Dempsey Fight — Makes Statement in Buenos Aires Paper.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Defending himself for his failure to protest the alleged violations of the rules governing the contest by Jack Dempsey, during Dempsey's recent fight with Luis Angel Firpo, Horatio Lavalle, Firpo's chief second, in a statement printed by La Nacion yesterday, declares that during the first round he attempted to enter the ring to lodge a protest, but that he was forcibly prevented from doing so by two members of the Boxing Commission, "who threatened me with the police if I made any protest during the match."

"After the struggle with them, I was obliged to step down," the statement added.

Lavalle explained that while in the United States he never publicly answered the charges that he had been delinquent because of "the laws existing in the United States which provide severe punishment for a statement which might injure the interest of any enterprise."

Continuing, the statement said that when Firpo knocked Dempsey out of the ring, the referee did not begin to count immediately, and that eighteen seconds elapsed "before Dempsey was on his feet again." Before the match, Lavalle says, he did make a protest against Dempsey wrapping three meters of bandages around his left hand, instead of the sixty centimeters allowed by the rules, and that his protest was upheld. Declaring that he did not make any protest after the fight against Dempsey's "violations of the rules," Lavalle said this was due to the fact that Firpo did not wish to accept a victory if it were not won from the ring.

MY OWN DEFEATED ON A SANDY TRACK

Withdrawn For Rest of Season—Proposed Race With Zev Is Off.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Hopes of a match between Zev and My Own on this or any other track this year were blasted when My Own went down to defeat in the Prince George Handicap here yesterday. The Grayson colt, a top-heavy favorite, finished sixth in a field of nine. He was never a serious contender, and his owner said he would be wlthdrawn for the rest of the season. King Solomon's Seal won in a drive from Dunlin, with Flagstaff third, the time for the mile and one furlong being 1:56 1-5—one fifth of a second slower than the track record.

The winner was almost overlooked in the speculating, paying $33.60 for each $2 ticket.

It was plainly evident that My Own did not fancy the deep, sandy going. Fetlock deep, the tricky soil simply rolled beneath the son of King James as he came through the stretch laboriously.

Britisher Lost To French Boxer

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Edouard Lascart, the French featherweight pugilist, last night knocked out Billy Matthews of England in the fourteenth round, of what was to have been a fifteen round bout.

The Englishman gave an unusual display of gameness and showed abnormal capacity to absorb punishment. He was lacking, however, in offensive qualities. Matthews was knocked down eleven times during the fight. In the first round he took the count of seven.

Lascart's showing last night is considered as entitling him to a match with Eugene Criqui for the European featherweight championship.

FRENCH QUESTION EPINARD'S CLAIM

As Turf Representative in Proposed International Cup Race.

PARIS, Nov. 21. — (Canadian Press)—The selection of Epinard, Pierre Wertheimer's crack three year old, as a representative of France in the international cup race to be staged at Longchamps next May is causing some controversy.

There is a contention in some quarters that M. Wertheimer's horse should not be allowed the unquestioned supremacy of the French turf without elimination trials, and partisans of Niceas, Checkmate, Massine, Le Caupucin and Filibert de Savoie are asking that these fleet runners be given a chance to challenge Epinards' claim.

M. Wertheimer refuses, however, taking the stand that he was invited to enter Epinard and has accepted. Le Capucin was this year's winner of the French Derby and Filibert de Savoie won the Grand Prix in Paris.

PENNOCK MAY START FOX-FARMING IN N.B.

Southpaw Pitcher of New York Yankees May Figure in New Enterprise.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press.)— Fox farming in New Brunswick may be the future of Herb Pennock, star southpaw pitcher of the world champion New York Yankees. That has been revealed during the present visit to Fredericton of the Yankee star, who arrived yesterday on his return from visiting Dr. and Mrs. F. W. McDonald, at Miramichi Lodge, Northumberland county, and is leaving this evening for his home at Kennet Square, Pa.

The present expectation is that Pennock will become associated with Dr. McDonald in a fox farming enterprise at Miramichi Lodge.

McGraw's Deal

The most puzzling trade of late years in baseball was that last week which sent Captain Bancroft, Stengel and Cunningham of the Giants to Boston in exchange for Captain Southworth, an outfielder, and Pitcher Oeschger. John McGraw has given up his field leader, who is also one of the best shortstops in baseball and the keystone of his infield, along with his two regular centre-fielders, for an outfielder who has had a bad leg injury for two seasons and a pitcher who is fading, if not a faded veteran.

Southworth undoubtedly is better than both Stengel and Cunningham in the outfield, but McGraw for the moment has pulled the props out from under his famed "million dollar" infield. Now he has only a twenty-year old boy, Travis Jackson, for shortstop, and if Heinie Groh, a chronic victim of injuries, should break down next season as he has during the last two, McGraw will have to depend on Maguire, a weak hitter, to fill in at third base.

Apparently, then, by robbing the Giants of their infield reserve, the trade was a bad one for the National League champions. But even on this evidence one should be careful before questioning the baseball acumen of McGraw.

In other words, this trade looks like merely the forerunner of at least one more deal which will bring to the Giants the players they need. Along Baseball Row the experts who have been puzzling for a week over this strange move are now convinced that McGraw would never give up his regular shortstop without good reason. They are certain that John J. would never entrust the shortstop position to a twenty-year-old of one season's experience, for back to the days of "Bad Bill" Dahlen, the Giants have always had a strong and seasoned shortstop, no matter how weak they may have been at other positions. Southworth, the experts declare, was acquired merely as trading material for the two-cornered, perhaps three-cornered, deal that will bring Rogers Hornsby or Charley Hollocher or some other infield star to this city.

Unlike the magician, McGraw seems to have something up his sleeve. In its curiosity to peer up the sleeve and see what the something is, the world of baseball is in a fine state of suspense. And meanwhile the David Harum who is causing all the flutter calmly takes a trip to Europpe. But he will be back in mid-December, and then it will be seen how far the tearing down and building up of the Giants will go.—New York Times.

MEIGHEN MADE A HOT ATTACK

TORONTO, November 21 (Canadian Press). — The emphatic declaration by Premier Ferguson that he submit the Ontario Temperance Act to a Referendum only when the Government became convinced that a "sane" public opinion really wanted an opportunity to express its mind on that statute and a sarcastic attack on "the failures and farcical performances" of the Mackenzie-King administration by the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Federal Conservative leader, featured the third annual meeting of the Ontario Conservatives yesterday.

In the opinion of Mr. Meighen, the present Federal Government was "the most languid and feeble administration that ever attempted to govern the Dominion." It had perfected the art of self-advertising to a degree never before dreamed of but had failed to remove any of the obstacles which blocked the path of the Dominion's progress at "one of the most critical junctures in our history."

In supoort of this assertion the Federal leader directed his ironic shafts at the Government's treaty making and at the results of the anti-combine legislation, the Inland Lake Navigation Bill, and the tax on tobacco.

Mr. Ferguson took advantage of his appearance on the same platform with the Federal Conservative leader to put the quietus on the rumour that he aspired to the post now held by Mr. Meighen.

The Province of Ontario had always dominated the public affairs of Canada, and would continue to do so. He, therefore, was quite content to remain in the position of dominating the Dominion. "I don't think there is any doubt as to who will be Premier of Canada," he added, turning to Mr. Meighen to the accompaniment of cheers from the convention.

The Premier wanted it understood that his Government would fulfil its election pledges to the letter. "I propose while I am in public life to do as I have done in private life and keep my word," he said.

BATTLING SIKI LOST TO NEGRO

"Kid" Norfolk Received Judges' Decision Last Evening.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.— (Canadian Press.)—"Kid" Norfolk, Harlem negro, last night received the judges decision over Battling Siki, the Senegalese conqueror of Georges Carpentier, in a slashing, spectacular 15 round bout at Madison Square Gardens. Siki proved a wild, free-swinging battler, but he was badly punished by Norfolk's relentless attack. Making his debut in the United States, Siki proved a game, aggressive fighter, but he was obviously not in the best of condition. Norfolk's ruggedness assimilated most of the Battlers' savage attacks, while the Harlem negro kept up a steady, withering onslaught. Siki started at a furious pace, but tired rapidly under Norfolk's steady jabbing and powerful hooks. He was groggy from the tenth round, a sorrowful spectacle, but somehow he managed to weather the storm.

Norfolks blows in several rounds seemed low. Twice Siki protested and "Kid" was warned. More than 12,000 paid $59,854 to witness the fight.

APARTMENT HUNTING IS TROUBLE TO NEWLYWEDS

Parisians Advertise for Lodgings Before Attempting Matrimony—Dearth of Homes.

PARIS, Nov. 21.— The lodging crisis is far from having passed in France. All newly married couples find it difficult to discover an apartment to suit them, even if they are prepared to pay a good price. Doctors and dentists are also among the sufferers as landlords having the possibility of choosing their tenants bar those who are bound profession ally to cause annoyance to the janitors by having a number of visitors

This advertisement in an evening paper shows to what extent a young doctor may be driven to find a place to carry on his practice.

"Young doctor, unmarried, in position marry, wants one or two rooms in a family apartment in the——district. Would pay a high price."

RUBBER BOOTS THE RAGE IN TOKYO.

New Fall Styles Created in the Earthquake Area.

By Clarence Dubose
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Nov. 20.—United Press—They're wearing 'em high in Tokyo this winter —up to the hips, in fact. Boots, y'understand.

For this man's town, always muddy, is sum'pin' awful now, after earthquakes and typhoons, and with the rainy season on.

Other fall styles in the earthquake area are: Flannel shirts. Last year's clothes (if the earthquake left you any; otherwise the last year clothes of some kind friend), old army uniforms, ancient golf caps, and rubber boots. Rubber boots, first, last and all the time.

Tokyo these days, as a matter of fact is a good deal like Ranger, Texas, or Flanders used to be. It has not the oil derricks and it hasn't the shells—but, oh boy! it has the mud and all the trimmings.

Transportation is difficult in all sections and non-existant in many. Drainage was primitive before the disaster; there were only a few paved streets and very few sidewalks

Tokyo easily held the world's championship for mud even in its palmiest days. Now, such drainage as there once was is clogged and in effective, and most streets are piled high with wreckage on each side.

The rains leave lakes and swamps and pools of stagnating water throughout the city. There are some street cars. They are packed to a point that a New York subway veteran, even, would believe impossible—remotely possible, but rather improbable.

'Rickisha men have agreed to recover the total earthquake losses all at once. Broadly speaking, one can depend only upon one's own legs—with rubber boots— for transportation.

One American newspaper man here lost all his clothes except a full dress suit. His servants thought that was the most swanky thing to save, and, being pressed for time, thats all he saved.

"Lot o' good that'll do me in Tokyo this winter," he decided—and traded it to a hotel waiter for a pair of boots.

LAST DAY

Kiwanis Musical Revue

(By Jeannette).

The long-heralded Kiwanis Club revue, "The Garden of the Shah," had its premier performance at the Grand Opera House last evening, and proved to be one of the prettiest and most tuneful amateur productions which have been staged in Peterboro in some time. Although the performance suffered, as usual, from that bane of amateur offerings, a too lengthy drawing out, the temper of the good-sized audience which filled the lower floor and the front portion of the balcony, might be judged from the fact that they accorded an enthusiastic encore to one of the last musical numbers on a programme filled with song. Excellently staged, with lovely settings for both sections, with a variety of vocal numbers and orchestral music that was exceptionally good, with voices, both in principals and chorus, that would be difficult to equal, with a profusion of pretty girls that might qualify for a beauty contest anywhere, with costumes that were outstanding in their artistic perfection, this year's Kiwanis production left little to be desired. Mr M. B. Chenhall, the director, is to be congratulated on the effect he has achieved, by dint of much hard work and evident hearty co-operation from his cast of gifted amateurs.

The music of both sections of the dual offering is particularly pleasing. The chorus seems to be trained to perfection, and their hushed, melodious background for many of the solo numbers gave one the impression that a slight chopping off of a verse here and there in the solos, with a consequent increase in the choral accompaniment, would make a still more attractive production.

The vocal solos themselves were so numerous and the soloists so very good in their renditions that it is almost impossible to pick out the stellar role. It would be hard to surpass the quartette of lady singers who appeared in different parts on the Grand Opera stage last evening. In "The Garden of the Shah" production, Miss Mathilde Masson was as charming as usual in the role of Zehdah, the Shah's daughter. Her appealing personality was enhanced by the pretty setting and unique costuming of the part, in which the ladies of the chorus and the principals appeared in the colorful, gay dresses of the East, the harem costume of baggy trousers, pale-colored blouses and bolero jackets, with the tiny slippers, the flowing veils, the sequins and bangles of Eastern beauties. Probably nothing more fetching as a color scheme could be devised than the spectacle of the pretty maidens who formed the chorus for the Persian interlude, against a typical setting, which had for a background a simulated Persian garden, with a tall guard in henna suit and brazen helmet, a number of low, draped divans and a quantity of tall palms.

Miss Greta LeBarr was a chic and stunning Lehlah, in brilliant yellow, and Mrs. Walter Byers gave a professional rendition of her role of Newobeh, the nurse who pursues with ardor her affinity in the unwilling and reluctant Samuel Johnson Jackson (colored), played by E. Vern. Morphet, in a manner that made a real hit with his audience. Mr. Morphet's delineation of the kinky-pated, ebony-featured Sam, in his neat khaki riding suit, and Mrs. Byers' characterization of the resolute lady who sees in him a reincarnation of a former love, were laughable in the extreme, and gave a comedy twist to the production that tickled their audience immensely. Sam hates dates, but his vigorous pursuer forces him to eat a million of them in a week, after which he becomes quite docile, and appears in a Persian outfit of striking style. A hard-working member of the cast, or possibly two members, might be more correct, is Neddy, the grey mule that accompanies Sam's arrival at the Persian garden, and does a dance to music.

Ted Harding and Billy Cummings, the Canadian mining engineers, whose appearance in Persia causes a great deal of trouble among the feminine portion of the Shah's household, are portrayed in excellent fashion by Hugh M. Niven and A. M. Irvine, and a formidable and ferocious figure is that of Perunah, the Shah himself, played in inimitable style by Alex. Dick. This gentleman's appearance is greeted with acclaim, and his get up is striking. Above a butternut-colored countenance and wig to match, he wears a wonderful head-dress, while his tall figure is clothed in gleaming yellow and red. His boon companion, the dyspeptic Sheik Semegraba, played by D. G. Melton, in impressive and dignified fashion, is clothed in draperies of flowing white, with heavy white burnoose and purple head-shawl.

The Shah's Chief of Police and the Commander of the Guards have a constant difference of opinion, that causes them to bristle at each other in vocal combat, every once in a while. The Chief (Walter Byers) captains a group of ferociously-moustached figures who brandish black "billies" and wear glistening white suits and red and yellow fezzes. The captain of the guards (Jack Jeffries), a striking figure in gleaming metal corselet, heads a bunch of fierce beings, garbed in baggy trousers of green and yellow, with red blouses, orange vests and purple sashes, their hands grasping curved scimitars. The rigid bearing of these grave-looking gentlemen and their excellent attention to file and form in marching give a military touch to the proceedings.

The Three Wise Men were one of the hits of the evening. Anything more impressive than this trio would be hard to imagine, as they stood to sing their catchy song, Joe Wearing made a striking Turk, in a neck-stretching white collar, over a red jacket, topped by a red fez. His some what unique costume also included a pair of checked pants and a golf club. Alex. Donley was impressive as a mandarin with purple silk blouse and round hat, and George Henderson wore a fetching outfit composed of the upper half of a formal dress suit, superimposed on a pair of baggy red trousers, and topped by a silk hat. These gentlemen all wore the moustaches which seemed to be favorites with the male portion of the cast last evening.

The music for this section was particularly appropriate, softly Eastern in its cadences, with the languorous beat of the drum as an insistent refrain.

A number that received enthusiastic applause was an Oriental dance by the chorus, with the pretty colorful figures making a maze of softly-moving light and rhythm, under varicolored, changing lights. The Misses Edna Connor and Martha Kirn, who directed all the dances, in costumes of yellow, with Persian fabrics in their sashes and head drapes, gave a lovely, graceful dance duet at the same time.

Of the many vocal numbers that filled out a performance of artistic charm, the most loudly applauded was the lovely quartette, a "Kissing" song, dainty and sweet, sung by the Misses Masson and LeBarr, and Messrs. Niven and Irvine. Miss Masson had several beautifully-rendered numbers, including "I am a Persian Rosebud," and "For You are Love," with Mrs. Byers in choral duet in the latter. Miss Greta LeBarr sang in a delightful style, "When Love Fills your Heart," and in duet with A. M. Irvine, the pretty "Chains of Love." Mrs. Walter Byers' strong, clear soprano was heard to advantage in "A Prophecy," with chorus, and in duet with Vern Morphet in the humorous "What we Were and what we Are." Hugh M. Niven sang in fine style "My Persian Rose," and a duet with Miss Masson, "Since Your eyes have Told Me." Vern Morphet, in his own humorous fashion and good voice, sang "De Tamin' ob de Shrew," and "I am King of my Desert Throne," was the contribution in splendid voice of D. G. Melton.

The performance, which opened with several well played numbers by the augmented orchestra, led by G. H. Howarth, had a prologue that was a very nice part of the programme, with the children from the Shelter, and the Jackson Park Camp, led by Mrs. J. A. McKone, giving two well-rendered songs. Some of the little things appeared in plain outfits and others in pickaninny dress, with curl papers in dark wigs, and they sang well, their little voices ringing out in "Sleep Kentucky Babe," and "Among the Melon Vines," against an effective setting composed of a huge slice of water melon. Much applause greeted the small performers, who were augmented later for a general chorus by all the children from the camp, stretching across the stage in a group of tiny lads and lasses, singing lustily over the bright lights.

The first portion of the programme showed a Southern plantation scene in a cabaret setting, and a charming opening was the old-time dance of the crinoline-skirted ladies in their flowing draperies and large hats, and the reserved-looking men, with black swallow-tail coats, with black hats and stiff moustaches. The orchestra for this section occupied in effective style seats at the rear of the stage, and an atmosphere of shifting light and color was imparted by the constant movement of the groups in the background, four dusky waiters in glistening white circulating amongst the seated crowds at the tables.

The plot in this section is light, involving the love affairs of Rose, Pilot Farley's daughter, played in demure style by Miss Ernestine McManus, who made a charming central figure for the dusky Southern romance. Harold Snelgrove as Richard, her young suitor, and Jack Dew art take the part of the villain, Scudder. The two come to blows, and take a pot shot at each other in a duelling encounter, to recover shortly and revert to the fetching strains of "My Honolulu Lulu." This song was the hit of the piece, handled in exceptional fashion by one of the dusky servitors, Joe Wearing, whose rendition of his vocal passion for his "lovely lass," the classy Lulu from Honolulu, was one of zip and vigor.

Ol' Ned, in a typical Southern darky outfit, is played by A. M. Irvine, and Mrs. Walter Byers has the part of Judy his spouse, a chocolate colored lady in red calico and voluminous white apron. Mrs. Byers was as effective as usual in this part, giving it an excellent rendition, and she and Mr. Irvine sang in unison the "Noah's Ark" song as a portion of their contribution to the programme.

Jack McKone is Pilot Farley, an imposing figure in white yachting suit, who acts as interlocutor for the array of good jokes and local allusions that brighten this section. Alex Dick made a hit, in a minor part as a casual spectator, and chorus leader, in red goatee and long-tailed coat, with a bandanna handkerchief. Jack Marshall was Holly Timms, a shady lawyer, and C. E. Clark was first mate, who sings the "Bell Song."

The waiters were Joe Wearing, Bob Mackay, Stewart Gordon, and Vern Morphet, and two imposing policemen in orange and black were played by Harry Huffman and Jack Green.

Vern Morphet sang "Sleep, Ma Honey," Harold Snelgrove gave "My Wonderful Rose," and Bob Mackey's contribution to the programme, with chorus, was "Ah's Dun Contented." Miss McManus and Harold Snelgrove had a much applauded duet in "This Wonderful Hour," in which the two good voices were heard to splendid advantage.

"The Garden of the Shah" will be repeated this evening, and anyone who is interested in hearing and seeing an exceptionally good amateur show with plenty of movement and fun in its lines, and lovely settings, with pretty music, both vocal and instrumental, should not fail to patronize the second performance, which will no doubt surpass the first evening's production, if such a thing were possible.

"A ROYAL DIVORCE" WELL LIKED BY PETERBOROUGH FANS

Judging from the crowds and expressions of appreciation heard in all sides "A Royal Divorce" the life story of Napoleon Bonaparte is "going big" with the Peterborough public. The production deserves the patronage it is attracting for besides being intensely interesting it has considerable historical significance. It will be shown tonight for the last time locally.

"OUT OF LUCK" A ROLLICKING COMEDY FEATURE WITH HOOT GIBSON, AT ROYAL THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Hoot Gibson in "Out of Luck," Edward Sedgwick's diverting story of a cowboy's life in the havy, comes to the Royal Theatre commencing Thursday. It is a play combining thrills with laughs, and romance with the spectacular. Exciting fights and hilarious comedy alternate; the great Pacific Fleet in full review, and target practice with the huge guns of a superdreadnought add thrills to the picture, and romance runs through the action of the engrossing play.

The whimsical Hoot plays the part of a cowboy who runs away from his beloved prairie to join the navy. From the time he starts his career with a comically unsuccessful attempt to walk the boat-boom or sleep in a ship's hammock, on through his various stages of seasickness, and other incidentals of a nautical education the fun is fast and furious.

But underlying the fun there is a love story of deep heart-appeal, and typical Hoot Gibson thrills alternate with the laughs.

The naval scenes, taken on the U. S. S. California, flagship of the Pacific Fleet, during manoeuvers, are exciting and said to be true to life, having been personally supervised by Lieut. Tom Berrien, U. S. N., and a corps of navy officers.

Laura La Plante plays the principal feminine role, and others in the cast af the Universal attraction are Howard Truesdell, Elinor Hancock, Freeman Wood, Kansas Moehring, Jay Morley and John Judd.

ROYAL ANNOUNCES BIG ENGLISH COMEDIES

Manager McGeachie announced today that he had signed contracts for all the English productions that play the Piccadilly Theatre, Toronto. The first one, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next, "Stop Your Tickling Jock," an English-Scotch comedy based on the play of the same name so well known in the Old Country.

"The Sentimental Lord Sap," now playing Loews, Toronto, is also an early attraction. The best character actors of the stage or screen are British born, which is one of the reasons why the English comedies have been so successful and no doubt it will be welcome news to Peterboro fans to know that all these British comedies will be shown here right after their Toronto run.

AT THE GRAND.

"JUST MARRIED"

Adelaide Matthews and Anne Nichols' honeymoon farce comedy, "Just Married," will be presented by Jules Hurtig and the Messrs. Shubert at the Grand Saturday, November 24, matinee and night. The farce is excellent entertainment from every viewpoint. The cast is exceptionally able, the material is deftly handled and the laughter is continual and hearty. "Just Married" tells the story of a group of people homebound for America on the French liner Lafayette. As the ship is about to sail from Bordeaux the passenger list is increased by a young man somewhat the worse for a wedding dinner, or, more accurately, the accompanying drinks. By mistake he is assigned to share the stateroom of a pretty girl who is on board with her chaperones and fiance. No amount of description could do justice to the fun that this fast-moving farce provides. Clifford Stark staged the production under the direction of Jules Hurtig.

"CHEERIO" IS "DUMBELLS" LATEST.

"Cheerio" is the aptly descriptive title of Captain Plunkett's latest "Dumbells" overseas revue, which opens a limited engagement at the Grand on Monday, November 26. "Cheerio" is an even better entertainment that was "Carry On." All of the favorites of the latter show are still included in the cast, while several new artists have been added to the personnel of the company, the most notable of whom being the famous comedian division, or "See Too's, namely John Hagan. Mr. Hagan was a well-known professional before the war, having appeared here for several New York companies. He was engaged by the George Edwardes Company immediately the war was over, and for the past four years he has been the featured comedian of the Daly's and Lyrics theatres productions. His phenominal success as Suitangi in "The Lady Of The Rose" (called "The Lady in Ermine" in New York) is known to many Canadians who keep in touch with the English stage through the various stage and illustrated publications. His most recent and probably most pronounced success was in the big revue, "Whirled Into Happiness", which was produced by the Georges Edwardes Company at the Lyric Theatre. Mr. Hagan was starred in this revue, and was acclaimed the peer of the younger generation of comedians. One of his most amusing skits, "The Disorderly Room," has been obtained for "Cheerio", and will be a feature of the new show.

Al. Plunkett has a budget of new songs which are destined to prove the most popular musical hits of the coming season. He don't sing anything about Mother this time, but he has a "Granny" song that is going to get you. "Oh Gee, Oh Gosh, Oh Golly" promises to make you laugh while he smiles.

Ross Hamilton makes his first appearance as "Marjorie" from a cute little bungalow, and then tells you all about it. Another of his wonderful characterizations is the Canadian Beauty in "The Life of a Rose."

Stan Bennett has a couple of new "Vere de Vere" songs and plays an important part in the various sketches. Pat Rafferty has been cast to advantage, while T. J. Lilly and the other comedians, including the blackface team of Ben Allen and Jack Grace, have a wealth of new material. Captain Plunkett and his Overseas Orchestra are a feature.

THE ETERNAL STRUGGLE DRAMA OF THE NORTH AT CAPITOL THEATRE TOMORROW.

The marvelous beauty of the silent vast spaces of the frozen Canadian northland is the background for the massive Metro spectacle, "The Eternal Struggle," which is coming to the Capitol Theatre on Thursday. It was produced by Reginald Barker, credited with being the greatest director for this kind of pictures in the entire film world.

There are many thrilling episodes in "The Eternal Struggle" that will remain unrivaled for a long time. With great danger to himself and the big group of players he took with him, as well as at great expense, Mr. Barker spent many months in the bitter cold of the Arctic Circle filming dangerous scenes among gorges, ice-jams and hurtling rapids.

"The Eternal Struggle" is a Metro Louis B. Mayer presentation adapted by J. G. Hawks and Monte M. Katerjohn from G. B. Lancaster's novel, "The Law-Bringers." It was photographed by Percy Hilburn.

LAST DAY FOR VOTING. CAPITOL STAR CONTEST

Tonight is the last time for getting votes in for the Capitol Theatre Popular Star contest, to determine which of the many movie stars, is the favorite of Peterboro fans. Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the winning star will be shown at the Capitol in his or her latest picture. Because of the vast connections of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, special arrangements have been made to secure the very latest picture made by the best-liked star as selected by Capitol patrons.

The doors of St. Peters' at Rome are made of cypress and have lasted 1109 years.

In rural schools only 35 per cent of them have supervisors for physical education.

Any Child bringing a HORSESHOE will be admitted FREE Thursday at the ROYAL "OUT OF LUCK" with Hoot Gibson is the main attraction.

THOUSANDS OF FLEAS, NOT A SCRATCH ANYWAY, READ OF THIS FINE BATCH

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The scientists of the natural history department of the British Museum are delighted at a remarkable bequest from the late Nathaniel Rothschild in the form of the largest and most complete collection of fleas in the world. The collection comprises several thousand specimens, each carefully preserved in a tiny bottle.

Only a wealthy enthusiast could ever have gathered such an exhibition, for no government would be willing to spend the money which it cost Mr. Rothschild to gather this collection, and no scientific institution could afford to do so.

Mr. Rothschild was the world's foremost authority on this branch of study, which he made peculiarly his own.

THURSDAY EVENING FOR BLISS CARMAN

Noted Poet Will Be Heard in Collegiate Institute

Bliss Carman is everywhere meeting with large and appreciative audiences on his trans-Canadian tour

Capacity houses have greeted him at Hamilton, Toronto, London, Woodstock, Guelph, St. Thomas, Windsor and elsewhere. At Guelph the hall would not accommodate all who desired to hear him and a return visit will be necessary there.

The London "Free Press says, amongst other things of his address in that city: "Bliss Carman, Canadian poet laureate, gave an interpretation of his own verse to an audience which taxed the capacity of the Masonic Temple.

"To some in that vast audience the soul of Nature was laid bare as never before by the poetical creations of Bliss Carman. Into the innermost recesses of the heart of Nature penetrated the poet and nothing but beauty and holiness was revealed.

"Each reading brought down a volley of applause."

The citizens of Peterborough will have the opportunity of hearing Bliss Carman, Canada's greatest poet, to-morrow (Thursday) evening in the Assembly room of the Collegiate Institute at 8 p.m.

BRITISH ELECTION STILL UNCERTAIN

Nomination Day is Five Days On and There is No Indication Yet as to How Candidates Will Line Up.

LONDON, November 21 (Canadian Press Cable). — With five days still to nomination day, it is virtually guesswork prophesying how the parties will line up for the poll on the 6th of December.

The Unionists assert that there are only thirty constituencies where the candidates have not been suggested.

This, of course ,does not mean that every suggested candidate will become an actual candidate.

Much will depend in a number of instances on what is done in the surrounding constituencies.

If, for example, a Liberal or a Labour candidate is resolved to run against a perfectly safe Unionist, the Unionists probably would embark upon a forlorn hope in the neighbourhood constituencies merely to keep their opponents' workers busy.

Liberals, when nomination day arrives, probably will find themselves with as many potential candidates as the Unionists.

David Lloyd-George, fighting for a comeback in British politics, formally became a candidate for re-election to Parliament yesterday.

When the Liberal Party of the Carnarvon Boroughs in Wales adopted him as their candidate, he was the unanimous choice of the Carnarvon Liberals.

Lloyd-George has represented the Carnarvon Boroughs since he first went to the House of Commons.

WEDDING BELLS

ANDREWS—HENRY

A very quiet, but pretty wedding took place this morning at eleven o'clock in St. Andrew's church, when Mave Evelyn, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Henry, became the bride of James C. Andrews of Belleville the Rev. James Rollins officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Henry while Mr. E. M. Andrews supported the bridegroom. Mr. John Crane played the wedding march. After a short honeymoon the happy couple will reside in Belleville.

Financial News and Views

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, (United Press).—Stocks derived considerable buoyancy in the early dealing to-day from the statement by Jess Livermore that the investor in United States rail stocks would come into his own next year.

Chesapeake and Ohio led the standard rails with strength also in the low priced issues. The industrials were active at Rising prices with the oils the best acting group.

The tobaccos were also in demand under the influence of strength in the tobacco products issues.

Trading was diverted into the rails on a heavy scale through the first hour and additional ground was gained by many representative carrier groups under the lead of Reading which reached a new high on the movement at 79¼.

Big Four was a feature, spurting three points to 106.

On the heels of Mr. Livermore's bullish expression in rail outlook, George F. Baker, predicted that general prosperity would continue well into next summer. Business news also was constructive, generating buoyancy in many sections of the industrial list.

THE MISSION IN ST. GEORGE'S

Interest in the Mission at St. George's Anglican church is well sustained, good congregations being present every evening. The missioner, Rev. H. R. Mockridge, B.A., rector of All Hallows church, Toronto, puts the deep truths of the Christian religion in a simple yet most convincing manner and holds the attention of his hearers to a wonderful degree. The children's service, which takes place daily at 4.15 p.m. has met with the most encouraging response from the boys and girls who hurry eagerly to church from school and discuss the service and instruction among themselves afterward quite enthusiastically. The course of instruction to the children has been based on the fundamentals of the faith, the Incarnation and what it means; why and how Christ should be worshipped.

The subject on which the evening instruction is based is a proper relationship to God. How it can be attained and maintained.

On Sunday evening teh missioner explained the objects of the mission and gave a preliminary instruction on God.

On Monday he showed how sin has interfered with the harmony and unity that was meant to exist between God and man, and how Christ taught and opened the way of reconciliation by His gospel, His life and His Passion. The speaker explained that the first step in reconciliation is through repentance.

Last night he chose for his subject the second step to take in bringing about reconciliation with our Father in heaven, through acknowledgment of our sin or confession as it is most generally called.

To-night the subject will be Prayer and the service is open to anyone The whole mission is marked by a quiet, reverent devotional spirit and any who wish to avail themselves of a most helpful opportunity will be very welcome.

HUNTERS GOT THEIR COMPLEMENT OF DEER

The Head of Eagle Lake Hunt Club have returned home after a successful two weeks hunting in which they succeeded in getting their full complement of deer. The members say they had some of the best dogs in the woods and that deer were plentiful. Among those in the party were N. Nicholls of Buchkorn, Geo. Gauthier, Peterboro, Ben Heard, and S. Duvall of Young's Point and Mr. Ireland of Oregon.

DISTRICT HEAD OF ROTARY IS GUEST OF CLUB

INSPIRING ADDRESS

The Peterborough Rotary Club, at its weekly luncheon at the Empress to-day enjoyed a visit from the District Governor, Andy Wallace, of St. Catharines, who gave a most interesting and inspirational address upon Rotary principles and activities. The district governor was tendered a warm reception as he entered the room, being greeted with a chanted chorus of "Hello, Andy," followed by three hearty cheers. He was introduced by President V. J. McElderry in a neat speech.

Rotarian Wallace, after drawing attention to the fact that the local attendance record was not all that it should be, emphasized the importance of constant attendance at Rotary meetings and pointed out that four of the district clubs stood very high in the list.

The speaker then dealt with the origin of Rotary by Paul Harris, of Chicago, and sketched the rapid growth enjoyed by the organization. The first club had grown to 250 in 1916 and on the first of November of the present year there were no fewer than 1,556 clubs in the world with a total membership of over 90,000.

The district governor then reviewed the international machinery, showing how Rotary's affairs were directed and stressing the work of the various international committees and the programmes they were endeavoring to put over. Of his own work as district governor, he remarked that it occupied much more of his time than he had anticipated and that it would require six more solid weeks to visit the remaining clubs in the district. His reward, however, was the satisfaction of meeting groups of good fellows.

Rotarian Wallace then gave his hearers his conception of the manner in which Rotary principles should be lived up to by Rotarians. It was not enough to merely repeat over and over again like a school boy reciting his lessons, that Rotary lived according to the golden rule. They must leave the golden rule at home as well as every place else.

"Too many men," remarked the speaker, "take their accumulated grouches home and dump them on their wives."

He advised them not to be too busy looking after the welfare of other children that they had no time for their own, but rather to follow the Rotary principles everywhere. It was their duty to assist their officers with suggestions, for a Rotary Club was just what its members put into it.

In conclusion the district governor told his hearers of the District conference to be held in Buffalo in April and the International convention in Toronto in June, emphasizing the value of a good representation at each of these important gatherings.

Rotarian Wallace who was tendered a hearty vote of thanks, held a conference after the luncheon with the directors and chairmen of the various local committees.

Before the address of the day, Rotarian A. L. Killaly called the attention of the club to the incident in Saturday's rugby game referred to by the Examiner. He thought the boy in question emphasized the real Rotary spirit.

It was decided that the secretary should write Bob McKelvey of the Kingston team and express the appreciation of the Rotary Club.

The Rotarians took up the collection to help pay the expenses of the Bantam and Midget baseball leagues.

WERE FINED $100 FOR BREACH O.T.A.

Sidney Gogo and Francesco De Petro Appeared Before Magistrate Jones This Morning.

TORONTO, November 21 (Canadian Press). — Sidney Gogo and Francesco Di Petro, two of the men captured by the police during the raid on the motor boat Hattie C, an alleged rum-runner, on the morning of 6th October, were this morning fined $1,000, and costs, or three months in jail, by Magistrate Jones for breach of the Ontario Temperance Act.

The charges against the six others arrested during the raid were dismissed.

John Gogo, also a member of the crew of the Hattie C., was shot and killed by police bullets, which the officers claim, were fired in an attempt to sink the boat.

"This machine has brought me bliss Without it things would be amiss," reported Mr. Electroserve.

THE women who own an Easy washing machine say they would feel utterly lost on wash day if they didn't have it. They get the wash on the line by nine or nine-thirty and feel as if they haven't ruined a perfectly good day just because the family had to have some clean clothes, and it will pay for itself.

SLUICE GATES OF POLITICAL ORATORY OPEN

British Electors Engulfed In Converging Tides of Argument and Criticism —Leaders All in Action.

Britain As Exporter.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The election campaign finally got under full sway yesterday. All the party chiefs were in action, and the country has rarely heard such a flow of oratory as was produced by the combined efforts of Premier Baldwin at Reading, Mr. Lloyd George at Queen's Hall, London; Sir Robert Horne at Glasgow, Winston Churchill at Leicester, Mr. Asquith at Paisley, Neville Chamberlain at Birmingham, and Ramsay MacDonald at Newport and Cardiff.

Scores of lesser fry emulated their chiefs to the best of their ability, personalities are being bandied about rather freely already and there is promise of some lively exchanges before election day, on December 8.

Mr. Lloyd George had a further word for Premer Baldwin Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Baldwin the other day censured the former premier for descending to personalities. Lloyd George replied to-day:

"Mr. Baldwin said I amused him. I only said he isn't for his job."

Georgian Irony.

"You are told to vote protection in order to keep the home fires burning," continued Mr. Lloyd George. "Break up your ships — that will make a beautiful blaze. Put your cotton on fire—it will make warm flames. It is like the drunken man who breaks up his furniture and flings the pieces into the fire."

He declared that Great Britain, which the protectionists said had been "ruined by free trade," was in proportion to output the greatest exporter of manufactures. The United Staes exported £26,000,000 worth of cotton goods while Great Britain sent out £187,000,000 worth and the United States last year sold £38,000,000 worth of iron and steel, while the British exports were £61,000,000.

Not Tinker's Job.

"Baldwin said he would live and die a tinker," remarked Mr. Lloyd George in another part of his speech. "When the ship has sprung a leak from a great explosion it is not a tinker's job. We want a man who will tackle the job. I am not an applicant."

LINDSAY SHOOTING CASE IS FINISHED

Another Mystery Written Down in Annals of Hamilton's Criminal Record.

HAMILTON, Nov. 22. —(Canadian Press.)—Closed by Crown authorities last night because there was no new evidence to offer, the Lindsay shooting case bids fair to go down as another of Hamilton's unsolved mysteries. It was expected yesterday afternoon, however, that a young woman of Brantford might testify at the inquest. She was not called, as Crown Attorney Ballard did not think her evidence would thrown any fresh light on the mystery. The jury appeared to discard the theory of suicide for the open verdict read that Lindsay met his death from a pistol shot, "which was fired by some person or persons unknown."

15 Killed By Explosion of Two Boilers

BEAUMONT, Texas, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press)— Fifteen persons are dead and about the same number were injured as the result of a double boiler explosion at New Iberia, La., this afternoon, according to a telephone message received here last night

The dead include Oscar Broussard and his son, according to the message, which said the others had not been indentified.

Details of the explosion, which demolished the sugar plant where it occurred, were not given. The body of a negro was found one hundred feet from the scene, the head blown off, according to the report.

HEAVY PRISON TERM FOR COOK

Doctor of North Pole "Fame" Sentenced to 14 Years For Wildcat Oil Schemes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The Government is in a position, as a result of the conviction of Dr. Frederick A. Cook and others in Fort Worth yesterday, to stamp out the threatened epidemic of mail fraud and wildcat stock promotion schemes, Assistant Attorney General Grim declared tonight, upon his return from a conference with United States Attorneys at Fort Worth.

Mr. Crim asserted that active prosecution of the mail fraud cases at Fort Worth, now numbering more than 400, will be a policy of the Government. He predicted numerous pleas of guilty in those cases, adding that the Department of Justice and the Post office Department acting jointly had developed a machine for the prosecution of the cases that contemplates the release of none.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook was given a sentence of fourteen years and nine months and a fine of $12,000.

A. K. Eckman, the last of the defendants to be sentenced was given seven years in prison and a fine of $12,000.

TELEGRAPH POLES MAY BE REMOVED

The Victoria County Council Will Bring This Question Up at This Week's Session.

LINDSAY, November 22. — As the result of the action taken by Hon. Mr. Henry, Minister of Highways relative to the agreement of the Hon. F. C. Biggs with the Bell Telephone Co. in connection with the removal of the company's poles on Provincial highways, members of the Victoria County Council will raise the question at this week's session.

This county has at the present time an agreement with the Bell Telephone Company where the county pays half of the cost of the removal of the poles on many of the county roads.

It is claimed by some members that the Bell Telephone Company has no franchise over the county highways, and therefore the county should not assume any of the cost in connection with the removal of the poles when highways are widened.

The point is an interesting one, and of great importance to other municipalities.

LOS ANGELES AUTOMOBILE FINES BUILD STREETS.

LOS ANGELES, November 22.—Los Angeles, Cal. has a new motor vehicle law which provides that all traffic fines collected must go into a special fund to be used for street work.

Approximately $75,000 worth of street construction and repairs will be made in the city next year as a result of the violations of this law by speeders.

WINNIPEG RACE FOR MAYORALTY RAISES ISSUES

VOTE ON FRIDAY.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22 — (Canadian Press.)—Keen interest has developed here in the election of Winnipeg's 1924 mayor on Friday of this week. The candidates are B. J. Farmer, mayor during the past year, and seeking re-election as the candidate of the Independent Labor Party, and Robert Jacob, running under the endorsation of a new organization known as the Civic Association. Both candidates are members of the Legislature and Mr. Jacob for a short time was Attorney-General of Manitoba under the Premiership of Hon. T. C. Morris.

The campaign has develped many issues—the protection of Winnipeg's publicly-owned utilities, notably the hydro-electric system; the relations of the city to Winnipeg Electric Railway; the platform of the Independent Labor Party and Mr. Farmer's relation thereto, and the general question of public versus private ownership.

Buy Street Railway.

Mr. Farmer advocated that the city take over the street railway system on the expiration of the present franchise in 1927, and suggests that Mr. Jacob's condition is supported by elements which are not favorable to the development of public utilities. Mr. Jacob declares that he would leave to the electors the solution of the street railway problem, that he would protect and develop the Hydro system and maintains that capital is kept away from Winnipeg because the city has in office as mayor one who is affiliated with the Labor party.

The Winnipeg electric railway has no intention of asking for an extension of its franchise in 1924, it was stated today by A. W. McClimont, vice-president and general manager. Mr. McCliment issued the statement in denying reports made during the present campaign that his company would seek an extension from next year's council.

Several By-laws.

In addition to the election of mayor, aldermen and school trusttees the people are to vote on several money by-laws. One provides for the establishment, in connection with the Hydro system of a central steam heating plant for the business areas of the city and capable of expansion as business warrants. Another seeks advice on the proposed re-establishment of an annual exhibition here and asks for an expression of preference in the matter of three suggested sites.

No Election For Hydro Inspector

BELLEVILLE, November 22 (Canadian Press). — Because Hydro is sometimes an issue at municipal elections, "although not in Belleville," Alderman Harry Thompson, electrical inspector here, and aspirant for the mayor's seat in the Council, received orders yesterday not to run for any municipal honours.

This leaves the field now to Mayor Bennett and W C. Nikel, K.C., head of the United Empire Loyalists' celebration, 1924.

A STIRLING PASTOR EXPLAINS INCIDENT IN ASSAULT FRACAS

CASE IS PENDING

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—"I felt sorry for the old people in their loneliness and tried to help them about the farm all I could, but the townspeople thought my intentions selfish and attacked me shamefully."

Thus Rev. Elijah E. Bundock, pastor of the Apostolic church in Stirling, explained to the Examiner to-day the incidents which will be threshed out in court here on Friday when a number of Stirling men, whose names have not yet been divulged, will be charged with assault. The trial was to have opened yesterday, but was postponed.

Mr. Bundock, a short man of stocky build, who does not look his 50 years, told the Examiner his story of his relations with the Stewart family.

"I went to Stirling in November, 1920, to start an Apostolic church," he explained, "and lived at the home of Mrs. Stewart. We got along splendidly. I was working the Stewart farm on shares besides preaching and had come to an agreement, through a power of attorney, to run the farm."

Mr. Bundock said he also held a first mortgage on the Stewart property. This, Mr. Bundock says, was given him for moneys loaned and for his share of the farm proceeds. "My intentions were honorable and I was trying to do good," he said.

According to Mr. Bundock, Mrs. Stewart first showed dissatisfaction with the arrangements in July last. Then on August 7 he received a letter from her demanding that he vacate the premises. He replied by sending in a claim for amounts alleged to be due to him. This claim, Mr. Bundock says, was settled by an agreement, which is now in dispute between the parties.

"Meantime a wave of lawlessness broke out against me," -continued Mr. Bundock. "On Nov. 2 some youths stoned the church and broke windows. On the night of November 9 the house was attacked by a mob using guns and a regular battle followed. They made the house inhabitable and I went with my wife, who was living elsewhere.

"After that things quieted down, but on the night of Nov. 13, after divine service, I was grabbed by painted men just as I stepped from the church. They threw a rope around me, but with my own strength and with the help of Mr. McGowan, this was pulled off. I was dragged over a fence screaming for help. There were plenty of men about but they didn't help me and my face was gagged so tightly I could hardly breathe. Then they put me on my back, their knees on my chest and a rope around my throat until automobiles came along. When they eased off a little I jumped up, but four men leaped on my head and knocked me down again.

"They drove about three miles, stopped and held a sort of war council over me. One poured tar on my face, head and hands, then they blindfolded me and said they were going to shoot me. One man objected and said drowning would be better, so they removed the bandage from my eyes and drove me to Anderson's Island, where I was roughly grasped and hurled headlong on the stones. The sharp stones cut a deep gash in my knee and otherwise bruised me all over.

"Then they demanded I run for my life and as I started, jumped on me and hurled me to the rocks again and again. They took my money but gave it back on the promise that I would never again visit Stirling. They ripped my suit and overcoat to ribbons, then abandoned me to the cold. A gentleman living nearby helped me to get fixed up and then Mr. McGowan drove out and fetched me."

Four Year Term For Having Narcotics

VANCOUVER, November 22 (Canadian Press).— Harry Wallin found guilty of having drugs in his possession and suspicted of being one of the leaders of.... an international drug smuggling ring sending drugs through the mails,.... was sentenced in Police Court yesterday to four years in the Penitentiary, and a fine of $1,000, with a further sentence of one year in case of default of payment.

OPEN FUND FOR LAW MEMORIAL

Monument to Late British Premier in New Brunswick Village.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 22.—Premier P. J. Veniot, who was in the city yesterday had his attention called to the suggestion put forth by J. Clarence Webster of Shediac, formerly of Chicago, who is a member of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, that the people of New Brunswick should show their appreciation of Andrew Bonar Law by erecting a granite monument to his memory in his native village of Rexton, Kent county.

The Premier thought the idea an excellent one and said he would support by word and deed and asked that his subscription be taken.

Dr. Webster heads the subscription list. He estimates that a splendid boulder of New Brunswick granite with suitable bronze tablet could be placed in Rexton for $1,000 or $1,200. He names as a committee in charge of the fund, Col. Murray MacLaren, M.P. of this city. Premier P. J. Venit and A. B. Carson, of Rexton.

GRAIN BOATS HELD UP BY BAD STORM

Only Seven Boats Cleared From Port Arthur and Fort William Yesterday

FORT WILLIAM, Nov. 22.—Storms on the lower lakes have caused delay in the arrival of the float, of grain boats which has been reported as coming up light for some days, with the result that while there are twenty-five boats reported today as on the way up the lakes, only seven cleared from Port Arthur and Fort William and five are loading last evening. The storm never touched the upper end of Lake Superior though on the lower lakes vessels were running to shelter and have been delayed two and three days. Of the twentyfive boats on the list, seven are listed as overdue The seven boats that cleared, five of which are American carried between them 1,821,000 bushels, almost evenly divided between wheat and coarse grains. The big Canadian steamer J. H. G. Hagarty took out a cargo of 425.000 bushels of which 325,000 were oats and the balance wheat and rye.

BAGGED 4 BEARS AT THE ONE DEN

Deer Hunters Secured More Bears Than Deer

SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—While on a deer hunt at Victoria Mines, Henry Lamon was about to shoot a partridge, when he noticed a bear emerge from a den less than a dozen feet from him. He shot it and another appeared. Lamon hurriedly left for his hunting camp not far away and the remainder of the party accompanied him to the den. Lamon bagged three more bears before the hole was declared empty. The party also got three deer.

SHERIFF HALL SEIZES COAL FOR THE CITY

DENIES OWNERSHIP

Following a writ issued by the Supreme Court on behalf ohe County of Peterborough, Sheriff Hall has offered for sale three car loads of coal alleged to have been consigned by Miss Sohpie Kohen to Canadian Coal Supply, the trade name, it is said, under which she operates.

The cars are stored on the Aladdin siding of the C.N.R., and were advertised for auction on Wednesday. The coal has not been unloaded and will be sold on the cars.

In this seizure the City grasped an opportunity for collecting a long outstanding debt, according to municipal expectation.

This coal was sent here for prospective sale to local dealers and the shipment consists of egg, nut and buckwheat caol, valued at $1,585.65, which when demurrage is subtracted, would meet Miss Cohen's liability to the city and leave a margin.

The seizure was reported to Council's fuel committee by Chairman Ald J. O. Fife, when the following transcation was recalled:

During a fuel shortage some three years ago, Council entered into a deal with Miss Sophie Cohen for the purchase of coal. Some $2,000 were placed in a bank at Scranton, Penn., for payment of coal shipped here, and it was alleged that three cars drawn for never reached Peterborough's fuel committee.

The city sued Miss Cohen for repayment of $600 officials claimed she had got for coal not delivered and obtained judgment for that amount with costs, toalling in all $800. That sum the city has not been able to collect in the ordinary way.

And Ald. Fife wanted to know what his committee proposed to do about it, when committee decided, on motion of Ald. Holloway, to advise Miss Cohen that unless she pays her liability to the city the latter will expropriate the three cars of coal to meet judgment against her; costs, incidental expenses and freight demurrage, allowing her in cash for whatever coal is not needed to meet this debt.

This coal has been on the C.N.R. siding for some time, consigned to the Canadian Coal Supply, which means, it is claimed, Miss Cohen. She arrived in town a fortnight ago and endeavored to dispose of the coal to local dealers and Peterborough Utilities. Officials of Utilities, remembering the outstanding judgment against Miss Cohen, advised the city authorities, who in turn placed the matter in the hands of City Solicitor Joseph Wearing. The solicitor, proving the city's judgment claim against Miss Cohen, instructed Sheriff Hall to seize the three cars of coal in satisfaction of said judgment, which he did yesterday.

The demurrage on coal left on a railway siding is $1 per car the first day and $5 a car each subsequent day.

Repudiates Ownership.

Miss Cohen who, while in the city, was interviewed by the Examiner, asserted that the city had made a mistake as the three cars of coal in question are not her property.

CONSERVATIVE FOR FEDERAL CONTEST.

A. J. Doucet Nominated For By-Election In Richibucto.

MONCTON, N. B., Nov. 22. — Councillor Alex. J. Doucet, of Notre Dame, was the canddiate nominated at the Liberal-Conservative convention held at Richibucto yesterday afternoon to contest the county of Kent in the federal by-election to be held Dec. 20 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Auguste Legere, the sitting member. The delegates who represented every school district in the county numbered 250. Hon. D. V. Landry was first nominated but declined the honor and Councillor Doucet was the only other placed before the convention and he was unanimously chosen.

After the nomination speeches were made by the candidate, Hon. Dr. Landry and Hon. J. B. M. Baxter.

TRIED TO STOP RUM SHIPMENTS

Hon. Jacques Bureau Replies to Reflection of the Toronto Globe on the Customs Department.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(By Canadian Press).—"I defy prohibitionist newspapers in Ontario to show where the Federal Department of Customs has failed to do all in its power to co-operate with American officials in preventing illicit shipments of liquor entering the United States from Canada."

This statement made by Hon. Jacques Bureau, upon his return from the West to-day, was in reply to attacks upon his department which had appeared in the Toronto Globe.

"This newspaper," said the Minister of Customs and Excise, "says I am not a prohibitionist and it proceeds to infer that because of my personal opinions on that question my department has not made a sincere effort to co-operate with American customs officers at border points in preventing Canadian liquor shipments from reaching the United States in defiance of the laws of that country."

Denies Interview

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Upon his return from the west to-day, Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs and Excise emphatically denied a statement credited to him in Winnipeg newspapers to the effect that he had promised to recommend the placing of a Canadian customs officer at New York to supervise transhipment of cargoes from the eastern or western provinces through the Panama Canal.

"While I was in Winnipeg," said the minister, "I did not talk to a newspaperman. At no time during my tour of the west did I promise to recommend the appointment of a customs officer for the port of New York. All I promised was to lay the whole question before my colleagues."

"I admit that I am not a prohibitionist and I wish to inform the prohibitionist press of this country that it cannot bully me into playing the role of a hypocrite by forcing me to profess opinions I do not hold Every man, whether he be a Minister of the Crown or otherwise, has a right to his personal opinions, and while I do not believe in prohibition I want it clearly understood that Customs officers along the international border have been instructed to go further than might reasonably be expected in their efforts to see that the laws of a friendly nation were not violated."

DIVIDED RANKS OF OPPOSITION AND UNIONISTS

CONSCRIPT WEALTH.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—As the election campaign proceeds the prospects fo rthe Conservatives, with their new policy of protection, looks to be brightening, mainly because there is yet no sign of co-operation between the Liberal and Labor Parties to avoid mutually destructive tactics in the constituencies.

This antagonism between the two free trade parties, so far as the speeches are concerned, centers on the question of a capital levy, which is as hotly denounced by the Liberals as by the Conservative speakers. For example, Sir John Simon, at Clockheaton last night declared that a capital levy, as a cure for unemployment, was as fantastic as a general tariff.

Labor's Capital Levy.

These attacks from Liberal platforms compel the Labor speakers in defence to keep to the front the feature of their programme, namely a capital levy, which they would otherwise prefer not to emphasize in the present campaign. It is true some of the Labor organs assert that for every single vote they lose through advocacy of a capital levy, they will gain ten votes among the working classes, who will not be affected by the levy; but since the idea of a levy frightens the whole business community and the middle classes, the Labor leaders themselves are not anxious to push it to the fore.

H. G. Wells, the writer, who is contesting London University in the Labor interest, strongly emphasized in his election address the cleavage between the Liberal and the Labor Parties. He says that the Liberal Party offers no remedies whatever for unemployment, but simply opposes the remedies suggested by both Conservative and Labor parties.

"That," declares Mr. Wells, "in the face of our present need is a monstrously cruel and cowardly policy."

Conscript Wealth.

Mr. Wells support a capital levy, which he describes as "a special conscription of credit from rich men for the general need in a time of profound economic distress."

While the Liberals and Laborites are thus increasingly at loggerheads, the reconciliation among the Liberals themselves is becoming more strongly cemented. A piquant incident yesterday illustrated this reconciliation. During the Liberals' feud with Mr. Lloyd George, while the former premier was so closely identified with the Conservatives in the coalition, the National Liberal Club of London, which is the home of Asquithian Liberalism, voted the removal of portraits of Mr. Lloyd George and Winston Spencer Churchill from the dining room of the club and these portraits were accordingly relegated to the basement of the building. To-day the committee of the club unanimously voted their restoration to their former place of honor in the dining room.

In the speaking campaign all the big leaders are getting ovations of an exceptional character from their admirers.

BRITISH COLUMBIA BREWERIES LINK UP

Will Supply Government Requirements — Central Distributing Agency.

VICTORIA, B.C., Nov. 22. — British Columbia brewers have created a central beer distributing agency from which the government will purchase all beer for sale in liquor stores it was announced at the attorney-general's department yesterday. Amalgamation of all breweries in the province has just been completed following negotiations stretching over several months

Creation of a central beer distributing agency will improve beer conditions in British Columbia greatly in the opinion of the Attorney- General and liquor officials. Under the new plan all beer being sold through one organization the element of competition among breweries will be entirely eliminated, it was explained.

"I believe it will aid materially in the enforcement of the province's liquor laws," Mr. Manson, the Attorney-General, declared.

AMERICAN MUSIC IS PASSING OUT.

Americanization Work Should Take on Some Practical Form of Patronizing Our Own Artists and Musicians.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Unless greater opportunity is provided American musicians to compete with European talent, the study of music in this country, as the basis of a professional career, had better be abandoned.

This is the opinion of Mrs. David Allen Campbell, vice-president of the National Federation of Music Clubs and chairman of the committee on music of the National Council of Women.

One alternative, in the belief of Mrs. Campbell, is action by women's organizations throughout the country to give preference to American rather than foreign artists in their programs.

"Never was there a time in the history of the world when we needed more the healing influence of music than now," Mrs. Campbell says, "but if our young people entering professional life in music are to live decent, respectable lives, American women must look some facts squarely in the face.

"More than 40,000 students go to New York alone every year expecting to enter the profession of music. In addition, there are many thousands pursuing the same career in other cities. Many of these students make great sacrifices to get the finishing which the city teacher is supposed to give.

Discouragement.

"But what happens after the diploma is awarded and the finished artist is pronounced 'fine'?

"They apply to managers and clubs for a hearing at a small fee, to gain experience for their future development. They are told they have 'no box office value.'

'Their money is gone and they are broken in spirit. There is no avenue through which to gain that experience which is as important as technique.

"Now I say with emphasis, if we do not find a way to make practical the output of the thousands of teachers and schools in this country, we had better direct the talents of the young people into some channel in which they can, at least, earn a livelihood!

Help Wanted.

"Americanization work should take on some practical form of patronizing our own artists and musicians. If the musical talent in America is to have a real opportunity for expression, it is time for women's organizations to do something practicable in support of American artists.

"Passing resolutions asking someone else to provide the opportunity will not save the situation."

BIG SISTERS TO ORGANIZE AGAIN

Meeting Will Be Held Tomorrow Evening in Chamber of Commerce

At the Chamber of Commerce board-rooms to-morrow evening at eight o'clock, Miss Emily M. Mohr, of Toronto, general secretary of the Big Sister Association of that city, will deliver a lecture on "Home Building and Girl Welfare Work. Miss Mohr will also address the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon to-morrow.

The occasion to-morrow evening will mark a re-organization of the Big Sisterhood Society of this city, which will be known as simply the Big Sisters' Society, hereafter. This society has done a great deal of good in its consideration of girl welfare problems and reconstruction of homes, as well as numerous charitable activities. There will be a silver collection taken up tomorrow evening to defray expenses of the meeting.

NO TRACE YET OF BOYS WHO DISAPPEARED FROM CANOE FOUND DERELICT

Investigation and Search Yesterday Fail to Give Hope of Their Having Escaped Drowning — Dan Whetung Has Word of Hope.

SEARCH FOR BODIES.

Eddie Martin and Tom Rice, the two young men who, it is said, took a canoe from Mr. J. S. Coon's summer cottage at Pigeon Lake, have not yet been found, and their fate remains in doubt. The canoe was recovered in Curve Lake, about a mile south-east of the Indian village yesterday forenoon.

Henry Martin, brother of the missing man, interviewed by the Examiner at Curve Lake yesterday afternoon, said the canoe when he found it was half full of water, and its contents of clothing, cushions and paddles were strewn along the shore line. His brother, this young man said, had seldom been in a canoe and was not at all a good waterman. He believed the Indian, Tom Rice, was a poor boatman, too. The Martin boys are wards of the Children's Aid Society at Stratford, both working on neighboring farms in Ennismore. Eddie was living with Vincent Murphy while Henry is with James Holland, near the Ennismore Cross. Rice worked with Dan Cadigan.

Search Party Out.

A search party consisting of Vincent Murphy, Dan Cadigan, Henry Martin and others, searched the lake from end to end yesterday, and only gave up the search with the approach of night. Mr. Murphy told the Examiner that young Martin was an exemplary boy, well behaved, and a good worker. Both Mr. and Mrs. Murphy are anxiously awaiting word of him.

Dan Whetung appeared to be of the opinion that the boys had turned the canoe loose and strewn the clothing around to cover their tracks while they made for the lumber camps.

George Nichols, near whose home the canoe was found, did not see the boys nor did any of the neighbors along the roads by which the boys must have travelled if they landed near the point where the canoe was found and where the clothing was washed up on the bank.

Provincial Constable R. F. Davis is investigating the supposed fatality, and if no word is received of the boys by Tuesday next, it is probable that parties will be organized to search the lake for the bodies.

GUNS PRIMED FOR POULTRY THIEVES

Geese and Turkeys Stolen With Flocks of Chickens.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 22.—The prevalence in and about Lakefield of poultry thieves has caused a general tightening up as fowl are barred and bolted into their quarters and in some cases their owners have loaded guns ready for intruders. When one reckons the labour and expense that raising a flock of chickens (to say nothing of geese and turkeys) entails, one can hardly wonder that the owners think it a sorry joke when a thief takes a flock and reaps the reward.

Mission Attendance.

Regarding the mission held in St. John's church last week and ending on Sunday, November 18th, the total number of communicants was 101 and the total attendance to all the services 767.

Smiling Tax-Collector.

Chief R. J. Webster is holding his semi-annual receptions every day now for the receipt of taxes as up to December 1st taxes are due. After this date interest is charged. The motto "better late than never hardly applies here." The genial Chief makes tre "receptions" very pleasant and they are far from being the awe-inspiring interviews one might expect,

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT MARMORA SCHOOL

MARMORA, Nov. 22.—The Public School of Marmora at the present time boasts the largest attendance in its history. There are a hundred and ninety pupils enrolled in the four rooms and more pupils are coming in yet. The pupils of the school have already commenced preparations for their Christmas closing.

MAKES A PLEA MORE HARMONY

Belgian Foreign Minister Outlines Belgium's Foreign Policy.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 22.— (United Press)—Maintenance of the Entente between Britain and France was urged by Foreign Minister Jaspar, in a speech before the Belgian Parliament yesterday as one of the principal aims of Belgium's Foreign policy. Jaspar declared the Entente's value, at a time when relations are so critical between the two allies was received as an eleventh hour plea for England and France to harmonize their differences.

Japan announced that the Belgian Government would demand reparation from Germany for the recent action of the Reichswehr, the German National army, in detaining two Belgium officers at Leipzig.

He outlined Belgium's Foreign Policy as follows:

1—Neutrality toward the German separatists.

2—The occupation of the Ruhr should be a means, not an end.

3—Maintainance of the Anglo-French Entente.

4—Belgium's Foreign Policy must be based upon her own interests, not upon dictation from abroad.

5—The return of the former Crown Prince to Germany and Germany's refusal to disarm should be met with sanctions agreed upon by the Council of Ambassadors.

MRS. JESSIE FLYNN INHERITS FORTUNE

Left This Week From Montreal on the S.S. Metagama for Her Home in Scotland.

LINDSAY, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Jessie Flynn, wife of Mr. Leo Flynn, of Downeyville, sailed this week from Monteral on the S. S. Metagama, for her home in Scotland, where she has been left a fortune of £17,000 from an estate belonging to her grandfather, who died in 1908.

Mrs. Flynn came to this section about two years ago. Her husband is Mr. Leo Flynn, of Downeyville. She states that she will return and make her home in Lindsay as soon as the affairs in connection with the estate are settled up.

WEDDING BELLS

O'SHEA—CATHCART.

A very pretty wedding took place at Our Lady of Lourdes church, Toronto, when Gladys Pauline, daughter of Hon. Geary Cathcart, of Columbus, Ohio, was married to Mr. James Vernon O'Shea, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James H. O'Shea, of Peterboro. The bride wore grey silk crepe, enriched with exquisite cream lace, and motif of pearls at the girdle. She also wore a corsage bouquet of yellow roses and lilies of the valley, and small grey hat with drape of silver lace. Miss Jean Leslie, in blue silk, and hat to match, was bridesmaid. Mr. Legree acted as best man. Rev. John E. Burke, C.S.P. officiated. After a wedding breakfast at the King Edward Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. O'Shea left for a short honeymoon trip. They will reside in the Nanton Apartments on their return.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

SUPPORTED SCHOOL.

C. H. DAVIDSON,
Former Reeve of Campbellford, Defeated last year on High School Issue can point to Completion of Project he Advocated.

DAVIDSON MAY BE CANDIDATE

Former Campbellford Reeve's High School Policy Vindicated By Year's Events.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22.—Already, prophecies regarding elections are beginning to take vague shape in Campbellford. The offices of Mayor, town councillors, reeve and deputy reeve, and several seats on the Board of Education will be vacant at the end of the year.

Mayor Meyers is non-commital about the question as to whether he will run for the office of chief executive for a fourth time. His third term is rapidly drawing to a close, and all indications point to a favorable decision by the electorate should he decided to contest the field for another year. It is rumored that the present reeve of the township, J. A. Anderson, may be a candidate for mayoralty honors in the approaching contest, and that C. H. Davidson, who had been reeve for several years may run again. Mr. Davidson was defeated last year. He was favourable to the High School building in the recent controversy over the erection of the new edifice, and thinks that his course has now been vindicated.

It is claimed by those who regard with disfavour the location of the new school, situated as it is, on a comparatively low level, that the building, when completed, will cost the ratepayers something in the neighborhood of $150,000, instead of the $100,000 at one time estimated.

It is reported also that construction work on the new Number Eight Dam by the Hydro Commission is being halted to a certain extent by trouble with water levels, caused by seamy rock formation.

Anson Connor is busy shipping a considerable quantity of lumber from his Bradley Bay headquarters.

FOUND HIS SISTER AFTER SEARCHING FOR 67 YEARS

DORA, Ala., Nov. 22.—(United Press).—George Williams for sixty-seven years searched cities, towns and villages in all parts of the country for his sister.

Williams was 23 and his sister 15 years old when they parted years ago. Now he is bent and gray, 90 years old, and she is 83 and the mother of a large family.

After years of fruitless search Williams hear that his missing sister had married Frank Manasco and was living in a mining camp in Alabama. Visits to every small mining town in the State failed to reveal the whereabouts of his sister.

In his wandering Williams came to Dora and learned his sister had lived here several months before. He took up the trail again and according to word received here, the old man's search has ended in Jenny Lynd, Ark., where he found his sister.

ARDOR COOLS WHEN SHE SEES HER MAIL WOOER

PORTLAND, Me., November 22.—Nicholas Hamm, of Saratoga Springs, N.Y., wrote daily to Miss Kitty Fowler, a pretty English girl. They became engaged, hands clasping across the sea.

"Come to my arms," begged Nicholas. Kitty agreed.

But when Kitty saw Nick it was all off. She "gave him the gate," as the longshoreman said. She is twenty-one and she found Nick to be forty-three.

Kitty sailed back to England on the steamship Leviathan. Nick, sadly disappointed, took the train back to Saratoga Springs. Cupid had certainly done a punk job.

CUTS OFF SON'S HAND BECAUSE HE WAS THIEF

MOSCOW, Nov. 22.—A Russian woman the wife of a railway worker at Kiev, has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment for cutting off the right hand of her thirteen-year old son. The mother testified that her son was an habitual thief and that she cut off his hand to cure him. The son, it was brought out at the trial, submitted to the maiming, blindfolded, because he feared further beatings at the hand of his mother. Because her family of five children needed her attention the mother was paroled.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Funeral of Mrs. Salter Took Place Yesterday—Personal Items of Interest.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Salter took place yesterday afternoon. Her remains were brought from Peterborough on the 1.33 p.m. train and from there to Mount Pleasant cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. F. W. Wood, J. A. Irwin, Chas. Hay, G. A. Kingston, Jno. Gay and James Dorie.

The late Elizabeth M. Salter was born in New Brunswick seventy-seven years ago. About fifty years ago she and her husband, the late Wm. Salter, came to Warkworth to live. Then about thirty years ago they and their family moved to Campbellford. Eleven years ago her husband died. In 1913 she moved to Peterborough with her daughter, Mrs. Mabel Gardner, with whom she had been living. She leaves to mourn her loss, four daugthers and one son. They are: Mrs. R. C. Armstrong of Vars, Ont., Mr. Mabel Gardner and Mrs. Stilson, of Peterborough, and Miss Hattie of San Francisco. The only son living is George T. Salter, of Campbellford. Her other son, Wm. J. Salter, was killed in the Great War in 1917. Sergt. Geo. T. Salter was also overseas with the band. The late Mrs. Salter was a faithful wife and loving mother and will be missed by her family. She endeared herself to all who knew her, because of her kind and cheery disposition. She was a member of Trinity Methodist church, Peterborough. There were many beautitful floral tributes to her memory.

The friends of Mrs. Wm. Green will be glad to know she is getting better after her fall a while ago. Mrs. Green fell down through a trap door in the pantry, which had been left open by mistake, into the cellar. Fortunately no bones were broken, but she cut her head in three places and was pretty well shaken up. She is able to be around again.

POLICE MADE A GOOD CLEAN-UP

Prisoners May Be Implicated in Peterboro Case

TORONTO, November 22. — Canadian Press. — An alarming spread of crime in different parts of the province, has, in the opinion of the provincial police, received a sudden check by the arrest of three men and a woman in Toronto. Much stolen property has been recovered. In this connection, the provincial police regard the arrests as important and promise further revelations in connection with the crime wave which swept over Coldwater, Elmvale, Hodgson, and parts spread to Peterboro, where a young woman gave the hold-up men an intensely exciting time when they attempted to rob her.

Yesterday Provincial Inspectors Stringer and Hughes, Sergt. Gurnett and Constable Doyle visited dwellings on Brock avenue and Dundas street and discovered more stolen property. George Anderson, Owen Smith and Annie Smith were placed under arrest in connection with theft charges.

The story of William Anderson, held at Orillia, and who admitted participation in one robbery points to a party of four men and a woman leaving Toronto, Sunday, Nov. 11th, and driving to Midland for supper. Leaving Midland at 9 o'clock, the party drove to the farm of Lorne Draper where a robbery took place and William Anderson was shot in the cheek.

TORONTO WOMAN KILLED BY CAR

Nine Other Persons Injured in Automobile Accidents.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Harry Marcus, aged 35, was killed by a street car at Dundas Street and Spadina Avenue yesterday afternoon. Nine other persons were injured in automobile accidents.

Crossing from the north to the south side of Dundas Street at Spadina, Mrs. Marcus walked from behind an automobile in front of an eastbound Dundas car. The car threw a woman for some distance, injuring her so badly that she was pronounced dead when doctors examined her at the General Hospital.

JACK DEMPSEY IS VERY MUCH ALIVE

Radio Fan in the Country Hears Report of Fighter's Death.

This morning a radio fan in the country called up the Examiner to say that he had received word over the radio last evening that Jack Dempsey had been run over by a stolen automobile in Chicago and killed. The Examiner made careful enquiries in Chicago and from Los Angeles where Dempsey is at present located the following wire was received at 11 o'clock to-day:

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Jack Dempsey world's champion fighter, looked up from real estate contracts long enough to-day to laugh at reports that he had been killed. He is very much alive and well.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1923.

THE ENGINEERING INSTITUTE.

The Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada is to be congratulated upon the success of its annual dinner and upon the high place it has gained in the organization, as evidenced by the attendance of the President and Secretary of the Canadian body and other prominent engineers.

Since its inception the Peterborough branch has been a live institution, and it has not selfishly kept its good things to itself.

Many eminent speakers have been brought here to discuss matters of national interest, and to these meetings the public has been cordially invited, so that the Engineering Institute has been an inexhaustible mine of information on subjects about which there cannot be too many opportunities to learn.

The address on the St. Lawrence development scheme the other night was typical of the standard that has been given under the auspices of the Peterborough branch, which has earned the gratitude of the community for its very evident desire to be of general service.

JUVENILE READING.

The decision of the Guelph Public Library to refuse to issue fiction to children under fourteen years of age has been unfavourably commented upon by several newspapers, and the Examiner agrees with the papers that have found fault with this policy.

There is fiction and fiction, of course, and there are problem novels and sex stories in all our public libraries that would be dangerous reading for juveniles.

But at the same time, listed as fiction there are many books with which the children should be encouraged to familiarize themselves.

The stories of Dickens and Scott, the historical works of Henty, the adventure stories of Ballantyne and Mayne Reid, such books as "Alice in Wonderland" and hundreds of others should be available to young readers, and if it is the intention of the Guelph Library authorities to cut off such books along with the general run of fiction a serious mistake is being made.

A much better plan—if there is not a children's section containing such stories as enumerated above—would be for the staff of the Library to exercise a supervision over the books selected by youngsters.

They should be sufficiently well acquainted with the books upon their shelves to know just what stories should be kept out of youthful hands, and to guide their young readers into choosing fiction that will be helpful as well as interesting.

THE CAPITAL LEVY.

The British electors, if they are not bothered with poor memories, in considering the Labour party's capital levy proposal, the outstanding feature of Labour's platform, will not fail to recall the recent vote in Switzerland upon this very question.

Switzerland has a constitution which permits any 50,000 citizens acting together to initiate legislation, and in accordance with this provision the Socialist party not long ago brought forward a bill providing for a direct levy on capital, the rate rising in proportion to income until a maximum of 60 per cent. on fortunes over half a million dollars was reached.

Eighty-eight thousand people signed the petition for that bill, and at first glance the successful passing of the measure seemed to be reasonably assured.

They are thrifty folk the Swiss, and the majority of them have savings.

The more they studied the levy on capital the more they realized that they were all to more or less a degree capitalists, and that there was a chance of their savings being confiscated.

The more easily alarmed made haste to save their capital by withdrawing it from the banks, one hundred million francs being withdrawn in the first week after the definite proposal was brought down, while those who did not go this far in protecting their capital made sure of the defeat of the levy plan.

Although 88,000 people had petitioned for the measure, only some 21,000 more than that number voted for it, and it was overwhelmingly defeated, the total vote being 730,584 to 109,434 against.

That result should furnish the British electors with considerable material for thought.

SHOULD BEGIN AT HOME.

A thought left by District Governor Wallace of St. Catharines with the Peterborough Rotary Club yesterday is worthy of consideration by many other citizens in addition to those to whom his remarks were addressed.

It was that people should not be so busy in looking after other children that they had no time to spare for their own families.

Unfortunately, there is need of such a warning in too many cases, and it would be good discipline for people generally to measure themselves with the yardstick of Rotarian Wallace's admonition.

Neglected children must be taken care of, crippled children must be helped, delinquent children must be put on the path of good citizenship and underprivileged children must be given a chance.

It is the duty of all good citizens to see that these things are done, but it is also the duty of all good citizens to see that in the doing of them there is no neglect of their own children.

A cartoon in a contemporary the other day, dealing with a father and son week campaign, illustrated two ways in which respective fathers entered into the spirit of the occasion.

One presented his son with five dollars and told him to go out and buy something for himself; the other made a chum of his boy.

In the effort to do something for other people there is too great a tendency to act as father No. 1 did—take it for granted that the boy is all right as long as he has the food and clothes he needs and a little money to spend.

Rotary's District Governor uncovered a weak spot when he emphasized that point yesterday, and his visit will be of general benefit if it causes some earnest thought along that line.

FRANCE AND BRITAIN.

The Entente with France still stands. The thread which binds the agreement may be thin and worn by constant friction, but provided there is no actual severance of its last artery the life-blood of its being will continue to flow. At a time when the breaking of the bonds must cause further embitterments, and must cloud the issue in one of the most momentous domestic elections that Britain has ever known, the continance of the Entente—if it can be accomplished without loss of the national honor in which it has been sustained—is a "consummation devoutly to be wished."

At a time when history is being made from hour to hour, it is difficult to follow the course of events with any certainty of conviction, but it is obvious that the dangerous meeting of the Council of Ambassadors this morning passed off without the rupture that enemies of the Entente hoped for and that the general tone of the French press towards the crisis is more hopeful. Of course the day of parting may only have been postponed, but the most dangerous torrent in the history of the post-war relations of France and Britain has been navigated or at least the barque of the Entente has slipped through without upsetting.

The French Premier, according to long established custom, has been making one of his outspoken speeches at Neuilly. Taken by itself, as the carefully worded pronouncement of a Premier at a time of the very gravest international crisis, this speech has a most alarming sound. If M. Hanotaux had spoken half so violently on the eve of the Marchand affair, or if M. Delcasse had primed his arguments with such dynamite in 1899, the tocsin of war would most probably have been heard before night. The world, however, is getting somewhat used to M. Poincare's Sunday fireworks and it discounts his strong words.

It is far more significant that the semi-official Temps of Paris should attack the policy of guarantees and incidentally speak disfavorably of the occupation of the Ruhr, saying with truth that guarantees ought to permit the nation that demands them to diminish its efforts rather than augment them.

* * * *

France demands the aid of the Allies under the Treaty of Versailles to bring about the expulsion of the Crown Prince from Germany and that all the Allies shall join in insisting that the inter-Allied Commission of military control shall resume those functions which it ceased to perform when Poincare took action on his own account and forcibly occupied the Ruhr. France further demands that if these things are not done more sanctions shall be applied, further areas shall be occupied.

Britain cannot accept the principle of further sanctions for she has declared that the entry into the area already occupied was an "illegal act." If France continues to make further sanctions a sine qua non for the continuance of her policy, the Entente must be broken. Yet Britain does not want to see the reactionary militaristic movement gain ground in Germany. If France will modify her demands and will withdraw her threat of more sanctions, a modus vivendi for the Entente can yet be found. The fact that no rupture has occurred this morning at the meeting of the Ambassadors' Council is an indication that France is not pressing her demands for further sanctions. This is not the time to talk about "backing down," but rather of conciliation. It is good news that the day of the final rupture of the Entente is not yet; it is better news that France gives the heartening indication that the policy of more guarantees is not to prevail.—Montreal Star.

POLICE OFFICER FOR PORT HOPE

Deputation Waited Upon Mr. Fallis Requesting a Provincial Constable.

PORT HOPE. — A deputation of local Conservatives waited upon Mr. A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., and urged upon the member the need of a Provincial officer in Durham. Since the transfer of Constable Boyd to Haliburton, one officer has been assigned all the work for the United Counties, and it is felt that the undertaking is too heavy. Durham and Northumberland are not united for political purposes and the local deputation considered it unfair that Government appointments should be made covering both counties. They also pointed out the great need of an officer in Durham at the present time, and one member of the deputation went so far as to say that he could be kept busy all the time right in Port Hope. It was also requested that Port Hope be made the headquarters for the police officer.

Mr. Fallis promised to bring the matter to the attention of the proper officials at the earliest moment and would do everything possible to have the appointment made.

THE GRAIN GROWERS GET GOOD BIG PROFIT

Over $352,000 Was Profit For the Year Ending August 31st Last.

WINNIPEG, November 21 (Canadian Press). — A profit of $532,000 was earned by the United Grain Growers, Limited, in the year ended 31st August last, it was reported today to the annual meeting of the delegates from the shareholders held in Winnipeg.

It was, said the Hon. T. A. Crerar, president of the company, the strongest report ever submitted to the shareholders.

Out of the profits there was taken $225,488.58 for an eight per cent. dividend, there was added to the depreciation reserve the sum of $159,107.69 to make up for depreciation not taken care of the previous year.

With the balance of last year included, the sum of $209,729.63 is carried forward in the profit and loss account.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 22. — Of the 6,040 cattle received at the Union Stock Yards on Monday and Tuesday about 5,400 were sold up till Tuesday night.

Receipts yesterday were: 1,066 cattle, 335 calves, 1,879 hogs, and 1,352 sheep and lambs. Cattle commenced to drag late on Tuesday, and such was the case again yesterday.

In the butchers prices remain steady, and the daily inquiry is for the finished and medium weights. Top butchers brought $6.35 yesterday. One baby beef was sold by Quinn and Hisey at 12 cents a pound. This was fed by Wm. Dodds of Orangeville. The exporters were buying a few feeders to fill space, and paid Dunn & Levack $5.75 a cwt. for two loads. With only about 1,200 cattle to dispose of it was expected that the market will be cleared again this week.

The edge went off the lamb market late on Tuesday, and prices are easier. An evidence of poor marketing on the part of the raiser was seen in the sale of a bunch of real choice wether lambs to Puddy Bros. at 9 cents a pound. These weighed about 130 pounds each. If marketed a month or six weeks ago they would have sold at around 13 cents a pound and would have netted more than they did yesterday. Few, if any, lambs will sell above 11 cents to-day. Light sheep and breeding ewes are quite firm.

The hog market is unchanged with packers bidding $7.25 a cwt., f.o.b., for the thick smooths, and salesmen trying to better the price 25 cents a cwt.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 22 (Canadian Press). — Wheat took a sudden upturn in price yesterday at the last, helped to some extent by the strength of foreign exchange. The close was firm, 1-4c to 1-2c to 5-8c higher December $1.02 5-8 to $1.02 3-4, and May $1.08 1-4 to $1.08 3-8.

Corn finished at 1-4c to 3-8c off to 1-2c gain; oats unchanged to 1-8c to 1-4c up and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 7c.

It was only in the final dealings that a decided trend toward a higher level of prices was shown in the wheat market. Earlier, the bulk of the trading consisted of exchanges between commission houses and elevator interests, the commission houses letting go of December wheat but taking May and July, whereas the elevators acquired December.

In the course of this process little change in price was noticeable, except that during the first half-hour the market underwent something of a decline as a result of lower quotations at Liverpool. Later, however, weakness of the Liverpool market was more than offset by the ascent of foreign exchange rates and by the upward swing of stocks and of cotton.

Lightness of offerings as the day drew to an end made shorts in the wheat market uneasy, and active local traders taking advantage of circumstances bid prices up. The effort to bring about a stampede was only successful in part, as the market ran into commission house selling on the budge.

Closing prices ,nevertheless, were at about the day's top figures. Incidentally, bulls put some stress on the fact that primary receipts showed a material falling off.

In the corn market, reports that consignment notices from the country were steadily increasing led to selling of December corn and to the buying of later months.

Firmness of oats was due to scarcity of arrivals.

Provisions averaged higher, influenced by the hog values.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, November 22 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 21,000; beef steers and yearlings closed weak to 25 cents lower; top, $11.80 for 1,218 pound average; best yearlings at $11.75; weights short fed steers, $8.50 and below; she stock and bulls freely steady; stockers and feeders strong; vealers steady to weak; bulk to packers, $8.00 to $8.25; upward to $9.50 to outsiders.

Hogs, receipts 27,000; opened 10c to 20c higher; closed slow, most of early advance lost; bulk good and choice 200 to 325 pound butchers $7.15 to $7.45; top, $7.50; desirable 15 0to 190 pound average, $6.60 to $6.75; slaughter pigs 25c higher; bulk desirable weight kind, $5.75 to $6.00; estimated holdover 8,000.

Sheep, receipts 9,000; fat lambs strong to around 15c higher; sheep and feeding lambs generally steady; bulk good and choice fat lambs, $12.00 to $12.40; top, $12.50; cull natives, $9.50 to $10.00; bulk fat ewes, $5.25 to $6.00; most better grade feeding lambs, $11.50 to $12.25.

Why Men "Crack"

When on the Highway to Success

What Do These Things Tell You?

"SLEEPLESSNESS," Doctor Kennedy tells us, "is one of the commonest signs of nervousness. Another is physical unrest. You are showing signs of nervousness when you cannot keep from twitching your eyebrows, shrugging your shoulders, swinging one foot when your legs are crossed; or when you cannot sit at a desk or table without continually tapping with the fingers.

"The nervous man very often finds that he cannot concentrate on one task, but continually goes from one thing to another. He is also very apt to lose interest in the work and recreations that formerly gave him pleasure. And he is easily fatigued. Nervous fatigue is most commonly indicated by a constant feeling of tightness around the head.

THE worry and strain of recent years has been too much for many business and professional men who have not been able to break away from the details and anxieties associated with their occupations.

In a moment you will recall many who have broken down suddenly just when they appeared to be in their prime.

Some have had their lives snuffed out while others have lingered as invalids, lacking the energy and nerve force necessary for the pursuit of their vocations.

The warning symptoms as outlined above by Dr. Kennedy in the American Magazine for October are well worth a careful study, because with this knowledge you can then detect the indications of failing nervous energy while yet there is time to prevent serious results.

A few days away from the scene of your worries, rest and moderate exercise in the open will help to get you started on the way to better health. Your recovery will be greatly hastened by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Your digestive system has failed to supply proper nourishment to the nervous system. And when thus exhausted the nerves fail to control the digestive fluids of the stomach. On this account outside help is necessary, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, before you can get back your strength and vigor.

You will not be using this restorative treatment long before you will find yourself sleeping and resting better. And this is what you need above all else. The old energy and vigor will be felt throughout your system and you will be encouraged to keep up this reconstructive treatment until you feel entirely yourself again.

POLICEMEN ON TRIAL.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press). — William Kerr, William Young, Mitchell, George Fraser and James Anthony Rooney, the four policemen charged with killing and slaying John Gogo on October 6th, in a raid on the "Hattie C," pleaded not guilty before Justice Orde in the Assize Court to-day.

MacGregor Young, K.C., is prosecutor, and Hartley Dewar, K.C., is defending the accused.

In his address to the jury, Mr. Young declared that the case held special importance as it was a conflict between the duties of the police body and the rights of citizens.

JOY OF HEALTH WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought it should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."—Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The reason is given in letters like these, and we have published thousands of them. You may expect that a medicine that has helped other women will help you. Try it.

HARMONY RESTORED IN ALLIED COUNCIL OVER NEW NOTE TO GBRMANY

Mutual Concessions By Great Britain and France Brings Complete Accord In Firm Demand For Protection to Allied Military Control in Germany.

MEMBERS HAPPY.

PARIS, November 22. :- The Allies, through their representatives in the Ambassadors' Council last night, agreed to notify Germany that the Inter-Allied Military Control Mission will resume its functions in the Reich, and that the Berlin Government is bound to afford it facilities and protection.

They also decided upon a second communication in which they note the former Crown Prince's letter renouncing the throne of Russia and voice the expectations that the German government will see to it that Frederick William faithfully observes the promises made therein. Under those conditions the Allies will not insist upon laying hold of the Prince, but they declare the German government must rigidly adhere to its assurance that the return of former Kaiser William to Germany will not be tolerated.

This is the first time the Allies have agreed upon a question relating to the execution by Germany of the Treaty of Versailles since the partition of Upper Silesia was referred to the League of Nations two years ago.

Happy in Harmony.

The unusual sensation of leaving a meeting in full accord appeared particularly agreeable to the members of the Council, who came out of the cloak room of the Foreign Office radiant. Marshal Foch, who usually passes the line of reporters with military dignity, stopped to say the cheery word, "Everything is all right."

Even Lord Crewe, the British ambassador, lost his customary dignity, and chatted gaily with Jules Cambon of France, while Viscount Ishii of Japan, Baron D'Hestroy of Belgium and Baron Avezzano of Italy, assured those outside that everything was for the best.

The agreement was reached by mutual concessions on the part of France and Great Britain. The former withdrew from its stand that the notes should take the form of an ultimatum and indicate to the German government the measures to be taken by the Allies if the demands were not met. The British consented to a change in the wording to satisfy objections on the part of the French Cabinet.

The spirit of give and take which resulted in saving the Entente is regarded as the best augury for the settlement of the other questions on which France and Britain are divided, although there appears to be some apprehension in French circles as to how Parliament will receive the Ambassadors' conclusions.

Poincare under Fire.

In this connection significance was atached to yesterday's debate in the Foreign Affairs' Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, where Premier Poincare's policy toward Germany was censured as being too mild, with General Viscount de Castelnau, the former Chief of Staff among the chief critics of the government.

The salvation of the entente caused no little joy in official circles, however, and Jules Cambon, to whom a great share of the credit for the result is attributed, was the object of warm congratulations from his former colleagues of the Foreign Office, and from the other members of the Ambassadors' Council.

Berlin's Reaction?

Speculation as to the impression the notes will make in eBrlin tends toward the belief that Chancellor Stresseman will find them as mild and conciliatory as it could be possible to expect. The general opinion among the diplomats is that the German Chancellor will find it advisable to do all he can to comply with the Allied demands rather than risk another note harsher in tone and terms, but some believe that the great delay in reaching a decision will weaken its effect.

The clearing of the diplomatic atmosphere was so evident that the correspondents waiting in the cold dusk had to ask no questions to know that the entente had been saved.

"PROS" START DEC. 15

MONTREAL Nov. 21.—The official opening of the National Hockey League season of 1923-24 will take place at Hamilton and Toronto on Dec. 15. On that date Ottawa Senators will clash with the Tigers of Hamilton and the local team of the N.H.L. will play the Saints in the Queen City. The final games of the schedule will also be decided in these two cities.

BAD BLOOD PIMPLES AND BOILES

Banished By

Burdock Blood Bitters

Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.

Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ring-worm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.

I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.

One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I used one bottle and felt quite a relief, and by the time I had taken 3 bottles I was completely relieved.

I cannot praise B.B.B. enough and I hope anyone afflicted like I was will get the same benefit I received."

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Two of the latest conceits from Paris are the bandeau of flowers to cover the knot for evening wear, and the breakfast cap that does duty just where you would least expect it. The sketches give you the idea.

For evening, French flowers of satin and velvet or silver cloth are arranged on a silk foundation with a bone hairpin concealed on each side to hold it in place.

The boudoir cap is a band of lace and insertion with a pink satin rose placed directly in the back and blue satin streamers on one side and a puffy little bow on the other.

An Offer of Health

to the Weak, Anaemic, Nervous or Run-down

Only those whose lives are darkened by ill-health can understand what it really means to be strong and healthy.

Health—robust, vigorous health—the sort of health that makes one feel that it is good to be alive—is man's most valuable possession; and no one appreciates it so well as that unfortunate man or woman who is weak, or anaemic, or nervous, or run-down, or enfeebled by old-age, or who is vainly striving to recover strength after an exhausting illness.

But, if you are such a man or woman, you need not despair, for offers you the possibility of obtaining the health that you so greatly crave and so badly need.

Wincarnis is a Tonic, a Restorative, a Blood-maker and a Nerve-builder. It is composed of a special, rich, red, Spanish wine to which have been added organic iron, manganese, beef, malt, potassium and other substances that have a powerful effect in restoring health and strength. That is why physicians recommend it. Physicians have been prescribing Wincarnis for more than forty years.

The benefits that Wincarnis imparts are soon noticeable; and they are lasting. It improves digestion; it enriches the blood; it strengthens the nerves; and it invests the entire body with a feeling of robustness.

Wincarnis contains no injurious drugs. It has a pleasant taste and is acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

WILL NOT RESIGN MINISTER DECLARES

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The denial of the report that he contemplated resigning from the Federal Cabinet because of ill-health was made by Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice, on his arrival here this morning on the White Star liner Majestic. Sir Lomer declared that, while his health had not been of the best for some time during his sojourn in London, where he was in attendance at the Imperial Conference, it was now much improved, and he "had not considered" the question of resigning from office.

The prospects for emigration to Canada from the Old Country are good, Sir Lomer said, in discussing conditions in Great Britain. He declared Canada would get a very fine class of settlers, and intimated that there would likely be an increase in the tide of Britishers going to the Dominion next year.

"There is every prospect of a good increase in immigration from the British Isles in the spring," he said.

Immigration, of course, is something that cannot be forced. It must necessarily flow in natural channels, but I believe we will get many first-class settlers from the Old Country next year.

Sir Lomer said that the proceedings of the Imperial Conference had been entirely satisfactory to Canadian representatives. Canada was interested in all of the matters discussed, and he believed the result would be to establish better relations within the Empire.

Mr. Mackenzie King made a splendid impression in London, Sir Lomer said, and his views on Imperial matters had been received with manifest interest and had been given every consideration by statesmen of the Mother Country and representatives of other Dominions. The Canadian Premier had also been given a very cordial reception by the British public. Sir Lomer expressed satisfaction with the treatment that had been accorded the Canadian delegates in the Empire capital.

Sir Lomer declined to venture any forecast of the result of the British elections. There were indications that the campaign would be particularly lively one, he said.

The protection proposals of Mr. Baldwin would naturally be of advantage to Canada, he said, as they would put the British Government in a position to offer an adequate return for the preference granted by the Dominion.

"You cannot have reciprocal preference unless the other party has something to exchange with you," he declared. "I believe that a protection policy such as has been suggested for Great Britain would serve to increase Imperial trade."

BRITISH LEGION REMEDY REJECTED

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Premier Baldwin has written declining to countenance National Work Loan of two hundred million pounds advocated by the British Legion as a remedy for unemployment, contending that this would bring to a standstill the loan operations for empire development and other purposes and thus stultify present arrangements to relieve unemployment.

Discussing the unemployment situation Sir Robert Hadfield, noted Steel Manufacturer, declares that large employers of labor now "prefer the gospel of work to the gospel of fiscal experiment." Sir Robert while always professing Liberalism, never attempted to enter parliament He introduced the eight hour day years before other employers in steel industry in Britain.

The Joker

What do you thing of a janitor with a salary of $10,500 a year? That's the income of James A. Howe, described by a Boston newspaper as the highest paid janitor in that city. Howe's salary is more than is received by the mayor of Boston or the governor of Massachusetts.

Here's the joker: Janitor Howe has to pay seven assistants out of his salary. He says this leaves him only about $45 a week.

Howe isn't the only person who doesn't make as much money as appears on the surface. Around coal mines there are men whose "big pay" shrinks when they take out what it costs for their helpers, the powder they use, and so on.

We know a lawyer with an income of $30,000 a year. By the time he gets through paying office rent, employes and other expenses of operation, we doubt if he has $10,000 a year left.

Another case is a physician who specializes in radium and the X-ray. He charges big fees. Before he has any "clear profit" for himself he has to figure rent, office expenses and interest on about $25,000 worth of radium and X-ray machinery.

We're all in much the same boat. Some have to dress expensively for their line of work, compared with the overalls they would wear in a plainer job. Many things we buy are really business expenses—including often our general standard of living. Men in certain positions have to maintain a certain "front." Their real income is what's left after deducting all these.

After then, finally, to know what we're really making, we have to figure it on the basis of the dollar's depreciated buying power.

BORDEN PLEADS FOR LEAGUE IN BOSTON SPEECH

Confident Ideals of American People Favor Arbitration of International Disputes.

AT CANADIAN CLUB.

BOSTON, November 22. Canadian Press. — Warning that in mankind's newly acquired control of the destructive forces of nature civilization has prepared the weapons for its own destruction, Sir Robert Borden, former premier of Canada, speaking at the annual dinner of the Canadian Club of Boston last night, declared that the League of Nations is the only effective means of maintaining peace.

After detailing the work of the League in settling international controversies, he said he heartily agreed with statesmen in the United States who have proposed that war be outlawed. He pointed out that no one had as yet suggested an effective method to bring this about.

"The covenant (of the League of Nations) regards war as sometimes inevitable," he said, "but surely its purpose is to create outlawry so far as the nations at Paris were then disposed to go. It recognizes but one force that was capable of creating real outlawry of war, and that is the cumulative public opinion of the world."

Justifies Existence.

The existence of the League of Nations would be justified, he added, if it were merely an agency for calling the nations into conference in a time of great emergency.

"But in truth," he said, "it has done more to avert war, to assure peace, than all the chancelleries of the world ever accomplished in twenty years."

Reviewing the accomplishments of the League, he said that during the three and a half years of its existence it has prevented war on five different occasions; found solutions to controversies which the Supreme Allied Council was incapable of dealing with; established the Permanent Court of International Justice; established open diplomacy; built up a great sanitary organization, and taken in hand the limitation of land armaments left untouched by the Washington conference on the Limitation of Armaments.

Ended Naval Race.

Dealing with the Washington Conference, he argued that in bringing nine nations into intimate association and in securing the ratification of an agreement to terminate the race for naval supremacy, it had proved the value of the League of Nations.

"That the nations shall be taught to bring their differences to such a common council board or to the determination of a judicial or arbitral tribunal is essential and indeed vital," Sir Robert said, "when the public conscience of the world shall have been so developed and aroused that any nation or government refusing these methods of justice and public right, and seeking rather the arbitrament of war will be outlawed by the common voice of humanity. Then, perhaps, not before, we shall have certain assurances of world peace.

Averted Conflict.

Answering critics of the League, who emphasize its "supposed" lack of authority and effective action, Sir Robert pointed to the action of the League in averting a conflict during the recent crisis between Greece and Italy. He expressed the opinion that had the United States been a member of the League of Nations the seizure of Corfu by the Italians would never have taken place, because the united opinion of the world would have opposed it.

Sir Robert admitted that the decision of the United States upon entrance into the League was a matter to be decided by the people of the United States without outside interference, but, he said, he was sure the spirit and ideals of these people fully support the settlement of international differences by peaceful means.

Sense of Justice.

Sir Robert concluded his address by declaring: "A fitting sense of international justice, true respect for right among the nations, the habit of cooperation and of friendly discussion, the practice of arbitrament—these may be learend by the methods of the covenant of the League of Nations. In some wise they must be learned before peace will endure. What nation shall fail in its duty to teach that lesson?"

Miss Winnifred Blair, of St. John, N.B., who was awarded the title of "Miss Canada," at the Canadian Winter Sports Carnival at Montreal last winter, was a guest at the dinner.

ENGINEERS WILL APPEAL DECISION.

That Declared Them An "Illegal Organization in Restraint of Trade."

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22—An appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada will be made against the recent decision of the Manitoba Court of Appeal which reversed the judgment of Mr. Justice Galt, in the Court of King's Bench, in declaring the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers "an illegal organization, operating in restraint of trade."

Mr. Justice Fullerton, of the Court of Appeal, sitting in Chambers to-day allowed the security for costs amounting to $500 put up by Fred J. C. McArthur, counsel for the defence thus removing the last barrier to the case going to the Supreme Court.

The case was labelled Chase versus Starr and was an action to recover monies from Starr, deposed secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood. It was non-united on the ground that the plaintiffs, being an illegal organization could not obtain protection from the courts.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Sir: It is a fine thing to see the ruling powers of the world receiving that respect which is their due. The King and Queen of Spain, as recorded in the cable despatches, knelt thrice before His Holiness the Pope and kissed his hand in token of subjection. The same should be done here in Ontario. The noble men and women who are fighting for Prohibition and the salvation of the world from whiskey, cards, improper dress and the flashy ornamentation of our women, should receive the homage of all of us. There has been too much rebellion against their rule. In future let there be complete subjection to their will, and thus only will those in authority over us receive their due, and the people be clean and wholesome.

Beaded overblouses have come back into fashion's favor with something of a rush. Chiffon and velvet are the popular materials for such adornment.

When visitors are expected—

NATURALLY your mind leaps to the question of preparing meals and setting the table. Perhaps selecting menus is comparatively simple. But how often have you been annoyed to find that your silverware—scheme as you might—was not sufficient for your guests!

Yet this annoyance is unnecessary! For in "1847 Rogers Bros." you can add to your tableware most reasonably, and in small quantities should you desire. Six salad forks, for instance, in the dignified Ambassador, or any other 1847 Rogers Bros. pattern, cost only $7.25. Other pieces—table knives and forks and tea spoons—are priced as moderately.

And you may add to your table service of "1847 Rogers Bros." on later occasions, for leading dealers always have the newer patterns in stock. Remember that "1847 Rogers Bros." will give service for a lifetime. It has been tested and not found wanting for more than three-quarters of a century. Its beautiful design and durability will give you lasting satisfaction.

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested, Dinwiddie declaring that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter; but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering, determined to find out who she is, follows her home from the theatre one night. Luck is with him, for she has forgotten her keys and he helps her get into the house. She asks him in and finally tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; and that Mary is ill in a sanitarium in Vienna.

He meets her at the theatre a few nights later, goes home with her afterward and tells her frankly he does not believe her story. He is keenly aware of her fascination for him, and Madame Zattiany, on her part, though long since free of illusions in regard to men, admits to herself that this particular young man has aroused her interest.

(XII. (Continued)

But on the night when he had hastened up to her in the deserted street and offered his assistance, standing with his hat in his hand and looking at her with a boyish and diffident gallantry in amusing contrast with his stern and cynical countenance, and she had realized that he had impulsively followed her, something had stirred within her that she had attributed to a superficial recrudescence of her old love of adventure, of her keen desire for novelty at any cost. Amused at both herself and him, she had suddenly decided, while he was affecting an entrance to her house, to invite him into the library and take advantage of this break in the monotonous life she had decreed should be her portion while she remained in New York.

She had found him more personally attractive than she had expected. Judge Trent, whom she had deftly drawn out, had told her that he was a young man of whom, according to Dinwiddie, great things were expected in the literary world; his newspaper career, brilliant as it was, being regarded merely as a phase in his progress; he had not yet "found himself." After that she had read his column attentively.

But she had not been prepared for a powerful and sympathetic personality, that curious mixture of naivete and hard sophistication, and she had ascribed her interest in him to curiosity in exploring what to her was a completely foreign type. In her own naivete it had never occurred to her that men outside her class were gentlemen as she understood the term, and she still supposed Clavering to be exceptional owing to his birth and breeding. It had given her a distinct satisfaction, the night of the dinner, to observe that he lost nothing by contact with men who were indubitably of her own world.

There was no snobbery in her attitude. She had always been too secure in her own exalted state for snobbery, too protected from climbers to conceive the "I will maintain" impulse, and she had escaped at birth that overpowering sense of superiority that carks the souls of high and low alike. But it was the first time she had ever had the opportunity to judge by any standards but those in which she had been born and passed her life. As for Clavering, he was a gentleman, and that was the end of that phase of the matter as far as she was concerned.

It was only tonight that she had been conscious of a certain youthful eagerness as she paced up and down the hall waiting to hear him run up the steps. She had paused once and laughed at herself as she realized that she was acting like a girl expecting her lover, when she was merely a coldly—no longer even bitterly—disillusioned woman, bored with this enforced inaction in New York, welcoming a little adventure to distract her mind from its brooding on the misery she had left behind her in Europe, and on the future to which she had committed herself. And a midnight adventure! She had shrugged her shoulders and laughed again as she had admitted him.

But she felt no disposition to laugh as she sat alone in the chilling room. She was both angry and appalled to remember that she had felt a quivering, almost a dissension of her nerves as she had sat there with him in the silence and solitude of the night. That she had felt a warm pleasure in the interest that betrayed him into positive impertinence, and that a sick terror had shaken her when she saw that he was making up his mind not to see her again. She had not betrayed herself for a moment, she was too old a hand in the game of men and women for that, and she had let him go without a sign, secure in the confidence that he was at her back; but she knew now, and her hands clenched and her face distorted as she admitted it, that if he had suddenly snatched her in his arms she would have flamed into passion and felt herself the incarnation of youth and love.

Incredible. Unthinkable. She! What should she do? Flee? She had come to New York for one purpose only, to settle her financial affairs in the briefest possible time and return to the country where her work lay. But she had been detained beyond expectation, for the slow reorganization of one of the companies in which a large portion of her fortune was invested would not be complete without her final signature. There were other important transfers to be made, and moreover Judge Trent had insisted that she became thoroughly acquainted with her business affairs and able to maintain an intelligent correspondence with her trustees when he himself had retired. She had shown a remarkable aptitude for finance and he was merciless in his insistence, demanding an hour of her time every day.

Business. She hated the word. What did it matter—— But she knew that it did matter, and supremely. She might have the beauty, the brains, and the sex domination to win men to her way of thinking when she launched herself into the maelstrom of politics, but she was well aware that her large fortune would be half the battle. It furnished the halo and the sinews, and it gabe her the power to buy men who could not be persuaded. She had vowed that Austria should be saved at any cost.

No, she could not go now. She must remain for another month—two months, possibly. She was no longer in that undisciplined stage of youth when flight from danger seems the only solution. To wreck the lives of others in order to secure her own peace of mind would make her both ridiculous and contemptible in her own eyes, and she had yet to despise herself. She would "stick it out," "see it through," to quote the vernacular of these curious American novels she had been reading; trusting that she had merely been suffering from a flurry of the senses . . . not so remarkable perhaps. . . .

But her mind drifted back to the past month. Senses? And if it were not that alone, but merely the inevitable accompaniment of far stranger processes . . . if it were what she had once so long sought and with such disastrous results . . . She had believed for so many years that it existed somewhere, in some man . . . that it was every woman's right . . . even if it could not last forever. sank back and closed her eyes, succumbing to an ineffable languor.

It lasted but a moment. She started up with an exclamation of impatience and disgust; and she shivered from head to foot. The room was bitterly cold. There were only ashes on the hearth.

"She had been conscious of a youthful eagerness as she paced up and down the hall."

XIII.

Clavering turned hot and cold several times during his walk home. He had been atrociously rude, impertinent. If she hadn't ordered him out of the house, it must have been because she was a creature of moods, and he had merely amused her for the hour. No doubt she would wake up in a proper state of indignation and giver her servants orders. . . . Or—was she sincere when she demanded his friendship, willing to put up with his abominable manners, trusting to her own wit to defeat him, lull his suspicions? Friendship! The best thing for him to do was to avoid her like the plague. He hated to admit it, but he was afraid of her, not so much of falling in love with her and going through tragedy, which was probably what it would come to, as of the terrible force so skillfully hidden in that white and delicate body of a powerful personality fortified by an unimaginable past. She gave the impression of a woman who had been at grips with life and conquered it, from first to last. Formidable creature! An extraordinary achievement if true. But was it? Women, no matter how beautiful, wealthy, highly placed and powerfully organized, got the worst of it one way or another. When they fell in love they were apt to lose their heads, and with that the game. Technique crumbled. For a moment he imagined her in love, dissolved, helpless; then hastily changed the subject. He liked women to be strong—having long since abandoned his earlier ideal of the supine adorant—but not too strong. Certainly not stronger than himself. He had met a good many "strong" women in the last twelve years, washed more often than not, in disarming femininity. A man hadn't a chance with them, men's strength as a rule being all on the outside. Women grew up and men didn't. That was the infernal truth.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Nov. 20.—The members of the Baptist Young People's Union held an enjoyable meeting on Friday evening that was largely attended. The pastor, Rev. J. N. Norton, ably presided, and a most interesting and instructive address was given by Rev. H. Wood, pastor of the Port Hope Baptist church. Mrs. Wood, Port Hope, and Mrs. Geo. Page sang solos that were much enjoyed. The local president of the B.Y.P.U. outlined the programme of work for the coming year.

Arseltine—Cochrane Marriage

A quiet wedding took place recently in Parkdale Methodist church, Toronto, when Lida Vivian, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cochrane, Grafton, was married to Mr. Ross H. B. Arseltine, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Arseltine, Toronto. The bride wore a becoming navy Canton crepe dress with corsage of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley and black picture hat. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathryn Cochrane, wearing navy Canton crepe trimmed with grey. The groom was supported by his brother, Dr. Curtis W. Arseltiue. After a short honeymoon they will take up residence in Toronto.

Choirs Exchange

Community gatherings are a strong factor in rural and urban life in Durham and also in Ontario counties. Horticultural and other societies pay neighborly visits and now the church choirs are doing the same. On Sunday evening the choir of Simcoe street Methodist church, Oshawa, exchanged with the Bowmanville choir, the latter providing the music in the Oshawa church and the former at Bowmanville. These exchange visits are proving very popular.

Highly Successful Sale

The ladies of St. George's church, at Oshawa, are jubilant—and why? Their annual bazaar held in the Parish Hall last Wednesday, and consisting of a sale of clothing, fancy work, home-made cooking and other articles accompanied by the serving of refreshments, netted them the handsome sum of $1,400. The bazaar was in charge of the Women's Building Society of St. George's, and the proceeds are to be used in defraying the costs of the final furnishings of the new memorial church..

Removed to Peterborough

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Purdy have moved to Peterborough from Castleton. They will be much missed from church and community life at the latter place.

The Late Mrs. Sarah Howe

On Thursday the funeral of Mrs. Sarah Victoria Howe, wife of Mr. W. H. Howe, took place at Consecon, where service was held in Trinity church. Mrs. Howe was in her 63rd year. The interment was at Hillier. Mrs. Fred Cory, Frankford, is a sister.

Changes in Bank

Mr. Wm. Eckstein, who for the past six years has been accountant-teller in the Standard Bank at Colborne, has resigned from the banking service and has gone to Los Angeles. Before his departure personal friends and business associates honored him by presenting him with a diamond stick pin as a token of esteem and friendship. Many friends regret very much his departure from Colborne.

Mr. J. Austin has been transferred to the Colborne branch of the Standard Bank.

Auction Sales

Mrs. E. Sharp, who is leaving Port Hope, had a sale of her household effects on Saturday.

Lorne McDonald, of Cremahe township, had a sale of live stock and implements at his home in Cremahe yesterday.

Mr. Chas. Fitzgerald, of Percy township, holds a similar sale tomorrow.

Death of Mr. E. V. Gould

The death of Mr. Evander Gould at his home near Colborne has removed a respected and esteemed citizen from that locality. Mr. Gould was born 85 years ago on the farm where he spent more than four-score years. He saw many changes in the community. Mr. Gould had been ill for some time and was confined to his bed for the past ten months. He is survived by a son, Robert, of Moosejaw, and by a daughter, Mrs. Elsie Macklin, at home.

$900 Thankoffering

The congregation of Brighton Methodist church, of which Rev. J. S. T. Wilson is pastor, placed $900 on the plates at a special Thankoffering service held there, and this it is expected, will be augmented until it reaches $1,000. Rev. J. P. Wilson, Belleville, the special preacher for the day, delivered scholarly and impressive sermons. The congregations were large and the musical part of the service was in keeping with the day and the occasion.

Sunday School Convention

The northern sections of Brighton and Murray townships held their annual Sunday School convention in the Friend's Church near the village of Wooler today. Two sessions were held, afternoon and evening.

Wooler Anniversary

Rev. S. Dixon, of Odessa, a former esteemed pastor, preached at the anniversary services of the Methodist church at Wooler to large congregations. Mr. Dixon was the pastor at Wooler twenty years ago, when the church was erected. Old friends were pleased to hear and greet him again. On Monday evening the annual Thanksgiving dinner was served to a large company. It is estimated that over five hundred people sat down to tables, and still there was plenty left to satisfy still more. The programe was mostly musical and was very much enjoyed.

Larial and Personal

Mr. Jack McCambridge, of Washington territory, who has been visiting at Frankford, has returned taking his aged father, Mr. P. McCambridge with him.

Mr. R. J. Cooper has sold his milling business at Brighton to Mr. A. E. H. Jackson, who has taken charge.

Frankford W. I. made a Thanksgiving donation to the Children's Shelter.

Rev. Mr. Butler, of Foxboro, has been assisting Rev. Mr. Snell in special services at Frankford.

Mr. C. G. Ruttan, Wooler, has gone to Los Angeles, California, to spend the winter.

Mr. Perc. Gooding, Wooler, has gone to the Old Country.

Rev. Harry Frost, pastor of McLeod St. Methodist church at Ottawa, visited friends at Trenton and vicinity for a few days recently.

Harry Faux and Gladys Westfall, both of Trenton, were married at Trenton last Wednesday, Rev. W. P. Woodger officiating.

Mr. D. Hendricks, Carrying Place, has gone to Rochester to spend the winter.

Mrs. Wm. Massie, Cobourg, has gone to Toronto, where she has taken apartments for the winter months.

Capt. Hugh McCullough, Cobourg, returned last week from Rice Lake, where he spent a month enjoying the duck shooting

Mr. and Mrs. James Wright, Codrington, have gone to Rochester to spend some time.

Messrs. Wm. Goodfellow and Lloyd Ames, Codrington, went to the northern hunting fields last week to enjoy the shooting.

Mr. Geo. Rogers has moved upon Mr. P. Cowan's farm at Codrington

A RECITAL

A recital of the violin pupils of Mrs. Marie Bramwell Hoyland was held in the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening, with a good attendance of parents and friends. The pupils acquitted themselves excellently in a manner reflecting credit on the careful training of their teacher. The junior orchestra of the Conservatory of Music gave several well-received selections. A cornet solo by Mr. Cecil Gallegher was much enjoyed. Those taking part in the programme were: Ann Simpson, Dorothy Fine, Catherine Taylor, Harry James, James Mullen, Robbie Wyllie, Archie Inch, Bruce Hall, Fred. Dewhurst, Willie Gaskin, Russell Gardner, Albert Wright and Harry McArthur; also a well-rendered duet by Willie Gaskin and Robbie Wyllie. A selection from "Iolanthe" included: Violins, Mrs. M. B. Hoyland, Catherine Taylor, Albert Wright; cornet, C. Gallegher; 'cello, Reg. Farthing; French horn, H. Wood; piano, Mrs. F. Hodgson.

Mrs. F. Hodgson acted as accompanist for the "Iolanthe" selection and Mr. Gallegher's cornet number, and Miss E. Webber accompanied the other solo numbers and the orchestral music.

A PRESENTATION TO MRS. HAROLD DUNFORD

Mrs. Harold Dunford, nee Miss M. A. Nelson, was presented with a beautiful hand-painted Nippon China set and the following address by the employees of J. J. Turner & Sons:

"Dear Mrs. Dunford: Since it became known to us recently that you had, during the summer months, taken the part of one of the principals in the marriage ceremony, it has been the desire of your fellow-employees to extend to you an expression of their kindly feelings towards you, and to convey to you their best wishes for everything good in the form of health, happiness and prosperity on the part of yourself, and your good husband.

"While we now find that this act on your part adds a further restraint on us, in that we are compelled to be more guarded and dignified in your presence (you will have noticed this), yet the new joy that has entered into your life is also a source of increased joy and satisfaction in ours. That this may, on your part, continue and develo throughout your future life is our best wish.

"As a slight remembrance of "the occasion" we are accompanying this with a tea set, which we would ask you to kindly accept."

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretions or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

JAPANESE TRADE WITH BRAZIL IS DECLINING

RIO DE JANIERO, Nov. 22.—(United Press)—Japanese emigration to Brazil has fallen off during the past two years, resulting in decrease in commerce between the two countries.

That immigration has direct bearing on trade between the two countries is explained in a report by the Brazilian Consul in Yokohoma, who points out that should Japanese emigration to Brazil be cut off entirely Japanese ships would, more than likely, cease calling at Brazilian ports.

PETERBORO BURGLARS STOLE QUANTITY ALE

Shocking Depravity of Thieves is Only Eclipsed by Theft of Confederate Currency by What Mr. Weir Describes as a "Tory."

The following letter speaks for itself and goes to show how low Peterborough burglars will stoop.

To Editor of Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir: We had some midnight visitors the night before last at 181 Romaine St., and I thought I would let you know something about their doings. In the night I heard a noise and I got out of bed to look around. I went in the bathroom and I saw two men in dark clothes standing at the end of Mr. Sollitt's kitchen apparently talking. At first I thought it was the two Mr. Sollitts but as they stood so long I decided it was a neighbour who had been there and was leaving. I then hollered "Hellow there" and they went around the corner of house. It was late, just then the midnight train went by on the Belleville road.

I went to bed and thought no more of it. Yesterday before dinner I had occasion to go in the cellar and one of the windows was gone. I looked around the cellar for it but it was not there. The cellar floor was wet, the burglars had been there, and had been drinking my ale and left the tap running Well, I don't grudge the fellows a drink of ale to keep them warm when they be out at nights.

I went outside to look for the window and it was laying beside the wall and the telephone wires were cut about three feet above the ground. The window had been fastened on the inside with four nails drove in the window frame. The window had been forced in from the outside for the nails were bent around. The burglars had at least been through all the lower part of the house and gone out through the kitchen and left the door open. The only things we missed was some Confederate Bank bills. They were in my desk in the front hall. There was two $50 bills, two $25 bills, two $20 bills, two $10 and two fives they were very hansome new looking bills they took them all. The bills were made and used by the Confederate Army during the American Civil War. A few years ago the directors of the great fruit fair in the city of Trail, B.C., got a bunch of those bills and printed on the back in red ink advertising their great fruit fair. My neiphew George Weir sent me some of the bills. There was two $500 bills, two $100 bills two fiftys, two $25 bills, two $20, two tens and two fives.

About two years ago a Tory stole the two $500 bills and the two $100 bills and left the rest. I know it must have been a Tory for if it had been a Grit he would have taken them all. Just now I feel safe for I don't expect them back for they no doubt think they got all my money and it is no good. The burglars also broke Mr. Sollitts cellar window trying to get in there. Perhaps I just called in time to prevent them.

Had I suspected they were burglars I could have shot them both for I have a double-barrel gun and it is always loaded with heavy shot and I was not more than forty feet from the two men when I had my head out of the window.

Hopeing this may warn other people I remain very thankfully yours,

J. GRAHAM WEIR,
181 Romaine Street, City.

AN APPRECIATION MISS CHAMBERLEN

Letter From Archdeacon J. C. Davidson to Rev. R. B. Grobb.

The following letter from Archdeacon J. C. Dvaidson, of Toronto, to Rev. R. B. Grobb, of this city, speaks appreciatively of the late Miss Chamberlen. The letter follows:

"I have this minute received a telegram from Mrs. Rye announcing the death of Miss Chamberlen in which I feel a deep concern. Miss Chamberlen was one of the chief founders of All Saints' parish, and as such, my associations with her were very close and are well remembered. She gave us the free use of the house on Bethune Street South in which our Sunday school and services were first held.

"With the exception of the late Mr. Yokome the first workers were all women, led by Miss Chamberlen, Miss Barlee and Mrs. Joseph Buller. For a whole afternoon Miss Chamberlen and I drove around prospective sites for the mission building, which resulted in the choice of the present site of the school house and church. Both were presented by her and her sisters. All through the history of All Saints' parish Miss Chamberlen has been one of its central supporters and workers, as you know, and her passing is a sorrowful event severing one of the chief links with the past. I desire that my warmest sympathy may be expressed on the departure of my old friend and close fellow-worker.

"She will, I am sure, be long and affectionately remembered by All Saints' congregation and also by St. John's as one of the benefactors and leading workers of the church in Peterborough. With prayers and good wishes for All Saints' parish.

Faithfully yours,
J. C. DAVIDSON.

"A Try Tells You Why"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

A LETTER IN TIME SAVES ONE

"I forgot. I can't read," he gobbled.

Mister Wild Turkey flew up to a tree top in Dixie Land. He was so fat he couldn't fly very well, but anyway he got there, and he sat looking around him at the world below and feeling very well satisfied with himself.

"Hello!" he gobbled as his sharp eyes made out two little figures climbing the hill toward him. "I'll have to be careful! Here come two humans. But mercy me on us, they aren't much bigger than I am, so I needn't be afraid I guess. Besides, they don't have any of those long iron sticks that explode at one end and make me so nervous."

Nancy and Nick came quite near.

"Hello, Mister Turkey, we've been looking for you," called Nick.

"That's what everybody says," answered Mister Turkey with a chuckle, "but I usually don't stay long enough to find out what it is they want me for. Some of my friends have stayed and I never saw them again. Well, young man, what is it?"

"The Fairy Queen sent us a letter to give to you," said Nick. "We just found it in the Dixie Land Post Office."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed Mister Turkey. "Why, I never got a letter in my life! Why I'm so excited I'm getting dizzy! I'll have to get down off this tree before I fall.

And down he flew.

But suddenly he looked sober. "I forgot. I can't read," he gobbled, "That is, I can't read unless it's written in Turkish. Is it?"

Nancy laughed. "No, it's written in magic. I'll have to read it to you. Here's what is says:

"Dear Mister Wild Turkey:

"There is a time coming soon called Thanksgiving. It's a very nice time of the year for most people, but not so good for turkeys. And it's just as bad for wild turkeys as it is for tame turkeys.

"I suppose you thing it is queer that so many people in Dixie Land leave so much grain in their grain fields and even scatter pans of it here and there where you can get at it. But it isn't queer at all! They want you to get fat. The fatter the better. But it you don't eat for awhile you'll get thin and you'll be far safe. If I were you I'd starve myself for a spell. And I would go and live on the Mountain top until Thanksgiving is over.

"Your friend,

"The Fairy Queen."

"You'd better go," advised Nick.

"I've started already," said Mister Gobbler, flapping his wings.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

OVER EATING

The chief reason for many diseases is over-eating. The old English maxim: "Rise from the table with an appetite and you will never sit down without one," is good logic and health advice as well.

Heavyweights frequently appeal for aid in removing non-working fat tissue. The best advice would be: eat less, fast more, drink plenty of water and hit the highway for healthy hikes.

Fasting is in reality one of the greates medicines, or shall I say remedies, for the correction of digestive troubles, such as belching, sour stomach, liver troubles, diabetes and heartburn.

How, when and how long fasting shall continue depends on a number of conditions. One of these is climate, another is your own condition of strength, while a third is the kind of work you are engaged in and what your habits are.

If you live in a fairly hot climate, where evaporation from the skin is rapid, you must drink plenty of water along with your fasting and not have it continue more than two or three days. Persons who are naturally robust and "good feeders" can continue their ordinary occupations while fasting without any let-up in efficiency for a week or more. Those engaged in hard manual labor or vigorous outdoor work will find it to their advantage, while fasting, to be sure and get the full amount of rest required.

How to fast: abstain from eating for one day and see how it affects you.

Do your regular routine work. You might eat a very light breakfast, but no other food during the day. Drink five or six glasses of water. Fasting gives a rest to your digestive system.

Fasting may be of two kinds; complete abstinence, during a certain period, or eating a small amount of carefully selected food at regular intervals during your fasting period or as long as you desire. It is something to be carried out like exercise.

Do not expect yourself to be changed into a new person in one day of fasting. It may become a habit with you to fast, so to speak, all the time. In other words, to eat with great moderation and thereby increase your bodily health and longevity.

DISCARD SHOES TO HAVE A PERFECT PAIR FEET

FARGO, N.D., Nov. 22.—(United Press)—The barefoot girl develops the perfect foot.

That is the reason given by Miss Ruth Andrews, women's physical director at he State Agricultural College here for the fact that 10 per cent. of the girls at the institution have perfect fee, whereas only one out of 800 at the State University at Grand Forks can lay claim to this honor.

A large percentage of the co-eds at the Agricultural College are from the farm and lived their girlhood in the sparsely settled regions of the State, where girls as well as boys went barefooted.

The bunion threat is the most persuasive in inducing girls to wear sensible shoes, Miss Andrews says.

POLICE CHASED THE WRONG CAR

Incident That Took Place This Side of Fraserville—Warsaw News.

WARSAW, Nov. 21.—When Mr. and Mrs. Verne Selkirk were motoring from Toronto, this side of Fraserville, some men in a car tried to stop them. They soon noticed that a car was following them, and put on speed until they were in Peterborough, when they discovered that police had mistaken their car for the very one that had tried to hold them up. It was not a pleasant experience to feel themselves chased after the attempt to hold them up.

A Farewell Party

On Thursday evening last, about 125 friends of Miss Helen Bowen from Warsaw and surrounding district gave her a farewell party in the town hall. A very pleasant evening was spent. The Warsaw orchestra, assisted by Mr. Robert Leeming, of Chicago, with his banjo, provided music for dancing. Refreshments were served about midnight, and during the supper hour, Dr. Munro gave an address, in which he spoke of Miss Bowen's work in the village, her pleasant manner, trustworthiness, and other good qualities. He explained the meaning of the new work upon which she was entering, and asked her to accept a purse of $25, with the good wishes of her many friends. Miss Bowen was completely surprised by the gift, but thanked the people. There were also some personal gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen wish to thank the people for the kindness shown their daughter. They, as well as Miss Bowen, appreciated the party and the gift.

The Churches

At the Sunday evening service in the Presbyterian Church Rev, Mr. Atkinson announced that, beginning Sunday, December 2, there would be no evening service in the Presbyterian Church. The people were invited to attend service in the Methodist Church that evening. On the morning of the first Sunday of each month the Methodists are invited to worship with the Presbyterians.

There was held the regular fortnightly service in the Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon

Pastor Chorley preached at Warsaw and at Indian River. Mrs. Whittier again delighted the congregation with her singing.

The Methodist service at Warsaw wae withdrawn. Bethel held its anniversary services morning and evening. Rev. Reddick, of Lakefield, preached. Bethel choir contributed their usual good music. Miss F. Cooper sang the solo in the morning, and Mrs. Rufus Payne in the evening

The Warsaw Methodist Sunday school executive held a meeting on Tuesday evening. Arrangements were made to train the children for a cantata on Christmas evening.

At the Sunday school service next Sunday morning Miss Mae Stevens will give a report of the S. S. convention held in Napanee.

The Methodist Women's Missionary Society held a very successful sale of woollen articles and entertainment last Friday evening. The weather was far from good, still a good crowd turned out, and the ladies were well pleased.

Hunters Home

Franklin Harding and ten others hunted near the old depot, on the Apsley Road, and succeeded well.

Fraaklin Jory and party, also Allan Payne and party, hunted near Burleigh with fair success.

On the whole, the weather was pleasant for the hunters and they enjoyed themselves even though no party seemed to have gotten its full allowance of deer.

Cattle are being brought home from the summer pastures.

A few farmers still have plowing to do and are disappointed at the hard frosts. The rains softened the ground so that recent work on the land has been quite easy and rushed but frost stopped the plow this week.

Roland Payne is putting metal shingles on Mr. Mark Edwards' house.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. E. Choate wens to Toronto Monday for a week's holiday.

Mr. Robert Leeming, Chicago, was in the village last Thursday.

Miss Cressa Crowe and Miss Elsie MacIlvena went to Toronto last Friday to attend the Women's Institute convention this week.

DUNSFORD NEWS

DUNSFORD, Nov. 22.—Miss Eileen McClure, of Toronto, was the guest of Mrs. Walter Breen over the week-end.

Miss Garnet and Miss Myrtle Thurston, of Toronto, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Thurston, last week.

Mr. P. H. Skitch and family, of Thurstonia Park, have been visiting friends in Peterborough and Trenton.

Miss Eileen Tamblyn, of Lindsay, and Mr. Will McClure, of Toronto, motored to Mrs. Walter Breen's for over the week-end.

Mr. N. James (cheesemaker), Mr. Rankin Thurston and Mr. Howard Graham motored on Wednesday to Peterborough.

Mr. Sam Mitchell has returned home from the Lindsay Memorial Hospital recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mr. G. Pearl on Friday morning last about 5 a.m. had his barn totally destroyed by fire. The cause for the fire is unknown.

On Monday, Nov. 19th, the funeral of the late Mr. Selby, of Lindsay, was held in the Dunsford Methodist church, interment taking place in the Dunsford cemetery.

The Old Tyme choir banquet has been postponed until further notice is given.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Morrow and daughter, Adelle, spent a week in Peterborough visiting friends and on their return were numbered among those on the G.T.R. wreck. Mr. Morrow and Adelle escaped uninjured, but Mrs. Morrow was badly shaken up with her nerves and was thrown over the two seats ahead of her. She also had one cracked rib.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ash and Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Northey, all of Peterborough, motored to see the latter's daughter on Sunday last.

GERMANS COURTEOUS TO CROWN PRINCESS

BERLIN, Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—Former Crown Princess Cecilia and her four sons were among the visitors to the recent Berlin automobile show.

The five members of the former imperial family came to the show as the guests of the makers of a well-known motorcar and returned home in one of the model cars of this firm.

The former crown princess is always recognized by Berlin crowds, which pay her great courtesy. Even the most rabid of the anti-monarchists seem to have great admiration for the dignified wife of the exile at Wieringen. She lives in a small villa at Potsdam, with her five children, and moves about as unostentatiously with her children as any other well-bred German woman. Occasionally she appears at the opera or the theatre, and it is not unusual to see her shopping in Berlin.

BRAID IN DEMAND.

Novelty hat and scarf sets make effective use of silk braid. Padded cordings, cross-stitching and flashy embroideries are also much in demand.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Orange or grapefruit marmalade is delicious with toast for tea or breakfast.

If a dish of stewed prunes has been the breakfast fruit, a bit of marmalade with the toast and coffee adds just the necessary touch to the meal.

While many people object to the bitterness of marmalades, of citrus fruits this very tang makes a stimulant for jaded appetites. Home-made marmalade can be made just as bitter as one desires it.

Candied orange peel is a sweetmeat easily made at home and a delightful change from candy. A plate of orange peeling will be quite as acceptable on one corner of the bridge table as the usual dish of bon-bons.

No English tea is ever complete without its marmalade and the English people like it with a "tang." One recipe calls for "bitter" oranges to mix with the sweet. But the bitterness is controlled by the number of times the skins are parboiled.

A rather sour orange should be chosen Lemons may be added if a somewhat tart marmalade is desired. Lemons do not add to the bitterness of the marmalade.

California Marmalade

One dozen navel oranges, sugar.

Cut oranges in halves and scoop out the pulp. Put peels in a large kettle, cover with cold water and bring to the boiling point. Drain from water and return to kettle. Add boiling water to more than cover an simmer until tender. It will take about two hours. Drain and let cool. Scrape out the white inside with a strong spoon, leaving only the yellow outside. Cut into narrow strips. Combine peeling and pulp and weigh. Use three-fourths as much sugar as orange. Put pulp and straws in preserving kettle and bring to the boiling point. Sift in sugar and boil until thick and clear. It will take about one and one-half hours. Turn into jelly glasses and cover with parafin when cold. The pulp is removed from the skins with a strong tea or orange spoon, leaving the membrane in the skins.

Combination Marmalade

Six oranges, 3 small grapefruit, 3 lemons, 3 quarts water, 8 pounds sugar.

Wipe fruit with a damp cloth. Peel one grapefruit and discard the rind. Scrape off all the white possible from the fruit. Cut all the fruit in very thin slices, removing seeds and white pith in the center. Put fruit in a large crock, cover with 3 quarts of water and let soak from noon of one day to morning of the next. Put over the fire and boil two and one-half hours. Add sugar and one more quart of water and let stand until cool. When cool return to the fire and cook one hour, stirring often. Skim as necessary. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with parafin when cold.

Candied Orange Peel

Remove skin from oranges in neat sections. Put peel into cold water and bring to the boiling point. Boil ten minutes. Change water and boil ten minutes again. Change water and boil half an hour. Drain from water and let cool. Cut in narrow strips with scissors and measure. Use one cup of sugar for every cup of straws and ½ cup boiling water. Make a syrup of sugar and water, add orange straws and boil until clear. Lift straws from syrup with a pair of candy tongs, roll in granulated sugar and spread on a platter. Place in the sun to crystallize and become firm.

SOCIETY LED BOY TO BANDIT CAREER

By DON E. P. DROHAN.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—Abolish the county jail!

Substitute houses of correction, where persons, especially juvenile delinquents, arrested for minor infractions, will be segregated from hardened criminals.

Therein will society solve, in a major degree, the problem of the first offender.

And therein will scores of reckless youths be snatched from the path that ultimately leads to the gallows or the electric chair.

This, in brief, is the opinion of James P. Kirby, chief probation officer of Common Pleas Court here. It is based upon his experiences in handling scores of cases wherein 'boy desperadoes" have played the leading roles.

Kirby, at the time of this interview, was thinking of John Lavanavitch, 17-year-old "dime novel bandit," facing a long prison sentence and possibly even the death chair.

For John, together with 19-year-old Albert Bobnar, is accused of fatally shooting a policeman, Patrolman Harry Dudley, as a climax to a brief but busy "stick-up" career.

John, police say, is the confessed leader of his band of two. To him is ascribed, within six weeks, a series of 14 robberies, six of which, the officers declare, the little tow-headed lad has admitted he "pulled" alone.

In the long list is one "job" wherein Lavanavitch walked into a store and backed 14 husky men against a wall while he emptied the cash drawer.

Even after the policeman's shooting, John and his older companion, according to their purported confession, robbed another store.

John Maintains he was given his schooling in the "stick-up" game by an ex-convict while he was serving 30 days in a Jacksonville (Fla.) jail for "bumming freights."

"Society must shoulder a lot of the blame in John's case," says Kirby. "If he hadn't been thrown with that 'old-timer' down in Jacksonville, Fla., he probably wouldn't be in the fix he's in today."

And Kirby also blames the "cheap, trashy novels." "Jesse James" books were found in John's room. And with them was a miniature arsenal, so police declare, bought from mail-order houses.

"There ought to be a federal law prohibiting promiscuous sale of guns by such places," Kirby declares. "Several States have such laws. But it's time Congress took some action."

Learn from the women who tax their skin the most . . .
and keep their faces loveliest

Two essentials they never forget

THE actress, the society woman, the business woman, the modern young girl are the ones who have learned first the right way to care for their skin. Because in no other way could they go on subjecting their skin to the same conditions and keep it beautiful.

The whole secret of their loveliness today lies in giving their skin regularly the two things they have found are indispensable in keeping a woman's skin young and supple.

First—the kind of cleansing that frees their skin nightly from the tenseness of the day's strain and clears it of the collected dust and oil and cosmetics—restores its transparency and natural pliancy. This toning up at the end of every day is absolutely essential.

Second—they know it is imperative to render their skin immune at all times to strain, dirt, changes in temperature—to all the kinds of exposure that tend to coarsen it. . . . Two distinctly different needs—for years the effort of an esteemed maker of toilet preparations was centered on the two creams that were to answer these two vital needs of women's skin.

Just the right amount, and finest quality of each ingredient to do the actual benefit to the skin for which each cream was formulated. Pond's Cold Cream not only cleanses exquisitely, it restores each time your skin's essential suppleness. And with Pond's Vanishing Cream, you have unfailing protection and the instant beauty of smooth skin under the powder. Buy both creams tonight in jars or tubes at 50 cents each at any drug store or departmental store. The Pond's Extract Company.

The actress gives her complexion harder wear and demands more of it in return than almost any other woman. She must keep her skin fine and clear though she covers it with make-up. It must be fresh in spite of late weary hours. Her very success depends on her finding the right way to care for her skin.

The society woman knows how to be a zealous sportswoman by day and appear in the evening with delicate skin unmarred. She cannot allow exposure to roughen or redden her skin, or fatigue to mark it with lines. She has been compelled to find the way to keep it fresh, supple, young, season in and season out.

Stuffy, sooty trains, every kind of weather, the strain of worry—these are enemies that attack the business woman's skin daily. How does she manage to keep the fresh attractiveness that is the envy of many of her friends at home?

She insists on both—her career of cars and sports and the particular kind of complexion men bow to! How the modern young girl keeps her skin so fascinatingly fresh is perfectly simple—according to her. She just goes in for taking care of it.

Thank Offering Meeting Of Missionary Society

Representatives of Other Denominations at the Lakefield Presbyterian W. M. S. Meeting — Address on Women's Obligations.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 21.—On Tuesday afternoon the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian church held their annual thankoffering meeting in the schoolroom of the church. Representatives were present from the W. A. of St. John's church, Baptist Mission Circle and the W.M.S. of the Methodist church, by the invitation of the Presbyterian ladies. Mrs. P. L. Jull, the president of the Presbyterian W.M.S., occupied the chair. After the usual opening devotional exercises, Mrs. Ewart, a Presbyterian officer (President for the Peterboro Presbytery), gave an interesting address on the responsibilities and obligations of a Christian woman regarding Mission work.

Mrs. Ewart dwelt on the debt that the members of today owe to the pioneers in the work,—the women who blazed the trail of the W.M.S. work which in 1924 celebrates its jubilee. There are many missing faces among the faithful band who worked so faithfully to found and establish the work of a firm basis and the ranks must be filled.

"We are not asked to be successful, only to do our best, for that is all that is expected—our best effort. We must not look back but press forward as the work is urgent and we must respond to the call which St. Paul recieved in his great experience. We read of our material progress during the past century, but have we advanced spiritually in the same measure?

"Are we more Christ-like and do we dwell more on our definite call to service. We read in our literature of service and the power of prayer which we use in our meetings, but we must also be ready for sacrifice. Christ sits on God's right hand because of the sacrifice even unto death which He made, carrying out the work given Him to do. We cannot hope to equal the sacrifice but we can carry His message. Our obligation to help Missions is only limited by our ability. We must be ready even to do the small things. If we cannot go, we can send others, for the highest honor we can have is to serve Him.

Canadian Immigrants

Another crying need is the work of making good Canadians of the immigrants coming to our shores. Then we have the department of Social Service which is so important. These new departments mean more workers and more money. We should keep in mind, when we are apt to grow weary and discouraged, our Master's weary journey from the Manger to Calvary, with the shadow of the Cross over Him all the way. We must keep in mind the importance of our work using even the most commonplace ability to the best advantage. We need a new Crusade with consecrated leaders for our Mission is as wide as the world."

At the close of the meeting tea was served by the ladies of the W.M.S. and a social half-hour was spent. Between seventy-five and one hundred ladies were present.

A.Y.P.A. Meeting

The A.Y.P.A. held a musical evening on Tuesday evening in the Sunday School room of St. John's church, which was quite successful.

After the regular business had been disposed of the following musical programme was rendered:

Piano Solo—Miss Verna Payne.
A.Y.P.A. Song and chorus by everyone.
Solo—"A Foine Ould Irish Gentleman," Mr. F. G. Kendall.
Encore—"Father O'Flynn."
Solo—"The Garden of My Heart," Miss Dorothy Turner.
Recitation—"The Shooting of Dan McGrew," Mr. E. J. Robertshaw.
Solo—"I Don't Want to Play in Your Yard," Doris Rand.
Solo—"After the Ball," E. J. Robertshaw.
Trio—"Johnny Smoker," E. J. Robertshaw, A. Summers and M. Hampton.

The programme was very good and received well merited applause. Mr. Kendall's songs were very much appreciated, also the very clever rendering of the college classic "Johnny Smoker." Miss Turner's solo was much appreciated, a pretty song sweetly sung and accompanied by Miss Verna Payne on the piano and Mr. Kendall on the mandolin.

After the programme an original contest on musical terms followed, in which Miss Marjorie Burtchall won the prize.

An amusing group musical contest followed which was won by Mr. White's group.

It is not all improbable that the society will put on another musical evening later in the season as the initial effort was so successful.

New Rector Coming

The resignation of Rev. C. Grant King takes effect November 30th, so that Sunday next will be his last Sunday at St. John's church. Rev. Walter Cox, of Toronto, who has been appointed Rector of the parish, will begin his duties the second Sunday in December. Rev. A. W. Mackenzie has kindly consented to take the services for the first Sunday in December.

THE WEATHER.

It is a matter of general remark the fine and open fall we are being favored with this year. It has been unusually mild, and the customary fall rains have been light—too light, in fact, to suit many of the farmers. Dry wells are reported in many sections, and in some cases water has to be hauled considerable distances. Mild conditions still prevail throughout the west, and Winter although doubtless on the way, has not as yet obtained a foothold in any part of the Dominion. Navigation is said to be still open on the great rivers in the Yukon, and the prospects are that winter will be delayed. a consummation devoutly to be wished by the majority of people at least. — W. MISS CANADA GIVEN ROUSING RECEPTION

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 22.—Miss Winifred C. Blair of St. John, known as "Miss Canada" was given big reception at a dinner of Canadian Club of Boston last night. In an interview Miss Blair said she would rather live in St. John, than anywher, else in the world, and that the movies were no temptation to her. Asked if the report that she had never been kissed was true she said: "Well, I wouldn't say its true and I wouldn't say it isn't true." She said she thought United States' girls, who engage in sports, were to strenuous and developed masculine figures for this reason.

NEW BALTIC STATES PROSPER BUT FEAR GOBLIN OF THE EAST

Republics Between Germany and Soviet Russia Are Insecure As to Their Future—Lusty Children.

RUSSIA WANTS FORT.

RIGA, Nov. 22 (Associated Press). —The three new Baltic republics lie like peaceful oases between troubled Germany and Soviet Russia, but, foreign observers in their capitals say, are as yet far from sanguine as to their future.

Latvia, Esthonia and Lithuania, from all surface indications, have passed through various crises common to infantile states, and are lusty children in the family of nations. But each of these baby nations still is haunted by the spectre of a goblin Russia who some day may step in and gobble it up like the giant in Jack and the Beanstalk.

Just now, according to American and other foreign observers at Riga, Reval and Kovno, who base their belief upon first hand information from Moscow, Soviet Russia has no desire for the trouble and war that aggression against these states would mean. In fact some of the more optimistic Russian leaders predict that within a decade or so, the Baltic provinces will willingly join the union of Soviet Socialistic republics as autonomous states.

Of the three states, Latvia perhaps is at the present the most prosperous. Her imports were only slightly above her exports in value last year, and this year it is hoped that the trade balance will be in her favor. Her currency, too, is stable, and the government recently informed the American Minister to the Baltic States, that Latvia would like to negotiate for the funding of her five million dollar debt to the United States.

Latvia's dairy. product export is constantly growing, and the country has ambitions to rival Denmark in this respect. Riga, once a great industrial city, is still far from having recovered the factories she lost when machinery was evacuated into Russia during the war. The Soviet government promised to return it, but, through neglect or inability to find the machinery, has sent only a small proportion back to Riga.

Lithuania, being mainly agricultural, and previously dependent upon Germany for manufactured articles upon Germany for manufactured articles and financial support, and having had prolonged troubles over Vilna and Memel with the Poles, has not reached the obvious prosperity of her northern neighbor. But it too, is moving ahead. Lithuania's relations with Soviet Russia may be said to be more cordial than those of her sister states.

Esthonia, which probably grows more potatoes to the square mile than Ireland ever dreamed of turns most of them into alcohol and her spirit industry is thriving. In fact, she is the Bahamas of the Baltic with dry Russia, dry Finland, and somewhat dry Sweden and Norway as neighbors. Bootlegging and vodka running are prosperous and reputed callings among the sturdy folk of this maritime and farming republic.

Since Memel has been taken over by the Lithuanians—and they mean to keep it—each of the Baltic states has a port that Soviet Russia either covets today or will cover some day. That is why for all of their admitted and sometimes boasted patriotism and nationalistic spirits, the baby Baltic states still think of the Goblin in the East.

Those who have seen the Latvian, Esthonian and Lithuanian armies say they would put up a very hard fight if the Russians attempted aggression. They do not expect it—for some if the Russians attempted aggression. They do not expect it—for some years.

COULDN'T SLEEP HEART WAS BAD NERVES A WRECK

Mr. H. A. Reid, Upper Musquodoboit, N.S., writes:—"I am very thankful fro the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

When I came home from overseas, in 1920, my heart was very badly affected by concussion, and my nerves were a dreadful wreck. I was very short winded, and could not possibly sleep at night, in fact, I was in such a condition I felt as if I did not wish anyone to speak to me. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had taken two boxes I could enjoy a good night's rest as well as any one.

There are lots of returned men who are suffering the same as I did, and I feel sure that if they would only try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they will receive the same relief that I have."

WOMAN LET HUBBY LITTER UP HOUSE.

Mrs. Jessie Barling States That All a Wife Can Do Is to Keep in Step and Help a Man Concentrate.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 22.—You might never have heard of the Barling Bomber, or you might never have shown any interest in it, if you had heard of it.

But there's one woman to whom the name, "Barling Bomber," means everything in the world—the achievement of all the hopes and prayers she breathed in past years.

That woman is Mrs. Jessie Barling, wife of the inventor of this airplane which, in itself, is considered of revolutionary type in the development of aviation.

So deeply engrossed has this little woman been in the successful struggle of her husband that she even let him litter up the house with his plans and instruments! And when a woman lets her husband go that far at home she must be a certain accomplice in his machinations.

She was and she's proud of it.

"All that a wife can do is to keep in step and help a man concentrate," she comments.

When the work was accomplished, and Barling had gained his success, she had so much faith in his product as to take a ride in it. Leaving her two-year-old daughter with a friend, she donned a flier's uniform and went up beside her husband.

"It was wonderful," was her remark after alighting, "to really ride in the plane after watching it grow from the very beginning."

Mrs. Barling's love of adventure may keep her in this country indefinitely.

"I do not think I shall ever wish to return to England to live there," she says. "It is too finished. Here in America the great distances suggest adventure."

GRAIN EXCHANGE HELPS FARMERS.

Opinion of Manitoba Farmer Before Royal Commission.

SHOAL LAKE, Man., Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press.)— Option trading and the entire system of grading were aspects of the evidence before the Royal Commission at the closing session yesterday. Ten witnesses testified covering a wide field of agricultural activity, cost of production, prices, labor increasing dockage on account of dirty grain and especially the necessity for returning to platform loading instead of the modern elevator.

A sprited controversy arose over whether the grain exchange operations depress or advance the price of grain for the farmer. This phase of the evidence was presented by W. J. Short, a farmer of the Shoal Lake district. Thirty-five men in his grain growers local had talked with him. With the exception of two, they believed option trading was calculated to advance the market price and was in the interest of the farmer since it got him a better price. They had no kick on the exchange, was the way he expressed it but the two exceptions thought the exchange operations depressing.

On mixing Short declared the same men in his locality were inclined to think it an evil and that mixing should be abolished, especially in commercial grades. Asked by counsel where a market would be found for tough and damp grain without mixing and hospital houses, Mr. Short said that could be done by the millers as they were experts in blending.

LEAGUE NATIONS HAS 500 TREATIES.

Secret Alliances Receive Death Blow Through Publicity of League.

GENEVA, Nov. 22.— (United Press)—The League of Nations has just passed the five hundred mark for the number of international treaties that have been registered with the secretariat for publication and world-wide publicity.

This provision of the convenant, rendering invalid any treaty concluded between two or more States until it has been registered with the League, was expected to prove a death blow to secret alliances and a preventative of war.

Recently a marked tendency has developed on the part of leaguers to file all agreements of a more or less "alliance" or "mutually defensive" character, and which before the war would have been guarded with the most jealous secrecy.

The League is confident that the 500 treaties that have been registered to date include every treaty or agreement that has been negotiated by leaguers since the end of the war, although some delay is admitted to have taken place in the filing of some of the more important "defensive" agreements.

Amongst the most interesting treaties filed recently is the famous Santa Margherita agreement between Italy and Serbia for the final adjustment of Fiume and the Adriatic situation, the terms of which were kept secret for eighteen months; the peace treaty between Germany and the United States, which was filed by Germany, although neither she nor the United States are members of the League; the defensive alliance of the Little Entente and the Franco-Polish defensive alliance.

SEARCH FOR CURE FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. Henry Spahlinger Has Worked on a Cure for This Disease for Twenty Years.

LONDON, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Henry Spahlinger, of Geneva, whose researches into the treatment and cure of tuberculosis have attracted considerable attention in recent years, and who has been in London recently at the invitation of Baron Henri de Rochschild, has been in conference with medical experts with a view to making arrangements for the circulation among members of the British medical profession of a pamphlet which will give a history of his work. Spahlinger has been at work on his tuberculosis cure for twenty years and has exhausted the resources of his family in pursuing his investigations.

When the pamphlet has been in the hands of the doctors for a month or six weeks it is proposed if funds are still necessary to enable Spahlinger to proceed to the production on a large scale of his sera and vaccines to issue a public appeal for money to carry on the work.

Baron Henri de Rochschild, who is himself a doctor, and Dr. Shahlinger have made public the reason why financial assistance is necessary to enable research work to be continued until Spahlinger is prepared to publish the details of his discoveries. Spahlinger is firm in his determination not to submit his system to a commercial exploitation, although it is stated that he has been offered so large a sum as £250,000 for the disclosure of his treatment. His purpose is to prepare sufficient quantities of the sera and vaccines which he uses for his cures to permit them to be distributed on an adequate scale in the chief European countries so that they may be exhaustively tested and afterwards to publish his formula. The preparation of the sera and vaccines requires a period of four years and Spahlinger is apprehensive that premature disclosures would lead to commercial exploitation of his remedies in a way which would fail to amke them fully effective. When once he has been enabled to demonstrate the value of his methods, however, he is willing and anxious that they should be put to the widest possible use.

Spahlinger's own faith in his discoveries is proved by the fact that the fortune of his family, amounting to £80,000, has been spent in carrying through his experiments. The recent threat of the imposition of a capital levy in Switzerland may be said to have precipitated the financial crisis which is now impeding his work at Carouge. The investigator had borrowed money from the banks on the strength of securities, and when the banks called for their money these securities had to be sold at a sacrifice. Pressed by creditors, Spahlinger had to dispose of many of the animals essential to his work.

The character of Spahlinger's experiments has been made familiar by previous descriptions. He inoculates horses with toxins to induce them to provide antidotes against the various poisons which cause tuberculosis. He has isolated twenty-two separate poisons which are connected with the disease, and by obtaining sera from twenty-two horses he prepares the complete serum which he uses in dealing with his cases. With one hundred horses at his disposal he contends that he could treat ten thousand cases of tuberculosis at one time. The treatment is not swift, and in advanced cases would need to be spread over a year and a half.

Even if Spahlinger obtains the financial help he requires, two years must elapse before he will be fully equipped with the material he requires to undertake the treatment of any considerable number of fresh cases.

SPORT WRITER DEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—W. F. Corbett editor of the Sydney Referee, and one of the best known sporting writers in the world, is dead, according to word reaching here from Sydney.

DAY BY DAY PROMINENT CITIZENS OF THIS CITY GIVE STATEMENTS STRONGLY ENDORSING DRECO

Persons Who Once Suffered From Constipation, Gastritis, Nervousness, Weak Kidneys, Sluggish Liver, Headaches, Catarrh or Rheumatism, Openly Declare the Great Herb Remedy, Dreco, Has Brought Grand Relief.

To Every Sufferer, the Advice is Given to Go to Bond's Drug Store, Get Dreco and Begin the Treatment To-Day.

You can blame no one but yourself if you continue to suffer, after being told over and over again where you may secure almost instant relief from many of the common daily troubles from which thousands in this city suffer. There are many outward symptoms which show up, but when we trace back to where they come from, nine times out of ten, we find they come from a disordered stomach, a lazy liver, weak kidneys or constipated bowels.

These are the organs which Dreco acts upon directly, and that is why so many people say that Dreco has relieved them of gastritis, nauseated stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous headaches, biliousness dizzy spells, foul breath, constipation, pains in the back, sore muscles, rheumatic joints, catarrh of the head or stomach.

Has Implicit Faith

Dreco's corrective properties make wonderful impression on Peterboro sufferer, convincing him of its true merit as a system builder. Health and strength return rapidly with Dreco's help.

Mr. Robert A. Bell, of 275 Sherwood St., Peterboro, gives his happy experience with Dreco, the famous herbal health-builder. "My stomach liver and bowels have given me no end of trouble during the past few years and I couldn't get a thing that gave me any relief. My appettie was poor and my food would lie on my stomach like a lump of lead, making my stomach so sore that I could hardly stoop over. I would get such severe dizzy spells that sometimes I would have to catch hold of something to steady myself. I was also troubled with rheumatism across my shoulders and shoulder blades.

"Although I am only on my second bottle of Dreco, I am much improved already. My appetite picked up from the very start until now I can eat most anything and very rarely do I feel any after effects. The soreness has also gone from my stomach and those dizzy spells have ceased. The pains in my shoulders don't bother me nearly so much.

"Before taking Dreco, my bowels seemed as though they were locked. I would have to take about four times the usual quantity of ordinary laxatives, but now I am regular every day.

"I am going to keep on Dreco for a while, as I feel I am now on the right road to complete recovery of my former good health."

Dreco will cleanse your system and strengthen all the vital organs of digestion. The action of its pure herb, root, bark and leaf juices assure this. Its work is accomplished in a natural, healthy way, because Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introdueed in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, in Campbellford, by J. E. Birks, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Intense Rheumatic Pains Relieved

Peterboro woman gets wonderful relief from new herbal remedy, Dreco, and gratefully voices its praises.

"For many years I have been troubled with rheumatism in my shoulders," says Mrs. Charles Griffin, of 149 Lake St., Peterboro, Ont. "Although I tried many different kinds of medicine, nothing seemed to do me any good. The pains were so intense at times that I would have to give up my work and lie down before I got any ease. Sometimes it was worse than others, but a dull, aching pain was there always. It worked on my nerves so much that it affected my whole system and I didn't have nearly the energy I should have had.

"When I heard such splendid reports of Dreco and its work in cases similar to my own, I decided to give it a trial. It has worked wonders for me. I felt 100% better before I had finished my first bottle and I hardly ever feel any signs of rheumatism now. My whole system is improved and I fell much better in every way. I am, therefore, glad to recommend Dreco to anyone who suffers as I did."

Dreco cleanses the system of all impurities and restores the kidneys, bowels, liver and stomach to normal, healthy activity, Aches and pains cannot live in a healthy system, so one by one, they disappear as Dreco restores you. Dreco is made from herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

WANTED—A REVIVAL

We pamper our sons and daughters and seek to give them a good time and shield them from hardships such as we had, and yet hope to make men and women of backbone out of them. We are too kind, forgetting that the best men and women have been made what they are by adversity. We look to the church to help us to train them aright, but they are thinking the same thoughts and doing the same things—giving them a good time instead of guiding them along the paths of old-time faith, coupled with loving service and thoughtfulness of others.

We need—oh, how much we need (a revival), and it must begin with Christian parents and the ministers of the gospel for like priest-like people. I fear, to a great extent, we have a pleasure-loving, easy-going ministry. The church, like all the rest of the folk, are seeking above all things, a good time; but is this the mission of the church? Was it the aim of our Master? No. We need men of the old time calibre, and we must have them, men who will leave the old ruts and strike out alone, if need be, and be true to their inmost convictions. I would like to see them leave their elaborate churches with their dead forms of service and their piled-up debts, which weigh them down and clog their feet, and go out in the street and take to the people the (message of the love of God as revealed in Jesus Christ.

You might wield a power over young folk stronger than the Devil's allurements (the power of a self-sacrificing love). Ministers, think over these suggestions from a mother, and go into your room alone with God and make your decision. If you decide right, here is one who will stand by you. I believe, there are many others hungering for the real deep things of life and to see our young people brought into the fold of God; so all hands to this work. Let us throw out the life-line across the dark wave for—

It may be your own boy in that sinking ship lies,
Oh, father, Oh, mother, do you care that he dies?
Then out with the life-boat, with hands strong and true,
And your boy in safety shall come back to you.

MOTHER.

FIGHTER INDICTED

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov 22—Harry "Battling" Johnson was indicted by Grand Jury here last night on two counts charging first degree murder. Johnson has been held for alleged slaying of Miss Luella Boardway, formery of Moosejaw and Miss Hilda Weiss in a dance hall on Sept. 24th. Johnson is a local prizefighter, who came here from Canada after world war.

THE BASIS OF UNION?

This document introduces such radical changes that every Presbyterian should read and study it

DO YOU KNOW?

That:

1. The ministers will not be pledged to any system of Truth.

   It casts aside the great Fundamental Doctrines on which our Church was founded and by which she has done her work. The new church will be really a creedless church.

2. The ordained eldership will be dropped.

   No other church has such a company of ordained men, banded together by the most sacred vows of service in the work of the Lord. This sheet-anchor of Presbyterianism will be bartered away for the "Committee man" of the new church.

3. The right of a congregation to "call" its own minister will be taken away.

   Instead, there will be a "Settlement Committee," which may or may not grant the request or adhere to the wishes of a congregation. The right to "call" its own minister is a cherished right and privilege of Presbyterianism.

4. The right of a Presbytery to ordain and induct its ministers will be taken away.

   This solemn and sacred privilege is highly prized by the Presbyterian Church.

5. To exchange the Great Confession of Faith for this doctrinal compromise—the Basis of Union—is too big a price to pay for so-called Union.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Why Dust Is Dangerous as Well as Beneficial to Man

ASTOUNDING facts regarding dust, which has been found to be both a benefit and a danger to man, are revealed in what is said to be the first analysis of its kind made by two American scientists, Profs. Eric R. Miller and A. N. Winchell of the University of Wisconsin. It has been found that the atmosphere is always loaded with dust, for man has a part in filling the air with dust. Every time, for example, that you light a furnace fire, myriads of dust particles are sent flying upward.

Science has learned that without dust to reflect sunlight there would be no gorgeous sunsets, no twilights, no mountain hazes. Without dust there would be almost no clouds, for dust particles form the centers about which moisture in the air condenses. Without dust there would be no raindrops, for it has been found that the nucleus of each drop of rain is a particle of dust. A simple experiment demonstrates the truth of this statement. The crater of Vesuvius in Italy emits at all times water vapor, invisible, as all vapor is, so long as it remains vapor and is not condensed to a liquid condition. If a scrap of paper is burned near the mouth of the crater of this volcano, above which hovers a heavy fog, what is the result? The ashes of the burnt paper yield dust in millions of small particles and around these the vapor condenses into small globules of water, every one of which contains particles of dust in its centre.

The astronomer says that if there were no dust another phenomenon would be unknown to the inhabitants of the moon, if there were such beings. There is no blue sky there, for all is dark and black except in the neighborhood of the sun. A similar appearance of the sky would prevail on earth if there were no dust. However, there is dust and it reflects the light and the finest of its particles cause the beautiful blue color by a process called polarization and interference. Thus, the purer the air, where the fewest coarse dust particles are in the atmosphere, the clearer and bluer the sky.

The moon has no atmosphere and, therefore, no dust. For this reason when viewed through a telescope the lunar mountains have dark, black shadows. While the tops of these mountains are glowing in clear sunlight, the valleys, to which the sunbeams cannot reach, are in darkness. There is no twilight on the moon, for when the sun sets, the bright sunlight is immediately changed into complete darkness.

Scientists have measured particles of dust having a diameter of only 200 millionths of an inch. Although infinitesimal these dust particles have been found to be oof great importance to life. Everyone has seen how these tiny dust particles act as microscopic mirrors which reflect the sunlight. A common sight is billions of these particles of dust dancing in a sunbeam, thus making it possible for sunlight to penetrate where the sun itself cannot be seen. The following simple experiment demonstrates this fact: Place a lump of red hot iron in a shaded room. The glowing iron drives away all of the dust in its surroundings. On removing the iron a dark spot is seen because there is nothing to reflect the light. After a few moments, however, the darkness is again illuminated by the dust, which soon returns and reflects the sunlight again. Somewhat the same thing may be observed almost daily. After sunset there is twilight for an hour or so. Although the sun is below the horizon, it still shines upon the upper layers of the atmosphere. The sunlight is reflected, but it is not the air itself which reflects, being a gaseous matter, but the dust floating in the air.

Although particles of dust are so microscopic in size, scientists have found a way to count them. For example, the dust of the tenth part of a cubic inch is collected and the dust particles therein counted by means of a microscope. In this way the number of dust particles from different places become known. Scientists have found that there are fewest on high mountains, where there are only about 300 particles in one-tenth of a cubic inch. In the open air of cities there are some hundred thousands, and in closed rooms 6,000,000 were gathered in this same small volume. A burning petroleum lamp yields 500,000,000 dust particles in one cubic inch; that is, in three cubic inches there are almost as many as there are people living on earth. A cigarette smoker at every draught throws forth 4,000,000,000 dust particles. In every cubic inch of air breathed by persons on the eastern coast of the United States there are all the way from 5,000 to 49,000 particles of dust. Uncle Sam's Weather Bureau has just counted them.

Where does dust come from?

Volcanoes are a prolific source of the dust in the atmosphere. The great Kratatoa eruption near the island of Java in 1883, for example, hurled fine dust 80 miles into the air, to be carried around the earth several times by winds of the upper atmosphere. Wind sweeping over dry soil, a motor car rolling over the road and even people walking about, cause quantities of dust to fill the air. Ocean gales take up salt dissolved in the sea and carry it high up in the atmosphere and to distant continents, thus augmenting the dust. Dust from shooting stars, fragments of other worlds, which, flying through the atmosphere, burst into small particles also cause dust to fall upon the earth. Among the artificial causes that produce dust is the burning of coal, which is the principal source of dust in centres of industry.

Dust from these various sources is found everywhere, but mostly in crowded cities. These microscopic creatures of the vegetable kingdom are called bacteria. Although not recognizable, except by a microscope of high power, they are dangerous and produce practically all epidemic diseases. It is impossible for inhabitants of cities to escape breathing them daily by millions, and it is only a healthy constitution which can overwhelm these dangerous foes.

Probably the most spectacular source of dust is the dust storm, in which the soil of dry lands is picked up by high winds and carried overland for miles. Scientists have just discovered that in the "Great Dustfall of 1920," 2,000,000 tons of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and Nebraska soil was lifted thousands of feet, carried eastward by a terrific windstorm and deposited in the region of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence drainage system. It fell in the form of dust particles during a snowstorm that lasted only two days.

Imagine a freight train of 40,000 cars, each of 50 tons capacity and all of them loaded with dust and you have an idea of the enormous quantity of grit that fell in that two-day storm. In the city of Madison, Wis., the dust deposit averaged about 28 tons to the square mile, an amount that would fill 280 ordinary automobile trucks. The particles were so small that they could not be seen with the unaided eye.

Sweeping over Colorado and Wyoming, the destructive wind in some places attained a velocity of 74 miles an hour. Whirling snow, dust and sand halted trains in Colorado. In two days the storm reached the Great Lakes region, prevailing as far south as Little Rock, where dust sifted into offices, covering everything. The haze was observed as far east as Nashville, Tenn., and Columbia, Ohio. This dustfall is said to have been the greatest if its kind ever recorded.

Training the Ear to Be Sharper

PROFESSOR CORNELL SCHMITT, of Germany, has evolved a novel method of training the ear to be sharper. He makes use of everyday sounds to tune the ears of children to greater sensitiveness and precision of perception. To begin with, he takes his class for a walk through the woods and has the children note and try to duplicate the sounds made by birds, streams of water, etc.

Another method of his, which is explained in the Pathfinder, is used in the classroom. It consists of having the children turn their heads away while he causes certain noises to be made. The pupils must guess what caused these sounds. Surprisingly few mistakes were made in explaining acts like the following: (1) A five-pfennig piece rolls from the table to the floor; (2) A metal lead pencil cap rolls across the desk; (3) An oval rubber eraser strikes first on its edge and then on its flat surface; (4) A pocket-knife falls and remains standing with blade sticking in the floor; (5) A cork is taken with a twisting motion from a bottle; (6) A moist finger is rubbed back and forth on a window pane; (7) A glass is filled with water; (8) Drops of water fall to the floor; (9) An empty match box is slowly opened and shut; (10) A package containing rustling paper is opened and shut; (11) A round box holding a few peas is shaken, both open and closed; (12) A metal box cover falls to the floor.

Among other tests devised by Professor Schmitt are: Tell the size of a tree-trunk being sawed in two by an invisible sawyer in the woods. Is a wood-cutter holding his ax-blade at right angles or obliquely? Is he chopping a thick block or a board? What is a passing wagon loaded with? What sort of animals are drawing it, and how many? What kind of road is it on?

His experiments with birds and insects show there are certain sounds to which the human ear is deaf that can be heard by the creatures with a more sensitive auditory apparatus. Ears of various animals and insects are attuned differently. For instance a tree-frog will respond to imitation croaking but apparently does not hear a pistol shot close by.

At a meeting of the National Academy of Sciences in this country Dr. Donald Mackenzie said that there is no difference in the hearing ability of men and women, but that any one ear can vary from day to day. These variations are most noticeable at the extremes of loudness.

Just How to Treat Snake Bites

TO deal effectively with the bite of a venomous serpent one must foreknow, foretell, and forestall. All other knowledge on the part of a would-be helper will speedily result fatally for the sufferer. What is done must be done firmly and quickly. In a contribution to the Western Medical Times (Denver) Dr. Douglas H. Stewart gives the following explanation of how to treat snake bites:

"There is no more effective and simple way of teaching than through the use of the ancient method of symbolism. For the present purpose let us take three symbols: A cord, a razor and a Scotch plaid, which will answer for both physician and layman. In planning for the treatment of snake-bites one fact must never be forgotten, and that is, that the first damage is local; but will not remain so. If it were to remain local, the danger would be practically nil.

"Bites are commonly upon an arm or a leg, therefore he who can treat a bitten limb promptly will be very apt to meet the snake-bite emergency successfully. Suppose, then, a person is bitten: The first thing to do is to grasp the extremity with one's hands an inch or two above the bite. Squeeze, and squeeze hard. While squeezing, think of a string, a razor and a Scotch plaid. Tie the string or its substitute; e. g., bandage, electric-bell wire, etc., above the grasping hand. Have some one pull it tight and knot it, before releasing the grasp. Put on four or more such ligatures about two inches apart. This procedure or a similar one marks the first step at keeping the venom localized. Next think of the razor and with that or its substitute cut a figure that shall represent the crossing of the lines on a Scotch plaid so that the punctures of the snake's fangs shall be included in the crossing lines. Cut fast and cut deep. The more bleeding the better. If one cuts fast the pain of the first cut seems to cover the pain of the succeeding ones, whereas, slow cutting means nerve recovery, and just so many distinct, successive pains. Make five cuts from left to right spaced about one-fourth inch apart so that those incisions shall run from one inch below the puncture marks to one inch above these marks. Then without delay make five more cuts, similarly spaced, but extending up and down, or at right angles to the others. All should be made in such a manner that the bites lie in the right angles crossing the lines as shown in the illustration.

"Two mistakes are almost certain if the attendant goes carefully.

"1—Unnecessary pain will be caused by slowness and hesitation.

"2—The cuts will not be deep enough.

"Of course this treatment would not be sufficiently radical for the hunter or plainsman, who prefers to explode some gunpowder on the snake-bite. And this either preliminary to or secondary to a rather severe jack-knife manipulation, such as a conical excision of the bite with a liberal amount of surrounding tissues. It may not be amiss to mention in this connection that in former times amputation was considered a lesser alternative, and that men have asked bystanders to blow out the sufferer's brains. All of which is only to emphasize that the cuts must be made rapidly, slashingly and deep, for traumatism is no factor in this instance.

"At this stage of the proceedings the venom should have been restrained by the ligatures and an escape should have been furnished by the multiple incisions. To make matters doubly sure a cupping glass, a breast pump, mouth suction, or any suction whatever, is of distinct advantage. Therefore, such suction should be applied to the bite.

"The question of anti-venom does not enter here at all. Nor need it be discussed as to excellence or to limitation. All that need be said is, it is generally unavailable. One thing that every farmhouse or emergency kit should contain is a small bottle of one-grain tablets of potassium permanganate. Suppose the permanganate is archaic, out of date and forgotten, no one who once becomes familiar with it will say that, within its sphere of action, there is anything better. It is a most powerful oxidizer and venom can not withstand its destructive presence. In other words, a venom exposed to contact with permanganate is no longer venomous. The ideal solution is 1 per cent—two one-grain tablets dissolved in three teaspoonfuls of water—and this acts at a distance when injected beneath the skin. Consequently there is no reason why a venom after being placed by a snake-bite may not be surrounded by a circle of deep hypodermic injections of a 1 per cent potassium permanganate solution and the venom thus rendered harmless or nearly so. Hunters, explorers, etc., usually take a supply of bichlorid tablets with them, though it is an open question whether those tablets might not be advantageously replaced by the less poisonous, but very active and comparatively safe permanganate.

"Alcohol, digitalis, etc., may be used for shock and fainting, but for those symptoms only, since their value as antidotes is rather more than doubtful.

"The ligatures are to be left tight for thirty minutes, at the end of which time they are very slowly unfastened. Not only should they be slowly unfastened, but at the least sign of poisoning an unfastened one must again be tightened, immediately.

"The standard dressing that is finally applied to the field of operation is a saturated solution of permanganate. This is effective, but not unnecessarily severe. The surrounding hypodermic injections will render a very mild continuous application quite as efficacious as a caustic one."

The Chrysanthemum as a Symbol of Love

WHY the chrysanthemum is looked upon as a symbol of love by the Japanese was explained recently at a flower show at the American Museum of Natural History, in New York City, by the Japanese Consul General to the United States.

"Among the Japanese," he said, "there is a custom to interpret flowers according to their color, shape and time of blossom. For example, cherry trees come to full bloom in Spring, when the plants and flowers come up, birds sing cheerful melodies, plains and fields are spread with a green carpet and everything is bright and gay.

"But should rain or wind come at the time of blossom, the flowers fall and wither immediately and retain nothing of their former luxuriance. In this season the cherry blossom is very often compared with a charming and fascinating woman whose captivating power surpasses every other quality.

"To our great regret, fascination in a woman is not always combined with constancy and virtue, but, on the contrary, very often with frivolity and caprice, and, like the cherry blossom, perishes and fades with exposure to the slightest storm.

"This fact accounts for the reason that Japanese women seek their ideal symbol in the chrysanthemum and the plum blossoms instead of in the cherry blossoms. They take these flowers, especially the chrysanthemum, as the symbol of feminine virtue and love and cherish them with admiration.

"They adore the chrysanthemum because it stands against the severe frost, and in the midst of the autumn season, when the lotus dies and the leaves of the trees fall, it remains to inspire and cheer us with its wondrous splendor."

ELECTRICITY a Part of Your DIET

ELECTRICITY forms an essential part of your diet. This does not mean, of course, that you should turn on the electric light switch and try to swallow the electric fluid in the same way as you turn on the tap and drink the fluid that flows from it. The electricity you eat must be in minute doses; and in minute doses it is furnished by Nature ready for your needs.

Physiologists explain that the cells of which the muscles of animals are composed are practically electric batteries and contain a charge of electricity. It has also been claimed that the cells of all vegetables are charged in the same way.

The presence of electricity, even in small quantities, can be detected by means of a galvanometer. By inserting the positive terminal of a galvanometer into the stem of a fresh pea-pod, and the negative terminal into one of the peas, an electric current is released on closing the key. This proves that the pea is electrically active.

Why, it will be asked, does the electricity not flow away or discharge itself, but remain in the pea? Science makes a simple explanation. The pea is covered with a substance which insulates the electricity and so prevents it from escaping in exactly the same way as the electricity flowing along the wires in a house is prevented from escaping by the insulation round them.

This insulating or protective material forms the bloom on the apple, peach and plum. When this bloom is removed by polishing or by the skin being bruised, the electricity in the cells nearest the surface leaks away and the fruit decays in that spot.

This leakage of electricity causes a further leakage from the nearest healthy cells, and this goes on until the fruit becomes quite rotten.

Exactly the same thing happens with the cells of animal tissue, which we commonly speak of as meat.

Dr. A. White Robertson has drawn attention to the fact that all animals (including man) which live in the wild, feed only on what he calls "quick or live food," whether that food is animal or vegetable. In other words, all food cells are taken into the stomach alive; that is to say, while yet electrically charged and before electrical death of the cell has induced chemical change.

Indeed, Dr. White Robertson, according to Pearson's Weekly, goes so far as to believe that the material we eat must be electrically active in order that we may get the greatest nourishment out of it.

Food, therefore, from which the electricity has been drawn is not in a fit state to be transformed into body tissue. It may be used as fuel to contribute to the energy of the body, but there its value ceases. If, therefore, such food is taken in excess, and most of us eat more than we need, we develop in our bodies the poisons which are so powerful in producing disease.

That is why, in Dr. White Robertson's opinion, there is so much disease in the world today, and why most of the civilized nations show such marked signs of deterioration compared with the nations of the past who lived largely on uncooked, therefore "live," foods, and who knew nothing of canned meats, vegetables and fruits.

Why HIGH HEELS Make Feet Appear SMALLER

THE shoeman will tell you that probably ninety-nine out of a hundred women who wear high heels would be puzzled to say why they are so fashionable. Smartness, of course, is responsible for the fashion. But what makes a high heel look smarter than one only half an inch in depth? The reason is that the high heels produce an optical illusion which is seldom familiar to those who wear them.

Nearly every one, if asked to compare the two feet shown in the diagram, would decide that foot A is bigger than foot B. But they would be mistaken.

Exactly the same foot would fit either shoe equally well. The apparent difference in length is caused by the angle at which the foot lies in the shoe.

In the first instance the whole length lies between the points V and W, and there can be no deception in this case. In the other shoe, however, the length from X to Z does not represent the length of the foot at all—that is actually the distance from X to Y, which is the true line of the sole.

The Same Foot in Different Shoes, Showing How a High Heel Makes the Foot Seem Smaller.

Why Glass Jars Are Best for Canning

DURING the season for preparing fruits and vegetables for Winter use hundreds of thousands of housewives throughout the country are busy preserving and canning. But all this prepared food will not keep well. Many women do not properly test the containers and rubber rings. Consequently some preserved foods will spoil. Others do not know the best type of jar to use.

A study of various receptacles has convinced the United States Department of Agriculture that for home use glass jars are more economical than tin because they can be used repeatedly, and when used with care they will last a long time. The original type Mason jar is of glass and seals with a screw cap usually made of zinc with the top lined with porcelain. This top sometimes becomes loose and the cap becomes difficult to clean and sterilize. Then, too, its edge may be bent in opening the jar, so that thereafter it fails to make close contact with the rubber ring. However, there are now several improved types of glass jar on the market. These are considered the best. Among them is one which has a glass top fitting down on the rubber ring and a metal ring which screws down over the glass top, holding it in place. This jar needs no new parts from year to year except the rubber ring and it is easily sealed and opened. There is also a jar with a glass disk cover which fits over the rubber ring and is held in place by the wire clamp. These improved types are now used extensively and with excellent results.

The rubber rings, according to the department bulletin, must be new each season. It does not pay to use them a second time since the spoilage that frequently results more than offsets the cost of new rubbers. It is also necessary to have the rings of first rate quality. They may be tested by inserting the forefingers and stretching the ring. If the rubber cracks, or if it does not really return to its former size and shape, it should not be used. A good rubber ring will be strong enough to stand the strain of 17 pounds, or a six-inch piece should stretch the same distance without cracking or breaking.

For home use tin cans are not satisfactory and are therefore seldom used. This is because most vegetables and fruits are highly acid and act upon the tin. If tin cans are used at all, it is necessary to use those that have a lacquered or enameled lining. However, this lining does not stop the entire action of the acid and the food may be poisoned.

TEMPERATURE RISING IN THE BRITISH FIGHT SAYS WICKHAM STEED

Personal Questions Are Playing a Larger Part iu the Campaign.

BALDWIN'S PLEA

LONDON, Nov. 22.—By Wickham Steed, former editor of the London Times Editor of Review of Reviews, copyright.—As the elector al temperature rises personal questions are playing a larger part in the campaign.

"Baldwin is unfit for his job," was the opening note in Lloyd-George's speech in London yesterday afternoon, whereto Baldwin himself replied at Reading last night by Jibes at Asquith, Lloyd-George and Winston Churchill.

The Labor Leader, Ramsay Macdonald, whose triumphal progress continued yesterday into South Wales hit Lloyd-George harder by declaring that the present deplorable situation at home and abroad "is the outcome of Lloyd-George blunderings yet he is using the calamities of his own policy as the reason why the elector should restore him to office."

Lieut. Col. L. C. S. Amery, first Lord of the Admiralty, asserted that Lloyd-George intended after visiting Canada and the United States, to return to England as the Apostle of Empire development, but while he was on the ocean he heard by wireless of the election coming, and consequently he declared on landing that Baldwin had been guilty of utterable folly in advocating the development of the Empire. The reason was Amery declared, that Lloyd-George thought the election offered a chance of regaining premiership Undoubtedly Lloyd-George's past record and extreme adaptability are circumstances tending to neutralize the value of his support to the United Liberal Party.

Portraits Restored

Though the portraits of Winston Churchil and Lloyd-George were solemnly released yesterday from the cellars of the National Liberal Club, whither they were relegated during the life time of the late coalition government. Many extreme Liberals would rather support Labor candidates than vote for a restoration of Lloyd-George to office. Massingham, former Liberal editor of the Daily News and the Nation, to-day adjures young Liberals in the columns of the Herald, the Labor organ to turn their backs upon the Liberal party in which Asquith joined Lloyd-George in return for a share in the latter's funds, which originally were supplied largely for election of Tory candidates. Asquith's alliance with the most distrusted politician in England, declares, Massingham frees Liberals from their allegiance to the Liberal party. Hence earnest Liberals ought to support labor. The Asquithians on the other hand are seeking to come to an agreement with the Laborites not to oppose each other in 80 constituencies which the Conservatives won last election by minority votes.

Thus Baldwin majority of 80 may be effectually destroyed.

A bargain of this kind would certainly endanger Baldwin's position which is further complicated by the fact that a dozen Tory Free Traders could not be counted on as a protectionist majority if they were elected. Moreover Scottish reports show a dislike of the election there even stronger than in England, some Glasgow, Conservatives intending to abstain or even vote Liberal out of resentment at Baldwin's tactics.

Position Complicated

The position is further complicated by the attitude of the farmers to whom Baldwin promised a subsidy of £1 per acre on cultivated land provided they paid their laborers a minimum wage of thirty shillings a week. The farmers' union inquired whether the subsidy was dependant upon raising the revenue for it by protection. Baldwin now answers affirmatively, declaring that the assistance to industries and the subsidy to agriculture constitute a single comprehensive interdependent policy. The farmers are consequently dissatisfied and urge that the tariff must safeguard the producers of foodstuffs.

The most daring feature of Lloyd George's speech yesterday was his assertion that British Home Industries are flourishing and her blast furnaces roaring.

Sixty-one million pounds of British iron and steel, manufacturers were exported last year while the United States a protected country, exported only thirty-night million pounds. Elsewhere Lloyd-George referred to the fall in Sterling in New York, attributing the fall to Baldwin's mis-management. The Conservatives reply that Lloyd-George cannot have it both ways industry going up, up, up, Sterling going down, down, down. The force of Baldwin's plea that the fall of Sterling was due to the Ruhr difficulty is generally admitted, as is Lloyd-George's responsibility for creating the conditions wherefrom the French occupation of the Ruhr arose.

On striking a balance the Government program appears to be making more headway than seemed likely last week, though it is still most doubtful whether Baldwin will secure a majority in the new Parliament.

FIRE TOOK TOLL OF THREE LIVES

Heroic Mother Dashed Into Flames to Save Children and Was Not Seen Alive Again.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Nov. 22.—(Canadain Press.)—Three dead and a fourth not expected to live, is the toll of human lives taken in a fire which broke out this morning at Collinsville, just outside the city limits on the Drummond road, when the residence of William Gendron and family was reduced to ashes.

Mrs. Gendron and one son, eleven year sold, perished in the flames, while an eight yearold child, Gerard, died later in the morning from burns, and a little daughter, Jezelle, aged five years, is not expected to recover from the serious burns that she received.

The origin of the fire is unknown, although it is thought that possibly one of the children may have thrown coal oil in the stove, since a neighbor residing nearby heard an explosion before the flames broke out.

Mrs. Gendron, whose husband is working in Montreal, left her house to go to that of her brother, Mr. Fontaine, to borrow some butter. It was while she was away that the flames broke out. Mrs. Gendron on seeing the flames rushed to the scene. The heroic mother rushed into the burning house to rescue her eleven year old son, and apparently her return was cut off, for she was never seen alive again. Mr. Fontaine was no less heroic than his unfortunate sister. He rushed through the flames twice, despite severe burns, to rescue two of the children.

JURY'S VERDICT IN PECK DEATH

Trainman Met His Death as Result of an Accident

LINDSAY, November 22. — The following is the verdict of the coroner's jury, which inquired into the cause of the death of the late F. H. Peck, the C.N.R. fireman, who was killed in the collision at the Santiago siding, Lindsay, on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 13th, when mail train No. 95, Port Hope to Toronto, crashed into a freight engine:

"We, of the jury, called to inquire into the cause of the death of the late F. H. Peck, C.N.R. fireman, find that the aforesaid deceased came to his death through an accident while employed as a fireman on a freight train known as the Manifest, coming into Lindsay ahead of train No. 95 C.N.R. mail train. The evidence given before us by all the witnesses appeals to us as very truthful and honest. The time possible for the manifest crew to get into clear was very limited, and the mail train was quite evidently sharp on time. We believe that while admissions have been made in the evidence of the crew of the manifest that rules were slightly overlooked yet the very heavy and unusual fog was largely the cause of the accident. We would recommend that an automatic block signal semaphore be placed at the eastern entrance to the Santiago yard to avoid just such accidents, and as a safeguard to the travelling public."

LOCAL TEACHERS IN SESSION HERE

Nominating Committee Bring in a Slate

The first session of the Teachers' Institute met in the Public Library this morning. Mr. M. H. Park, the president, occupied the chair.

The first part of the session was given over to routine business, as the reading of the secretary's and treasurer's reports, and the minutes of the last meeting.

The Nominating Committee was appointed as follows: Mr. Clark, Miss Buck, Mr. Kerr, Miss Ross, Miss Cruikshanks, Miss Lancaster, Sister Paula and Miss Walker.

Teachers were urged to attend the O.E.A. at Easter in increasing numbers.

A discussion took place regarding the revival of the teachers' banquets. The matter was left in the hands of the Social Committee of the Institute.

The Nominating Committee recommended the following as officers for 1924:

President—Miss M. J. Wallace.
Vice-President—Miss L. Elliott.
Secretary-Treasurer — Miss F. D. Walker.
Executive Committee — Sister Helena, Miss Mackay, Miss Eastwood, Mr. Mowat and Mr. Park.
Committee on Reading Course — Mr. Munro, Miss M. Pakenham and Mr. Bolton.
Social and Athletic Committee—Mr. Park, Mr. Deyell, Misses Sisson, Doughty, Bonnycastle, and Pilling.
Auditors—Messrs. Dearborn and Kerr.

SCHWEIR ACCUSED BY FORMER FRIEND

Morley James Who Pleaded Guilty to Adam Hall Burglary Turned on Alleged Confederate.

Earl Schweir was this morning charged before His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke with breaking and entering the Adam Hall Foundry on the night of November 1 last, and was remanded until Monday at 11.30 to permit His Honor to take into consideration a point not made clear by the evidence.

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., prosecuted, while the prisoner was not represented by counsel. The prisoner pleaded not guilty.

Throughout the trial, which was conducted without a jury, Schweir was closely guarded, he having a record of many escapes from custody, on one occasion making his get-away from Central Prison.

The principal witness against Schweir was Morley James, who a few weeks ago pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, and who now showed no reluctance at implictaing his friend and alleged confederate on that occasion. He would not, he said, have engaged on the enterprise but for the stories Schweir told of how easy it was to effect an entry and make a getaway. Schweir told him of the ease with which he broke jail, he declared.

Describes Burglary.

The first witness called was Morley James, who was an employee of the Adam Hall Company. He was working at Hall's at the time of the burglary but said he was with Schweir when the foundry office was broken into some weeks ago. The office was entered by a window. After the burglary papers were left scattered about the office, and the men returned to a local pool room.

When I saw Schweir first he asked me what they wanted to arrest him for, said Chief Newhall who was the next witness. I told him for breaking into and entering the Adam Hall Foundry on Nov. 1st, with Morley James. His reply was, I never saw Morley James that night; I was at home in bed. He said he went to bed at 10:30 that night. I said Sergt. Thomas had been talking with him and James that night near the Adam Hall Foundry, which he denied. I called James into my office and asked him before Schweir, who was with him on Nov. 1st when he broke into the Adam Hall Foundry. He spoke up to Schweir and said, You and I were together that night, and it was us who broke into the Foundry, and said had it not been for the tales Schweir told him about how very easy job was and about how many times he had escaped from jail he would not have attempted the job.

He also stated that James told him that he was rummaging around in the drawers when Schweir said that is not the way to do it, and he threw all the contents on the floor. He told me afterwards that he did see Sergt. Thomas that night and he did go home and go to bed at 10.30. He also stated that he was with James on 1st November, but that he had nothing to do with the robbery. Schweir was then sent to a cell for using bad language. He was later heard verbally castigating James and Chatten for telling the police.

Schweir: James was not down stairs when I went down, he was still in the Court Room, but Chatten was down there. It would be pretty hard for James to hear him swearing at him when James was in the witness box upstairs.

You tried to make me swear that it was on Simcoe street that I met him, but it was on George street that I met him.

Bad Tactical Point.

Schweir stated that he was going to the show with James, but it was too late when they met so they didn't go. They stood around George street for a while, then on the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer near the Y.W.C.A. He asked me to go with him over to Hall's, but I told him I had been in enough trouble and that I was going to break away from that kind of life. He said you are getting cold feet. We then went to the pool room and then I went home. I was with him Tuesday and Thursday evenings but I had nothing to do with the Hall case.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hatton—Your story agrees with James story in everything but the breaking into Adam Hall's.

Schweir—I think it would be foolish to enter a place at that time of night on account of it being so close to the sidewalk and on account of the traffic at that time of the night. The nearest I was to the Adam Hall foundry that night was the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer.

Schweir stated that since he came out of the Kingston penitentiary he had tried to go straight. "I know nothing about the Adam Hall business, I worked in the bush all summer and when I returned home I got a job with the McDonald Lumber Co."

The court was adjourned till Monday morning at 11.30.

Judge Huycke— Prisoner, I am going to remand you to jail till Monday when you will be brought here.

Automobile Chances

There are many of them for the carefully planning, prospective purchaser who takes advantage of the Want Columns in the Examiner.

See what the Wants can do for you in accomplishing any of these automobile desires.

You may keep in close touch with automobile owners who will be interested in a chance to trade or sell their cars if you make the fact known through the Want Columns of The Examiner.

AGREEMENT ON NOTES WAS ONLY TEMPORARY TO AVERT DISASTER

French Newspaper Declares Disaster Will Follow Breaking of Entente—Agreement Was First Capitulation by France.

GERMANY RELIEVED

(By Webb Miller, United Press.)

PARIS, November 22. — The morning papers to-day emphasized that the agreement reached by the Ambassadors' Conference yesterday for notes to Germany, dealing with the reimposition of the control of German armaments, and with the custody of the Crown Prince, is purely "temporary."

Its chief benefit was considered to be the prolongation of the Anglo-French entente.

The commission of Foreign Affairs of the Chamber of Deputies requested explanations from Premier Poincare of his "concessions" to obtain the agreement.

The opposition members of the chamber were said to be planning a united offensive against the premier. They were strongly dissatisfied with the cost paid to maintain the Anglo-French entente.

Andrew Tardieu, one of Poincare's strong political opponents made the agreement the subject for a bitter attack on the "gravest capitulation in four years."

Writing in the Echo National, he declared that "the result of the latest manoeuvre crowned Poincare's paradoxical policy." Reparation receipts, he pointed out, were zero, control of German armaments was nonexistent, and the Crown Prince was back in Germany.

The Journel Industrielle, organ of the business interests, said the agreement is not satisfactory or sincere, but it offers the chance to prepare for another.

La Victoire said, "If England and France don't reaffirm their entente and wartime military alliance Europe is threatened with disaster."

France Backed Down.

Premier Poincare yesterday, for the first time, yielded completely in an inter-allied dispute, says the New York World in a copyright article which appears to-day. The newspaper asserts that the joint note sent to Germany yesterday on questions of renewal of activities of the inter-allied control commission in Germany and with regard to former Crown Prince Frederick William, represented what the British government had demanded in connection with France's threat to proceed with additional penalties against Germany

Britain threatened a rupture of the entente cordiale and was backed up by Italy and partly by Belgium.

The World says it obtained its information from the report United States Ambassador Herrick made to the State Department at Washington.

Lord Crewe, the British Ambassador declared that if France persisted in separate action against Germany his country might feel compelled to withdraw from the inter-allied bodies

Within two hours a draft of the note along the lines Britain had asked for, had been completed and was aproved by Poincare.

Germany Relieved.

Germany is "vastly relieved by the nature of the notes agreed upon at the Ambassadors' conference in Paris yesterday, it was said. These notes, dealing with the restoration of control of German military strength by an interallied niission under Treaty of Versailles, and with the allied attitude toward the Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm, were thought to mean that nothing further would be done.

Stresemann Hopeless.

In his address before the Reichstag to-day Chancellor Stresemann is quoted by agency despatches from Berlin, as declaring that his government would relinquish office if it were considered necessary.

He declared that Germany's internal position was hopeless, and so far as he could see there was not the slightest prospect of effecting an improvement.

The British Elections

LONDON, Nov. 22. —(Canadian Press.) —The Communist Party's manifesto issued in connection with the general election, demands confiscation of all idle factories and land and weekly minimum wage of four pounds for six hour working day, also full maintenance for unemployed and housing for all people.

Only twelve ridings now are without Conservative candidates and it is expected that most of these vacancies will be filled by nomination day, The number of Conservatives engaged in the contest will be 550 compared with 441 in general election of last year.

Free churches have issued a manifesto in which they disclaim desirability of churches pronouncing on merits of rival fiscal systems but suggest that questions be pressed upon candidates concerning their attitude toward the League of Nations and their stand on improvement of education, housing and temperance reform, all of which manifesto favors.

Labor Opens Campaign.

Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, in opening his campaign in Newcastle last night, said only criticism of Labor party's capital levy policy came from millionaire papers.

Torchlight procession and floral horseshoe were features of Ramsay MacDonald's reception at Aberavan last night where he was formally adopted as Labor candidate. He was met by a crowd of thirty thousand and his motor car was dragged for more than three miles in the procession.

The Labor leader declared that protection would ruin South Wales and adjoining coal fields.

"I do nt think this country is prepared to send to Dominions only our best workmen," he said. "Until now we have been robbed of best elements of our working population. We ought to come to some arrangements whereby the Dominions will take some of those whom we call second hand men."

Speaking at Paisley, Herbert Asquith referred to Lord Derby and Lord Cecil as "Unionist free traders, weak in knees and supple in spine." The government's policy, he declared, was shadowy and inchoate, tangle of conflicting interests and not even embryonic.

The Anglo-French agreement had thrown another bone of contention into the British election battle today.

The Liberal party supporters of David Lloyd George claimed it was just a "gag" to help Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin win his election on December 6th so that Premier Poincare of France would continue to have "an easy mark" to deal with in England.

The Conservatives hailed it as a great diplomatic victory.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. — (United Press).—The stock market opened active and higher, with the Oils predominating in strength. Pan-Americans featured with a double opening in the Common at 64½ to 63½, up 2¼ to 1¼ points, while the "B" shares at 60 were up 3-8.

Standard Oils were in the limelight, New Jersey up 3-8 at 35 5-8, while California, at 56 3-4, was up the same amount.

Tide Water Oil reached a new high on the recovery at 120, up 3. Independent Oils were also stronger.

Steel Common was up fractionally as were most of the leading rails.

Buoyancy continued to characterize the whole market in the first hour, the forward movement embracing the broadest area since the current rise began.

Davison Chemical maintained a rapid advance, reaching a further new 1923 high above 77. Spectacular gains were scored by the Congoleum and other specialties, while demonstrations of group strength took place in many sections.

Perhaps the strongest class were the Oils, which made an extraordinary response to intimations that the highest trade circles felt better about the outlook for the industry.

New highs on the movement were reached by the Pan-American, Cosden, Pacific Oil and practically all the active issues of this class.

Opening prices on the Stock Exchange included: Chesapeake and Ohio 74 3-4, up 3-4; Texas Co. 40 7-8, up 1-8; Marland 26¼, up 7-8; Can. 101, up 3-8; Corn Products 131 3-8, off 1-8; American Locomotive 75, up ½; N.Y. REV. H. YOUNG IS INVITED REMAIN

Members of the Board of George Street Methodist Church met last evening, and, among other things, extended to Rev. Harold Young a unanimous invitation to remain a fifth year. Mr. Young asked for two or three days to consider the proposal. The invitation evidences the esteem in which Mr. Young is held by the members of the church.

At the request of the Church Union Committee, Rev. Mr. Young was released for one week to go on a speaking tour together with other members of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches who will speak on behalf of church union. Mr. Young expects to be assigned to western Ontario and will

Were the "Good Old Days" Really Good?

WHEN you hear an old-timer sigh for the days of his forefathers, smile quietly to yourself and think of this:

The ancients got along without automobiles, soap, stoves, tooth-brushes, window-glass, breakfast foods, telephones—without practically all of the things we consider the bare essentials of life.

There never has been a time when life bettered itself so rapidly and so consistently as now. New conveniences and new comforts are continually being thought out and brought out for your benefit.

In order to reap the advantages that are yours today, you must read the advertisements. They bring you news of all that the world of invention and discovery is doing to make your work easier, your home life more pleasant, your clothing and food problems less difficult. They keep you informed of all that is new in the markets and stores. They tell you not only about the goods, the styles, the varieties and prices, but also where and when these things are to be had.

The advertisements are messages from the business world to you. Heed them.

BOTH LOCAL HOCKEY TEAMS WORKING OUT

Intermediates Have Got Under Way and Juniors Start at the Y. M. C. A. Friday Night — Several New Men Available.

Peterboro's hockey prospects are beginning to assume favorable shape as the preliminary workouts of the two O.H.A. teams present the available material.

The intermediates have lost Ernie Legon, but several new men who have located here since the ice went last Spring are reported as likely candidates for the team. One of them, Lackey, formerly of Smith's Falls, turned out at Brock Street rink the other night when Joe Dwyer warmed up Frank Collins, Ranger, McMartin and Burgess. Harold Parker has been ahunting but is expected to dig up his stick and skates again and should have a big season.

Lou Le Barr and Walter Jackson have sent out a call for the juniors to show up at the Y.M.C.A. at 7 p.m. sharp tomorrow night. They already have a list of twelve men to try for the team most of last year's squad being eligible. Among their prospects is William Clarke who played with Timmons last year. He is employed at the Kingan Hardware store. Next Tuesday night the juniors will be put through another limbering up performance, and those who intend to try for the team are expected to get into shape as soon as possible. The management extends a general invitation to any other players to report Friday night. The Y.M.C.A. have given the team generous terms for the use of the gymnasium and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance on Friday and Tuesday nights.

Junior City League.

A junior city league will be formed and there are prospects of a senior City League will be formed. If this league is formed, some of the games will be played in the Lakefield rink. If the senior league is formed it is likely that the War Veterans, C.G.E., Raybestos and Lakefield will enter teams.

It is practically certain that a Junior City Leagfue will be formed. The Sacred Heart and Lakeviews will enter. It is not definite whether the Auburn and Maple Leafs will be represented in this league.

A meeting will be called next week for clubs that are interested in both O.H.A. and City League to decide whether a senior city league will be formed. There will be a discussion to find out whether the Junior City League will keep the age the same as former years, which was nineteen. It will also be decided whether intermediate players will be allowed to play with the senior city league.

The Junior City League puck chasers will have better opportunities for playing their games this season as the Sacred Heart rink will be enlarged and they are making preparations to have hockey played in their rink. The Cognawagna rink will also be available.

YANKS WILL MEET EMPIRE ATHLETES

In London July 19 Following Olympic Games at Paris.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Formal acceptance of an invitation for United States Athletes to compete in a dual meet at London with representatives of the British Empire was announced today by the A.A.U. The meet will be held on July 19, immediately following the Olympic track and field program at Paris.

The program for the meet, which will be similar to one held in London after the 1920 Olympics as suggested by British athletic authorities include eight relay races, ranging in distance from 400 yards to four miles, and the running broad and high jumps.

The Amateur Athletic Union also has approved the proposed Irish Games at Dublin, where the Irish Free State plans to hold an Athletic tournament for Irishmen and all those of Irish extraction next August. An invitation has been extended to Irish athletes residing in the States.

SLOW MOVIES SHOW RACE RESULT AS DOUBTFUL

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Private showing last night of the slow movies of the Zev-In Memorian race last Saturday at Lousville left the small group of expert spectators in as much doubt as they were after the actual race.

The picture seemed to indicate that In Memorian might have won by a "nod" but the spectators were divided some thinking that In Memoriam had finished first and others that it was a dead heat.

The company which took the pictures claims that the camera was located right on the finish line but mathematicians consulted expressed the opinion that the angle was not perfect and that it might have made a difference of four inches in the placing of the two colts.

BOWLING

WESTERN CLOCK START INTERSHOP LEAGUE.

The Western Clock have started an Intershop League which will bowl on Wednesday and Fridays. Besides the men's teams the ladies will also enter teams and will play on the same days as the men. This league will be a big one and will probably take most of these two night.

It might be noted that the ladies are fast taking up the game of bowling and on different nights ladies have been seen at the Water Street Alleys. They pick up the game fast and lots of them are ringing up as good scores as the men.

EXAMINER INTERSHOP LEAGUE.

Last night at the Water Street Alleys the Examiner League were in action. Their were eight teams rolling last night and some good scores were set up. Max Swanston took the full glare of the spotlight, having the high three games, rolling a score of 553, and also having the high single of 227. As a result of last night's games the standing in the league of some of the leaders is somewhat altered. McCauley's Linos who were on the top rung of the league dropped two to George Cairns' Comps and went into fourth place. Harry Lacheur's Operators by taking three straight from Fred Scates' Inters went up into first place. Rolly Glover's Directors although they dropped two to Allan Whyte's Proofers are up in third place. Max Swanston's Casters dropped two to Gordon Long's Jobbers.

FASTER ICE FOR WINNIPEG GAMES

Edmonton and Calgary in Better Shape For To-Night.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 21—With the advantage of several more days practice the Edmonton and Calgary teams are in much better shape for their second meeting tomorrow night in the special professional hockey series under way here.

Though the Eskimos have a one-goal lead Calgary Athletes seem to think that they are going to deliver and get into the final. Kenny McKenzie says his Edmonton boys were off color the other night but were good enough to win and expects them to step right out and cinch the affair early.

With the change in the weather which is now more suitable for hockey, a much more brilliant display is looked for. Regina and Ottawa play their second game Saturday night.

ONLY ONE TEAM IN LAKEFIELD

Dr. S.J. Gibson Appointed Manager of Intermediates — W. L. Webster Is Treasurer.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 22.—An enthusiastic meeting was held on Monday evening in the G.W.V.A. rooms for the purpose of organizing a hockey team and arranging for the season's activities. There was a good attendance and these officers were elected:

President—Rev. A. W. Mackenzie.
Vice-President—Dr. S. J. Gibson.
Sec.-Treas.—W. L. Webster.
Manager—Dr. S. J. Gibson.

Executive to consist of these officers and the captain of the team who will be appointed at a later meeting.

It as decided to enter only an Intermdiate team in the O.H.A. this season and that it be made the very best team the village can produce. The Junior League will be under the direction of the local Hockey Association and also the Girl's Team when it is organized. The President will meet the Rink Co. at an early date to make arrangements for the season's activities.

The Lakefield and District League is a seperate organization and will be re-organized later. This was very successful last year and should be even better this season. Teams from the hockey league already organized will probably enter the Lakefield and District League.

FRENCH OPINION DIVIDED IN RACE

Racing Paper Says There Are Already Opportunities For Horses to Meet.

PARIS, Nov. 22.— The proposed international race at Longchamps next May for horses of the breeding of 1920 has stirred the French racing world to its depths, and, as was expected, the project does not receive a unanimous welcome.

The leading evening racing paper, Paris Sport, for example, adversely criticizes the plan on the ground that sufficient opportunities already exist for the meeting of the international cracks. It instances the Derby and the Grand Prix de Paris, for three year olds, and the Ascot Cup and the Arc de Triomphe for all ages.

The paper prints opinions gathered from leading race horse owners, beginning with Pierre Wertheimer, who believes that such a test will be of capital interest from both sporting and economic viewpoints. He thinks the distance should not exceed 2,000 meters, because the British and United States racers would not care to race their horses further.

Senator James Henry, another leading horse owner, believes the idea cannot be realized, because "the Americans would not put themselves out to come." Such a test, he adds, is not a real sport, as the foreigner if defeated can always plead a want of acclimation and the effects of the voyage; furthermore he thinks there are sufficient races open to foreign horses without staging another.

Maurice Caillaux, whose colors have been seen on the race tracks for twenty years, however, considers it "an excellent idea, which is perfectly realizable." M. Caillaux suggests that each country nominate three horses and make its choice of the competitor at the last minute. He also favours a distance of 2,400 meters in performance to 2,000.

QUEBEC JUNIOR RUGBY FINALS

Westmounts of Montreal Play Return Game in Ottawa Saturday.

OTTAWA, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press). —Coach Gamble of the Rideau Junior Q.R.F.U. team, drilled the players through another fast workout at Lansdowne Park to-day for their return game against Montreal Westmounts in Montreal on Saturday which will decide the junior Quebec union rugby championship. Regarding the play-off with Loyola, junior intercollegiate winners, if they come out on top in the series with Westmounts, the locals are undecided as to whether they will meet the intercollegiate champions. According to reports. Loyola desire a sudden-death game in Montreal with the Q.R.F.U. winners in the next step towards the junior finals and Rideaus may favor the proposition if they are given a sufficient guarantee to cover expenses of the trip.

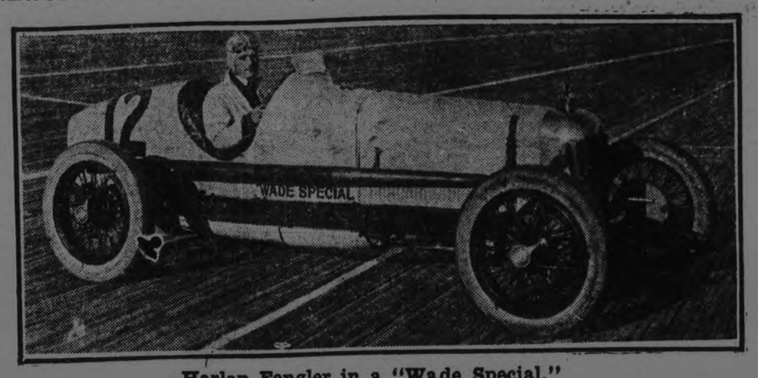
One Hundred Thousand Applications Refused for Army-Navy Game

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—One hundred thousand mailed applications for seats at the Polo grounds, Saturday, when the army and navy hold their annual gridiron classic, have been returned by the New York National League Baseball Club, operators of the park, because all seats were sold.

Twenty-nine thousand tickets were received each by the army and navy for distribution, and the operating company retained the remaining 7,000 which is sold to patrons of the baseball club.

Both teams went through stiff practice sessions yesterday, the army men at West Point doing the latter part of their work by the glare of arc lights and punting with the aid of huge searchlights.

NEWCOMER IN RACING GAME HOPES TO DETHRONE VET DRIVERS



Harlan Fengler in a "Wade Special."

Murphy, Milton, DePalma and Hartz—race drivers—move over and make room for another speed hero.

It is another case of youth having its day. For Fengler, winner of a $9000 purse in Kansas City race, is only 22 years old.

The Kansas City contest was a gruelling one but young Fengler never faltered and finished the distance with an average for the 250 miles of 113.2 miles an hour.

Young Fengler merely followed the procession in the first hundred miles of the race. He was a lap behind Tommy Milton, veteran.

In the second hundred miles motor trouble forced Milton out of the race. At the 200-mile post, Fengler was in third place.

It was then that Wade, owner of the car he was driving, from the pit signaled Fengler to make his spurt.

Around th track he speeded at 120 miles an hour and at the finish was half a lap ahead of Eddie Hearne, second man, in a Durant special.

That another racer's name must be chalked up among those of the leaders was the declaration of the vast crowd that saw the race.

Young Fengler, with youth, skill and nerve, is expected to be in the forefroat next season.

TIGERS AND QUEEN'S BATTLED IN KINGSTON THIRTY YEARS AGO

HAMILTON, Nov. 22.—When Tigers go to Kingston, Saturday, to battle with Queen's for the Eastern Canada title, and the right to meet the western champions for the Dominion championship, it will be the first time in thirty years they have met the Presbyterian team in a championship game. On Saturday, November 4, 1893, the dope was badly upset when the Tigers of that time marched into the Limestone city apparently victors before the game started, and walked out again, dragging with them a 27-13 licking, wished on them while the teams fought the final five minutes of the game in almost pitch darkness.

Many of the gridiron heroes of Canadian football history were members of the yellow and black when this memorable battle was fought. On the half-line of the noted crew were Richard Southam, now of Toronto; Jimmy Turner, deceased for some years, and Fritz Martin, of the firm of Washington, Bowlby and Martin. G. Ryckman, the speedy fullback of the team, is now living in St. Catharines. Harry Lyle, the quarter, classed as the brainest player of the time in that position went to Cornell University at the close of the 1893 season, and played on the team there for some time. He is now an eminent specialist in New York city.

"Bonny" Glassco, of Oakville, was one of the strong men on the wings, teaming up with Col. W. R. Marshall, who was killed during the war. Kenneth Dewar, of Ottawa; B. P. Dewar, also of Ottawa; George Mason, a prominent M.D. in Calgary; George Irvine, in the Klondike; Hendrie Leggatt, Vancouver, B.C.; Ralph Ripley, still prominent in the local sport world, and "Dinny" McCarthy, of Chicago, Ill., were other members of the famous squad. The last-named was a visitor in this city last Saturday to see Argos and the present-day Tigers battle for the league title.

The old-timers will remember, between chuckles and reminiscent delight, some laughable incidents connected with the game. When the referee's whistle blew for full time, the electric and gas lights on the city streets were blazing in all their 1893 glory, and on the field the players were practically indistinguishable. Fifteen players on a side were used then, with three men playing "scrimmage."

The crowd was very lage for that time, and before game time rows of carriages lined around the field packed with people. As the sporting man of the day wrote, "The crowd represented all classes of citizens from the small boy with the big horn to the venerable divine of the city."

The playing field was on a slope, and it was considered a great advantage to a team to win the toss and play down the hill. On this day, Capt. Dewar, of the Tigers, won the toss and naturally elected to play down hill. The game was started, and then the Bengals discovered that their choice had won for them a glaring sun, which offset any advantage the grade gave them. Through the game the Tiger players covered themselves with glory. The feature of the game was a wonderful end run by Dick Southam, who took a pass from Lyle and galloped 30 yards for a try.

The last 12 points scored by Queen's were counted after darkness and a heavy fog set in, when it was almost impossible to see the ball. The play went to Queen's through the medium of free kicks, then allowed, and for the last few minutes they were fighting desperately in Hamilton territory, with the ball rolling hither and thither over the line.

There will hardly be a repitition of this, however, when Tigers play on Saturday. In the first place, the playing field no longer runs on the roller-coaster style, and the players are taught to guard against the sun. There are no free kicks now, as there were in those days, and no throw-ins from the touchlines. Less players are used, but they are trained to work together. Brilliant end runs are things of the past, and touchdowns count five points now, instead of four, as then.

Trio of Former Star Pitchers Set High Mark For Hurlers to Shoot At

Adolpho Luque of the Cincinnati Reds was the pitching sensation of the majors last season. The Cuban staged a remarkable comeback after being an in-and-outer in 1922.

But as good as is Luque's record of this year he failed to better those set by Joe Wood, "Wild Bill" Donovan and Walter Johnson in seasons past.

To Joe Wood with the Boston Red Sox a few years ago, goes the honor of turning in the best pitching performance over a single season in the modern days of baseball. Wood, in 1912, won 34 games and lost but five, for a percentage of .872. That feat still stands as the best on record. And no doubt will for some time to come.

Next in line comes Donovan, who, in 1907, while hurling for Detroit, copped 25 victories against only four defeats, a mark of .862. Walter Johnson, Washington star, and the only one of the trio still in the majors, ranks third. Johnson, in 1913, came through with 36 triumphs and seven whippings. His average was .837.

NO DEMPSEY STUFF IN BRITISH RING

Heavyweight Title Passes to Frank Goddard on a Foul.

LONDON, Nov. 21. — Frank Goddard to-night became heavyweight champion of Great Britain when he was fouled in the second round by Jack Bloomfield who hit Goddard while the latter was down.

The men were to have fought twenty rounds for the title, held until recently by Joe Beckett, who retired from the ring following his sensational defeat at Olympia by Georges Carpentier who knocked him out in first round. To-night's fight was held in Albert Hall. Bloomfield, who was disqualified, holds the light heavyweight championship of Great Britain.

In the first round Goddard took the aggressive and endeavored with his right to land a knockout blow. Bloomfield, however, was too elusive for his opponent. In the second round Goddard again rushed, but Bloomfield measured him neatly with a hard right and Goddard went to the floor. He stayed down only momentarily, however, and when he rose he made another rush toward his adversary, only to be sent to the can was with another hard right. This time he stayed down for a longer count and when attempting to rise was struck by Bloomfield. The referee immediately disqualified the light heavyweight champion and Goddard thereby succeeded to the heavyweight crown laid aside by Beckett.

If horses talked to each other, In Memoriam perhaps said to Zev:

DELAHAYE IS IN HARD LUCK AGAIN

Dislocated His Collar Bone at Practice Yesterday Afternoon.

KINGSTON, November 22 (Canadian Press). — Delahaye, the inside wing of Queen's senior football team, dislocated his collar bone at practice yesterday afternoon with the Royal Military College Cadets, and will be unable to play in the championship game with the Hamilton Tigers on Saturday.

Last season Delahaye had the misfortune to dislocate his collar bone juse before the last game with Varsity here, and was also prevented from playing in the finals.

However, Queen's will not be weakened to any great extent as a result of this mishap.

Either Brown or Airth will substitute for Delahaye, and both are good men.

"Red" McKelvey, Muirhead, and Mundell will be in the game, so the team will be practically at full strength.

Kingston had a light fall of rain last night, but as the playing field is protected with straw, it is not thought that the rain will do any harm. The weather is quite mild, but the weather man predicts cooler weather to-morrow.

The seats in the stadium have been completely sold out for Saturday's game where there is a great rush for the bleacher seats.

It is expected that 10,000 people will witness the match.

A SERVICE MEDAL FOR A LOCAL BOY

Sergeant - Major Sucee Has Had Long Career in Canadian Militia.

Advice was received from military headquarters, London, to the effect that the Colonial auxiliary forces long service medal has been awarded to Sergeant-Major C. D. Sucee (warrant officer) of the Kent Regiment.

Sergeant-Major Sucee started services with the Canadian Militia in the 57th Regiment (Peterborough Rangers) and was made a non-commissioned officer in 1901. He was a member of the Canadian contingent which attended the coronation of King George in 1911.

He was appointed to the instructional cadre of the Royal Canadian Regiment in 1915 and was stationed at military headquarters at Kingston during the war and where he assisted in the training of officers for the C.E.F. He came to Chatham in April, 1919, and was attached to the Kent Regiment as regimental sergeant-major. He was appointed a warrant officer on October 21, 1920. He is president of the Chatham branch of the G.W.V.A. and is well-known among the returned men of Chatham and county.

Sergeant-Major Sucee is a son of Mr. Joseph Sucee, 169 Hunter Street East.

SUPERINTENDENT OF AGENCIES

Mr. Ed. Irwin, general agent at London, Ont., for The Ontario Equitable Life and Accident Insurance Company, has been appointed to the position of superintendent of agencies and will make his headquarters at Waterloo after January 1st, 1924.

Mr. Irwin started his insurance career as agent for The Equitable Life of New York at Norwich, Ont., some twenty years ago. In January, 1916, he was appointed agency manager at London, Ont., for the same company when Mr. Tweed gave up that position to become superintendent of agencies of the Mutual Life of Canada at Waterloo. When The Equitable Life of New York discontinued business in Canada at the end of 1920 Mr. Irwin and his associates joined with Mr. Tweed in the organization of the Ontario Equitable Life. Mr. Irwin's agency has been the leading agency of the Ontario Equitable, having produced over $1,000,000 of business in each of the past three years.

IF SKIN BREAKS CUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

AN OPEN LETTER TO

Chief of Police S. Newhall

Chief of Police S. Newhall,
City Hall, City.

Dear Sir,—May we be permitted to offer you our sincere congratulations on the splendid loyalty of the members of your force, who, in the face of obstacles, are exhibiting so excellent devotion to their duty of protecting the lives and property of Peterborough citizens.

We request the pleasure of having yourself and members of your force and their families, as our guests, at any showing convenient to them, of a picture we feel sure will be of great interest to them,

THE

ETERNAL STRUGGLE

A Romance of the Mounted Police---of the Plains, of Love, Loyalty, Devotion to Duty ---Truly an Epic written in Red-Blood of those He-Men who preserve Law and Order in the Far West.

With EARLE WILLIAMS, WALLACE BEERY, PAT O'MALLEY, RENEE ADOREE AND JOSEPH SWICKARD

"THE ETERNAL STRUGGLE" will be shown today, Friday and Saturday, and we cordially invite the members of your Force with their families to drop in at any showing when they will find themselves welcome.

Respectfully yours,
J. C. KENNEDY,
Manager, Capitol Theatre.

KIWANIS REVUE

The second performance of the Kiwanis Clube revue, "The Garden of the Shah," saw a packed house at the Grand last evening, and a show that added fresh laurels to the honors of the opening night. The production last evening went through in splendid style, with hearty encores for many of the lovely musical selections that give rhythm and melody to the double offering.

A great deal of credit is due the director for the patient and intensive work he must have done to bring the revue to such a pitch of perfection, also to the cast who co-operated with him so successfully. President J. A. McKone voiced the appreciation of the Kiwanis Club in a brief, well-worded speech last evening between acts, when he thanked the artists in the cast, the chorus, the members of the Male Voice Choir, whose voices augmented the choral numbers, the children in the prologue, the public generally who had assisted in any way, and those who loaned articles for the production, the Rotary club, who attended last evening's performance in a body, and the Belleville Kiwanians, who came up to represent their club, and enlivened affairs by singing between acts. Members of the Kiwanis Bantams were guests of the club last evening.

The children in the prologue made another hit last evening, reflecting great credit on the conscientious training of their teacher, Mrs. J. A. McKone, who has been coaching them for weeks past in their bright little vocal numbers.

Floral offerings to lady members of the cast last evening were numerous, and included bouquets presented by the Kiwanis Club to Mrs. Walter Byers and the Misses Mathilde Masson, Ernestine McManus, Greta LeBarr, Edna Connor and Martha Kirn.

Miss Masson's lovely singing and attractive presentation of the principal role in "The Garden of the Shah," were accorded hearty applause last evening, and ovations attended the efforts of the three other ladies, Miss Ernestine McManus, Miss Greta LeBarr and Mrs. Walter Byers, who carried through a difficult double role with splendid effect. Messrs. A. M. Irvine and H. M. Niven also had two parts each in the double bill, and acquitted themselves in great style. Encores greeted the majority of the musical numbers, with special applause for the Persian dance by the Misses Edna Connor and Martha Kirn, with pretty chorus work, and for the fetching "Kissing Song" quartette and the charming duets, "Since Your Eyes Have Told Me So," by Miss Masson and Mr. Nevin, and "Chains of Love," sung by Miss LeBarr and Mr. Irvine. Joe Wearing's ditty about his Lulu received merited applause, and Vern Morphet proved as popular as ever. Alex. Dick was in great shape last night.

A pleasing feature of the programme was the presentation to the donkey, one of the chief performers, of a floral offering, in commemoration of its extra good acting last evening. It is said that Messrs. R. Mackey and H. Huffman superintended the role of this engaging member of the cast.

President McKone informed the Examiner this morning that the club had been asked to repeat their engaging production, by a local organization, and was considering the idea. Anyone who witnessed the production last evening or the night before would consider it well worth a third or fourth performance in Peterborough.

Mr. H. Lush gave a great deal of his time and attention during both performances to adding materially to the beauty of the cast, in a facial way, and President McKone also expressed great satisfaction at the courteous treatment accorded the Revue by the management of the Grand Opera House.

ROCKNE EXPLAINS WHERE HE GETS 'EM

Every Student at Notre Dame College Encouraged to Take Up Athletics.

"Where do you dig them up?" Knute Rockne smiled when that question was put to him, asking him for explanation of how he turned out wonder teams year after year, regardless of the players lost through graduation.

"First, Notre Dame, because of the fact that it believes in athletics, creates a desire in many school athletes to enter our institution," said Rockne. "This makes for good material, which makes for a successful coach.

"An attempt is made to interest every boy who enters Notre Dame in some form of athletics. Often a student who did little or nothing as a high school athlete, probably because of lack of interest, develops into a college star.

"Notre Dame spirit gets the students out on the football field, regardless of previous records as school athletes. This enables the coaches to pick up many a great player who would otherwise be overlooked in the shuffle.

"After our decisive defeat of the Army and Princeton, the report was circulated in some quarters that Notre Dame was rather lax as to eligibility rules. That is a very erroneous and undeserved impression. Few schools are much stricter as to the standing of their athletes in class work.

It is very unfair to Notre Dame for any one to question the status of the men playing for Rockne. However, it is only natural that the case with which Rockne turns out championship teams should be a source of wonder and skepticism as to the source of supply.

Look back at the freshman team of two years ago, 1921, and the line-up reveals a backfield made up of Stuhldreher, Layden, Crowley and Don Miller. They are the backfield stars of the 1923 combination. In the line there was Adams, Walsh, Stange, Miller, Vergara, Collins and Kiser, now starring on the varsity.

The freshman team of 1921, aside from scrimmaging against the varsity, played two games as freshmen, losing to Lake Forest Academy 21 to 0 and the Michigan Aggies freshmen 10 to 6. The freshmen players of 1921 compose the varsity of 1923. Two years ago the crack Notre Dame team of to-day was a green bunch of freshmen, easy for preparatory and freshmen teams.

What is the answer?

First, Knute Rockne, second, the Rockne system in athletics, which starts the moment a freshman enters the college.

MARITAL WARFARE ENDS AFTER SEVERAL YEARS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel man, and his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, formerly of Denver, to-day ended their legal warfare of several years' standing through an agreement by which Mrs. Stokes was formally granted a decree of separation.

SPECIAL BOOT MADE FOR RUGBY PLAYER

Kingston All Het Up Over the Rugby Game.

KINGSTON, Nov. 22.—Special—Although the final arrangements have not been made it was stated at Queen's this morning that it is almost certain that providing Queen's defeat the Hamilton Tigers on Saturday the final game with the western team will be played in Toronto. At a meeting of the Athletic Board of Control it was decided to allow the members of Queen's team decide as to whether the game would be played in Kingston or Toronto. Strange to say, the members of Queen's squad decided in favor of playing the game in Toronto, stating that they can play better ball there. It has been decided to allow the C. R. U. to select the referee and judge of play for the game on Saturday, in view of the fact that Queen's and the Tigers' could not agree on the matter. According to the rules of the C.R.U., the President, Percy Roberts of Montreal, will do the selecting. Hamilton was under the impression that Bobby Hewitson of Toronto who is secretary, would choose the officials. The special boot made in Toronto for "Red" McKelvey, to protect his toe, which was broken in the game, with Varsity here, has arrived. "Red" says his foot is a little stiff but that he will be in the game all right.

DUMBELLS EARN BETTER LAURELS

"Cheerio" Presents Overseas Company At Its Best Since Inception.

London Free Press—The old Dumbell Company returned to the Grand Opera House last evening for a three-day engagement. As usual the S.R.O. sign was out early, and the number of disappointed people, who could not obtain admission at all, was large enough to provide a fair-sized audience in itself. It was the most successful opening any Dumbell revue has had in London.

Tennyson once wrote something about a book that went on and on forever. That tells the story of the Dumbells, except that Capt. Plunkett is sufficiently astute as a showman to provide a fresh bill of fare for his patrons each year. The viands may be the same, but the manner of serving is new. Thus it is, that while old favorites predominate in "Cheerio," the fifth annual revue presented under the Plunkett management, there is not a word or line in the production that has been carried over from former successes. Also the investiture is, if anything, more gorgeous than before.

All the former favorites headed by those perennials, Ross Hamilton and Al Plunkett, received such a rapturous welcome that there can be no doubt of their hold on their audiences—but, just by the way of a prediction, keep your eyes on John Hagan. He is a new member of the company, whose work is somewhat reminiscent of "Red" Newman but executed with greater finesse and plainly evidencing a wider range of experience.

It is the spontaniety, the enthusiasm, and the delightful harmony of the whole production, that makes the Dumbells the most remarkable organization of the kind ever presented to the public. It was this that made for the initial success of the concert parties in France where the scenery was a minus quantity and the orchestral accompaniment often furnished by the wierd whining of shells or the unforgettable pat pat of machine-gun fire; it was the same spirit that caused theatrical managers in New York, Chicago and other large American cities to clamor for long Dumbell bookings and it still carries it to success today—making a performance by the Dumbells —no matter whether "Cheerio" or one of its illustrious predecessors— a thing from which to date time in matter of entertainment.

"JUST MARRIED"

At the Grand Saturday, November 24, matinee and night. Jules Hurtig and Messrs. Shubert announce "Just Married," a truly delightful comedy by Adelaide Matthews and Anne Nichols, staged by J. C. Huffman and Clifford Stork. During its run of two years at the Comedy, Shubert and Nora Bayes theatres, New York, play critics were unanimous in declaring it to be the most agreeable and entertaining play that had been produced in years.

The scene of this merry farce is on board the French Line steamship "Lafayette," bound from Bordeaux, France and New York. Just before the ship's sailing, a jovially intoxicated young man gets aboard the ship by mistake, and later in the evening, into the wrong stateroom. From that time on the peace of everyone aboard is threatened—they become so hopelessly mixed up, that there is apparently no way out of their difficulties. Eventually, however, things are straightened out, and the voyage proceeds undisturbed.

AT THE REGENT.

GREAT CAST IN NEW WILLIAM FARNUM FILM

A cast to remember — William Farnum Fox star plays the leading role in "Brass Commandments," which starts a 3-day run at the Regent today. Wanda Hawley plays opposite Farnum, Tom Santschi is the lurking villian, Claire Adams does an interesting bit of acting while Charles LeMoyne, Lon Poff and Al Fremont are included among the players. Screen enthusiasts will recall the unforgettable struggle between William Farnum and Tom Santschi in "The Spoilers." The tussle in the new production makes even a stronger bid for indelible fame in film annals.

"Brass Commandments" is a dramatic effort with a story that keeps its interest. There is a romantic trend that promises highly satisfactory entertainment. Coming from the pen of Charles Alden Seltzer, whose tales of the West are a delight to those who want breezy out door stories this film has much to recommend its amusement value.

The patrons of the Regent will be able to form their own opinion to-day when the attraction opens. After all, it is public approval that makes a photo-drama successful.

AT THE ROYAL.

HOOT GIBSON IN "OUT OF LUCK"—A ROLLICKING COMEDY FEATURE, MAIN ATTRACTION AT ROYAL TONIGHT.

Hoot Gibson forsakes the bucking broncho for a bucking battleship, rides the waves to seasickness and ultimate romance through a series of comedy mishaps mingled with thrilling adventures, and wins a sweetheart and a naval commission, in "Out of Luck," his new Universal attraction, to be shown at the Royal Theatre commencing tonight.

The versatile plains rider, as a cowboy who joins the navy, has a part that gives him a chance to do all his old tricks and add a few more of a new and unusually hilarious nature. His adventures as a "green gob" on shipboard are hilarious. His unsuccessful attempts to ensnare slumber and keep his balance simultaneously in a ship's hammock form the principal components of hysterics from too much laughter. His walk on the boat-boom of the battleship California is another side-splitter.

For thrills, Hoot Gibson and Howard Truesdell stage a battle that for vividness surpasses any fray staged at Universal City in years. The thrilling rescue of his captain from a madman forms another sensational bit.

Selected comedies and Art Acord in the historical serial, "The Oregon Trail," completes the program for tonight and balance of week. Two performances will be given Saturday evening at 7 and 9 p.m.

ROYAL GETS "STOP YOUR TICKLING JOCK" DIRECT FROM PICCADILLY THEATRE TORONTO.

The feature at the Royal Theatre next Monday will be the famous Scotch comedy hit, "Stop Your Tickling Jock," based on the popular play that ran two years in the Lyric Theatre, London, and one year in the Palace Theatre, Glasgow.

"Stop Your Tickling Jock," is one of the most uproarious and screamingly funny pictures that has ever come over from the Old Country.

The action of the story takes place partly in London and partly in an old Scotch castle up in the Highlands. The principals in the picture are Lady Stilton, one of the Highland Stiltons, who believes that the world is composed of two classes —Stiltons and others—Young Guy Cheviot, Lady Stilton's nephew, who has an uncontrollable passion for certainties ranging from ten-to-one to thirty-to-one and upwards. Young Mr. Cheviot manages to keep himself always in straitened circumstances by plunging on his uncertain certainties—Jock Jamieson, the faithful retainer at Loch Stickle Castle, whose forefather fought with Bruce at Bannockburn, which Jock is not likely to forget—The Earl of Cripplegate, an eccentric and ludicrous character—and John Josephs, famous theatre backer and main owner of the London Follies—And Trixie, Tootsy and Tiny, famous soubrettes of the aforementioned Follies.

Up in Loch Stickle Castle, Lady Stilton meets with the astonishing intelligence that her only son, Gussie has become engaged to a showgirl of the London Follies. The aristocratic lady is shocked out of composure and after a severe half-hour with her heir apparent, Lady Stilton decides spending the season in Monte Carlo and taking her young offspring away from the toils of these vulgar London show people.

The course of the story from here on is one sensation of screams, laughs and chuckles, which increase a pace on the arrival on the scene of the Dominie's daughter, Helen, the Earl of Cripplegate and lastly, Lady Stilton and the unfortunate Gussie.

GLORIA SWANSON WINS POPULAR STAR CONTEST

Gloria Swanson is Peterboro's favorite star. The final count of the ballots received at the Capitol theatre on Wednesday night give Miss Swanson 428 votes while Norma Talmadge who held the lead until Monday night, finished in second place with a total of 406 votes. Others stars that are liked by Capitol patrons are: Tom Meighan makes another big gain the past three days getting a grand total of 396 votes while Alice Terry draws 381. Many other stars too numerous to mention received good totals, also. Altogether 48 stars received votes. The Management of the Capitol theatre is now arranging to secure Miss Swanson in her latest picture for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

BIG BAG OF CANDY FROM HURRICANE HUTCH "SPEED"

As announced the Capitol Theatre over a week ago, every child attending the Special Saturday Matinee at 2.30 to see the opening episode of Hurricane Hutch's new serial will be presented with a great big bag of candy. When Charles Hutchison, the famous dare-devil thriller star of "Speed" heard that the Capitol was about to show this great serial in Peterboro, he at once wired the Capitol management to present all children attending the Saturday matinee with a bag of candy with his compliments. The matinee starts at 2.30 and the usual price of 11c for children will prevail.

Regibald Barker's genius for staging spectacular and thrilling screen epics has found a new outlet in his recently completed massive production of Metro's "The Eternal Struggle," which comes to the Capitol Theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

"The Eternal Struggle" is a picturization of G. B. Lancaster's widely read novel, "The Law-Bringers." Many of the scenes were filmed in the frozen Canadian northland. Mr. Barker transported his entire cast to Canada, where for months they endured severe hardships while scenes of great beauty were filmed.

Through the co-operation of the Canadian government, Mr. Barker was enabled to explore and make use of many out of the way places of Canada for exceptional shots.

Thrilling realism is the keynote of "The Eternal Struggle." For the first time in history the turbulent waters of the Seymour Canyon Rapids, near North Vancouver, have been conquered by a canoe to provide one of the great spectacular thrills. The Indians call these rapids, "devil waters," but this apparently did not deter Mr. Barker and his players. Incidentally it is in this scene that Pat O'Malley makes his remarkable jump of 125 feet to rescue Renee Adoree, caught in the swirling rapids below.

Among the other thrills which "The Eternal Struggle" includes are an ice-jam in the Bow River that had to be photographed from a steel cage suspended above the treacherous river by a slender cable; a dog team race in the shadow of Mt. Robson, and a host of other equally dangerous and thrilling episodes with the flaming beauty of the snow country as a background.

The cast includes Earle Williams, Renee Adoree, Barbara La Marr, Pat O'Malley, Wallace Beery, Josef Swickard, Pat Harmon, George Kuwa, Ed J. Brady, Robert Anderson and Anders Randolf.

TWO BOYS STILL ON THE ABSENTEE LIST

Dave Wheeler, an Indian living on Haggart street whom it was thought might have information about Rice, declared last night that the young man had not approached him. Dan Whetung said this man was a friend of Rice and might be harboring him.

Another clue, that a man answering the description of one of the missing men had enquired at the Windsor Hotel for work, also led to a blind end, and police investigation this morning has arrived at no definite conclusion as to the fate of the two young men.

The sweetest memories are all that has gone home to rest.
Ever remembered by her Grand Parents and Aunts and Uncles— Nisbett.

IN MEMORIAM.

NESBITT — In ever loving memory of our dear daughter, Margaret Ellen, who passed away November 22nd, 1921:

A bud the Gardener gave us,
A pure and lovely child;
He gave it in our keeping
To cherish undefiled.
But just as if was opening to glory of the day
Down came the Heavenly Gardener
And took our flower away.

SCATHING LECTURE BY JUDGE TO COOK

Arctic Explorer and Oil Promoter Sentenced to 14 Years Imprisonment -Stinging Denunciation

FORT WORTH Texas, Nov. 22. —(Canadian Press).— Dr. Frederick A. Cook Artic Explorer and promoter who was yesterday sentenced to fourteen years and nine months in penitentiary on being found guilty of using the mails to defraud, was subjected by Judge Killitts to what was said to have been the most sting ing denunciation ever heard in a Texas courtroom.

Robbing widows and orphans, aged and destitute was charged against the explorer—promoter.

"Cook, have you no decency at all," fired the judge at him. "Are you not haunted at night by these pitiable figures you have robbed How can you sleep?"

"History gave us ananias and Sapphira. They are forgotten, but we still have Dr. Cook.

"Cook, this deal of yours is so damnable rotten that it seems to me your attorneys must have been forced to hold handkerchiefs to their noses to have represented you. It stinks to the high heavens. The way I feel about you I wish I were not so circumscribed. You should not be allowed to run at large."

MANY SURGEONS MEET IN OTTAWA

Public Health Community Meeting Under Vice-Regal Patronage— Several Clinics Conducted

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.— (Canadian Press).— The American College of Surgeons, whose Ontario and Quebere sectional meeting assembled in Ottawa this morning for a two day gathering will have, when all are here, some two hundred prominent surgeons present from these two provinces and also a number of distinguished men from the United States.

The big event of the day is a public health community meeting tonight. This meeting is under vice regal patronage and a party from Government House will attend.

This morning Dr. J. M. Murray, Ottawa, conducted a clinic at the County of Carleton General Hospital on Bone Grafting. At Ottawa General Hospital Dr. R. E. Valin and Dr. Chevroier also held clinics.

WEDDING BELLS

McKELVIE—SCRIVER.

A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Scriver, Hastings, on November 14, at 11 o'clock, when their daughter, Madaline, was united in marriage to Mr. Norman McKelvie, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McKelvie, Norwood.

The bride entered the sun-parlor leaning on the arm of her father, carrying a beautiful bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss May Hinton, carried a bouquet of large pink roses. Both bouquets were gifts of the groom.

Mr. Colton, of Oshawa, ably filled his position as best man.

The bridal dress was of fawn colored velvet vello with tangerine trimmings, and the travelling dress of dark green duchesse satin with hat to match.

Gifts from the groom to the bridesmaid, a silf scarf and gloves; to the groomsman, a gold tie-pin.

Only the immediate friends were present, and after partaking of a sumptuous dinner the happy couple left on the afternoon train for points west. On their return they will reside in Oshawa.

The bride is very popular and much loved, and the young couple received many handsome presents. The good wishes of all go with them to their new home.

FRIDAY EVENING MEET AT THE LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

The weekly Friday evening supper at the Y.M.C.A. will be addressed this week by Frank V. Slack a Y.M.C.A. Secretary among the students of India and Ceylon. Mr. Slack is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. During his college days he occupied a prominent place in amateur dramatics and as leader of the Glee Club was popular. Following his graduation Mr. Slack spent some time in the University of Pennsylvania as Student Secretary and later was placed in charge of the entire Eastern student field.

In India Mr. Slack carried off the honors of his class in the most difficult vernaculars of the country. As National Secretary of the Student Christian Movement in India, Mr. Slack has had a wonderful experience. The call to lead the students of the Empire is a challenge to the best in any man and this man has measured up to the call.

Following his address to the men of the Association at the supper hour, Mr. Slack will speak to the boys at their regular movie show in the lobby. The movie show this week has been moved up from Saturday to Friday night in order that the boys of Beginner, Junior and Intermediate divisions may have the opportunity presented to hear Mr. Slack tell of his experience among the school boys of India and Ceylon.

ANNIVERSARY OF 40TH WEDDING DAY

Relatives and Friends Honor Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goselin.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goselin, 51 Crescent Street, yesterday celebrated in fitting fashion the fortieth anniversary of their wedding day. On November 21, 1883, Joseph Goselin and his bride, Annie Callahan, of Douro, were married in the Catholic Church at Douro, and have lived all their wedded life in Peterboro, where Mr. Goselin was born sixty-two years ago, the son of Francis Goselin, a well-known resident of the south-end, who died last February. Twelve children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Goselin, all of whom are living, ten in Peterboro. Their names are Loretta, Louise, Annie, Lena, Mary, Fred, Peter, Vincent, Joseph, Lee, Frank and Angus.

Last evening, their children and relatives, to the number of about twenty-five, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Goselin for an anniversary dinner, when a three-storey wedding cake formed the place of honor at the table. The dinner was followed by a pleasant social evening, spent in playing cards and music. The presentation from their children of a purse of money to their father and a bouquet of flowers to their mother was made by their son Frank, with an address read by their daughter Loretta. Gifts from relatives included a quantity of handsome silverware and linen.

Portions of the address read as follows:

"This evening we, your children and near relatives, have gathered to celebrate in fitting manner the fortieth anniversary of your wedding.

"We feel that this occasion is worthy of some celebration, and particularly of much thanksgiving. It is not often that God blesses married life with the constant companionship of forty years. Nor is it of frequent occurrence that so many children are present after two score years of life have passed. We therefore think it our duty to thank God for the great favor granted you and us, and for this purpose we had offered this morning the august Sacrifice of the Mass.

"Forty years have brought with them many trials, and much happiness, but even the trials have been used to cement more firmly that bond of love which drew you together so long ago. And we, your children, have at times made your path more thorny, and yet, thank God, we are all able to proclaim today your patience, your kindness and your wise direction, all of which have surely borne fruit in the lives of your twelve children.

"To both, dear father and mother, we wish to-day to present you with a token of our love. It is small, but the hearts that give are big and full of love.

"We ask that God's blessings may be yours in abundance, and our prayer that you may both be spared for years to come to pilot by your good direction the lives of your children is one that is prompted by the most tender love."

Rev. J. O'Brien and Rev. P. Butler called during the evening to offer the congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Goselin.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Chas. Kingan, Mr. R. G. Kingan and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lundy have gone to Battle Creek Sanitorium for several weeks.

Mrs. E. Airriess, McDonnel Street, has returned home after spending the last four months in Sharbot Lake and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Lang, 544 Elm street, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter Mary Hazel to Robert Ernest Butcher, the wedding to take place about the middle of December.

The bazaar being held under the auspices of the Golden Link Rebekah Lodge, No. 81, I.O.O.F., in the U.F.O. Club Rooms, over the Farmers' Store, Simcoe Street, opened its two-day session yesterday with a good patronage. The rooms are prettily decorated with streamers and latticework of green and pink crepe paper, with green and pink fancies on the various tables and on the dainty little tea tables which are centred with real cut flowers, where afternoon tea is served during both days, under the supervision of Mrs. W. Morton, assisted by Mesdames Turner, Mesley and Ellis. The Past Noble Grand, Miss Isabel Brealey, acts as general convenor of arrangements and the sales include all manner of fancy and useful articles, with plenty of lovely fancy work in the latest designs. There is a special table for dolls of the daintiest sort, for handkerchiefs and aprons, homemade candy and cooking may be purchased, there is a sale of dry groceries, and a table devoted to the "parcel post," a sort of surprise package section. Fancy work is sold by Mrs. C. Wylie and Mrs. B. McLean, groceries by Mrs. R. Murduff and Mrs. J. Londerville, candy by Mrs. H. Sisson, and home-made cooking by Mrs. B. Watts, aprons by Mrs. R. Martin and Mrs. F. Barrie, dolls and handkerchiefs by Mrs. J. Henderson and Mrs W. Freeburn. The "parcel post" is in charge of Mrs. A. Jones and Mrs. K. Throop. The bazaar, with service of afternoon tea, continues this afternoon and evening.

Prior to the departure of Mr. and Mrs. F. Read for Los Angeles, about thirty members of Golden Link Rebekah Lodge, No. 81, I.O.O.F., assembled during the evening at the residence of Mrs. P. J. Fuller, 518 Gilmour Street, to bid them farewell. The evening was spent in the enjoyment of cards and music and dainty refreshments. Card prizes were won by Mrs. C. Hotston and Mr. K. Throop. Mrs. F. Read drew the consolation award, which she generously distributed amongst those present. During the evening presentation of a pair of gold cuff links was made to Mr. Read, who replied in suitable terms. The address which accompanied the gift expressed the appreciation of the Lodge for the unfailing interest taken by Mr. Read in the I.O.O.F. and the Rebekah Lodge, and wished him and his wife and family much success and happiness in their new home.

CONSERVATIVES HIGHLY ELATED

Roland Denne and Others Predict Speedy Return to Ottawa-

The Conservative convention at Toronto this week was a gathering of optimists, Roland Denne told the Examiner to-day. Every organization was represented from end to end of Ontario, and all the speakers professed tthe utmost confidence in the result of the next Federal election. It is the opinion of the majority of the delegates that a landslide for the King government will be the result, similar to that which overtook the Drury administration in Ontario last June.

The tone of the convention was highly optimistic, speakers declaring that the King government has failed to carry out its promises, thus undermining its stability and providing the opportunity for a reliable administration to take over the reins.

Representatives of Peterborough were Harry Webber, John Spance, Roland Denne, T. E. Bradburn, ex-M.P., W. H. Bradburn, M.L.A., V. J. McElderry and Mrs Howard Fallis Mrs .Fallis spoke on behalf of the ladies' organizations.

FIELD GUN EXPLODED WITH SERIOUS RESULT

ROME, Nov. 22.— Explosion of a field gun, killing one soldier and woundin three while the Kings and Queens of Italy and Spain were inspecting the Centoselle Field Artillery Tuesday was officially announced to-day.

The royal visitors were not in danger, however, it was announced and did not notice the accident.

Investigation of the explosion which occurred because of imperfect closing of the breech lock, has been stated.

WIFE RECEIVES OTHER WOMAN LOVE TRIANGLE

Both Plan Revenge Together Against War Hero --Each Believed He Loved Her.

TRAGEDY TO BOTH.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov 23—Out on Fulton street, just beyond the "Millionaire Row" of this city, stands a charming white bungalow with a tiny porch, green blinds and a big fireplace.

This home, located in the midst of a picturesque grove of trees, was a gift to Mrs. Elinor Gilleo, on her wedding day four years ago.

But the life which began so brightly in the cottage has turned to tragedy To-day it is a harbor of refuge offered by Mrs Gilleo to comely Josephine Warner, 19 years old ,and the two women plan and sew all day long preparing for their children who are to come

To Avenge Self and Girl.

The two are drawn together by their comomn sorrow and their desire to punish Lieut. Avery C. Gilleo, World War hero, called a model husband by all his friends because he did not drink, smoke or swear. Mrs. Gilleo has filed a suit for divorce and also charges misconduct against the one-time model husband who was released from jail last nignt on bail of $1,000 pending his trial. The bill for divorce names the slender little blond girl whom Mrs. Gilleo has determined to protect and whose wrongs she will avenge with her own.

"I am only trying to be decent about this affair. I have done nothing remarkable in bringing Josephine here. Somebody had to care for her and look after her."

Girl Tells Her Story.

Mrs. Gilleo is a striking brunet, tall and distinguished. She is an aristicrat to her fingertips. The litle blond girl whose blue eyes filled constantly with tears looked at the older woman with adoration. Then between her sobs, she told of her love affair with Avery Gilleo, which had ended so tragically.

"He told me he was getting a divorce," the girl sobbed, "and said he'd marry me and we'd be happy. I believed him and we planned our home and how the parlor would be furnished with tapestry."

Then Mrs Gilleo broke in.

"All this time he was spending my money on her, spending my money for his automobiles, and for luxuries," the wife declared.

"The night our first baby was born, 18 months ago, he spent with this girl; he didn't care about anything."

Gilleo in the four years of their married life, his wife said, completely ruined her small fortune.

"I am not wealthy. All that I have father gave me or I earned myself," she continued. "I believed in Avery. When he asked me for money and asked me for certain real estate I owned, I turned it over to him, believing that he would make the best use of our small capital. To-day he has wasted everything. It is spent and bills are unpaid, He lied to me every day for four years, right up to the last minute. Now he denies everything."

Wife Headed Divorce.

Until a month ago, Mrs. Gilleo said she believed she could make a man of her husband. She dreaded gossip; she dreaded what people would say if she started a divorce.

"There was the baby and I didn't believe in divorce, anyway," she added. "I kept thinking things would be better and Avery would promise all kinds of business success providing he had just a little more capital."

Then one day Mrs. Gilleo found a telegram. It contained a desperate appeal for help from Josephine Warner sent from 1937 Bryant street, Detroit. Mrs. Gilleo put on her coat and hat and went to see for herself. She found Josephine living in a furnished room, penniless and frightened at her condition. Gilleo had taken the girl to Detroit, Mrs. Gilleo said, and then left her.

"He took $70 from me, too," Josephine added to the conversation. "He left me just $30 and that didn't go far."

The girl canvassed for a woman's magazine until she was unable to go on with her work because she was too ill. That is how Josephine happens to be in the home of Avery Gilleo ready to testify against him at his trial.

"I thought he loved me," Mrs. Gilleo said shaking her head.

"I thought he loved be," sobbed the blond girl, "but what will be-

A RARE ARTICLE IN GERMANY.

This old fellow, after waiting in lin e for hours, spent several millions of marks for a loaf of bread, and, judging by the expression on his fac e, anticipates enjoying the rare delica cy. Raids upon the bakeshops of Berlin have necessitated police regulati on in the German capital.

STRESEMANN DEFIANT IN ANTICIPATION OF NO CONFIDENCE VOTE

"If You Have Better Man, Bring Him Out," Observed German Chancellor, Concluding a Vigorous Defence of His Government.

GALLERY WITH HIM.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—The gallery approval extended to Chancellor Stresemann at the conclusion of his two-hour speech in the Reichstag to day in which he made a vigorous defense of his administration, was considerably mor, vociferous than the applause contributed by the three middle parties on the floor of the House which now constitute his only tangible parliamentary support.

The question of confidence in the Government will come up to-morrow. The German Nationalists have already presented a resolution of no confidence and the Socialists have followed with a similar disavowal.

None of the political wizards around the Reihstag profess to know just who or what would follow the Stresemann Government in the event that it wer, turned out of office. Much of the recent opposition to the Chancellor appeared to have been nullified by the fearless character of his defence.

Streseman Defiant

"It seems to me that this is a par liamentary rather than a cabinet crisis, and that pre-supposes that men and measures that will command confidence are at hand," the Chancellor observed towards the conclusion of his speech and ne added defiantly:

"If you have a better man for the job than I am, bring him out."

He admitted that the way was long and dark and that any aspiring successor who could see further ahead than he was quite welcome to the post. A ministeria] job in Germany was a thorny path the Chancellor observed recalling a statement made to him by the former Chancellor, Dr. Cuno, when he left the Chancellery—"I am glad to leave this house where I never spent one happy hour."

Remmele Excluded

Crowds gathered both inside and outside the Reichstag before the afternoon session. Those outside, expected another scene by the Communist Deputy Remmele, who caused the suspension of a previous session but they were disappointed. Police guarded every entrance and scrutinized every one entering. Deputy Remmele made several attempts to get in, but, encountering opposition from the police abandoned his efforts.

President Loebe opened the sitting by announcing Deputy Remmele's exclusion and said that similar measures would be taken against any deputies who continually interrupted a speaker. Nevertheless, the Chancellor was often interrupted by Communist shouts of "Separatist Chancellor."

RESOLUTION OF THE SOCIALISTS.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The Socialists, who ended their caucus at nearly eleven o'clock last night, decided to move in the Reichstag the following resolution:

"The Government has pro claimed a state of emergency in Saxony and Thuringia, although conditions did not warrant such a measure. On the other hand, nothing decisive was done regarding the unconstitutional situation in Bavaria.

"The Government, therefore, does not enjoy the confidence of the Reichstag."

It is considered in Parliamentary circles that this resolution considerably improves Chancellor Stresemann's prospects, as it is not thought likely a majority of the deputies will support it.

MEETING OPPOSED TO CHURCH UNION

Attended By 200 Presbyterians at Carleton Place —Effect Organization.

CARLETON PLACE, Ont., Nov. 23.—A meeting attended by approximately two hundred Presbyterians from all over the Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew opposed to church union, met here yesterday and formed an organization known as a branch of the Presbyterian church association for the Lanark and Renfrew Presbytery with headquarters at Carleton Place.

The meeting was arranged by Rev. J. H. Borland organizer of the Presbyterian Church Association with headquarters at Montreal and many representative Presbyterians through out the district have already allied themselves on the side of the antis. Officers of the new organization were elected as follows:

President, Judge J. H. Scott, Perth; vice-president, J. L. Morris, Pembroke; secretary, Rev. A. R. Gibson, Carleton Place; treasurer, Mrs. Neil Campbell, Arnprior.

Strong addresses were delivered by Judge J. H. Scott, Perth, Rev. A. R. Gibson ,Carleton Place, Rev. J. H. Miers, Perth, Rev. R. P. Glassford, Winchester and Rev. Dr. R. W. Dickie, Montreal, favoring immediate action in the several churches towards organization for a united opposition to the present bill favoring church union as it now stands.

PLAGUE OF SQUIRRELS

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Nov. 23.—(United Press).—The invasion of red squirrels throughout the Eastern Adirondacks has now become so annoying that within the past three weeks 2,000 of the animals have been killed at the famous apples orchards of Assemblyman Fred L. Porter at Crown Point. Superintendent Gelder has hired every available man and boy to wage rentless war against the squirrels that were destroying thousands of dollar's worth of choice apples. Poison, traps and small calibre rifles were u[illegible]

MAZE OF PRICES CRAZE GERMANS

Ordinary Omelet $1.20—Minds Unbalanced By Leaping Figures.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Germany is in the midst of a financial frenzy not unlike that of the Klondyke in the days when thousands of adventurers risked their lives in White Horse Pass and Dawson was wild over the discoveries on Bonanza Creek.

Prices have passed all reason. Figuring in trillions and handling hundred-trillion mark notes has unbalanced the minds of some of the producers, storekeepers and restaurant keepers.

The few New Yorkers who have happened into the better class Hamburg and Berlin hotels recently have thrown up their hands in horror at the prices and begun looking up train schedules.

An Omelet $1.20

An ordinary omelet of two eggs costs five gold marks ($1.20) and meat dishes twice as much. The price of a single apple in the cafes is two and on, half gold marks, or more than 60 cents.

The prices of clothing and leather goods are proportionately high and are still soaring.

The cost of the food in the markets is beyond comprehension as the supply is short and the producers are unwilling to accept paper marks.

The crowds are importuned by thousands of beggars who throng the principal streets of the German cities seeking enough million mark notes to buy a slice of bread.

Live Fox Shipment Is Due in Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 23. — A consignment of live foxes will arrive in Vancouver this week en route from Montreal to Los Angeles. The shipment is being sent by R. T. Moore and it consists of nearly one hundred black foxes to be used in starting a new breeding farm in California.

By crossing a large Russian fox with a Canadian silver fox Mr. Moore has produced an animal as large as a collie dog which is valued at $38,000. This animal ws bred in Alaska and was recently taken to the Moore Farm in California for breeding purposes

Quebec Liquor System Proposed For Alberta.

EDMONTON, Nov. 23.—The adoption of the Quebec Liquor Control system for Alberta was urged by a delegation representing the established brewing interests of the province which waited upon the government yesterday. The delegation promised co-operation in enforcement of the law and expressed the opinion that such a system would reduce bootlegging, if not entirely eliminate it.

The breweries' suggestion along with many others already offered will be considered. Premier Greenfields stated and added that nothing could yet be said as to what lines the new negislation would follow.

SPURNED LOVER ATTACKED GIRL WITH REVOLVER

Entered Home and Shot Her Twice In Bedroom Where She Had Hidden —Policeman Intervening Shoots Second Girl

BOTH MAY DIE

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Two girls were wounded, one fatally, in a shooting affray at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. George Cook, York Street, London, early to-day. Geraldine Durston, 18, of Watford, received two bullets in the abdomen from a gun in the hands of Clarence Topping, 23, her sweetheart, and Viola McNaughton, 19, her chum, was pierced through the chest with a bullet from the revolver of Police Constable Walter Harpur, who was on the scene at the time and whose shot was directed toward Topping.

Both girls were rushed to the Victoria Hospital. Miss Durston, though wounded seriously, is expected to recover, but no hope is entertained for the recovery of Miss McNaughton. Doctors believe that the bullet may have pierced her lung. Both young ladies were given stimulants to overcome the shock as soon as they were admitted to the hospital. Topping was placed under arrest by Police Constable Harpur and removed to police headquarters. In Police Court this morning he was remanded for a week.

Unrequited Love.

Unrequited love is said to have been the motive for Topping's act. Topping, according to Mr. and Mrs. Cook, left their house soon after 2 o'clock this morning, after his suit had been rejected by Miss Durston. Love for another prompted her to refuse his pleadings.

Topping returned at ten minutes before 7 o'clock this morning and asked for his sweetheart. He was advised to leave and forget his love affair with the girl. Topping, however, refused to quit the house and the police were called. Constable Harpur arrived a few minutes later, but before placing Topping under arrest Cook again advised the rejected suitor to leave the house in peace.

Both girls were out of bed and fully dressed. They were about to sit down to breakfast when Topping arrived. Both sought refuge in Mrs. Cook's bedroom, into which Topping broke after he had been advised a second time to leave the house. Taking out a revolver, he shot the Durston girl twice, each bullet piercing her abdomen. When he was about to shoot again, Constable Harpur rushed in from the kitchen, and, noticing Topping leaning over the prostrated girl with a smoking revolver pointing down at her, the constable shot at him.

Miss McNaughton at that instant dashed out from behind the bedroom door and received the bullet from the police officer's weapon.

SEALS HAPPY OVER WOMEN'S CHANGING FASHIONS IN FURS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The United States Government is losing substantial sums of money because women have changed their fashions in furs and are showing less interest in seal-skins, Secretary Hoover said here. Moreover, the Government has in stock some 10,000 fur pelts which may have to be held for a considerable period before disposing of them.

The British, Japanese and Russian Governments also the Secretary said were facing losses as the result of the change in styles.

The Government, Mr. Hoover explained, has practically a monopoly on seal fur production, by reason of its ownership of the Alaskan Islands where the seals have their rookeries. In recent years as many as 25,000 or 30,000 sealskins have been taken. This year's take, which was cut down to 12,000 when the depression appeared was put on the market same time ago with skins offered for sale at $30 a piece.

About 2,000 skins were sold and then the demand died. The pelts will keep, and Mr. Hoover explained that the Government had put them in storage.

Japan, Great Britain and Russia lose also, because under the treaties controlling the sealing operation, shooting the animals in the open Pacific has been stopped and the Governments participating have joined in sharing with the United States profits of the killings on the islands. Since the Soviet regime was established in Russia however, the United States Government has been deferring payments to that Government.

SIX STIRLING YOUTHS GIVEN A LECTURE AND SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Magistrate Declared He Would Put Down Bolshevism and Mob Rule—All Pleaded Guilty—Must Pay Costs

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 23. — (Special to The Examiner.) — Six accused Stirling youths were given suspended sentence on account of their youth on entering into bonds of $200 each, and they must pay Bundock $100 and must pay all costs. They agreed to this after consultation with counsel and Reeve C. B. Maguire of Stirling. They were severely lectured by the Magistrate and the Crown Attorney. "You boys try to run things in the county, but you won't run them here," said the Magistrate. "I'll check this Bolshevism and mob rule by giving you a liberal chance to settle; if you don't agree you will take the consequences. This is the first case of the kind I ever presided over in 7 years on the bench."

Crown Attorney Donnan pointed out that on a charge of kidnapping they might get 25 years, and lectured them on taking the law in their own hands.

Ponton pointed out that two other cases had occurred in the county within the past two years, one at Bancroft, for wihch the grand jury had not found a true bill, and the Rev. Logan case in this city last summer. No conviction resulted and the youths innocently acted on these precedents.

"All the more reason why these cases should be pushed," retorted Crown Attorney Donnan.

Great Interest Shown.

Belleville held great interest for residents of Stirling and vicinity today. Long before 10.30 a.m., when the court opened here, the court room was crowded to the doors for the trial of Percy Chard, Reuben Chard, Norman Sine, Roy Balshaw, William Tulloch and Earl Wallace, Stirling youths charged with assault as a result of the pummelling which "Rev." Elijah Bundock, Apostolic pastor of that town, received when he was tarred and beaten on Tuesday, November 13th After he had conducted a service in his church at Stirling

W. C. Mickle, K.C., private solicitor for Mundock, appeared and informed Magistrate S. Masson that Bundock had never intended laying a charge of common assault, and if such was the charge he wished it

GERMAN COMMISSION TO PRESENT ECONOMIC POSITION TO ALLIES

Will Declare Reichstag Can't Begin Payments Until Ruhr Is Evacuated —French Charge Cost of Occupation.

POINT OF CONFLICT.

PARIS, Nov. 23—The delegation headed by Herr Fischer and Dr. Mayer of the German war burdens commission, which will be heard begining to-morrow at 10 o'clock by the reparation commission concerning Germany's capacity to pay, met this afternoon in the headquarters of the German commission for final consultation.

The delegates will set forth in the fullest manner the economic and financial situation of Germany, presenting statistics showing the comparative purchasing power of the mark and other monies and contrasting the situation of German officials and functionaries with those of the allied countries.

They will present a mass of carefully tabulated data showing the effect of the Ruhr occupation on Germany's resources as seen from the German side, to support the argument that the reich is unable to do anything to put itself in a position to pay until the Ruhr is evacuated.

Several Sessions.

It is expected that several sessions will be required to hear all the arguments the Germans have ready to present.

The note presented to the Commission by the War Burdens Commission yesterday calling attention to the fact that the French and the Belgians, in their negotiations with the Ruhr industrialists, refused to agree to credit to reparation account all deliveries made under any working arrangement with the industrialists indicates that the German delegation will take advantage of the opportunity to raise this question of crediting deliveries, thus keeping to the forefront the divergencies between France and Great Britain.

Occupation Expenses.

Premier Poincare, in his speech to the Chamber of Deputies last Friday, said that deliveries in kind under agreements made with the heads of industries in the Ruhr would be credited to reparation account after the expenses of occupation had been deducted .The British contention is not only that the Ruhr occupation is illegal, but that the French and the Belgians have no right to charge any part of their occupation expenses against any payments or deliveries made on reparation account.

The subject was called to the attention of the Reparation Commission in such a way that it may take up the question or leave it alone. Those familiar with the state of mind of the British representatives on the Commission think it scarcely possible that the question will be allowed to sleep, and the fear is expressed in reparation circles that this will furnish another cause of sharp conflict between the Allies as soon as the British elections are over.

Nancy Won't Face "Howling Hyenas"

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 23. —(Canadian Press).—Lady Astor was presented with a horseshoe at an enthusiastic meeting and reception to her yesterday. The meeting was characterized by good humor and Lady Astor remarked:

"I am not going on the platform if I have howling hyenas yelling at me every time I speak. An election is a serious thing. It is no time for bawling about something you know nothing about. You can do it with men, but you can't with me."

She retorted to an interrupter later that she had had about as much heckling as she could stand. She said: "I am gaining thousands of votes by my opponents' mistakes. I am not a paid delegate. I am a free white woman." ....

BER LIN SKEPTICALS OF POLICE TEAR

Germans Well Know That Their Policemen Are Incapable of Weeping and Doubt Tears in Jackie Coogan Picture.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—(Associated Press)—The weeping policeman in Jackie Coogan's film, "My Boy," is too much for German imagination. The German film fans know that a German policeman couldn't weep and are skeptical about the ability of an American "cop" to shed tears. They even doubt whether one of the brass buttoned bluecoats across the Atlantic could be moved to tears by Jackie Coogan's many film trials and tribulations.

If the policeman in American are as tender-hearted as the big fellow who weeps when he is forced to arrest Jackie Coogan for law-breaking one of the Berlin newspapers says it must be a fine place for criminals.

But the weeping American policeman doesn't keep the crowds away from "My Boy", and thousands of German women are going to see Jackie again and again for the purpose of having a good cry over his plight. Some of the film critics have some hard things to say about American sentimentality, but the German public seems to enjoy it immensely.

CITY COUNCIL IS DEFENDANT IN $18,000 SUIT

Miss Sophie Kohen Charges "False Threats" aud Says Council Took Money From War Widows.

HER OWN LAWYER

Charging that the Peterbore City Council obtained money by false threats, and obtained coal for charitable purposes at cost, later selling it at a profit, Miss Sophie Kohen has commenced action in the Supreme Court of Ontario, claiming $18,000.

In the writ received by Joseph Wearing, city solicitor, Miss Kohen is described as her own lawyer, and the claim and particulars have been drawn by her.

Miss Kohen charges, specifically, that the City Council extracted and obtained merchandise for charitable purposes at cost for the aid of soldiers' wives and widows in aid of the Patriotic Fund. They made misappropriations, she alleges, using the profits for their own purposes.

"The coal was requested at cost price," Miss Kohen says, "at which we even stood the overhead and other expenses. It was clearly understood that the coal was to be handled free of cost to the unfortunates, but, instead, a regular business was conducted and profits made from one dollar and a half to two dollars and a half a ton. In addition, moneys were obtained by false and undesirable methods."

The actual losses estimate over $18,000, Miss Kohen claims.

The city is defending the action.

HEAR PENSION CASES IN WEST

Federal Appeal Board Open Sessions in Winnipeg Next Thursday.

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).— Members of the federal appeal board in the matter of soldiers' pensions are proceeding west next week and will hold sessions in Winnipeg commencing on Thursday November 29. Subsequently there will be hearings in Regina and Calgary and sittings at these points will probably occupy the board until Christmas. The members will probably go as far as the Pacific coast before coming east again. So far appeals have been heard in Montreal, London Ottawa, Kingston and Halifax. The board is hoping to arrange for a session in Toronto during December.

Since its inception the board has received some 650 appeals from all parts of the Dominion, it was said today of which quite a number have already been disposed of. A proportion of the appeals, however, are found not to come within its jurisdiction.

The original hearings are for the board. The appellant, however, has the right to appeal from an individual member's decision to a quorum, which means three of the five members of the board not including the member giving the first decision. The decision of the quorum is final.

The services of the local soldiers' advisor are free for all appellants. The ex-soldier may present his case personally or through the soldiers' advisor, or he may employ counsel or engage the services of some other person.

The appeal board is endeavorin to arrange sessions as promptly as possible wherever they are necessary but it is desired to give the sol diers' advisor and others concerned all the time necessary properly to prepare their cases. Hearings by a quorum of the board are arranged for when warranted by a sufficient number of re-appeals from decisions of individual members.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

"I'm as strong as a lion," boasted Billy Beard.

One day Billy Goat's cousin Billy Beard was talking to Dummy Donkey's cousin, Harry Hee-Haw, down in Dixie Land.

"I'm as strong as a lion," boasted Billy Beard. "It's all in my head, too! Most people are weak in their heads but I'm so strong I could knock over a school house."

"You could, could you?" brayed Harry Hee-Haw showing his teeth in his contempt. "If you can find anything in the world stronger than my heels please let me know and I'll give you a bouquet. I could kick over a church."

"Maa! I know what kind of a bouquet you would give me," mocked Billy. "A bouquet of thistles. You eat enough thistles to sharpen everything about you but your wits, but as for them, they are as dull as railroad tracks or you'd never say that your heels were stronger than my head."

And so those two silly things went on arguing. Nancy and Nick were listening and they laughed and laughed. "They are exactly like their cousins in Squealy-Moo Land," said Nick. "I guess donkeys and goats are the same every where."

Pretty soon Mister Farmer came along and caught Harry Hee-Haw and led him to the barn. "Now, son, I'm going to hitch you to my light wagon and drive you to market with a load of sewet potatoes," he said. "And mind you, sir, no balking today. If your heels are as strong as you say, see how much ground you can kick behind you on the way. Want a ride, young 'uns?"

Nancy and Nick hopped up and away they all drove.

Harry Hee-Haw was thinking. "School house! Humph!" he was going over and over in his mind when suddenly he asw a school house right ahead.

"I won't go another step!" he brayed, sitting down in the middle of a narrow bridge.

And nothing Mister Farmer could do would make him move.

They all got down and unhitched, but still Harry sat there.

Pretty soon who should come tearing down the road but Billy Beard with lowered head.

"He's going to butt down that school house," thought Harry, angrily.

But instead the goat made straigh for the donkey and knocked him off the bridge into the water. But as Harry went over the edge, he let fly with his heels and bang! Away went Billy into the water, too!

"A stubborn disposition can do more damage than all the iron heels and bone heads in the world," said Mister Farmer, soberly.

TWO YOUTHS ROUNDED UP SERIOUS CHARGE

The Peterborough Fire Department have been bothered a great deal by false alarms, especially the last two weeks, when they have answered several calls to different parts of the city where there was no fire at all. Chief Gimblett has already captured two boys who sent in the call at Box 16. He is close on the track of several other boys. These boys will be prosecuted and if any other boys are caught at this pastime they will be severely dealt with by the police and likely get a fine of $50.00 or more.

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads— dissolve them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store and rub with a hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe and sure method.

PRESENTATION TO MARMORA COUPLE

Hugh Wiggins Is Moving to Brantford—Has Position of Bursar at the Institute.

MARMORA, Nov. 2 —On Monday evening a large gathering of the merchants and other citizens of the village assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wiggins, who are leaving the village to live in Belleville, where Mr. Wiggins has accepted the position as bursar and shopkeeper at the Deaf and Dumb Institute. As an outward display of the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins were held by the people of Marmora, they were presented with two beautiful chairs, a club bag, work basket, smoking set and a set of silverware. Mr. Wiggins thanked them in a suitable manner and was visibly overcome by the goodwill shown him and his wife.

He reviewed his life in Marmora from the time he got off the train at Marmora Station, with a none too great supply of money until the present. A number of the citizens, including Reeve Airhart, spoke appreciatively of Mr. Wiggins during his life in Marmora, and wished him every success and happiness in his new home.

Mr. Frank Lloyd and Mr. Hal. Osborne who have been in Montreal for some weeks, are home again.

COLD RICE

Cold rice, if it has been properly cooked, so that the grains are separate, is a good addition to vegetable salad as it combines nicely with celery, tomatoes, string bean and tart apples. It is also very delicious in chicken salad.

IRISH FREE STATE DISCUSSES POGROMS

Reported Murder of Jewish Citizens in Dublin Brings Reply That Sectarian Crime is Unknown There.

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—The possibility of pogroms in the Irish Free State was discussed in the Dail Eirann yesterday when Daniel McCathy asked the Home Minister for information relative to the recent murder of Jewish citizens in the streets of Dublin and whether any special precautions had been taken to protect them from further attacks.

The Home Minister, Kevin O'Higgins, replied that sectarian crime had not within living memory manifested itself in Dublin, and he did not believe the city now faces so horrible a crime. He was inclined to view that some perverted mentality had been seeking private vengeance he stated that an energetic investigation was now proceeding and added that the Jews had never persecuted in Ireland and that all decent citizens would view with disgust any departure from that record.

LOST IN WILDS NEARLY A MONTH

Lumberman Subsisted on Leaves and Vines, and is Worn to a Walking Skeleton.

MICHIPICOTEN, November 23.—Canadian Press. — Hemmed in by mountainous hills, his way blocked by lakes and swamps, Merril Faro who hails from Montreal, tried vainly for 21 days to find his way back to the camp where he had been employed in cutting pulpwood.

During the entire period Faro subsisted entirely on running vines and a few green leaves he was able to find on the trees and shrubs, helped out with one partridge he caught.

Faro was reported missing on Oct. 26, and it was thought that he had gone out to Sault Ste. Marie. Messages were sent to all stations in the district, but no person answering to his description had taken a train.

On November 15, Faro was brought into camp by two prospectors, E. N. Mann and J. Nicholls, upon whom Faro had stumbled in wanderings. Faro, before this adventure, was a man weighing about 180 pounds, but on his return he resembled only a gaunt skeleton of a man with his clothes torn to shreds.

"Boys," he said, "I never thought I would ever see any one of you again. Yesterday when I thought I would not live much longer, I knelt down out there in the bush and prayed to the good Lord to bring me out if He so willed it. This morning I started out through the woods, and soon I came out in a little clearing, where two men were making a fire for dinner."

FIELD MARSHAL HINDENBURG NOW URGES RECONCILIATION

HANOVER, Germany, November 23 (Canadian Press). — Field-Marshal von Hindenburg made public yesterday a manifesto deploring the recent disturbances in Munich, saying that in the troubles there "German brothers of equally patriotic minds became enemies and caused a divided community, to the joy of our adversaries"

The Field-Marshal urges reconciliation.

"Join hands across the graves of those who fell on both sides in firm faith in their good cause," he says. "Our poor Fatherland doubly needs unity in the present time of direst distress."

Archduke Cause of Challengeto Duel

BUDAPEST, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Minister of Education Klebersberg has challenged Deputy Rakovsky, Royalist, to a duel ..r an alleged insulting remark during Wednesday's stormy debate in Parliament over the public prayers and other birthday ceremonies for the young Archduke Otto, son of the late ex-Emperor Charles, during which Otto's name was cheered by the crowd as "hereditary King of Hungary."

Count Bethlem, the Premier, replying to the anti-legitimists, said he could not prevent the people from praying for the Archduke's health, but that he would order prosecutions if any expressions were heard in violation of the law against restoration of the Hapsburg Dynasty.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A HASTINGS MAN

Frank Downs Found Dead in Bed—Hastings News

HASTINGS, November 23. — Mr. Frank Downs, one of the oldest residents of this district, passed away suddenly yesterday.

Mr. Downs attended an auction sale on Wednesday afternoon and appeared to be in good health up to the moment of his death. His brother, who lives on the next farm, not seeing any signs of him around went up to the house and discovered him dead in bed.

He leaves to mourn his loss, three sisters, Mrs. Richard Keating, Mrs. T. Gorman of Saginaw, Mich., and Mrs. Robert Cleary of Hastings, and one brother, Mr. Thomas Downs of Percy.

The funeral will be held this morning at 8:45 from the residence of his brother, Mr. Thomas Downs, to the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

The Elections.

Already prophecies regarding elections are beginning to crop up. It is rumoured that Reeve W. M. Fowlds will be a candidate, and that Dr. J. H. Hess, who has been reeve for several years may run again, and Councillor A. E. Chapman may cast his lot in with the other two, and make it a three cornered fight.

Curling Club Meeting.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Hastings Curling Club was held in Mr. Ed. Lynch's hall on Wednesday evening when the Club was reorganized for the coming winter.

They have secured the same building as last year and the prospects are bright for a successful season.

The following officers were elected:

President, T. A. Coughlan.
Vice-President, C. E. Jones.
Sec.-Treas., A. N. Bailey.
Executive Committee, Messrs. L. T. Huycke, L. E. Kelly, J. M. Baker and George Stevenson.

EX-ALD. D. MILLAN DIED IN HIS STORE THURSDAY

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 23.—Ex-Ald. Denis Millan, dropped dead in his store yesterday afternoon. He was well known to marine men as his store supplied many of the boats calling here. He was the father of Dr. R. P. Millan, who a few years ago was a member of the Toronto dental team and also of Leo and Norman, well known hockey players.

CLAIMS DAMAGES FOR ROAD DETOUR

Thos. Eggleston of Victoria County Demands $1,000.

LINDSAY, November 23 (Special to The Examiner). — Motorists from Peterborough, etc., who experienced trouble at Crawford's Hill, near Omemee, before it was cut away by the county and the road diverted, will be interested in the suit for damages entered against Victoria County by Thomas Egglestone, who lives just at its base.

Mr. Egglestone has a fifty-acre farm on the north side of the road, on which his residence is situated.

When the county cut down the hill and changed the course of the highway a little to the north, it encroached, so it is alleged, on Mr. Egglestone's property, and damages were sustained. He, therefore, entered an action, claiming $1,000.00

The county offered him $850.00 in full settlement of the claim, but the offer was rejected.

There is a likelihood of the matter going to arbitration.

The road has been cut in on the north side to such an extent that steps have been constructed to enable Mr. Egglestone to reach his home.

BELGIUM HAS FIXED TIME FOR PAYMENT

Indemnity For Assassination of Lieutenant Must Be Received By Sunday.

BRUSSELS, November 23 (Canadian Press) — The Belgian Government not having received a reply to its last demand on the Berlin Government for a settlement of the indemnity for the assassination of Lieutenant Graff, near Dusseldorf, early last year and has notified Germany that if the sum is not paid by Sunday Belgium herself will secure payment in occupied Germany.

The necessary orders already have been given to this effect, and will be executed if Germany does not comply.

M. Jaspar, Minister of Foreign Agairs, yesterday personally authorised the Associated Press to state that the reports that further German territory would be seized as a punitive measure were absolutely without foundation.

Lieutenant Graff was shot on 23rd March, 1922, while riding in a street car between Ruhrort and Walsum.

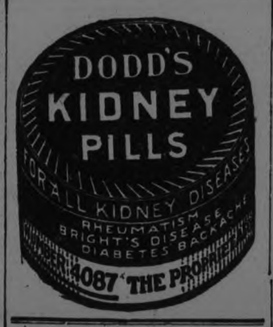
His slayers pleaded mistaken identity. They asserted that they believed him to be a Belgian agent named Schmitz, who they were seeking in order to avenge a German police officer killed by Schmitz.

An Aix-la-Chapelle despatch of 27th January last, said four members of the German Green Police had been sentenced to death by a Belgian court-martial for the crime.

CAR DASHED INTO FOUR CHILDREN.

CALGARY, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Edna Conlin, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Conlin, was instantly killed and three other children hurt yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. J. H. Hubert. The injured are not thought to have been seriously hurt.

Mrs. Hubert was turning the corner to avoid another automobile, it is said, and crashed into four children who were standing in the street.



SIR ARTHUR SALTER SPOKE TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The League of Nations Finance committee, which has been considering the proposed loan to Hungary along the lines of the recent Austrian reconstruction loan of £27,000,000, held two sessions in Whitehall yesterday and heard the statements of Sir Arthur Salter, head of the economic situation there, and representatives of Hungary, Finance Minister Kallay, and Baron Koranyi, the Minister in Paris.

The Hungarians are asking for a larger period than the committee deems necessary. The proposed loan has already been cut from five years to three and a half years, and will probably be reduced to two years.

Unlike the Austrian loan, the Hungarian issue wil not be guaranteed by foreign governments, but will be secured by Hungarian assets.

Blackwater Hunter Killed 900-Lb. Moose.

LINDSAY, November 23 (Special to The Examiner). — The Dixon hunting party, which was composed of Lindsay, Blackstock, and Oshawa citizens, arrived here yesterday morning from Northern Haliburton, where they have been hunting since 29th October.

Besides their full quota of deer, they brought with them a 900-pound moose, which fell below the rifle of R. Fidgett, of Blackwater.

This is the first moose brought down from the North this season.

Bran is a Necessity

Many modern foods are too refined—they lack the "roughage" our bodies need. If you would be healthy you must supply that "roughage." The pleasantest way is to eat bran daily. Tillson's Bran comes to you in its natural state. It is the most efficient bran. Recipes for tasty bran dishes in every package.

Large package 25 cents at your grocer's.

RATHER DRASTIC TREATMENT.

The order of the Hydro-electric Commission to Ald. Harry Thompson of Belleville, who is in the employ of the commission as electrical inspector, that he must resign from his position if he wants to continue in municipal politics, will strike the public generally as drastic in view of the fact that he has for two years been a member of the City Council.

The inspector had announced his intention of being a candidate for the mayoralty, but suddenly forced to choose between his position and a chance to become Belleville's chief magistrate, he has decided to remain out of politics.

There is no particular reason why a Hydro employee should not be a good mayor for Belleville, nor is there any reason why the interests of the Hydro should be in any way jeopardized because one of its officials has a bent for municipal politics.

Hydro matters are in no way an issue in the Belleville campaign, and it seems rather harsh treatment to allow Mr. Thompson to retain his seat for two years as alderman without any intimation that his connection with the Council was displeasing to the Hydro heads and then when there is some chance of his being honoured with a higher position to suddenly drop the bombshell that he must either put himself out of municipal politics or out of a job.

SPACE-GRABBING.

With any reasonable effort to increase public interest in this country in Canadian books the Examiner is in thorough accord, but while sympathizing with the ostensible purpose of the Canadian book week which is being observed this week, we are inclined to question the reasonableness of the campaign.

The principal object, although not the stressed one, of the drive seems to be to secure for the work of Canadian writers and the output of Canadian publishers as large an amount of free advertising from the newspapers as can be extracted under the plea of patriotism.

The Examiner heartily believes that the reading of more literature written from a Canadian viewpoint would be a splendid thing for Canada and for the development of a Canadian spirit, but fails to see why the burden of the bringing about of such a condition should be thrust upon the daily newspapers.

The publishers have a remedy at hand—let them devote a small percentage of the price of each book towards an advertising campaign—that will make use of the paid columns of the papers to drive home to the people of Canada the desirability of reading Canadian books and encouraging Canadian authors.

Day after day the newspapers are being called upon to give gratuitious publicity to propaganda boosting this, that and the other enterprise, often purely of a commercial nature, and Canadian book week is merely one of a score of similar attempts to get something for nothing.

POLICE COMMISSIONS.

Although the controversy as to the extent of the City Council's control of the cost of administering the Police Department has not in other communities reached a head as in Peterborough, one form or other of the problem has avpeared in a number of Ontario cities.

There is a proposal from Kitchener that the police magistrate should not be a member of the Police Commission, and that his place should be taken by an elected member. This, of course, would have the effect of making the commission two-third elective, and the proposal, no matter what its reception may be from other City Councils, is sure to be hotly opposed by all police departments and the majority of crown attorneys and law enforcement officials generally.

In one guise or another, bills to change the present Police Commission to an elective or partially elective body have appeared before Legislative committees at session after session, and have been voted down as steadily as they have made their appearance.

A similar fate probably awaits the Kitchener attempt when it reaches Queen's Park at the next session.

The majority of legislators look over the difficulties that may arise in any particular community and adhere to the system that was designed to keep the administration of police affairs out of the realm of municipal politics, doubtless influenced by the experience of the United States in this respect.

The new Legislature is not ulikely to differ very much from its predecessors when it is asked to deal with this problem.

NOT MERELY AN ALDERMANIC PRIZE.

Several members of the prezent Council are being mentioned in connection with the mayoralty contest, but as yet no definite pronouncement has been made by anybody.

Taking for granted, however, that one alderman or two, or three for that matter, may decide to try for the mayoralty there is no reason why other aspirants for the position should be frightened off.

Experience in the Council is not essential to a successful occupancy of the chief magistrate's chair, and only where other qualifications are equal could be considered as a deciding factor.

The mere fact that a man has sat for a term or two around the Council board gives him no monopoly on the mayoralty, although there is sometimes a tendency in aldermanic circles to think so.

It may quite easily be the case that a candidate absolutely inexperienced so far as civic service is concerned is more fitted to act as chief magistrate than those who have been drilled to some extent in the routine of municipal affairs.

Men used to grasping the details of business, to making important decisions in matters of moment and to looking ahead in shaping policies would meet no obstacle in quickly absorbing the essentials of civic government.

It is just as well for these facts to be realized and for the more or less general tendency in Council circles to look upon the mayoralty as a prize to be competed for among those on the inside, to be recognized by the public as a myth.

The best of our enterprise and energy and brains and vision should be at the service of the community, and there will surely be no attempt to show that the best in these things is confined to the membership of this year's Council, or any other year's for that matter.

CITY BOYS AND COUNTRY BOYS.

The New York Times points out that only two of the American residents were born in the cities—Roosevelt in New York and Taft in Cincinnati. All the others came from towns and villages; in fact, Washington, Lincoln, Cleveland, Harding and Coolidge were really country boys. It might with equal accuracy be said that the cities of Canada have produced but few of our Prime Ministers, says the Ottawa Journal. Our strong men have been for the most part bred amid rural surroundings, andin that fact there is an encouraging significance.

Opportunity is not always a matter of environment. It grows rather out of the ambition and the calibre of the individual. In a very large sense it proceeds from discontentment, which is the negative side of high purpose. It is, of course, not true that all men are born free and equal, nor that all men have equal chances on the road to success; but it is true that humble birth and unpromising surroundings are not handicaps to progress. On the contrary, they may readily beget the fibre of courage and serve as impelling forces in the right kind of a young man.

We always point with pride to "self-made men," although it is not always clear what we mean by that classification. Obviously, no man can get very far without some extraneous aid. Yet the term has a fairly definite meaning, and applies to those who did not have those varied aids which are found in the homes and circumstances of the well-to-do. As a matter of fact, all men who have ever amounted to anything have been self-made, and necessarily so, regardless of their opportunities. Education itself is the product of will, and demonstration of capacity is even more so. Which brings us around to the postulate that neither city nor country has as much to do with the long climb to eminence as has determination. And that comes not from the outside but the inside.

It is not a mere platitude to say that opportunities are more numerous today than ever before. It is an obvious truth. And in reaching for what may be had, the country boy is more likely to succeed than his urban rival, for the simple and adequate reason that he is more likely to have the stronger incentive. Still more important is the probability that he will have less to distract him from high aim; for city life is enervating and opposed to concentration. That is why so many of the big prizes have gone to those sturdy and persistent fellows from the farms.

THE CHANCE FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Addressing Provincial representatives in conference at Ottawa upon the subject of immigration, Hon. J. A. Robb depreciated the spreading of too glowing accounts of what might be expected by new arrivals in this country. According to that usually reliable agency, The Canadian Press, the Minister remarked that it would be impossible for immigrants to become Premiers, chiefs of large industries or leading editorial writers. Whether or not he used precisely these words, the thought seems to have been that newcomers ought not to expect to achieve eminence in the country of their adoption. Fortunately, Mr. Robb is wrong. History supplies countless examples to the contrary, from the time that Joseph became comptroller to Pharaoh down to the present day.

There were Western members at the conference who could have set him right. R. A. Hoey of Springfield was himself born in Ireland. Premier Greenfield of Alberta and Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan are natives, respectively, of Winchester and Leicestershire, England. Since Hon. John Oliver was born in Hartington, Derbyshire, it will be seen that not a Provincial Premier west of Manitoba is a native of Canada. Indeed, five out of eight Ministers in the Alberta Cabinet were born outside the Dominion, while in the Assembly, with a membership of 58, only 36 are Canadian-born. Eight came from the United States, five each from England and Scotland, two from Ireland and two from Ukrainia. Similarly, in the Saskatchewan House, there are three members who came to this country from England, six from the United States, two from Ireland, two from Sweden, four from Scotland and one from Wales.

Some of these men came to Canada as farm laborers. The great majority of Western members first entered public life here, though there are exceptions, such as T. H. McConica, M.P., who had served in the Ohio Senate. Nor are they, as a rule, cases of almost lifelong residence in the Dominion. McConica came over from the United States about 1909; Premier Greenfield has lived in Canada only since 1892; Premier Dunning since 1902, and so on.

Even the Senate has a proportion of members whose nativity is not of Canada. Hon. J. C. Patterson was born in Ireland; Senator Bostock, the Speaker, came from Epsom, England, and Senator Farrell is a product of Liverpool. In the Federal Cabinet, itself, there is Hon. James Murdock, born at Brighton, England. Andrew Knox, member for Prince Albert in the Commons, hails from Derry. Sir George Perley, former High Commissioner in London and late Minister of the Canadian Overseas Forces, first saw the light in Lebanon, New Hampshire.

These are all contemporary, but Canadian history reflects a similar situation in almost any given decade, and will no doubt continue to do so, as long as immigration shall continue in important volume. The conclusion to be drawn is that democratic rule, as it obtains in this Dominion, gives every reasonable opportunity to the ambitious—and that applies to both sexes, for it may be noted that one of the Alberta Ministers included in the foregoing computation is Hon. Mrs. Parlby, a native of England,—London Free Press.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Persistent listening in fails to detect any sound of municipal candidates preparing themselves for battle. Are they all going to wait for the last awful week?

Premier Baldwn comments sarcastically on the fact that Lloyd George and Asquith have found one bed big enough to hold them both. Apparently, however, they are not very much asleep.

The trouble with Mr. Ferguson's declaration that he is going to wait until 'sane" public opinion favors a referendum is that everybody no matter how extreme his views thinks that he represents sane public opinion.

Outside of the fact that he is in good health and has no thought of retiring, the report that Sir Lomer Gouin is to resign because of illness is quite true.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

News from Christmas. It will be here December 25. Mail packages early so you can get an answer.

Hows about books for Christmas? Don't give dad a check book, or mother a cook book, or Bill a school book.

About a dozen sets of new false teeth would make a swell Christmas gift for a gossiping neighbor.

A cup of sugar would make a wonderful Christmas present for a neighbor who borrows too much stuff.

Why not give the ice man a Christmas present? Something for scraping mud off his feet would be nice.

Don't forget the cook this Christmas. If you don't give her a present she will give you indigestion.

Don't forget the milk man. He likes Christmas present. We suggest a big bucket for watering milk.

There's the plumber. Buy the plumber a Christmas present. What about a million memorandum books?

And there's the grocer. He's human and enjoys Christmas. Give him a nice payment on your grocery bill.

Remembers the barber this Christmas. Give him some liniment for rubbing his tired jaw muscles.

And the butcher, get him a Christmas gift. A few extra bones to put in the steak would tickle him.

Why not give your wife a nice, soft rubber rolling pin for Christmas?

Give the bootlegger a Christmas present of a few new customers. His old ones are all worn out.

We know what taxpayers will give politicians for Christmas, but can't tell because we don't cuss.

A nice little booklet containing a dozen silver-plated wrong numbers is a swell telphone girl gift.

Don't forget the cat this Christmas. Make the cat a present of a few real fat, milk-fed mice.

You should give the dog a Christmas present. It nothing else, buy him a couple of cats to chase.

Even the goldfish should have their Christmas. Read them all about what a hard time other fish have.

Have you a canary bird? Make it happy this Christmas. Letting it see a dog chase a cat will do.

Do you know a man who smokes a pipe? A million dollars worth of matches for Christmas would suit him.

What makes us laugh out loud is seeing a girl with bobbed hair one day and long hair the next.

Six girls directed New York traffic for one hour. Luckily, they never changed their minds once.

No Medical Mistakes Says Ottawa's Mayor.

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—In officially welcoming the visiting members of the American College of Surgeons at a luncheon here yesterday, Mayor Frank Plant said the organization they represented had a high standing in the world and he was sure its branches in Ontario and Quebec took second place to none. In political life the doctors or critics often gave a wrong prescription for the civic ills of the community, but the medical profession made no such mistakes, and it would be well if political critics gave the same careful study to the ills they wished to cure as the medical men gave to the cases they handled.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 23. — With the exception of a few thin, poor butchers, it was expected that the Union Stock Yards would be sold out of cattle this week. The three days' sales totalled a few over 7,000 head, and with yesterday morning's arrivals there was only 750 for sale yesterday.

Receipts yesterday were, 496 cattle and 12 calves, 326 hogs, and 184 sheep and lambs. There was no difficulty in cleaning up any good butchers and a few choice heifers were sold by Corbett & Hall at $6.25 a cwt.

The stocker trade was more brisk and fair, even loads around 800 pounds each sold at $4.35 a cwt. Good weighty feeders are being well taken as high as $6.00 a cwt., and Rogers & Maybee took 250 of these for the week for export . The same firm bought 220 steers on this market from $6.35 to $7.00 and a dozen bulls from $4.00 to $5.00 a cwt.

Some two hundred Western cattle were in yesterday, and these sold better than earlier in the week. Medium weight butchers' steers brought 5 3-4 cents. A lot of plain butchers' cows changed hands at 2 3-4 to 3 1-4 cents. The main drag in the market was backward springers, for which it was hard to get a bid. The majority of dealers admit about an advance of 25 cents a cwt. in all classes of good butcher cattle this week.

There was no change in the calf market at the week-end and prices are quoted quite steady.

Wednesday's heavy run of lambs hit the price and quotations dropped half a dollar a cwt. From Wednesday 1,200 was carried over till yesterday, and most of the ewes were expected to go at $10.50 a cwt. and the bucks at $9.00. Small receipts of sheep keep the price of these steady.

Hogs are still quoted at $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b., and the packers say there is an easier feeling. Despite this, however, dealers from the country say $8.00 a cwt. is being generally paid at outside points.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, November 23 (Canadian Press). — Further inquiry on export account is reported and one or two cars are being shipped on consignment. Canadian markets for fresh are firmer, storage unchanged. In the United States refrigerators are reported weak, due largely to the banks and warehouses calling for increased margins. There is a possibility of this causing a further break.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, November 23 (Canadian Press). — Receipts, 700 cattle and calves, 1,900 hogs, and 35 sheep and lambs.

The moderate offerings on the cattle market yesterday morning were disposed of at firm prices. There was a keen demand for the top grades of butcher cattle, with offerings limited.

The hog market declined 25 cents, packers bidding 7.25 for the thick smooths.

A few sheep changed hands from $6.00 to $6.50.

ONTARIO CHEESE AUCTION.

MONTREAL, November 23 (Canadian Press). — At the United Dairymen Co-operative auction sale of Ontario cheese held here yesterday there were 985 boxes offered of which 50 boxes No. 2 coloured sold at 18 1-4 cents per pound and 18 1-2 cents per pound was bid for 488 boxes No. 1A and 447 boxes No. 1B, which was refused, with 18 3-4 cents per pound asked.

BROCKVILLE CHEESE.

BROCKVILLE, November 23 (Canadian Press). — The registrations on the board were 100 boxes of white cheese and 1,255 boxes coloured, and all sold at 18 cents per pound, while a week ago 18 3-8 cents per pound was paid for coloured and 17 3-8 cents per pound for white.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 23 (Canadian Press). — Largely as a result of strength shown by the eNw York stock market, a material advance took place yesterday in the value of wheat.

Closing quotations for wheat were firm, 1-2c to 1 3-8c net higher, December $1.03 7-8 to $1.04, and xCommon do. .....30.00 45.00 May $1.08 7-8 to $1.09.

Corn finished 3-8c to 1-2c to 58c up, oats at 1-8c to 1-4c to 5-8c to 3-4c gain; and provisions unchanged to 7c lower.

For Meatless Days

Old Father Cubist wants to amuse the children.

Send four OXO Cube wrappers for this Jig Saw Puzzle. OXO LIMITED 232 Lemoine St., Montreal.

It is economy to let the butcher drive past once in a while.

Oxo Cubes take the place of butcher's meat in soups and savory dishes and open up a hundred and one dainty ways of using up today what was left over from yesterday.

Oxo Cubes are time and money savers—more than that, they add nutrition to other foods.

Tins of 4, 10, 50 and 100 Cubes.

OXO CUBES

Oxo Vegetable Dish

Soak ½ lb. haricot beans overnight. Fry ½ lb. onions in saucepan, with a little margarine or fat. When brown add 4 Oxo Cubes, dissolved in 1½ pints of hot water. Grate or mince 1 carrot, add a little turnip or parsnip. Then add some barley or macaroni. Simmer for one hour. Serve with toast or mashed potatoes; a little thickening added improves it.

Russian and Danubian shipments of wheat were larger than for many weeks in pre-war times—the aggregate last week being 3,224,000 bushels against 1,344,000 bushels the previous eek and none last year. On the other hand, domestic primary receipts continued to show a decided falling off, and bulls contended that wheat had intrinsic value at current prices. Gossip was circulated also that strong interests were supporting wheat, and if need be were read to take moderate losses for the sake of helping general business conditions.

Predictions of rain or snow likely to interfere with husking gave firmness to corn and oats. Furthermore, prices of hogs and corn were nearer to a feeding parity than has been the rule of late.

Provisions were governed by the action of the hog market.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, November 23 (Canadian Press).—Cattle, receipts 11,000; fed steers and yearlings fairly active; strong to 25 cents higher; short fed $8.00 to $9.50; top weighty steers averaging 1,704 pounds, $11.25; part load yearlings, $12.50; several loads, $10.50 to $11.25; fat cows and heifers strong to 15 cents higher; canners $2.25 to $2.65; cutters, $3.25; bulls, stockers, and feeders, fully steady; bulk heavy bologna bulls, $4.00 to $4.40; stockers and feeders, $5.25 to $6.75; vealers closed steady; bulk to packers, $7.75 to $8.25.

BRITISH WOMEN HEAR UNIONIST TARIFF POLICY

Packed Drury Lane Theatre Where Chamberlain Scion Expounded Father's Doctrine—Lloyd George's Programme.

GOING THE LIMIT.

LONDON, November 23. — British women enjoyed their first day in the spotlight of the present political campaign when 4000 of them rushed to the entrances of the old Drury Lane Theatre to-day to hear Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, expound the principles of protection along the lines upon which his famous father, Joseph Chamberlain, expounded them twenty years ago. At that time women carried out one of the present campaign slogans by keeping the home fires burning by staying at home, and without much thought of ever actively participating in politics.

To-day only 3000 of the 4000 women succeeded in getting into the theatre, Mrs. Bridgman, wife of W. C. Bridgman, Secretary for Home Affairs, presided over the meeting, and exhibited a Lloyd Georgian aptitude for metaphor. She got a hearty response from her hearers when she said that the only food for the British unemployed in the policies of the opposition would be the smell of the red herring the Opposition was draw ing across the trail.

Churchill Active.

Herbert H. Asquith, J. Ramsay MacDonald and Winston Spencer Churchill, all in opposition to the Government, again were on platforms in their constituencies during the day. Mr. Churchill carried out a particularly strenuous programme of speech making. Premier Baldwin and former Premier Lloyd George had a day of rest. Mr. Baldwin is preparing to visit his constituency on Saturday. He will speak at Bewdly and remain at his Worcestershire home during the week end and proceed to Bristol on Monday.

To-morrow Mr. Lloyd George will start on what amounts to another Midlothian campaign of Gladstone memory. He will seize every opportunity to speak from his train, but he will have to do it from his car windows as the English trains have no back platforms. Mr. Lloyd George will speak at Glasgow on Saturday and at Paisley with Mr. Asquith on Saturday evening. He will continue his whirlwind trip to Edinburgh on Monday. Then he will tour the Lancashire district where he will encounter hordes of unemployed.

"I mean to go to the limit of my capacity on behalf of the reunited Liberalism," said the former Premier to-day.

Sons are Candidates.

Mr. MacDonald, who is the Labor leader in Parliament, continuing his motor tour, will go to the workshops on Saturday in support of his son, who like four other sons of members of the Commons Major Lloyd George included, are seeking seats beside their fathers.

The latest Conservative literature to be issued are booklets of questions for hecklers. One set of the booklets is intended for the use of the free trader and another for the Socialists. A supplementary question is suggested in more cases. Thus after a Labor candidate is asked:—"Are you in favor of a capital levy?" and he replies in the affirmative, a supplementary question is suggested as follows: "Are your savings above or below levy limit?"

Mrs. Cadbury, Candidate.

Mrs. George Cadbury, widow of the famous philanthropist, is working hard as the Liberal candidate in the King's Norton division of Birmingham. The Cadbury family have considerable influence in the district, although naturally on a different plane to the influence exerted by the Chamberlains. Mrs. Cadbury and her supporters won't have it that the prosperity in America is due to protection and ascribe this condition to prohibition. When a lady voter interrupted to ask why Great Britain alone clung to free trade she was told that the country's geographical position was largely responsible for the success of the present fiscal policy. "You pay for what comes in by what you send out and if you exclude things by high tariffs you stop things going out," added the candidate, who admitted that it was a difficult matter to explain. The questioner after his reply probably appreciated the truth of the final remark.

UPTURNED CANOE SYMBOL OF RELEASE IN BOYS' ADVENTURE

Tragedy Has, So Far, Not Shadowed the Path of Tommy Rice and Eddie Martin Faring Forth From Farm — One Joins Militia, Other An Apprentice.

In the ranks of Norwood's "D" Company of the 40th Northumberland Regiment, that marched off down the Hastings Road on Monday morning for nine days' training of the composite regiment in Cobourg, was Tommy Rice.

He was a newly enlisted recruit having been signed on the strength of the company on Sunday afternoon when his companion in adventure, Eddie Martin, was rejected and left behind—also to serve, but only in the way of peace—in the providentially offered job as helper to J. H. Rahal, tinsmith and battery repairer, at Norwood.

This happy trace of the boys' wanderings dispels the anxiety which was caused by the finding of an empty canoe floating bottom upwards on Chemong Lake, in which they had been last seen paddling past the bridge at Gannon's Narrows last Friday.

There are gaps in the brief odyssey of Eddie Martin and Tommy Rice, but the upturned canoe appears in it not as a symbol of tragedy but of release.

Youth to be Served.

For both lads had apparently embarked upon an uncharted journey that was of the essence of the eternal quest of youth.

Probably it was only an urge to escape from the humdrum of farm life that started them, and the canoe, belonging to J. S. Coon, 597 Gilmour Street, at his cottage on Pigeon Lake offered them easy transportation over the first stage of their trip to the beckoning places where men live in towns and cities.

Sunday afternoon in Norwood Mr. Rahal passed two boys. One of them wore a khaki tunic, and because "D" company was preparing for the regimental mobilization in Cobourg, Mr. Rahal casually remarked, "Off to camp?"

"No! Where?" answered Rice, the older boy, whose faded tunic had inspired the question.

Mr. Rahal briefly explained that the Norwood company was mustering for camp, and both youths quickened their steps as they set off for the armoury.

Pals are Parted.

And there they were parted, for Martin, who is 17 years old, was turned down by the officer, and some how drifted back to Mr. Rahal, who needed a helper in his tinsmith shop, and put the boy to work on Monday morning.

"I asked Eddie if there were any strings on him," his benefactor told the Examiner last night. "I didn't want to hire him if he belonged to the Children's Aid Society, or any other institution. He seemed truthful, and I rather liked the boy. Anyway I wasn't going to see him go cold and hungry. He told me he was getting only $20 a year and his board and clothes wheer he had been working. No wonder he ran away. He seems to like his work with me, and I am quite satisfied to keep him, but I want to be sure everything is all right."

Tommy (Atkins) Rice.

So while Private Rice has been drilling and marching with the 40th Northumberland Regiment, Eddie Martin is by way of becoming a tinsmith in perhaps a loose apprenticeship to the man who promptly befriended him when the first glitter of the lure of adventure along the broad highway had been rubbed off by the pressing necessities of mere existence.

TIRED, NERVOUS MOTHERS are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and wears upon the husband and often ruins a child's disposition. This condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 98 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ills are helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.

SHIPPING FIRM FINED.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., November 23 (Canadian Press Cable). — A shipping firm here has been fined £800 for permitting the landing of eight Chinese.

She gets relief from DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN And so do the children

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Young children cry because of it; school children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 28 per cent. Clara M. Smith, Big Valley, Alberta, recommends Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for all, and especially for children and old folks; Mrs. Bettles, 8 Napanee St., Toronto, keeps it always in the house for family use.

Largest Selling Laxative

Every up-to-date family medicine chest should contain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and palatable aromatics, a prescription written 30 years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who practiced medicine 47 years. You can buy a bottle in any store where medicines are sold, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

We guarantee that if you will give Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to a child or for a few nights to an adult it will relieve any case of constipation no matter how chronic, or your money will be refunded.

10 Million Bottles a Year

Use it once and you will never again take coal-tar drugs in candy form, calomel or salts. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable laxative free from opiates and narcotics. It can be safely given to infants, yet it effectively moves the bowels of adults. It acts gently; does not cramp or gripe Keep it in the house and use it for any indication of bowel obstruction such as constipation, biliousness, torpid liver, dyspepsia, pimples and like skin eruptions. Give it early and it will break up a fever or a cold overnight. A spoonful proves it.

come of me now, Mrs. Gilleo?"

Friends of the family have discovered that the two women are living in the cottage together and Mrs. Gilleo's mother has issued an ultimatum that Josephiune must go.

"Never mind, no matter if you must go, if mother insists, I'll see you will be all right," Mrs. Gilleo said soothingly and shook her head at the family interference with her plans.

Debonair as Ever.

Mrs. Gilleo, as a girl, was well known in Grand Rapids social circles. Josephine's parents live at Highland Hills, a suburb of this city, and own the Werner Machine Co.

"I've tried to do the best I could and be square with everybody, even Avery. Now I've stopped being square with anybody but the two of us," Mrs. Gilleo said. "I took this court action to prevent any tragedy. Now everybody hounds me for my act."

As for Gilleo he is as debonair and handsome as ever since his release from jail.

He has denied the entire proceedings through his attorney, and left for Grand Haven last night.

"We are going to fight this thing to the finish," his attorney said. "It is just a frame-up on Avery."

EMILY FACTORY CLOSES SEASON

G. A. Gillespie Addressed Patrons of Cheese Factory at Business Meeting.

EAST EMILY, Nov. 23.—The patrons of East Emily cheese factory held a business meeting in the factory on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of winding up the business for this season. Mr. G. A. Gillespie of Peterboro addressed the meeting with great interest.

The Orange Lodge No. 294 of East Emily are holding a goose supper in the basement of Bethel church on Wednesday evening, November 28.

The anniversary services will be held in Bethel church on Sunday, November 25. Rev. Mr. Rowland of Omemee will conduct the service morning and evening.

Brooks—Franks.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at 3.30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, November 21 at St. James' Anglican Church, East Emily, when Marjorie, youngest daugther of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Franks, of East Emily, was united in the hold bonds of matrimony to Lowery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brooks of Omemee. Rev. Mr. Weir of Omemee conducted the service

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with white streamers and evergreens.

The bride entering the church on the arm of her father, looked charming in a navy blue suit heavily embroidered, and grey silk velvet hat, grey suede shoes and carried a corsage boquet of Ophelia roses and maiden hair fern. Miss Margaret Deyell, cousin of the bride played the wedding march and looked very pretty dressed in sand colored canton crepe.

The young couple were unattended.

The bride was the recipient of many and costly gifts, showing the high esteem in which she was held in this community.

The young couple leit the church amid showers of confetti, rice and good wishes, on their honeymoon to Toronto and points west. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Brooks will reside in Omemee.

LAKEFIELD MAN GETS SENTENCE

Indeterminate Period in Ontario Reformatory For William Webb.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 23.—Self-convicted of seven charges of theft and burglary, William Webb was sentenced by Magistrate Langley here yesterday to the Ontario Reformatory for a term of not less than six months and not more than two years less one day.

In Peterborough Webb had pleaded guilty to six of the charges, and yesterday when the seventh was read to him he was asked whether he pleaded guilty to it also.

"All right," he blandly acquiesced. thereby acknowledging that he had broken into Brown's canoe factory on September 30 and had stolen a carpenter's chisel belonging to Alexander MacDonald.

The indeterminate sentence was imposed for this offense, and included the penalties for the other six, running concurrently. The maximum imprisonment in some of these cases ranged from three to fourteen years.

A ROMAN FETE RECEPTION BY CANDLE LIGHT

An Electric Storm Threw Quirinal Palace Into Darkness During the Presentation of Spanish Royalty.

A LATIN UNION.

ROME, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—A violent thunderstorm accompanied by torrential rain, which began Wednesday night and continued to yesterday morning, caused the electric lights to go out during the gala reception at the Quirinal Palace Wednesday evening. It was necessary to continue the presentations to the Spanish sovereigns under candle light.

Numerous houses and schools were flooded during the storm. A bolt of lightning struck a large barn in the outskirts of the city, splitting it wide open and setting fire to its contents.

Strict secrecy is being maintained regarding the conversations proceeding between the Italian and Spanish sovereigns during the latter's visit here, and also between Premier Mussolini and the Spanish Military Dictator, General Primo Rivera.

An Italo-Spanish understanding is widely and sympathetically spoken of in all circles, but nothing positive is known as to any steps in this direction. The assertion is everywhere made, however, that a closer union between the two countries, giving promise of vast and fruitful consequences, is imminent, together with a friendly understanding for the commercial and intellectual development of the Latin-American nations.

FAST TIME MADE YET BY OLDEST WARSHIP

ANCON, CANAL ZONE (United Press).—Thirty years ago the armored cruised New York was commissioned. The headlines of the New York papers states that she was the "Queens of the Seas," "Rival of the Wind," that she ran at "a racehorse clip" and that she "broke all records." The accounts stated that the New York made the record speed of 21.07 knots and described the carrier pigeon service and other wonders of another generation.

The other day, thirty years later, the old New York, now the U.S.S. Rochester, steamed out to make a speed run rehearsing for night battle practice, and within thirty minutes after starting worked up to a fraction uader 18 knots under natural draft. In spite of the fact that she is now the oldest commissioned war vessel in the world, the Rochester is giving splendid service as flagship of the special service squadron.

The varied duty performed by the Rochester included the Santiago campaign as Admiral Sampson's flagship, an extended cruise in the Orient after the Spanish war, and continuous active service during the world war as escort for the troop ships going to Europe.

BRAZIL NEEDS MEN TO WORK FARMS.

Coffee Planters Scored For Short - Sightedness — 300,000 Farmers Needed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 23 — (United Press.)— Coffee planters of Sao Paulo, the world's richest coffee State, who think railway expansion in the State is detrimental to the coffee-growing industry, for it deprives old plantations of labor, are scored by Wileman's Brazilian Review, principal English trade journal published here, as having ideas "as narrow-minded as their knowledge of economics."

"Coffee planters," Wileman's Review adds, "apparently see only as far as the end of their noses; in other words, in terms of coffee only."

This British journal does not doubt that the shortage of labor is a serious question for the coffee planters, but thinks the labor problem is easy to solve if only proper measures are put in force to encourage immigration to Brazil. Concerning this serious problem faced by the planters, Wileman's Review remarks:

"The Government of the State of Sao Paulo has a fine immigration service, but there is something lacking, for it has not been sufficiently attractive to European agricultural labor to give this country preference. Argentina appears to have solved the problem and is, therefore, in a better position to encourage immigration. There is no doubt that something must be done in this country to obtain 200,000 or 300,000 immigrants to avoid a crisis in agricultural production.

"The labor problem is partly the outcome of too rapid expansion of national manufacturing industries, which have encouraged thousands of agricultural laborers to look back for employment in the cities."

LOS ANGELES IS TAKING ON AIRS.

Alfalfa Grows in Suburb of the Town.

LO SANGELES, Nov. 23.—(United Press.)—Los Angeles is fast rivalling New York and Chicago in the matter of assuming a superior metropolitan attitude toward other parts of the world.

Just as the New Yorker speaks condescendingly of Hoboken, 'Joisy' City and 'Up-State,' and only longs for a sight of them when he is in some far distant part of the country, so Los Angeles citizens are becoming very superior toward the outlying territory.

now referred to by the citizens as "the metropolitan area." The rest of the 370 square miles is the incorporated city, which is frequently referred to as the "rural area" because the alfalfa is very luxurious, is referred to as "the suburb" or the "outlying city districts." In San Diego a similar terrtiory is more frankly termed "the back country."

All of the twenty or more cities within 50 or 60 miles radius of Los Angeles, and ranging in population from 10,000 to 100,000, are generally referred to as "country towns."

The people from out of town who flock into Los Angeles so liberally to see the sights of the big city are being referred to as "the peasantry."

THE PEACE LEAGUE TO FROWN ON OBSCENITIES

Treaty Will Be Made Effective in March Next.

GENEVA, Nov. 23. — (United Press).—The League of Nations has decided to hold open for signature until March 31, 1924, its new international treaty suppressing the traffic in obscene literature.

On that date the treaty will be made effective in all the States that have adhered to it, although it will still be possible for States that have not signed up or ratified it to do so later.

Owing to the fact that the United States had an official delegation present at Geneva during the drawing up of the treaty it is expected that the United States will eventually be one of the signatories, thus making the treaty effective in practically the entire world.

To date a total of thirty-five States have already adhered to the convention, the principal ones being Albania, Austria, Belgium, England, China, Colombia, Czechko-Slovakia, France, Greece, Hungary, India, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Holland, Persia, Poland, Serbia, Siam, Spain, Switzerland, Uruguay, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Haiti, Honduras, Luxemburg and New Zealand.

The treaty covers the suppression of the traffic in obscene writings, drawings, prints, paintings, printed matter, pictures, posters, emblems, photographs, moving pictures and obscene objects generally, and the penalties to be imposed will be inflicted not only on people who produce such matter, but on anyone who circulates such things either privately or publicly, or who sends out advertisements seeking to build up trade in such publications.

Owing to the great difference of opinion, customs and tradition as to what constitutes "obscene" matter in different countries, each country is left free for itself to decide what constitutes a violation of the treaty as far as its own territory is concerned.

FARMERS IN THE SOUTH NEED HELP.

There, Thousands of Acres of Rich Soil Has Never Been Touched By the Ploughshare.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23 (United Press).—The Forestry, Reclamation and Home-Making Conference to be held at the Hotel Roosevelt here Nov. 19 to 22, for the purpose of creating more self-supporting farm homes in the United States and especially in the South, where thousands and thousands of acres of rich cut-over lands have never been touched by the ploughshare, is expected to attract people from all over the country.

The Southern Pine Association, Mississippi and Florida Development Boards and the New Orleans Association of Commerce, sponsors of the meeting, have received hundreds of acceptances of prominent men to invitations. Among the acceptances are from governors, cabinet members, prominent national lawmakers and experts on land utilization and settlement.

The conference does not contemplate establishing new "ready to occupy farms," but is planning to organize for the purpose of encouraging rural life, making farm life more attractive and advising farmers, especially new arrivals, as to the best crops suited for certain locations. The gradual development of cut-over and waste lands is also contemplated by the "Home-Makers," as well as the encouragement of reforestation.

Among the prominent speakers expected to be on hand for the conference are Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, John H. Kirby of Houston, Texas, president of the Pine Association; Clement S. Ucker of Baltimore, president of the Southern Settlement and Development Organization; Congressman Addison T. Smith of Idaho, Congressman W. B. Bankhead of Alabama, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Senators Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Pat Harrison of Mississippi; Louis S. Murphy, economist, United States Forestry Service, and E. A. Sherman, associate forester of the United States.

Representatives, including congressmen, senators and governors, as well as forestry experts and agriculturists from most of the Western and Southeastern States, have also announced their intention to attend the meeting.

Governor John M. Barker of Louisiana and Mayor McShane of New Orleans are scheduled to welcome the delegates, who are expected to number more than a thousand.

THEDA BARA WILL VAMP ON SCREEN.

Has the Contract Paving Way For Her Comeback.

(By ROBERT A. DONALDSON)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23 (United Press).—"Backward, Lackward, oh, time in thy flight—make me a vamp again, just for tonight!"

Theda Bara, the vamp of vamps, who made vamping an art possible for almost any girl to acquire through her masterful and painstaking picturization on the screen of just how it was done, is coming back.

Age, Theda Bara holds, doesn't make a bit of difference in this vamp business as long as one can get a contract and doesn't pick up too much weight.

Theda has the contract. It's with B. P. Fineman, who produces for Principal Pictures. Her vamping will be done under the direction of Tod Browning, ex-Goldwyn director.

Put Vamping on Map

Theda is the girl who some years ago put vamping squarely on the map. At that time she was supposed to have an Egyptian and Arab touch in her blood that made her "hot stuff."

Anyway, that line went big. And even yet very few people know that Theda hails from Cincinnati or some such Oriental place, and that Theda Bara isn't her real name at all, but an arostic on the words "Arab Death." The wonderful story of her mystic Oriental past was the by-product of a fertile publicity man's brain. She may have been to Egypt since and learned some vamping technique, but in any event, if she has been there it's been since she went out of the spotlight on the silver screen, and not before.

Just to make matters all the more homey and give a "just folks" atmosphere to the business, she's the wife of Charles Brabin, Goldwyn movie director. And Brabin is opposed to her going back into this vamping business for the films.

Brabin set his foot down on the last attempt of his wife to break away from the domestic hearth when she arrived in Hollywood some months ago, and Theda went back East quite disappointed.

Husband in Europe

But Brabin recently sailed for Europe to make "Ben Hur" in Rome for Goldwyn's. And coincident with his sailing, Theda came right out to Hollywood and signed up to vamp for B. P. Fineman.

Skeptical critics, several of them women and hence having an eagle eye for details which might not be noted by the male interviewer, went to meet her at the train on her arrival. And all of them came away enthusiastic and convinced that Theda still has a few more years of screen amping before her. She appeared youthful as ever, and had not picked up weight, they reported.

MARRIED 14 TIMES SHE IS GOOD COOK.

Tried Matrimony With One Man Three Times—Once Enough With Others.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 23 (United Press).—Mrs. Cora La Forge, 43, famous in these parts as a cook, is living here happily with her fourteenth husband.

She has been married fourteen times since the age of 14. One marriage was annulled, the other twelve severed by divorces. She has been married to twelve different men, one man, Albert Lilley, having tried to make a success of matrimony with her three times.

Henry La Forge is her present husband. She met him in August, just after she separated from Alexander Yates. She went with him steadily for two months, for her experience has taught her to become well acquainted with a man before marrying him. They were married late in October, two days after "Mrs. Yates" got her divorce.

All of her divorces were secured in St. Clair County. She formerly conducted a boarding house here so successfully that men swarmed to get in on her cooking.

Mrs. La Forge, who originally was Miss Cora Walker, at the age of 14 married Joseph Truxler, a farm hand (when he worked), but the girl-wife was forced to eke out the living by working in the berry fields, she told the judge.

Her names, by marriages, consecutively, were Truxler, Joyce, Barnes, Butcher, Crow, Whitney, Riley, Porter, Lilley, Swanson, Lilley, Lilley, Yates and La Forge.

A Few Experiments

The second husband was divorced after he had been given a jail sentence for stealing a pig. John Whitney was divorced because he had an ungovernable temper, which he showed by chasing her daughter by a previous marriage around a cornfield with a shotgun.

Sherman Porter was next, but he went the way of his predecessors when he lost money his wife earned in running a rooming house in horse trading. There was something of a sense of humor about Porter, for it is said that he wrote his former spouse a note of sympathy after one of her subsequent divorces. Albert Lilley was the next, but he left town when Porter threatened action because they hadn't waited long enough. This marriage was annulled.

Lilley didn't return when the legal period was up and William Swanson made the trip to the altar. When Swanson was divorced, Lilley became the next husband, however, in due course of time Lilley was divorced, but effected a reconciliation and married her for the third time, and was again divorced.

Mrs. La Forge got her last matrimonial liberty bond when the court divorced her from Alexander Yates. Her wedding with La Forge brings the tale up to date.

The undisputed marriage-and-divorce champion is keeping house. She says she doesn't care if her husband is a Catholic and she isn't; that he says that one can feel and act religious without a lot of fuss about it, and that that's all that makes any difference.

MODERN AUTHORS ARE MONEY MAD.

London Countess Says Writers Are Commercial — Pats Americans on Back.

LOS ANGELES, November 23 (United Press). — Modern authors were charged with commercialism by Countess Berita de Montaive of London, traveller, authoress, poet, musician, painter, linguist, inventor, and diamond mine operator, who with her husband, Albert I. Barnett, visited here.

"Authors to-day have money on the brain and, because they know that sensational reading matter goes bigger than normal books, they clutter up their pages—and also the minds of their readers—with foolish, untrue views on life.

"A love affair in China or Venice or Mesopotamia or Hollywood is just the same as a love affair in Halstead Street in Chicago. But the average writer to-day will daub his pages with colourful flights of imagination which, in the end, leaves a great many disillusions in the minds of the readers.

"Too many historians are romancers and too many romancers are historians; and, because this condition exists, the average reader grows up with a distorted view of life," said the countess.

Dress of the American women has charmed the countess, who has spent nearly all her life in travelling.

"I should think the average English woman would hide her head in mortification when she visits this country," se declared. "It is the greatest surprise I have had on a journey—this finding American women of the Far West such splendid dressers — such lovely looking women.

"I notice also that one automatically feels at home among Americans. There is some sort of friendliness here that is sadly lacking among the English. It seems in America that everyone is scarcely able to refrain from slapping you on the back and saying: 'Hello, there, old top! How's tricks?'"

Fluffy Ruffles Lemon Pie from Washington, D. C.

(Mrs. S. M. S., a Capital hostess famous for her hospitality, sends us this recipe)

CUSTARD

3 eggs
½ cupful sugar
Juice and grated rind of 1 large lemon (or 2 small ones)
4 tablespoonfuls boiling water

CRUST

1 cupful flour
½ cupful Crisco
½ teaspoonful salt
3 scant tablespoonfuls hot water

Beat egg yolks light with sugar, add lemon and boiling water and cook in small double boiler until thick and creamy, stirring constantly. While this is cooling make crust. Mix flour, Crisco and salt thoroughly (rub together with the hands if possible), then add hot water slowly, mixing with a fork.

Roll dough thin and cover an inverted pie plate, prick with a fork to prevent air bubbles. When crust is baked, beat 3 egg whites very stiff and fold into cooled custard, put into crust and place low under blazer to brown.

REMEMBER OLD BUGGY? WELL, HERE IS RELIC

PHILADELPHIA Nov. 22. — (United Press). — Somewhere between Galveston Texas, and Philadelphia, Pa., a ranchman his wife and three children are headed for home, after "buggying" a year and a half through the United States.

Timothy Waugh with his family, left his home near Galveston in August, 1922, driving a two-seated buggy. They have toured the States and are now ending a belated honeymoon.

"The missus and me was married years and we never got around much till we figured this out," Waugh explained as he passed through Philadelphia. "We have seen the country and have called the trip our honeymoon."

"Black," a cow pony, hauls the buggy, and the Waughs, with their equipment make from ten to twenty miles a day. The buggy has had two sets of new wheels since the trip started.

"We'll get home about June, if the bronc don't put his feet through the wagon. He's an old cow pony and age hasn't softened his disposition none," Waugh said.

CONFERENCE OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S LEAGUE MAY BE LAST CONVENTION OF LONG LINE HALTED BY CHURCH UNION CONSUMMATION

Belleville Was Scene of 15th Bi-ennial Convention of Young People's League of the Bay of Quinte Conference—Meetings Extend Over Thirty Years and This May Co Down to History as the Last

BRILLIANT ADDRESSES WERE FEATURE

The 15th bi-ennial convention ofo the Young People's League of the Bay of Quinte Conference was held in Bridge street Methodist church, Belleville, on October 31st, November 1st and 2nd, with the following officers in charge. Honorary president, Rev. R. A. Whattam, Colborne; Past president, Mr. G. H. Griffin, Belleville; Acting president and 1st vice-president, Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A., Cavan; 2nd vice-president, Miss Estella Heatherington, Millbrook; 3rd vice-president, Rev. A. McLauchlin, B.A., B.D., Keene; 4th vice-president, C. E. McKee, Peterboro; 5th vice-president, M. R. Morden, Belleville; 6th vice-president, Mrs. O. R. Denyes, Belleville; Secretary, E. H. Brown, Port Hope; Treasurer, Rev. F. O. Seymour, Havelock; Registrar, Miss Florence Hall, Colborne; Director of singing, Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., M.R.E., Northport; Accompanist, Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., Camborne.

The pastor of Bridge street Methodist church, Rev. F. E. Malott, who took an active part in convention proceedings, was formerly a popular pastor of Trinity Methodist church in this city.

The conference itself attains a special significance when it is remembered that, on account of impending Church Union, this convention may be the last of a long line of such meetings extending over a period of thirty years.

The first afternoon of the convention was devoted to preliminary activities, with registration of delegates. The conference, whose expressed aim was for 300 delegates, was largely attended, not only by the various leagues within the boundaries of the Conference, but by those outside as well, and there were present several prominent ministers of the church interested in Young People's work. There was on view, during the sessions, a collection of missionary curios and league supplies, in charge of Dr. F. C. Stephenson, secretary of the Young People's Forward Movement for Missions.

Evening Session's Addresses

In the evening an address of welcome to the delegates was made by F. E. O'Flynn, of Belleville, acting in the triple capacity of a citizen of Belleville, a Methodist and an officialk of Bridge street church. Mr. O'Flynn extended a cordial welcome to the delegates and referred to the fact tha Belleville was the cradle of Methodism in its section of the country.

Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Colborne, President of the Conference, and Honorary President of the League Conference, replied in an appropriate manner, going on to say: "We are trying to bring our young people back to the Bible, the book of supreme importance, and these young people are in Belleville because they value the Word of God. The coming of these young people to this city means investment of time and energy which will bring harvest."

Rev. R. T. Richards, of Cavan, first vice-president and acting president, presided at the evening meeting, which was featured by addresses by Rev. F. Langford, B.A., M.R.E., of Toronto, General Secretary of Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies of the Methodist Church, and by Dr. F. C. Stephenson, of Toronto, Secretary of the Young People's Forward Movement for Missions.

Need for Young People's Work

Rev. Mr. Langford stated that the church today stood in need of young people's work. Replying to the question: "Is the Church Safe?" he said "there is a serious chance that it is not if the young people do not take up the work." He declared that Christianity could save the world, but the duty devolved on the church and the young life of the church in particular, and implored the young people to be loyal to the church and the work of the Master.

Dr. Stephenson, in an unaffected, conversational talk, said: "Look after the awkward squad. It is on the street corner in every city and town, and in every backwoods place. Every spot has these young men. I have a sympathetic interest in them."

Dr. Stephenson referred to memories of Bridge st.eet church that were dear to him. As a young man and student at Albert College, he had been made welcome there and today he found that the same spirit of welcome and of desire to make a stranger feel at home, prevailed.

Holloway street Methodist church League staged a social hour for the delegates after the business session, when music and readings made up the programme.

Thursday Morning

The second day, Thursday, November 1st, presided over by Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A., of Cavan, during the day and by Rev. D. C. Ramsay, pastor of John street Presbyterian church, Belleville, during the evening, opened with a period of Bible study, conducted by Rev. H. B. Kenny, pastor of the Tabernacle Methodist church, Belleville. Mr. Kenny's subject was "The Enthusiastic Mind of God in Quest of Man," and the speaker went on to portray the enthusiasm of God as exemplified in the quickening of the spiritual life in man. God is in search of man, and Christ fulfilled in His life on earth all the ideas of enthusiasm in the mind of God. The speaker appealed for enthusiasm in the young people of the church.

The subject of the address which followed, that of Rev. R. T. Richards of Cavan, acting president, was concentration and consecration, Mr. Richards emphasizing the necessity for both of these important factors, and their aptitude as mottoes for young people engaged in church work.

The secretary, Mr. E. H. Brown, of Port Hope, presented a voluminous report relative to the work in his department since the last biennial convention in Peterboro in 1921. He referred to the fact that the late C. P. Holton, of Belleville, was the first president of the organization when it was instituted in 1895, and that his son, H. Holton, is at the present time president of the Bridge street church league. There w this conference 155 societies with a membership of 5,191. Forty-nine societies had not reported any membership, but an average of 10 members to each was struck. Eleven out of the twelve districts in the conference are well organized, all of these eleven districts holding annual conventions.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the acting president and the secretary, and business committees for the convention were appointed.

The New Constitution

Rev. Frank Langford, B.A., M. R.E., of Toronto, General Secretary of Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies of the Methodist church, spoke on "Our New Constitution," outlining some articles in the new constitution which has been adopted, the objects of which are to bring young people into conscious fellowship with God through Christ and to train them to live and to serve effectively as members of the Kingdom of God. The constitution also explicitly sets forth the composition of the Council and its officers.

Afternoon Meeting

At the afternoon session, a roll call by districts showed a good representation within the bounds of the conference. An attendance of 172 delegates was recorded. Napanee district led with 31 delegates. The number by districts was as follows: Belleville, 14; Napanee, 31; Picton, 22; Brighton, 14; Cobourg, 26; Bowmanville, 17; Whitby, 5; Cannington, 17; Lindsay, 5; Peterboro, 5; Campbellford, 15; Madoc, 11.

During the worship period, Rev. Jas. Beckell, Conference secretary of Religious Education, spoke on the District Young People's League. The address was chiefly on business lines, to be carried out by the leagues of the Conference. All local leagues should be visited by Conference officers, and an interchange of ideas on League work encouraged. The missionary should be supported in every important matter, and all Leaguers should do their best to assist in putting across the aims and objects of the League.

The Weak Link

"The Place of Worship in the Young People's Meetings," was the subject of the address in the section headed "The Christian Fellowship Department," the speaker being Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., M.R.E., of Northport.

"The people we come in contact with and ourselves constitute a chain, which is only as strong as its weakest link," declared Mr. Rickard. "God desires that this chain shall be strong for His service." We must look up to the Saviour in order to be able to lift ourselves up and others with us. Religious awakening is a necessity, and our prayers and hymns should be inspirations for worship in the proper spirit.

A young person should conduct the service in a young people's society, and the programme should be prepared before the service. A change in leadership, also variety in the programme, is a necessity. All present should participate.

Rev. J. W. Baird, B.A., of Port Hope, spoke on "The Relationship of the Christian Fellowship Department to the Actual Life of the Leaguers." The Christian Fellowship department, declared the speaker, should have for its ultimate purpose the development of a spirit of service. The furtherance of God's kingdom depends largely on constant communion with God. A quiet hour daily should be set apart for communion with God. The world will never be won for Christ by ministers alone, but by a united church, young and old alike, doing God's work. Christ has no hands in the world today to carry out His work, but ours. A serious question for the young people to ask themselves is "Has God the whole of us for His service?" Rev. Mr. Baird concluded his address with a most earnest appeal to young people to help save those who are not yet saved.

Key to National Success

An address on "The Christian Citizenship Department," was given by Rev. A. McLauchlin, B.A., B.D., of Keene, who said there was no department in the League more important than that of Christian Citizenship. Good citizenship is the key to national success, and this department developed good citizenship. "We sometimes wonder if we are worthy of the heritage that has been handed down to us in this country," said the speaker. "To the U. E. Loyalists we owe much of the privileges we enjoy today. Can we dare to dishonor their memory? Nature has been good to Canada and bestowed on it untold wealth. Good citizens are necessary to make this a greater and more progressive country, and we need young people who are educated in the highest ideals of good citizenship, to make Canada a country of great power and influence for good."

The Missionary Department period was in charge of Rev. Roy McWilliams, B.A., B.D., of Kanazawa, Japan. Mr. McWilliams declared that the Japanese people, as a general rule, do not welcome Christianity, because of the reason that they do not agree with much of the propaganda with which they come in contact. The Japanese, he added, are exceedingly anxious to have intercourse with foreign countries, but become suspicious of some of the traders and some of the missionaries, feeling that the latter are not an adjunct to foreign trade. In 1865, on March 15th, fifteen Christians presented themselves in Japan, but were banished from the country The cry was, "drive out the Barbarians, honor the Emperor." In a number of years only ten Japanese became Christians, but in 1873, things changed, liberty of conscience prevailed, and the ban on Christianity was removed. Men in authority in Japan now say that Christianity alone can solve some of the problems of the country. Even today Japanese are asking the age-old question: "Art thou the Christ or shall we look for another?" There was, however, a brighter day dawning for Japan and Christianity.

The remainder of the afternoon session was taken up in conference groups, spoken to by district officers and others. Rev. Mr. Langford, of Toronto, spoke to the rural groups, and Rev. F. E. Malott, of Belleville, to the urban groups.

Prof. McFayden's Address

The evening session represented a large Union Rally of Presbyterian young people of Belleville and the district with convention delegates. The chief speaker was Rev. Prof. J. F. McFayden, of Queen's University, Kingston, representing the Presbyterian church, the keynote of whose speech was the declaration that Presbyterians and Methodists should be united for Christian work. Rev. Dr. Baker led in prayer and appropriate music was rendered by the choir of the church.

"Might we not catch some of the enthusiasm of the votaries of sport?" asked Prof. McFayden, who spoke on "A Young Man Running," and emphasized particularly the essential of taking one's job seriously. "We are all in earnest but the question is, are we earnest for the right thing? We should be earnest about our daily work. Do we put into it mental and physical labour? Cannot we put into the service of the Lord also some of the enthusiasm that is put into sport?

We sometimes wonder how much time our Lord put into the preparation of His work. Take any modern test book on preaching. You will find that Jesus was employing these same methods in His work.

"Where did He learn to be the Prince of story-tellers? I believe the secret lies in His long years of preparation. God Himself had been preparing the world for the coming of His Christ." "Why do we never read of Paul or Peter learning foreign languages in preparation for their work? It was not necessary. God had so prepared that Greek should be spoken throughout the known world in every large city. The Gospel could not have spread if it had not had the convenience of a universal language, good Roman roads and Roman laws. That was God's preparation for Christ. Surely we should make some preparation for our work for God.

"Why does not the New Testament tell us something about art, policies, industry. It does not despise them, but the writers of the Testament said instinctively—"These things are not our business. Our duty is to bring men to God through Christ."

"I know there are members in the church who should not be there. I know there are offerings which are not sacrificial. I know there are members who are not fighting the battle of the Cross, the members who on Sunday say: "Well, shall I go to church today or go for a car ride?" But these are not the members. Yes, the church has its faults. But can you show me any one other organization recognizing the brotherhood of men and the Fatherhood of God, seeking to bring peace and make this world God's? I know of no other. If you wish to criticize the church, criticize it from the inside as a member."

Rev. Frank Langford

An address on "Young People and the Program of Jesus," was also given at the evening session, by Rev. Frank Langford, B.A., M.R.E., of Toronto. "The Kingdom of God is the will of God in men's hearts. It is the program of Jesus that all the world should be in the Kingdom of God. A brotherhood of the whole human race is the desire of Christ. This is the idea of the family of God, not the Old Testament conception of a far-off divinity. It is basic in its insistence on the inalienable rights of the individual. Christ through all His ministry emphasized the rights of the individual, insisting that everyone had a right to the Fatherhood of God. That involves the Brotherhood of Man, perhaps the most difficult of all to follow in this world of antagonisms, wars, camps of thought. The only test Christ ever made of a Christian was his love for his fellows. That is the test for warring nations also. Petty jealousies should be discarded. In Japan difficulty is encountered by the missionaries, owing to the fact that the natives cannot understand why Christian nations go to war. It is a fact that today there are more men under arms in Europe than before the great war, which it was thought would end all wars. The young people should be true to the life of love, though it may mean sacrifices."

The Referendum

Later, Mr. Langford warned the churches to be prepared for a referendum on the liquor question.

"We people in Ontario may face a referendum on the temperance issue next year," he declared. "I feel we must be ready. One of the things we must do is to get every church and league rounded up to the importance of the fight. There are many young people who will vote at the referendum for the first time and they may scarcely remember what the open war was like. But we older ones knew its evil."

Mr. Langford cited figures from Toronto police reports to show reduction in the number of cases of drunkenness and in crimes arising out of drunkenness since Prohibition came into effect. "All crime is reduced in a parallel line with the restriction of the liquor traffic," he remarked.

Other speakers referred to the fact that the liquor interests were wide awake and ready to seize advantage.

In the course of the addresses in the Citizenship Department of the League, it was brought out by speakers that "we know we cannot make good citizens by force. Force cannot create anything durable. One of the most potent forces for our work is the league of young people.

"The O.T.A. is not a failure. The whole life has been improved, children have better surroundings, savings of the people are multiplied, jail populations are decreased and the streets are more sacred."

As against these good reports comes the tale of Government control in British Columbia, where sales of liquor have gone up five thousand per cent. police administration seventy per cent., jail populations two hundred per cent., and taxes fifty per cent. "Control does not control," said one.

The brilliance of the Indian mind was brought to the attention of the League Conference by Rev. Mr. McLauchlin, when speaking of home missions. With the coming of equal opportunities in social and educational spheres, the Reserve problems are disappearing in Canada. There is a constant seepage of Indians among the white population.

"I commend to your attention the backward communities," said Mr. McLaughlin, speaking of the interest he found in the retrograde sections of the country.

ONTARIO BETTER OFF THAN OLD COUNTRIES

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—If wealth is matter of comparison, Canada, particularly Ontario, should feel decidedly prosperous. J. W. Dafoe, editor of the Manitoba Free Press, who was in Toronto yesterday on his way back to Winnipeg from the Old Country, in an interview, compared the economic conditions at home and abroad much to the advantage of the Dominion. "You in Ontario should feel extremely thankful," he stated.

Mr. Dafoe, who attended the Imperial Conference, was depressed with the outlook in Great Britain and France. What the outcome would be, he was loathe to predict. Doubt and pessimism were walking hand in hand.

Regarding the political outlook in Britain Mr. Dafoe expressed the opinion that the election would result in stalemate. There seemed to be a general feeling that, once more united, the Liberals would make considerable gains at the expense of the Government.

Chilblains & Frost-Bite

Miss Lefard, Beaverdale, Ont., writes:—"Every winter I suffered agonies from chilblains. Nothing gave ease until I got Zam-Buk. This splendid healer completely rid me of the trouble. Zam-Buk is equally good for chaps, cuts, burns, scalds, etc. Keep Zam-Buk always handy. 50c. box.

AS a remedy for those most troublesome of Winter skin afflictions, chilblains and "frost-bites," Zam-Buk is speedily effective. It takes out inflammation and reduces swelling in a wonderful way and soothes the fiery tingling irritation.

Where the chilblains are broken and have a raw ulcerated surface, Zam-Buk is doubly valuable because of its great healing power. Its pain-killing efficiency and its fine antiseptic properties place Zam-Buk far above ordinary ointments.

CONFERENCE OF YOUNG

benediction by Rev. F. E. Malott.

The Last Day

On Friday, November 2nd, the closing day of the convention, there were three sessions, the formal closing taking place in the evening, and marked by an address made by J. O. McCarthy, ex-controller, of Toronto. An address on "The Bible as Literature," was given by Prof. S. T. Maine, of Albert College, at the morning session.

The morning worship period and Bible study was taken by Rev. W. R. Tanton, of Napanee, who spoke on three points: "Getting to know Jesus, getting to know His programme, and being willing to share in that programme. The speaker enlarged on these sections, and expained upon the young people especially their duty in helping on God's work on earth.

The work of the intermediate department was divided into separate sections for young men and women. The Young Women's section was taken by Miss N. Yeomans, of Toronto, Girls' Work Secretary of the Ontario Religious Education Council, who outlined the relation of the young people of various church societies to the C.G.I.T. and voiced a definite programme of religious education for girls of from 12 to 17 years of age, as the chief objective of the Canadian Girls in Training groups.

The Young Men's department was in charge of Mr. Ralph Morden, Boys' Work Secretary of the Belleville Y.M.C.A., and fifth vice-president of the convention. Mr. Morden referred to the relationship of the vice-president to the Canadian Standard Efficiency Test programme and to the help to be given by officers as assistant to the superintendent in carrying out such a programme.

A vote of thanks was voted during the morning session to Rev. F. J. Horwood, of Cambourne, for his services as organist during the convention.

Prof. Maine Inspiring

"The Bible as Literature," was the title of an address given in the section devoted to the Literary and Recreation Department by Prof. S. T. Maine, of Albert College, Belleville, in one of the most thoughtful and inspiring addresses of the entire convention.

"The Bible is not what its name implies, a book. It is in reality a library of sixty-six books, written by scores, possibly hundreds of men, over a period of over a thousand years. It contains all classes of literature.

"Neither is the Bible a series of texts, as some may think. It is a library that has been written out of the experience of a people progressively working toward a knowledge of God.

"The Bible is not verbally inspired. It is not infallible. It is the product of the growing, expanding life of a nation. It is the one plan of life."

Imagination in Bible study, the speaker claimed, was not a danger. He related the story of the Bible, from the separated manuscripts in various parts of the world, to the time of the translation into Latin in the Vulgate, still in use in the Roman Church. He reviewed Alfred's version, Wycliffe's version in England's common tongue, which caused critics to say it was throwing the pearls of the Gospel before the swine of laymen and women, but which was so beloved that men paid a load of hay to have a chance to read the book for a few hours; Tyndall's version, the King James version and the various recent revisions. He related also the romance of discovery of new manuscripts in the nineteenth century.

Prof. Maine gave some attention to the types of literature in the Bible: Prophecy, wisdom, literature, history, devotional, epistolary and apocalyptic.

"If you want the most romantic of books, the most inspiring of all history, make the Bible your friend and master it. The Bible is the adventure of a great people, exploring the realm of God."

Election of Officers

The afternoon session was marked by the election of officers for the ensuing year, the elections resulting as follows:

President, E. H. Brown, Fort Hope; 1st vice-president (Christian Fellowship), Ralph Morden, Belleville; 2nd vice-president (Missionary), Miss Estelle Heatherington, Millbrook; 3rd vice-president (Citizenship), Ellis Snelgrove, Cambourne; 4th vice-president (Literary and Social), Rev. W. J. H. Smyth, M.A., Seabright; 5th vice-president (Intermediate League), Rev. R. H. Rickard, B.A., M.R.E., Northport; 6th vice-president (Junior League), Mrs. (Rev.) E. B. Cook, Newcastle; secretary, Rev. A. McLauchlin, B.A., B.D., Keene; treasurer, Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., Cambourne.

Resolutions Brought In

The chairman of the Resolution Committee, Rev. W. W. Jones, read seven important resolutions, as follows:

"We recommend that this biennial convention, through its executive, heartily co-operate with similar bodies of the Central Conferences, Young People's Leagues and the officers of the General Board in promoting and in holding a young people's rally at such a time and place deemed most suitable.

"That in the judgment of this Convention it would be in the interests of the young people's work of the Bay of Quinte Conference to arrange a series of district debates the winning district to have some suitable reward, such as a shield or banner. That the executive of the Conference Epworth League be authorized to arrange such series.

"That we as a convention deem that it would be conducive to interest and helpful to our young people to arrange an oratorical contest for the next biennial convention each district being allowed to have one representative and some suitable emblem being the reward for such successful participant.

"We, the young people of the Bay of Quinte Conference, meeting in the city of Belleville at our biennial convention, representing the young people of the Methodist Church from South Ontario on the west to Addington on the east and from the lake front south to North Victoria and Peterborough on the north, wish to place ourselves on record as being heartily in sympathy with the Government of Ontario in its vigorous enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act through its efficient Attorney-General, the Honorable W. F. Nickle, and as feeling, in so much as so many referendums have been taken in Ontario with such large majorities in favor of prohibition, that until a sufficient number of years of fair trial of the present law and until it is established without doubt that now a majority of the citizens desire it, there be no further referendum at the present time.

"That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Premier, and the Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General.

"That whereas the problem of religious education of our young people is a vital one and whereas the summer and winter schools exist solely for the purpose of meeting these fundamental needs and for the purpose of promoting this type of work, be it resolved that this Biennial Convention heartily endorse these institutions and pledge our fullest support to the Winter School at Cobourg from January 14th to 21st, 1924, and the Summer School the date of which shall be announced later.

"In as much as practically all the addresses at this convention, together with its general tone and spirit, tend to force the conclusion that it is impossible to successfully carry on a Young People's League without being Christian Young People, nor is it possible for young people to lead their friends to the Saviour unless they themselves are in conscious fellowship with Jesus Christ, we recommend that the devotional spirit be cherished in all our young people's meetings.

"That the Christian Fellowship Department encourage the observance of private prayer and the re-study of the spirit and the principles of Jesus for personal, spiritual growth and that an Inner Circle be formed in each League for fellowship, prayer and personal work and in this convention the Cycle of Prayer by the Department of Evangelism and Social Service be recommended."

One resolution regarding co-operation with the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in young people's work was referred to the executive.

The present conference of Methodist young people is the last that will be held, it is expected. "I am desperately anxious that the young people of Methodism will come into union one hundred per cent. strong, not that we may impose our organization on the united church, but that we may make full contribution," said Rev. F. Langford, B.A., M.R.E., of Toronto.

At the afternoon session, Miss M. Berkley, of Belleville, gave an excellent address on "Working with Juniors," in connection with the Junior League work. Child work, she stated, was most interesting and it was a necessity to interest juniors in league work. Pastors giving a five-minute talk at the Sunday morning service to children were most helpful in this work. "We can hold the young if we but interest them."

Concluding Session

Previous to the opening of the evening meeting, the concluding session of the Conference, Rev. J. F. Horwood, Mus. Bac., of Cambourne, gave a much-appreciated organ recital, concluding the programme with the "Hallelujah Chorus."

Mr. Grafton, president of the Toronto Y.P.L., brought cordial greetings from the Toronto Convention of Epworth Leaguers and also outlined what the Toronto Conference was doing for League work. He had unbounded faith in the prospects of the young people in league work and religious education, and said that solution for the unrest of the world is in the Christian church. "We need a spiritual vision of ourselves today. The will of God will be done when we will to do it. The challenge of the young people today is to do and serve."

Votes of thanks were tendered to citizens who entertained the delegates; to the pastor and officials of Bridge street church, and to those who had taken part in the programme.

Newly elected officers were installed into office by the Rev. R. A. Whattam, of Colborne, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, assisted by twenty-one ministers on the platform, while one hundred and seventy-five delegates to the convention stood in the aisles and at the front. Rev. Dr. Baker and retiring president, Rev. R. T. Richards took part in the ceremonial.

"You represent the best of the life of the world," Rev. Mr. Whattam told the leaguers. "The religious life is just as important as the intellectual. The atheist is a freak in nature."

Dealing with the present age, Mr. Whattam said the times are unsettled, men are talking in terms of revolution, but there is One Who knows the way through.

Ex-Controller McCarthy on Prohibition.

The evening session was marked by an address given by Ex-Controller J. O. McCarthy, of Toronto, who spoke largely in reference to prohibition.

"The source of all religion is the hunger in the human soul to know eternal things," said Mr. McCarthy. "I have no hope in the tomorrow of the world unless it is in the Christian life underlying. We are changing our religious conceptions; the church can bend its forms to the cry of human need but the foundation stones remain the same. On these is to be built the future of this young nation."

"There is too much tendency to eliminate the supernatural today. Christianity is moving from one chair to another today and our anxiety is that this new chair must be steady, otherwise Christianity will slip.

"Do not fear the changing of forms and conventions. The old world is not on the way to the bow-wows. But keep your faith on the solid rock.

"I know little of theology, but I do know that the promises of God and His power to implement these promises in my life are as real as that hand.

"I have lived my life in the rough and tumble of business. I have seen something of sunshine and shadow. I have gone far down into the shadow that people call the Valley of Death, but I want to tell you that there is a reality in the power of God and you young people will not find it lacking.

"Don't make any mistake about it. You are facing a big job when you face the Christian life, but thank God, it is a manly one. Christianity demands martyrs today. When men of ease and luxury are called to sacrifice, then they will become real Christians. It was never so difficult to be a Christian. The more complex ur modern civilization grows, the more difficult it is to apply the laws of Christ. Today too many people are shouting on the housetops, too few are in the closet in meditation and prayer, and too few in the kitchen."

The Temperance Issue

Turning to the temperance issue, Mr. McCarthy said prohibition was a success, and quoted figures to prove the statement. "One would think to hear some people that every man in Ontario had been in jail for bootlegging or being drunk, every cellar in the province was bursting out with booze, and that every man who went out at night was out drinking behind the backyard fence."

In Ontario in 1914, there were 8,000 convictions for drunkenness, and in 1922 this had been reduced to 3,180. In five Ontario cities in 1914, 79 out of every ten thousand of population were sent to jail for drunkenness, and in 1917 there were 55 out of the same number. But some said, the soldiers were away. Then in 1922 the ratio had been reduced to 30 per ten thousand. "That throws the lie back in their teeth," said the speaker. "The soldier boys of Canada are not booze fighters and bootleggers. They are honest, clean men." (Cheers).

In the old days ninety per cent. of the sermons were on personal salvation, today ninety per cent. are on service. "Today we are not preaching the black coat sermon, a high pedestalled kind of religion, but a red-blooded religion."

As to the strife and turmoil of recent years, he declared that the men who sleep in Flanders Fields died as a result of a mistaken civilization which forced war on the world. This does not detract from the glory of their sacrifice, for they gave their lives. It is no slight task to keep faith with those who sleep in France and Belgium.

Mr. McCarthy expressed his disapproval of the sensational sermon or subject of sermon. He read a list of titles of sermons: "The Poetry of Rupert Brooke," "The Woman who Moves in Society," "The Other Side of the Moon," "A Visit to Ford's Factory," "Tags," "Don't Worry," "Who Will Be the Next Mayor," "Mind Your Own Business," "The Man Who Succeeds," "Should Women Vote?" Such sensationalism, he declared, blurred and obscured the vision of the Christ.

The convention closed with prayer by the retiring president, Rev. R. T. Richards, of Cavanville.

New Summer School Board

The executive of the Summer School of the Bay of Quinte Conference, finding that the school last year in Peterboro was poorly attended, consulted the financial district meetings of the Methodist Church as to future policy. The Quinte Conference almost unanimously voted for continuance with certain recommendations as to the type of work and place. At the Queen's Hotel, twenty-one leading workers of the whole Conference resolved to carry on a school for 1924 under the direction of the Conference Religious Educational Committee of which Rev. J. E. Beckell was president. A new executive was appointed, consisting of Rev. Roy H. Rickard, president; Rev. J. E. Glover, secretary; Rev. A. C. Hie, business manager, and executive E. H. Brown, Rev. R. T. Richards, Rev. W. J. H. Smyth and Rev. J. E. Beckell, ex officers, who will devise the place and personnel of the staff for next year. A resolution of appreciation of the services of Rev. R. T. Richards ex-president, was passed.

The summer school met at one time or another at Twelve O'clock Point, Wellington, Albert College and Peterboro, but it has been found that the summer camps have largely encroached upon their delegations.

THE STEAMER GLENSTRIVER RUN ON ROCKS OFF COVE ID.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Nov. 23.—The steamer Glenstriven, which went aground on Cove Island at the head of Bruce Peninsula, may yet be pulled off the rocks, although it was reported that she had been abandoned. The tug Keenan left Tobermey yesterday for the scene of the wreck in order to make examination as to her condition. Weather is more favorable now for salvaging and lightering operations. The Glenstriven is badly damaged, being almost a total wreck, with holes in the bottom. Deep water is near and boats may approach closely to get off the oats which was the chief part of the cargo.

Fascinating Toilet Articles

When her taste is most decided and you are eager to send the most appropriate present, try the Toiletry Counter. It yielded three suggestions in a very brief quest—the conveniently arranged Flat Vanity Case, $1.25; the decorative Three Flowers Talc and Face Powders, 50c, and unique of color and design.

Toilet Counter, Street Floor.

Lamps Are All Aglow

Never have we had so many artistic Lamps in our Store. Stately Floor Lamps and Taple Lamps of varied and entrancing styles, made with mahogany and walnut stands, and novelty Shades—Silk with floral designs or Georgette with fringe trims. Among the loveliest you will find some with Marble bases that are exceedingly new and handsome. Priced from $1.50 to $50.00.

Gift Gloves and Hose

The Gloves and Hosiery that will be chosen for Christmas gifts are here now in broad assortments. Short, Long and Gauntlet Gloves present many variations, in brushed wool, leather or chamois-suede. The better makes in Silk or Wool Hose in various styles and smartest colors are no less appealing in diversity.

The Gift of Furniture

As a rule people buy for themselves only the necessary Furniture—the larger pieces, essential to comfort and convenience. Thus are there infinite ideas for gifts among the smaller pieces. On our Third Floor an interesting collection of these has been assembled.

Walnut Smokers at $15.00 and $20.00.

Folding Gate-Leg Tables, $14.00 to $25.00.

Announcing
The Opening of the Court of Christmas Gifts

SATURDAY marks the Opening of The Court of Christmas Gifts. This year practically Half of our Third Floor is being devoted to Gifts. Yes, Christmas Gifts —multitudes of them! Almost anything one could imagine will be found in this Shop. In years previous, The Gift Shop has been a powerful help in more ways than one to those who are in doubt as to what to give. This year, with over twice the space being used, the result will be pleasingly greater. Space is all too short to tell of the many home things that make Attractive Gifts, but let it suffice, there are New Displays in Home Furnishings—Beautiful Linens, Exquisite Pottery, Glassware, and Lamps, many others too numerous to mention. Quaint little booths along each wall, developed in the brightest colours, teeming with Gifts in a bewitching, wondrous, fascinating array.

You and your Gift Lists are welcome!

The Jolly Old Fellow is expected sometime during the night and will hold a reception in his Court on our Third Floor, To-Morrow at 10.30 a.m.

Hurrah! From his boundless dominions in the cold far North, Santa Claus, rippling with laughter, comes driving his galloping reindeers. He will be here to-morrow. That isn't long to wait, is it, boys and girls? Can you imagine the dear old fellow himself is really coming? How delighted he will be when he catches a glimpse of our renovated and remodelled store, and isn't that just the finest big flat roof for him to arrive on? Lots of room for his big reindeer to prance up and down, and it is fortunate the roof is big and flat, for Santa has lots of big packs this year stuffed full of the grandest toys and goodies imaginable.

Don't fail to be here Saturday morning, for Santa is anxious to meet you all, and to find out just what you would like him to bring you on Christmas Eve.

Santa Claus' Mail Box will be placed just outside the Simcoe Street Entrance, so you had better get busy and write your letter to him. If you mail it in this box, he will be sure to receive it.

Our Toyland enjoys the reputation of being the largest and best between Toronto and Montreal. We have enlarged it this year to make room for the greatest assortment we have procured. There are several new novelties this year that are bound to please, and the prices are very reasonable.

TEACHERS DEAL WITH VARIOUS METHODS OF INSTRUCTION HERE

Peterboro Teachers Hear Interesting Addresses--The Character Forming Period of the Child

In yesterday's session of the Peterboro Teachers' Convention reports of the session of the O.E.A. were given by Miss E. Fusee and Mr. M. H. Park. The former dealt especially with the primary department. References were made to methods used in England. Here the primary classes are quite distinct from the other grades of the school. They are, as it were, a school by themselves. The curriculum is not fixed as it is here but each head-mistress follows largely her own devices and inclinations.

Subjects are taught more for their cultural value. Two forms of writing are in use, script and print. No muscular movement is attempted.

Buildings are surrounded by high walls not to keep the children in, but rather to keep the distractions of the street out. There are no steps to climb as the floor is on a level with the ground around. The buildings are well planned and arranged.

In Australia primary classes are also in a school by themselves. The value of primary work is recognized since teachers of that work get special remuneration. Great stress is laid an reading stories and speech-training. Pupils become fluent and oral composition is considered a true basis for written. Dramatization is also stressed. Drawing is used to give expression to ideas. Each pupil has his own blackboard at his desk as blackboard work by pupils is held to have special advantages. Nature study is taught by outdoor observation. Schools are well lighted and artificial methods of ventilation have been done away with because they were not as satisfactory as the old-fashioned ways.

One speaker at the O.E.A. gave a fine description of the function of the body. He described it as a fine mechanism—the temple of God for the soul. It must be kept in good health to live the superior lift and so be a fitting instrument in the service of God and country. Purity was necessary to keep the body in a proper state of health.

Some speakers spoke of the great value of lantern slides in education. Visual instruction was always the best. The play element was also important in education, in literature, and composition. Acting ideas always helps expression Play promotes interest and originality. Story-telling both by teachers and pupils was also a valuable means of education in literature and composition.

Mr. Park spoke of various changes proposed in the superannuation scheme. When a teacher dies his estate is to receive whatever he paid into the fund with five per cent. compound interest. Consideration was to be given to those who paid for a few years and then left the profession and also to those who had left the profession temporarily.

Various other resolutions from different teachers' institutes were discussed at the O.E.A. One desired great representation of public school teachers on entrance boards; another, that the shool year be from summer holidays; a third, that only Canadian History be asked for on the entrance examinations; others wanted changes in the geography examination, etc. etc.

One paper delivered at the O.E.A while intended for rural teachers, had some good suggestions. It advocated that the teacher should know each person in the section because he could not fully know the pupils if he did not know their home influences. The teacher must be sincere and strictly refrain from gossip. He should be generous with his time and talents for the benefit of the neighborhood.

Miss Johnston and Mr. Kerr were appointed delegates to the O.E.A. next spring.

Mr. Mowat took up several matters pertaining to the schools. He said that he had assurance from the board that lanterns would be installed in some of the schools in the near future.

A circular from the department had given some hints regarding homework. It had advised teachers to use good judgment in this particular. Pupils should find the homework interesting. Nothing definite should be assigned to do at home before the junior third class but occasional exercises before that class would be appreciated by both parents and pupils. Good supervised work in the class-room might be better than too much homework. As yet, this fall, no complaints have been made to Mr. Mowat by parents regarding homework so that the teachers are evidently using judgment in the matter.

Mr. Mowat deplored the rather rapid changes in the staff. There are just ten teachers here now who were here when he became inspector.

Mr. Mowat also threw out suggestions regarding the entrance examination subjects. Writing had improved due to more care in all work Pupils seemed to lack a certain confidence in arithmetic, they seemed unduly afraid of making mistakes Better paragraphing in history would be advisable. The poorest subject seemed to be composition.' There was too much sameness or lack of individuality especially in descriptions. Some words were too frequently misused as "got," "nice," etc. and a careless use of faulty abbreviations was too evident. He advised the teachers to read "New Era in Education," and "A Mother's Letters to a Schoolmaster," for helpful suggestions. He referred to an article in the Atlantic Monthly which said that the world was out of joint and people had lost their morale. Education must have aim in order to better conditions. Teachers must have a dominant purpose to train pupils for life. Formation of character must be the great aim and that demands a wide outlook. Too many teachers are over-conscientious about little things which tends to narrowness and demoralization. They should read widely and get out side of purely pedagogical matters. They must grow wider in knowledge and sympathy.

Miss L. Elliott gave a comprehensive paper on Literature and Reading based on the report of the "Teaching of English in England."

Education has for a long time past been too remote from life. It is not the same thing as information it is guidance or the acquiring of experience. Education must [illegible] (morals), the intellect (science), and the emotions (expression or creative art). It should be regarded as experience and be kept in the closest contact with life and personal relations. An education in English must take precedence over all other branches of learning as it is the essential basis of a liberal education.

The use of English does not come and must be taught as a fine art. As the literature lesson introduces the student to great minds and new forms of experience, it is necessary that the teacher himself must be in touch already with such minds and such experience to be able [illegible] pathetically to direct or moderate the impact of the new experience on the learner's mind. A power of reading, well trained and well guided, is perhaps the best among the gifts which it is the business of over elementary schools to bestow.

Every teacher is a teacher of English. It is impossible to teach any subject without teaching English. It will overflow its own compartment and penetrate into all the rest. Speech training must be taken from the outset and continued all through the period of schooling. The Elemenary School should aim to teach all its pupils to speak standard English with a standard pronounciation free from provincialisms and vulgarisms.

In reading aloud, children must understand and feel what they read. Reading is a means of getting ideas. The phrase and not the word should be the unit.. It can be greatly helped by dramatic work and by good teaching of recitation.

Children read more widely than formerly since libraries are now more common. Teachers should be good readers. If literature is to be enjoyed by the children it must be entrusted to teachers with a love for it. It must be kept in close touch with life. Books worth reading should be brought to the student's notice and his taste moulded under expert guidance. Books must be attractive or they will not be read. Children will have a [illegible] sess the books which they found attractive. Teachers can do much to awaken or stimuate such tastes.

The best current literature should be available for the information of taste. Reading societies, literary, debating, and dramatic clubs are of great advantage.

Teachers must always remain students. Their store constantly needs replenishing. Poetry endows the mind with power and sanity and enriches personality. Literature is one of the chief temples of the human spirit in which all should worship.

MASKED MEN RAID BANK IN QUEBEC

Forced Girl Manager to Open Vault and Decamped With $8000.

MONTREAL, November 23. Canadian Press. — Breaking into the branch of the Banque Nationale at St. Liborie, eight miles from St. Hyacinthe, Que., early this morning, three armed masked men forced the girl manager to open the safe, knocked her brother, the guardian of the bank unconscious, took over $8000 in cash from the safe, and fled, leaving three occupants of the bank building bound and gagged.

This bank was robbed of $11,000 several weesk ago by masked bandits.

BLISS CARMAN

For many years the fact that Canada had few great poets was deplored. Canada was in a constructive stage and there seemed little opportunity to develop them. Now Canada has several poets of repute and no one of greater eminence than Bliss Carman who addressed the teachers last evening at a session of the Teacher's Institute.

To have a great Canadian writer at such a meeting was a distinct innovation. Usually the speakers are educators from Ontario training schools or colleges. It is seldom that a Peterborough audience has a chance to hear one of our nation's own writers, who has made a name for himself in the realm of literature and especially of poetry.

Bliss Carman, like many others, tried different fields of activity. He studied engineering, pedagogy, and law but finally found his proper sphere as a writer. He left his home in the Maritime Provinces and betook himself to United States where there seemed a broader field for literary effort. He joined the editorial staff of different American periodicals as "The Independent" and "The Chap-Book" but abandoned everything to devote himself exclusively to the writing of poetry. He has published numerous volumes, the high merit of which has been recognized by the conferring upon him of Doctor's degrees of Laws and Letters by the University of New Brunswick by Trinity College, Hartford, and by McGill University.

In Ontario we have not been well acquainted with the author and his works, largely because he did his writing in New Brunswick and United States. It is a source of satisfaction that he is making another tour of the province so that we can get better acquainted with him. He made a former tour after recovering from an attack of tuberculosis and gave readings on several towns and cities so that he has not been a total stranger to us. We hope that he will be encouraged to visit us many times again.

Longfellow and Tennyson were the first authors to have an important influence on our Canadian poet. Later writers as Browning and Matthew Arnold exercised a strong influence. His first attempts at verse-writing were in the form of translations from Horace and other Latin poets. It will thus be seen that classical writings appealed to him more than our modern poetry. Amongst his writings are the following—"Low Tide on Grand Pre," "Ballads of Lost Haven," "By the Aurelian Wall," "Behind the Arras," "Songs from Vagabondia," "The Rough-rider," "April Airs." In these he has shown that his ideals were of the loftiest.

Bliss Carman has not any of the arts and devices of the elocutionist He has a nicely modulated voice and as he feels what he reads he gives a natural interpretation to it and brings out the beauty of the lines. After all poetry must be read aloud to give it its true charm and beauty Last evening he gave a pleasing variety of selections. The audience seemed to appreciate particularly his Nature poems. The fact that many of the subjects were distinctly Canadian made a strong appeal. His poetry, while possessing both music and beauty, is permeated with a pure lofty beautiful sentiment. He deserves the title applied to him last evening by the president of the institute of poet laureate of Canada.

Miss Dorothy Engel accompanied by Mrs. (Dr.) Buchanan, rendered four beautiful solos and added very much to the pleasure of the evening.

A hearty vote of thanks, moved by Rev. H. Young and seconded by Dr. Park was tendered to Bliss Carman for the wholesome and delightful entertainment he had given us.

BERLIN, Nov. 23. — The police have discovered a large arms depot and confiscated a thousand rifles and revolvers which they say belong to the Communist Patry and were intended for use in a revolt. Numerous arrests have been made.

VIADUCTS AND BRIDGES OCCUPY TORONTO MINDS

TORONTO, November 23. Canadian Press. — Detailed plans of the viaduct east of Yonge Street and the bridges to the west of the main thoroughfare for the proposed grade separation along the waterfront were filed with the City [illegible] Harbor Board to-day by M. H. Macleod, consulting officer to the Executive of the Canadian National Railways.

The subways in the eastern section, with one exception, will be 66 feet wide. The bridges will follow the width of the streets with a slight variation.

Mr. Macleod stated that the plans contain all the details necessary to arrive at an accurate understanding of the situation.

JIM TRACEY CARRIED FEET FIRST FROM RING

PORTLAND, Ore., November 23. Canadian Press. — Two policemen assisted by the referee and several ringsiders, had to lift Jim Tracey, the heavyweight boxing champion of Australia, out of the ring, feet first, following a knockout by Rocky Strambo, in the first round of their scheduled ten round bout here last night. Tracey went into hysterics after he reached his dressing room.

THE I.O.D.E. HELD MONTHLY MEETING

The 57th Regimental Chapter I.O.D.E. held their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon, when an interesting report was given by the Regent, Mrs. E. B. Clegg, who represented the Chapter at the recent meeting held in Windsor. Mrs. Clegg reported a very good convention, attended by nearly four hundred members, and gave a review of matters discussed. A good report on war memorial work was made by Miss Gordon, of Kingston, National Education secretary, who recorded activities in educational work extending over a period of four years, and the Society's hope to keep up the endeavor for fourteen years more, when it is thought that children of deceased and disabled soldiers will then have been amply provided for in an educational way.

Mrs. Clegg extended the thanks of the Chapter to all who had helped with the Armistice Day tea, particularly to the young ladies who made the posters, and the Chapter adjourned until after the New Year.

"BLACK OXEN"

by GERTRUDE ATHERTON

Published by arrangement with Associated First National Pictures, Inc. Watch for the screen version produced by Frank Lloyd with Corinne Griffith as Countess Zattiany.

(Copyright, 1923, by Gertrude Atherton.)

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested. Dinwiddie, declaring that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. "He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter; but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering, determined to find out who she is, follows her home from the theatre one night. Luck is with him, for she has forgotten her keys and he helps her get into the house. She asks him in and finally tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; and that Mary is ill in a sanitarium in Vienna.

He meets her at the theatre a few nights later, goes home with her afterward and tells her frankly he does not believe her story. He is keenly aware of her fascination for him, and Madame Zattiany, on her part, though long since free of illusions in regard to men, admits to herself that this particular young man has aroused her interest. Clavering becomes distraught over the whole affair.

(XIII. (Continued)

For the moment he hated all women and felt not only a cowardly but a decidedly boyish impulse to run away.

He'd like to wander . . . wander . . . lie out in the woods and dream as he had done in his boyhood . . . before he knew too much of life . . . reading Shelley and munching chestnuts. . . . Then he remembered that woods were full of snow in winter, and laughed. Well, he'd go and see Gora Dwight. She was in Washington at the moment, but would be home on Friday. She was a tonic. Strong if you like, but making no bones about it. No soft feminine seductions there. She, too, had fought life and conquered, in a way, but she showed the scars. Must have had the devil of a time. At all events a man could spend hours in her stimulating company and know exactly where he stood. No damned sex nonsense about her at all. He knew barely another woman who didn't trail round to sex sooner or later. Psychoanalysis had relieved them of whatever decent inhibitions they might have had in the past. He hated the subject. Some day he'd let go in his column and tell women in general what he thought of them. Remind them that men were their superiors in this at least: they kept sex in its proper place and were capable always of more than one idea at a time. So was Gora Dwight. He believed he'd make a confidante of her—to a certain extent. At all events he refresh his soul at that tranquil font

XIV.

Gora Dwight, after the fashion of other successful authors, had recently bought a house. It was in East Thirty-fifth street, not far from the one at present occupied by Madame Zattiany, but nearer Lexington avenue. It was one of the old monotonous brownstone houses, but with a "southern exposure," and the former owner had removed the front steps and remodeled the lower floor.

The dining room, on the left of the entrance, was a long admirably proportioned room, and the large room above, which embraced the entire floor, Miss Dwight had converted into a library both sumptuous and stately. She had bought her furniture at auction that it might not look too new, and on the longer walls were bookcases seven feet high. She had collected a small library before the war; and for the many other books, some of them rare and all highly valued by their present possessor, she had haunted second-hand book-shops.

The prevailing tone of the room was brown and gold, enlivened discreetly with red, and the chairs and lounges were deep and comfortable. A large davenport stood before the fireplace, which had been rebuilt for logs. There was a victrola in one corner, for Miss Dwight was amenable if her guests were seized with the desire to jazz, and a grand piano stood near the lower windows. The only evidence of sheer femininity was a tea table furnished with old pieces of silver she had picked up in France. The dining room below was a trifle gayer in effect; the walls and curtains were a deep yellow and there were always flowers on the table.

New York knew so much about this new literary planet that it took for granted there was nothing further to be discovered. There are always San Franciscans in the great city, and when she became famous they were obliging with their biographical data. Life had been hard on her at first, for although she came of old Revolutionary stock she grew up in poverty and obscurity. Her father had been a failure, and after the death of her parents she had kept a lodging house for business women, taking courses at the University of California meanwhile; later she had studied nursing and made her mark with physicians and surgeons. Her brother, a good-looking chap with fine manners, but a sort of super-moron, had unexpectedly married into the old aristocracy of San Francisco, and Gora, through her sister-in-law, the lovely Alexina Groome, had seen something of the lighter side of life. During this period she had written a number of short stories that had been published in the best magazines, and one novel of distinction that had made a "howling success" in San Francisco, owing to the unprecedented efforts of the fashionable people led by young Mrs. Mortimer Dwight, but had fallen flat in the East in spite of the reviews. Then had come a long intermission when fictionists were of small account in a world of awful facts. She had quite forgotten, for she made not even a casual contribution to the magazines; shortly after the war broke out she offered her services to England and for long and weary years was one of the most valued nurses in the British armies. At the close of the war she had returned to California, intending to write her new novel at Lake Tahoe, but finding the season in full swing she had gone to some small interior town and written it there. When it was finished she had brought it on to New York and had remained here ever since.

"Gora Dwight . . . had written a number of short stories."

So ended the brief biography, which was elaborated in many articles and interviews.

As for the novel, it won her instant fame and a small fortune. It was gloomy, pessimistic, excoriating, merciless, drab, sordid and hideously realistic. Its people hailed from that plebeian end of the vegetable garden devoted to turnips and cabbages. They possessed all the mean vices and weaknesses that detestable humanity has so far begotten. They were all failures and their pitiful aspirations were treated with biting irony. Futile, futile world!

The scene was laid in a small town in California, a microcosm of the stupidities of civilization and of the United States of America in particular. The celebrated "atmosphere" of the state was ignored. The town and the types were "American"; it would seem that merely some unadmitted tenuous sentiment had set the scene in the state of the author's birth, but there the concession ended. Even the climate was treated with the scorn that all old cliches deserved. (Her biographers might have contributed the information that the climate of a California interior town in summer is simply infernal.)

Naturally, the book created a furore. A few years before it would have expired at birth, even had a publisher been mad enough to offer it to a smug contented world. But the daily catalogue of the horrors and the obscenities of war, the violent dislocations that followed with their menaces of panic and revolution that affected the nerves and the pockets of the entire commonwealth the irritable reaction against the war itself, knocked romance, optimism, aspiration, idealism, the sane and balanced judgment of life, to smithereens. More cliches. The world was rotten to the core and the human race so filthy the wonder was that any writer would handle it with tongs. But they plunged to their necks. The public, whose urges, inhibitions, complexes, were in a state of ferment, but inarticulate, found their release in these novels and stories and wallowed in them. The more insulting, the more ruthless, the more one-sided the disclosure of their irremediable faults and meannesses, the more voluptuous the pleasure. There had been reactions after the Civil War, but on a higher plane. The population had not been maculated by inferior races.

The young editors, critics, special writers, were enchanted. This was Life! At last! Moreover, it was Democracy. These young and able men, having renounced their earlier socialism, their sense of humor recognizing its disharmony with high salaries and pleasant living, were hot for Democracy. Nothing paid like Democracy in this heaving world. The Democratic wave rose and roared. Symbolic was this violent eruption of small town fiction, as realistic as the kitchen, as pessimistic as Wall Street. All virtue, all hope, all idealism, had gone out of the world. Romance, for that matter, never had existed and it was high time the stupid world was forcibly purged of its immemorial illusion. Life was and ever had been sordid, commonplace, irgnoble, vulgar, immedicable; refinement was a cowardly veneer that was beneath any seeker after Truth, and Truth was all that mattered. Love was to laugh. Happiness was hysteria, and content the delusion of morons (a word now hotly racing "authentic"). As for those verbal criminals, "loyalty" and "patriotism"—fecit vomitare.

Their success was colossal.

Gora Dwight caught the crest of the wave and sold three hundred thousand copies of "Fools." She immediately signed a contract with one of "woman's magazines" for the serial rights of her next novel for thirty thousand dollars, and received a corresponding advance from her publisher. Her short stories sold for two thousand dollars apiece, and her first novel was exhumed and had a heavy sale.

MANY KINDS OF BREAD

Remember that there are many different kinds of bread by which you can vary the monotony of your meals. Include bran, rice, whole wheat and brown bread as well as the plain white variety.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

The sandwich that makes a meal is ideal to serve at noontime luncheon or in the evening after cards.

The luncheon sandwich, not being a company affair, is often made of left-overs. No two sandwiches need to be alike as to filling for as they are individual servings one does not interfere with the other. They can be served open or closed in true sandwich fashion.

The evening sandwich with a cup of coffee, chocolate or any beverage preferred is easy and quick to prepare and serve and is far more popular with men than tiny "tea" sandwiches, salads or too much sweet stuff.

Ham Sandwich

One slice ham cut ¼ inch thick, canned sliced pineapple, sifted cracker crumbs, head lettuce, toast.

Broil ham under a gas flame or over a coal or electric fire. Drain pineapple from juice and dip in cracker crumbs. Saute a delicate brown in butter or drop in deep hot fat. Put a leaf of crisp chilled head lettuce on a triangle of fresh buttered toast, add a piece of ham, cover ham with pineapple and another leaf of lettuce and top with a covering of toast.

Minced Lamb and Orange Sandwich

Left-over lamb roast or chops, oranges, fresh mint, cracker crumbs, egg, toast.

Trim fat from lamb and mince. To every cup of lamb add one tablespoon minced mint leaves. Put in top of double boiler over hot water and heat. Add one tablespoon grated orange rind to one-half cup fine cracker crumbs. Peel oranges and cut in slices one-half inch thick. Beat egg slightly with two tablespoons cold water. Dip slices of orange into crumbs, then in egg and again in crumbs and saute to a delicate brown in butter. Put a layer of hot minced lamb on a triangle of hot buttered toast, add slices of orange to cover, cover with a layer of meat and top with toast.

Toasted Sardine Sandwiches

Remove skins and bones from sardines. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Put between thin slices of bread and butter. Toast in a hot oven or under the broiler.

Hot Cheese Sandwich

One-half pound American full cream cheese, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon mustard, paprika, 2 eggs, ½ cup milk.

Melt cheese over hot water. Stir in butter and eggs slightly beaten. Cook, stirring constantly until smooth. Add milk and cook a few minutes longer. Serve as an open sandwich on small triangles of toast.

Tea-Room Sandwich

One cream cheese, 2 tablespoons cream, 2 tablespoons minced olives, 2 tablespoons minced pimentoes, 2 tablespoons chopped nuts, head lettuce, mayonnaise, whole wheat bread.

Work cheese smooth with cream. Add olives, pimentoes and nuts and enough mayonnaise to make quite moist. Wash and chill lettuce. Spread bread lightly and evenly with butter, cover each slice with a leaf of lettuce, add a layer of the filling and top with a slice of buttered bread.

Chopped Egg Sandwich

Three hard boiled eggs, lettuce, mayonnaise, bread and butter.

Shell eggs and chop whites and yolks. Mix with mayonnaise to make very moist, almost one cup of mayonnaise can be used. Either leaf or head lettuce can be used. Cut lettuce in shreds and then cut the ribbons in short lengths. Add to the mayonnaise mixture, using about two cups lettuce to one cup mayonnaise. Put between thin slices of bread and butter.

Creamed Rice Sandwich

One cup cooked rice (hot), ¼ pound cheese, 1½ cups milk, 1 tablespoon sbutter, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, anchovy paste, hot buttered toast.

Melt butter, stir in flour and when well blended stir in milk. Season with salt and paprika and cook, stirring constantly until smooth. Add cheese finely chopped and cook until cheese is melted. Spread toast with anchovy paste, add a thin layer of rice, pour over cheese sauce to make moist and cover with a second piece of toast lightly spread with the anchovy paste.

A good bloater paste can be substituted for the anchovy if desired.

VELVET DRESSES

The most popular velvet dresses for afternoon are of black with long, plain sleeves, and exquisite collar and cuff sets of embroidery or real lace.

Icy Waters of North Calling To Dr. Nansen

By WILLIAM L. JOSH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(United Press).—The lure of the northern ice wastes is stronger today in the heart of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous Norwegian explorer, than his high position of world-wide fame as administrator, relief worker, humanitarian, Noble peace prize winner and world peace advocate. If life were only a little longer in the interpid Artic explorer would go back north.

Nansen, who started here an American tour in behalf of European relief and world peace, wistfully voiced the wish that he might once brave the perils and hardships of the Artic night, where many years ago he won fame.

He preferred to talk of Artic exploration that of world conditions. The spare, blue-eyed, vigorous old man predicted success for Roald Amundsen in the effort to fly in an airplane to the North Pole.

Amundsen, he declared, will succeed if he is not forced to land on the ice in a fog. The trip, if made in one flight, however, will accomplish little, in Nansen's opinion because it will furnish no scientific data.

Amundsen will be able to distinguish land and sea, he declared, but expressed his belief that Amundsen would find, like he himself had done aboard the Fram long ago, nothing but deep sea, possibly dotted with islands.

FUTURE QUEEN?

DOG SENT MASTER THROUGH COLLEGE

Rita Is a Good Scout and Watkins Crockett, Jr., Always Will Swear By Her.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Rita is a good scout.

And Watkins Crockett Jr., always will swear by her. Why, she's even sending him through college!

Rita's right up among 'em in the "400." She's of aristocratic Teutonic stock. Even her name—Von Sercaynots—is quite highbrow.

But she isn't a bit stuckup. She's just as democratic as any other dog in Nashville. Yes, Rita's just a dog. To Crockett, though, she's almost human.

And oh, what a pal she is! Every morning, she trots along beside him as he goes to school, doing an about-face toward home only when he tells her goodby.

Rita has brought 27 sons and daughters into the canine world.

All her male puppies have sold for $100 apiece. The females have brought $50 each.

Every cent of the money goes into Watkins' bank account to the credit of his college expenses. Last year, the money not only paid his tuition, but likewise met all his tailor bills.

Rita's appetite isn't a bit delicate. She eats everything her master does—except potatoes. For some reason or other, she doesn't relish spuds.

She was brought over from Germany as a puppy by a friend of the Crockett family and presented to young Watkins, then in high school here.

She's been a mighty important member of the family ever since.

SEVERAL KILLED IN MOTOR WRECK

Fifteen Passengers Hurled Over a Cliff

VERONA, November 23. — Fifteen passengers of a sight seeing motor bus were hurled over a cliff into a deep ravine to-day, when the vehicle became unmanageable on a sharp turn. Three were killed outright; crushed beneath the motor bus as it overturned; four are dying, and the rest severely injured.

...SIX STIRLING

...drawn so as to protect Bun...ock's civil remedies.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, in answer, stated that the charges had been laid by Bundock. There had been a breach of the criminal code and those accused of the breach must receive trial. "I do not wish the provincial officers to lay the charges either," intimated the Crown Attorney as he informed the court that the Crown could not withdraw the charge so as to protect Bundock's civil remedies. That was final, and the trial began, Major R. D. Ponton, counsel for defendants, being content that all six accused youth be tried together.

Pleaded Guilty.

Wallace, first accused, called pleaded guilty.

"Were you ever convicted of a criminal offence before?" asked Crown Attorney Donnan.

"No, sir."

Sine, Tulloch, Percy Chard, Reuben Chard and Belshaw in order, as called, all pleaded guilty and stated that they had never previously been convicted for an offence.

Major Ponotn felt that as the accharge of comomn assault, the penalty provided in Section 291 should be imposed. "Had I known that evidence of the cause of the assault and the extent of said assault, I would not have allowed the plea of guilty to be entered."

Crown Attorney Donnan: "I purpose adducing only the evidence of the assault in itself."

"Are you ready to go ahead as to the extent of your injuries?" Bundock was asked by the Crown when he appeared in the witness box.

"Yes, sir," replied the parson.

The clothing which Bundock was wearing on the night of the attack upon him and which Bundock says is torn to shreds, was not in court as an exhibit.

"I have never been back to Stirling since I was told I would be killed if I returned on Anderson's Island that night, so I could not go after the clothing. I expected the officers to bring them here."

"You have been waiting a long time to get that off your chest, haven't you?' 'exclaimed Crown Attorney Donnan.

Provincial officers will bring the clothing from Bundock's own home at Stirling, where they are being kept by Mrs. Bundock.

Wants Heavy Damages.

At the present moment Bundock living in the city of Belleville so is to be near his counsel, Mr. W. C. Mickel, K.C.

He has stated that it was a Mrs. Stewart, in his opinion, who sent the mob after him on the nights of Nov. 9th and 13th. On the night of the tarring episode he stated that he was hit with stones and thrown very roughly to the ground, resulting in cut and bruised knees. Tar was poured over his head and hands and one of the men threatened to kill him. Against these men he will enter suit for $10,000 damages. He emphatically denies any misconduct between himself and the daughter of Mrs. Stewart and has entered a damage action against the person who started the misconduct rumor, suing the said person for $2,800.

Mr. Bundock is a short, well made and well preserved man. He is an Englishman and that the church of which he has been minister for three years was separate from every church in Canada. He stated that he was ordinaed to the Pentecostal Assembly of the World Ministry in 1911.

Some few years ago two-thirds of the ministers broke away from the organization and Bundock being among those who left works independently of any organization.

VERITABLE FAIRYLAND FOR THE LITTLE FOLK

Whites' Cycles and Sports Window Holds Irresistible Attraction.

To the children, a wonderful glimpse of Christmas Toyland is found in the window of Whites' Cycles and Sports, Limited, 212 Charlotte Street, which is proving an irresistible Mecca for little folk anticipating a visit from Santa Claus, as all children do. So effectively are there displayed on an immaculately white carpet of imitation snow a colorful array of inviting toys, that throngs of children exclaim with delight, and parents find difficulty in coaxing them away from a veritable juvenile fairyland indeed.

Of course, the miniature railway, with electrically operated locomotive and cars running at fair speed among a host of Yuletide suggestions, is the centre of attraction for little eyes opened wide in admiration and wonder. But there are here also displayed many mechanical novelties, any one of which would elicit from their recipient on Christmas morn joyous acclaims and happy childhood appreciation.

Besides the profusion of toys with which both window and interior are teeming, this modern store is also showing gifts of a more practical nature such as kiddies' automobiles, which present indications hint as Santa's popular present this year.

AN ADDITION TO DE LAVAL COMPANY

Increasing Business Means Increased Floor Space.

It was learned at the office of the De Laval Company to-day that they are anticipating the erection of another manufacturing building in the near future.

It is evident that the De Laval is doing better than they promised at the time the citizens voted on their by-law, giving them a fixed assessment for another period of years. It is a good sign when plants are increasing their floor space, and is welcome news to the citizens.

COUNCIL CANNOT FOLLOW ESTIMATES

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Nov. 23.—Hon. G. S. Henry, minister of public works for Ontario, was asked by the Grey County Council at yesterday afternoon's session to have his department assume all liabilities of construction and maintenance on Provincial highways. It was pointed out that under the present system it was almost impossible for county councils to keep within their estimates, having no knowledge of what twenty per cent. payable on such work is likely to cost each year.

Discussion of the cost to the county of the Owen Sound-Chatworth section of the Provincial Highway produced this resolution. It being shown that the city paid nothing toward it while the county paid one-fifth and the province the remainder.

COUNTY COUNCIL BRIDGES REPORT

Chemong Bridge, Lakefield Bridge, and Several Others Appear in Business of Committee

At the fall session of the County Council of Peterboro now in sessio at the Court House the Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges recommends as follows:

That the matter of Hastings Boundary Bridges be left in the hands of the Reeve of Belmont to act in conjunction with the Hastings representatives, with power to act.

That Tallin's Creek bridge be assumed by the County and be repaired as soon as possible and that Mr. R. Scott have the same carried into effect.

That the County pay $25.00 towards the repair of Eel's Creek bridge in Harvey township.

On motion of Messrs. Corkery and Lillico, Mr. Connor (County Engineer) reported re Chemong bridge rebuilding, giving an estimated cost.

Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Parker, that Messrs. Warden and Corkery be deputed to interview Mr. Gordon, M.P., with a view to an interview at Ottawa by this Council in the near future with reference to Chemong bridge construction.

Moved by Mr. Clark, seconded by Mr. Parker that notices governing traffic on the Lakefield bridge be put in the proper places by the Reeve of Lakefield.

New Lakefield Bridge

Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Middleton, that tenders for a cement bridge be called for re Lakefield bridge to be built in accordance with the plans and specifications of the County Engineer, these tenders to be in at the first day of the January session of this Council, 1924.

On motion of Messrs. Eason and Montgomery the County Engineer specifications consistent with the "regulations" for a new concrete bridge known as Lockie's Bridge, North Monaghan. That Mr. Eason procure material for reflooring Lang bridge, Otonabee. That the Engineer visit Douglas bridge, Drummer, in order to ascertain measurements, etc., with a view to the rebuilding of the same, and this committee recommend that the matter be carried into effect by the Council of 1924.

That, in the event of the road on which Freeman's bridge is situated being reverted to the township, the County assume said bridge and have the erection completed.

DUBE STILL HOPEFUL HE WILL NOT HANG

QUEBEC, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press). — Gustave Dube, the man who is to hang for the murder of his wife on December 14, was officially notified this morning that the Supreme Court had rejected his last appeal. Dube stated he still hoped the Governor-General would intervene and save him from the scaffold.

BALDWIN ADMITS THAT PROTECTION MAY MEAN AN INCREASE IN PRICES

Wickham Steed's Daily Review of the British Election Situation—Hard Fight in Prospect

LOTS CANDIDATES

(By Wickham Steed, former editor of The London Times, editor of Review of Reviews, copyright, 1923, by Montreal Star.)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Emulating Ramsay Macdonald, Lloyd George starts today a whirlwind tour, beginning in Glasgow. Tomorrow he speaks at Paisley on the same platform as Asquith, in support of Asquith's acnditature. There he is expected to make amends for the impression he created in his last London speech, when he talked as though he was the sole Liberal leader.

The Tories are making much play with the Asquith-Lloyd George reunion. After Premier Baldwin's doubt whether there was in England a bed large enough to hold this reunited couple Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, compared them yesterday to a steady old pony yoked to a zebra, and denounced Lloyd George's behavior as that of a pot house politician rather than that of a statesman just returned from a visit to the senior Dominion. The Tories will henceforth not be entitled to complain if Lloyd George's language is more picturesque than classical.

Baldwin himself is being severely criticized for the statements made in his recent speeches. His admission that protection will involve some rise in prices is being effectively exploited to foment popular apprehensions that the Tory programme will entail serious increases in the cost of living. Similarly, Baldwin's claim that he plunged into the election because the opposition leaders criticized his Plymouth speech at the end of last month, wherein he adumbrated not the election but the extension of the safeguarding of industries' act, but being interpreted to prove that he is either a weak tool in the hands of the die-hard extremists, or a political trickster.

The various party organizations are rapidly increasing the number of their candidates which, by Monday next, nomination day, will be some 1,500, as compared with 1,386 a year ago. The Conservatives expect to nominate 560 candidates, Liberals 470, Labor approximately 450. The strength of the parties in the late parliament was 343 Conservatives, 143 Labor, 114 Asquithian, and Georgean Liberals.

Surveying the outlook carefully, the leading Liberal organ, the Manchester Guardian, writes this morning that no human being can say how the election will end. Great surprises are possible.

Rarely before has a contest been fought so utterly in the dark. Even Neville Chamberlain's meeting for women yesterday in Drury Lane Theatre was singularly unresponsive, though whether because the audience failed to appreciate his protectionist arguments or because British women are undemonstrative is impossible to decide. The Beaverbrooke and Rothermere press continues to sap the foundations of Baldwin's position. The Daily Mail insists that Baldwin's promise of 1pd an. acre as a subsidy to farmers is totally inadequate because wheat cannot be grown at a profit with less than 2 subsidy. Beaverbrook's papers damn Baldwin with faint praise, complaining his policy does not go far enough, and accusing him of being lukewarm towards imperial preference.

A New Coalition

The object of these tactics is to prepare the way for a new Birkenhead-Lloyd George coalition whenever the two press noblemen hope to wield a decisive influence. Their attitude is certainly calculated to damage Baldwin by chilling enthusiasm and accentuating dissensions among the Conservative party.

Atmospherically also Baldwin is unfortunate. A cold snap set in after dissolution of Parliament and has daily grown severer. The distress among the unemployed has consequently become more acute, and their lack of readiness to wait until the tariff brings relief is accentuated. Ramsay Macdonald's denunciation of the Government for attempting to "take a heartless political advantage of the people's distress" therefore secures a readier hearing than it would have had the weather remained mild.

Baldwin's diplomatic success in avoiding a rupture with France and fresh French military occupations in Germany comes therefore as a welcome reinforcement of the Government position. A suggested in an earlier message the developments in Europe may play a considerable, if not a decisive part, before the end of the election. Yet in this respect also it is unwise to prophesy. The first week's campaigning has brought a quickening of the pace of the agitation, but it has not brought any clarity to the outlook.

A Record Number

Political writers are predicting a record number of candidates at election, December 6. Estimates vary, the highest being 1,450, or 30 more than at last election.

Conservatives, it is expected, will number close to 550, Liberals about 460, Labor nearly 420 and Independents 30.

According to the Daily Sketch since Premier Baldwin announced his protection policy, many foreign manufacturers have been inquiring for vacant factory buildings. Some are already negotiating to rent or buy such property.

David Lloyd George carried his campaign for return to power into Scotland today.

The message the former premier had for the Scots, whose votes he seeks in the elections of December 6, was this: "We have a real chance of winning the majority."

Lloyd George, who was to make frequent regular platform speeches on the train journey to Glasgow, pointed out that the free trade issue had split the Conservative ranks, thus discounting their claim to 350 seats.

The ex-premier will tour the provinces, hammering away at the present Conservative Government and seeking to build up enough strength to sway the balance of power when, as he expects, Laborites, Liberals and Conservatives prove to be of approximately equal strength at the polls.

CAPTAIN LOST IN A STEAMER WRECK

MARSEILLES, November 23. — United Press. — The last that was seen of the captain and three members of the crew of the British Str. Ottenberg, was when they stood on the vessel's deck surrounded by leaping flames, which rapidly devoured the hapless steamer early to-day.

Powerless to assist, thirty-seven members of the crew rowed desperately to safety a few minutes before a terrific explosion rent the Ottenberg, hurled spars and wreckage high into the air, and made the night lurid for miles around.

The vessel sank immediately a short distance off the Spanish coast. The remainder of the crew were saved.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Alf McIlroy and Master Roy, of Kingston, are the guests of P. C. Bromley.

Mr. A. E. Webster of Manitoba, is also visiting P. C. Bromley.

Master Hugh Bromley is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Webster, of Lakefield.

Rev. Archdeacon Perry, who is conducting the Mission at All Saints' church, is the guest of Rev. R. B. Grobb, at All Saints' rectory.

Reg. McQuade, of Saskatoon, was the guest this week of his aunt, Mrs. J. Knox, Gilmour street.

Miss Emily Mohr, of Toronto, who sepaks at the meeting of the Big Sisters' Society this evening, will be the guest during her stay in the city of Mrs. W. R. Morris.

Mr and Mrs. Samuel Knox and daughter Glenna, of Fenelon Fall, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Knox, Gilmour street, this week.

PLEASES THE SMOKERS.

Louis Yeotes' sale of tobaccos, pipes, cigars and supplies, with many prices cut in two, is good news to the smokers. He is also asking his sale customers to decide who is the most popular lady and gentleman to whom he is going to award a $100 diamond ring and $50 suit of clothes respectively.

AT LEAST IT HELPS.

A magazine writer tells us that a dog fills an empty space in a man's life.

This is especially true of the hot dog.—The Lyre.

THE ANGLICAN MISSION

The Mission which has been going on in the Anglican churches during the week has been a great success. Reports from all of them tell of large congregations and of sustained interest in the telling messages which the missioners have delivered. There has been sound teaching as well as appeal to the will to serve the Master in a more loyal spirit than ever before. We are confident the spiritual life of the city will be the better for their great effort. The Mission will continue on Sunday and close in the evening of that day. There will be midday Communion services in all the churches as well as early celebration in some. The children of the Sunday schools will meet at 3 in the afternoon. The church people in Peterboro owe a debt of gratitude to the missioners who, though busy men, have given themselves unsparingly to the tremendous task of reviving religion among us, of quickening our spiritual life and enlightening our minds. The Bishop of Ontario will close the Mission on Sunday in St. John's, Ven. Archdeacon Perry in All Saints', Rev. A. F. Whally in St. Luke's, and Rev. H. Mockridge in St. George's. The last week evening Mission services will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. There will not be services to-morrow.

OBITUARY

GEORGE H. MAY.

One of the oldest residents of the Township of North Monaghan passed away yesterday afternoon at five-thirty, at the Nicholls Hospital, in the person of Geo. H. May, a resident of lot 12, on the 12th concession of the township. The late Mr. May, who was in his 78th year, had been ill for the past year. He was born in Peterboro, and lived in Lake field for some years, removing once more to Peterboro about 40 years ago. He was a well known and respected figure in the township, and was instrumental, as rural school trustee, in the erection of May's school house, named after him. He was a life member of the Charlotte street Methodist church, and an active worker in the congregation of St. James' Church. He was a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters for the past 45 years.

The deceased is survived by his wife, formerly Elizabeth Tucker of Dummer, and one son, Bert May, of Jackson's Point, the only survivor of a family of four children, two of whom died in youth, the third, Laura (Mrs. H. C. Robinson), dying about 12 years ago.

The funeral will take place from the family residence in North Monaghan on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. to the Little Lake cemetery, with services at the house at two o'clock, conducted by the Rev. James Richardson, pastor of St. James Methodist church.

MR. W. R. BREYFOGLE AT WINTER EXHIBIT

Was Much Impressed With the Royal Winter Fair.

Mr. W. R. Breyfogle has returned from Toronto, where he was attending the Royal Winter Fair, with which he was much impressed.

He states it is one of the biggest things of the kind on the continent and that the exhibit of cattle eclipses that of the National Dairy Show held recently at Syracuse, N.Y., although the cattle exhibits are all Canadian.

Many important agriculturists from the Provinces were in attendance yesterday, and altogether Mr. Breyfogle feels that the show is of immense importance to the Province and to the Dominion.

BIG BATTLE RAGES BETWEEN CHINESE

TWO SPEAKERS FOR KIWANIANS

Musical Numbers From the Kiwanis Musical Revue—Ladies' Night.

For so ably impersonating a donkey at the Kiwanis Musical revue, Kiwanian Bob Mackey was honored with the chairmanship at to-days Kiwanis club luncheon. Musical numbers from the revue was a feature of today's preliminaries with Joe Wearing Verne Morphet and Bob Mackey taking the solo parts. The speakers were Miss Emily Mohr of Toronto, general-secretary of the Big Sister movement accompanied by Mrs. J. Knox of the local organization and Mr. J. B. Black one of the Y.M.C.A., secretaries in the India field of activity. Mr. Black was accompanied by Mr. G. H. Roper of the Peterboro Y.M.C.A.

Miss Mohr dealt with some the phases of the Big Sister movement and stressed the fact that the work is not solely confined to the redemption of wayward girls but is much broader in scope. Girls without homes and parental control are provided for and directed along a path of usefulness. According to Miss Mohr the girl problem is much more serious than the boy problem. Girls will not group together like boys and must be given individual treatment. Last year of the large number handled by the organization only twenty-five per cent. could be classed as delinquents coming from the courts. The Big Sister never use the big stick and never bring a girl into court. The chief aim of the organization is to keep a girl out of court.

"Y." Work in India

Mr. F. B. Black in an interesting address on his work in India referred to the handicap of the caste system which subjected fifty-seven millions of people to an intolerable existence. The average income in India is a few cents over seventy-three dollars a year. Disease is prevalent and it is not an uncommon sight to see the family wash in the same tank as the bullock. Liquor is cheap and can be obtained from the milk of the cocoanut which is allowed to ferment, for five cents, a man can obtain enough to make him drunk and for ten and fifteen cents he can become dead drunk or roaring drunk by paying the higher price Through the medium of the Y.M.C.A., secretaries established throughout India the work of reclamation was spreading and the economic condition of the people is being improved.

In submitting a hearty vote of thanks, Chairman Mackey said the organizations represented by Miss Mohr and Mr. Black would have the endorsation of the club.

A vote of thanks to Kiwanians Martin Chenhall, Alec Dick, J. A. McKone, G. Henderson, C. S. Cummer Mrs. McKone and all those who assisted in the production of the Kiwanian Musical revue was moved by Kiwanian J. Wearing and heartily endorsed by the members.

It was announced that ladies night would be held on Friday evening next at 6.30 o'clock in the Empress Hotel.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, November 23. United Press. — The stock market opened fairly active and firm with numerous leading issues showing fractional advances.

The opening in Davison Chemical was moderate for that stock with a double opening of 400 shares at 61 and 100 at 60½; subsequently it sold at 62 3-8 on a small volume.

Maxwell "A" was again strong advancing 2¼ to 59, a new high on the movement; "B" shares were up fractionally at 16 7-8.

Studebaker was unchanged at 103 1-2. The foreign exchanges opened lower, sterling being off a cent. A fair volume of activity continued throughout the first half hour, although trading was far below that of the same period on Thursday. In the main, stocks were firm, not being called upon to contend with the influence of pyrotechnics such as occurred in Davison Chemical yesterday. That stock was relatively dull around 62.

Equipments improved over the opening prices, Baldwin running above 127, about a point higher than the opening while American Locomotive at 74 3-4 was up 3-4.

Sentiment in the equipments were helped by the report of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States estimates that the railroads would have to spend eight billion dollars in the next ten years for necessary and additional facilities.

Aggressive operations for a rise continued in a broadening group of specialties in the late morning. Mack trucks and Gulf States Steel featured.

Davison Chemicals market was more orderly as the excitement died down around the post where the stock is dealt in. The refusal by one of the specialists in Davison to accept orders during Thursday's wild gyrations was confined to stop orders and was temporary.

Sugars were strong in the late morning, moving ahead under the lead of American beet and Cuba cane preferred which reached new highs on the movement.

HOLDING A BAZAAR

To-day and to-morrow, members of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. James Methodist Church are holding a bazaar and sale of home-made cooking and candy in the store lately occupied by Mr. J. John, on Charlotte street. The ladies have for sale many pretty things, useful for Christmas gifts, and some very nice looking cakes, tarts and home-made candy. Their supply of articles includes knitted things, aprons of every variety, lingerie, dainty things in linen and lace for boudoir and dining-room, woollen scarves, and several warm-looking quilts. Mrs. A. Wilson president of the society, acts as general convenor, assisted by Mesdames H. Fry, M. Stokes and R. Stenton. Other ladies noticed at the sale of various things were Mesdames Richardson, Emory, Brown, Jas. Ruth J. Bannon and S. J. Brooks. The sale continues until tomorrow evening.

GIRLS HELD BANQUET.

Girls of the C. G. I. T. groups of George street Methodist church held a banquet in the lecture rooms of the church last evening, when they were addressed by Miss May Gemmell, B. A., of Toronto, National Secretary for the Presbyterian church of the Girls' Work Board. About seventy-five of the members of the different groups were present for an enjoyable evening. Miss Alda Bartlett acted as toast mistress, and Rev. W. H. Young introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Gemmell, who gave a brief, interesting talk on C.G.I.T. work and what other girls' groups throughout the Dominion are doing in its furtherance.

A vocal duet was given by the Misses Mildred and Hazel Trethewey, and community singing made a pleasing interlude in the service of the banquet.

ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY NOW HAVE PRIZE FUND

OTTAWA, November 23 (Canadian Press). — The Royal Canadian Navy now has at its disposal a prize fund for gunnery and other service competitions.

This fund, which consists of $1,500 was raised in 1905 by private subscription in Canada for the purpose of providing gunnery prizes for H.M.S. Dominion in the Imperial Navy.

The amount was invested in the name of the British Admiralty, and the dividends were applied to the purchase of prizes as above mentioned.

A Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., opened the two-day bazaar which is being held in the G.W.V.A. Hall by the ladies of the Auxiliary.

Mr. Gordon, in his opening remarks, referred to the good work done by the members of the Auxiloary, and said that while the world in general forgot the war as it receded further into the distance, faithful women still remembered, and worked to alleviate the suffering of soldiers' dependents.

A crowd of over one hundred and fifty people assembled for the opening of the bazaar, which had a good patronage during yesterday afternoon and evening, and continues this evening, when a good musical programme will be given.

This year, articles for sale, in a great variety and of every sort of plain and fancy style, are displayed on long tables, whose corner posts are wreathed with purple and white bunting, long streamers of the bunting stretching across the middle aisle. The Grafton Company's staff of decorators, through Mr. W. E. Conway, donated the time and the material for the pretty decorations which extend in lattice work design to the window frames, here Japanese lanterns hang. The pretty little individual tea tables are centred with rose candles, and mauve 'mums garnish the central table.

The president of the society, Mrs. R. J. Devey, is general convenor of arrangements, and Mesdames Sharp, McIntosh, and Scholey are in charge of refreshments, with Mrs. Joseph Mills as convenor in the tea room, assisted by Mesdames Lillico, Patterson, Welsh and Spargo.

The sale includes a large number of pretty things. There is a supply of delectable home-made cooking, preserves, and pickles, with a massive fruit cake, adorned with wonderful pink and white icing, all varieties of fancy work, from hemmed tea towels with red designs, to dainty filmy boudoir caps in pale tints. There are linen runners, bleached and unbleached, beautifully embroidered, sets of tiny ornaments in hand crochet, organdie collars from England, embroidered cushions and silk scarfs, homespun bags, bath towels, aprons, fancy and useful, quilts, day slips in lovely stitching, dainty baby things in soft wools, with rose and blue and cream colourings. There is a sale of boys' clothing, neat and useful and an extra good supply of things at the rummage counter where many articles in splendid condition may be found.

Dolls are sold also and home-made candy in little containers. Three engaging small lady dolls with wide eyes are being offered for sale. They say "Ma-ma" when placed at the right angle and provide much entertainment for visiting kiddies. A novelty in a hair receiver is made of a small folded shirt in striped blue and white, complete with bow tie and small pocket. There is a fish pond, where Mrs. S. M. Millard and Mrs. M. F. Stanley are in charge Mrs. J. Black and Mrs. George Chambers sell the aprons and boys' clothing. Mesdames Hughes and Thorndyke have the fancy work, Mesdames Wiggins and Fielder the bedroom linen sale, Mesdames Howden and W. Stanley have the rummage sale, and Mrs. R. Burns tells fortunes. Mrs. B. F. McNeeley sells handkerchiefs and babies' wear. Mrs. F. Rathbone has the candy, and dolls are in charge of Mesdames McKinstry Porter and Monks.

Last evening a pleasant musical programme was given with much appreciation from the audience.

Piano numbers were nicely played during evening by Misses Linda Blowers and Sophy Haggis. A juvenile concert company gave an hour's interesting programme, (some of them are children whose fathers made the supreme sacrifice). Two part songs, solos by George Houghton - E. McKintsry, George Coleman, Harold Coleman (costume), and the china ornaments duetts from "San Toy" prettily sung in stage costume and action by Phyllis and Bob Coleman. Dorothy Patterson, Sadie Miles and Master Dwyer assisted in the part songs. Miss Lily Farthing gave a vocal solo. The performers were all trained by Mr. R. J. Devey, who accompanied the various numbers on the piano.

SAMUEL GOMPERS FOE OF THE RUSSIANS OF MOSCOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Samuel Gompers, president of American Federation of Labor, made public statement last night in which he assailed what termed "campaign for recognition of Soviets," being conducted by William Randolph Hearst. In his statement Mr. Gompers showed that he was still an uncompromising foe of what he called "blood monsters of Moscow."

While his attack was directed Mr. Hearst it was striking denunciation of Russian Soviet Governme

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Nov. 22.—Special.—The Counties Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham is called to meet at the Council Chamber here on Monday, Dec. 3rd, at two o'clock p.m. There will be considerable routine business to dispose of in order to settle up the work for the year.

Alderville Will Help

Members of the Cobourg District Executive of the Young People's League of the Methodist church went out to Alderville on a recent Sunday evening. Mr. Eldred Lean, District President occupied the chair. Miss Florence Hall, Wicklow, gave an address on the work of the Forward Movement for Missions. Miss Joy Nichols spoke on the Temperance question and others from Cobourg gave musical numbers. Those present from the Alderville mission expressed their willingness to help in the support of Rev. Dr. W. E. Smith, the representative of Cobourg District Young People, in the foreign field. Mr. Dodson is performing able service in taking charge of the work at the Alderville Mission.

Will Celebrate 100th Anniversary

It is probable that Cobourg Methodist church will celebrate next year the one hundredth anniversary of its inception with services and ceremony befitting such an auspicious occasion. The Anglican church has the honor of having been first erected in Cobourg and a Methodist church shortly afterwards.

A Hospital Auxiliary

A meeting is to be held here shortly for the purpose of organizing a Hospital Auxiliary to work here in connection with our local hospital.

Poultry Association

A meeting of Cobourg Poultry Association was held this evening at the Balmoral hotel here. This Association was recently reorganized and is now actively engaged in arranging for the Northumberland and Durham Poultry Show, which is to be held here the last week in December. Cobourg has a number of successful bird fanciers who are deeply interested in making the coming event a success. It is hoped to have a show bigger and better than any yet held in the Counties.

Three shows have been held by the Counties organization, one at Cobourg, one at Bowmanville and one at Port Hope.

Coal For Cobourg

The barges Menominee and Winnipeg arrived in port here with two thousand tons of coal, in egg, stove and nut sizes, for a local coal merchant. This and shipments recently to other local dealers, makes the local coal situation look better than it has for some time in the past. Some wood is being brought into the town for fuel purposes, but as yet not nearly as much as in past seasons. Many Cobourg citizens laid in a ton or two of Alberta coal, and the majority of householders express themselves as well pleased with it. There are some who go so far as to say that they prefer it to the American anthracite.

Farmers Well Pleased

From all parts of the rural district comes the assurance that farmers are being able to finish up the season's ploughing, storing of roots, and other fall work with better satisfaction than is usual, owing to the continued warm weather. Complaints are heard that the winter and late fall apples, from some apparently unknown cause, are not keeping well, but are already rotting in the bins.

Statutory Meeting Held

The Statutory General meeting of the Cobourg Child Welfare Association, which is incorporated under the laws of Ontario, was held last evening here in the Town Council Chamber.

Interesting Address

Tonight Rev. W. R. McWilliams, returned missionary from Japan, gave an interesting address at Cambourne Methodist church under auspices of the Young People's League of that place. Mr. McWilliams is a forceful, entertaining speaker and he is always listened to with a great deal of pleasure. He has spent seven years in mission work in Japan and with his wife and two children, is now on furlough here, residing near Grafton. Mr. McWilliams has been very busy the past few weeks visiting the Young People's Leagues on the Brighton and Campbellford districts.

Local and Personal

Billy Bowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bowen, who had an operation for appendicitis at the hospital here, is stated to be progressing favorably.

Mr. Harry Croft returned recently from Quebec where he was superintending the construction of a large power plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKinnon Sr., who recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, are receiving congratulations from many friends.

Rev. J. N. Lovelace, pastor of the Centreton Methodist circuit, has been away for an enjoyable hunting trip in the north country.

Misses Aileen and Lenore Holmes and Miss Alice Jones, graduates of the Ontario Hospital, intend going to Worcester, Mass., to take a post-graduate course at the Belmont Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hoskin and family have moved from Haldimand township to Cobourg, where they have taken up residence.

Cobourg Curling Club is looking forward to a membership of one hundred the coming season.

W. Eckstein, who has left Colborne for Los Angeles, California, was the first baseman of the Colborne baseball team in the Northumberland County League. He will be much missed in sporting circles in the County.

THE RADIO HAS ANOTHER REVOLT

Even the Mightiest of the Mighty Is Threatened By Newcomers in Radio.

Even the mightiest of the mighty is threatened by newcomers in radio.

Revolutions in this science are occurring so fast that the bystander can do nothing but stand aside and have patience for the final outcome. There is no use in taking part, no advantage in deciding on a certain receiving set for one's own amusement. For tomorrow that set may be overthrown by another, simpler and better.

Such are the uncertainties of a revolting science.

That the science of radio is in a state of turmoil, of constant change and uncertainty, has never been so attested as it is now. Today a "superset" is hailed as the latest achievement. Tomorrow, it may be an antique.

Only a year ago, Major Edwin H. Armstrong's regenerative receiver was the last word in radio. Now it is considered only as a step toward more sensitive, more powerful and simpler "hook-ups." Beyond it are such sets as the Neutrodyne circuit of Professor Hazeltine, the Grimes Reflex and others.

New Claimant

At the top, however, is Major Armstrong's "Super-Hetrodyne," generally acknowledged king of them all. And yet, the supremacy of this super-set is being questioned.

For now comes a much smaller receiving set which has started its own revolution against the lordship of the super-hetrodyne. It is what is called the "Superdyne" receiver, invented by Robert S. Miner, famous eastern amateur. With its four tubes, this set has been tested against the eight-tube super-hetrodyne and has proven a remarkable opponent for highest honors in radio. Here is an account of tests made with the superdyne, by C. D. Tuska, radio manufacturer:

No Antenna

"The astonishing part about this outfit is that it operates without an antenna and gives signals of sufficient intensity to be heard through the use of a loud speaker. In Hartford, Connecticut, without the use of an antenna or loop or capacity of any sort, other than the usual ground connections, we have repeatedly copied Broadcasts on a loud speaker from Chicago, Davenport, Kansas City, and stations nearer to us.

"In attempting to compare the outfit with some of the sensitive sets on the market, we were to Washington and ran a series of tests. First a constant artificial source of power was set up. This was tuned on a regenerative receiver and the audibility measured around 50. With the same power, the same tubes, batteries, etc., the superdyne receiver showed an audibility of over 200.

"The same two outfits were tried under similar conditions with a broadcasting station as the source of power. Here the regenerative receiver showed audibility of about 60 while under corresponding conditions the superdyne receiver show an audibility of 10,000, which was the end of the meter.

Beats Naval Set

"The next test was of a more practical nature. Here we compared the superdyne receiver under actual receiving conditions with the naval six-tube Universal radio-frequency amplifier. The signals with the four-tube superdyne were probably three to four times louder than with the six tubes on the navy amplifier.

"The last experiment was the most astonishing of all. In this test we compared the four-tube superdyne with an eight-tube super-Hetrodyne receiver. Some of the signals on the super-hetrodyne surpassed this new circuit while in other cases the superdyne exceeded the super-hetrodyne.

"Taken all in all, and being very conservative, the best we could say for the super-hetrodyne was that the signals may have been slightly louder using the eight tubes against our four."

That's the situation today. Tomorrow another inventor may appear with a more efficient set.

AGED LADY COMMITS SUICIDE BY FIRE

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Mary Moore, 87 years old, who failed two weeks ago in an attempt to end her life by hanging, was found burned to death to-day at the home of her son, the Rev. Frank L. Moore.

It is believed the aged woman carefully wrapped newspapers about her body, soaked them with gasoline and then applied a flame.

CALIFORNIA AND PACIFIC COAST TOURS.

When Winter comes the Pacific Coast States and British Columbia offer a haven of refuge from our rigorous climate, particularly Sunny California. California has become famous as a winter region because of its excellent climatic conditions, its varied and magnificent scenery, the possibilities its affords for all kinds of outdoor sports, and recreations, its splendid motor roads, sea bathing, etc. The Canadian National Railways offers a wide choice of routes embracing rail and sea trips. Travel one way through Canadian Rockies, via Jasper National Park and Mount Robson, the North Pacific Coast Route to Vancouver and Victoria, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Any agent of the Canadian National Railways will be pleased to furnish full information regarding these tours.

DUMBELLS NEW SHOW A WINNER

Capt. Plunkett's Players Score Big Hit in London.

London Free Press—Whatever else may be mentioned in connection with Captain Plunket and his Dumbells, who opened a three-day engagement at the Grant last night in "Cheerio," this much can be said for them, that their popularity in London is not on the wane. On the contrary, it would seem that each visit of the Dumbells to this city, their friends and admirers have become greater in number. On this occasion all seating accomodation for the first night's showing was sold at the box office far in advance, and a capacity house greeted Captain Plunkett and his worthy troupe of entertainers.

They were there, all of them—Al. Plunkett, with his winning smile and manner that makes him the idol of the ladies; Morley Plunkett, whose voice is no small asset; Ross Hamilton, the renowned female impersonator and the "Marjorie" of the show with his able assistant, Gordon Calder; Stan Bennett, whose forte is his ability to impersonate Cockney foibles; Ben Allen, Jack Grace, Pat Rafferty and others of equal merit and versatility—all assembled in a pot-pourri of mirth and song, new and different form anything these artists have yet presented.

THEATRES

"JUST MARRIED"

Have you ever heard of "Just Married?" If you haven't you must be numbered among the five percent of the population who abhor the printed word "Just Married" is the title of the famous Adelaide Matthews and Anne Nichols' laughing success which played two years at the Comedy, Shubert and Nora Bayes Theatres in New York, and which will be presented by Jules Hurtig and the Messrs. Shubert at the Grand theatre tomorrow, matinee and night with the Broadways production and a notable comedy cast. The locale of the play is the French Line steamship Lafayette, out of Bordeaux, France, for New York. Aboard this honeymoon ship are several oddly assorted couples, from those grown gray in the state of matrimony to various sets of honeymooners. Through extremely likely misunderstanding these couples become so scrambled and messed up that there is apparently no way of unscrambling them, and for the first twenty four hours at sea the peace of everyone aboard is threatened. But the complications are straightened out at last and the voyage peacefully proceeds.

The play was staged by Clifford Stark.

AT THE CAPITOL.

A romance of the Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police is "The Eternal Struggle," showing at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end. The cast includes many favorites of the screen, with Renee Adoree playing the part of Andree, the French heroine, and Pat O'Malley as Bucky O'Hara, the dashing Irish trooper of the Mounties. The eternal triangle is the basis of the plot of "The Eternal Struggle." It is the story of two men and a woman, screened against scenes of rugged natural beauty in the hinterland of Canada, with the legend of the R.N.W.M.P. to give it color and charm.

Andree is accused of the murder of Ducane, the bad man of the piece, and she flees from the law. She is pursued by two of the force, and finally captured. Marooned in a lonely cabin with the two men, shut in by inclement weather from pursuit or escape, the old situation develops, both men falling in love with the dark-eyed girl. One weakens, but the other resolves to take the girl back to justice, and the return journey commences. There are several thrilling situations which develop in this journey. The turbulent waters of a canyon are shot in a frail canoe, and Bucky makes a leap of over a hundred feet to rescue the heroine from the chill waters. Other episodes in a picture of much natural charm are an ice jam scene, and a dog-team race.

BAG OF CANDY AND $2400 IN GERMAN MONEY FOR KIDDIES AT CAPITOL SATURDAY MATINEE

To celebrate the starting of Hurricane Hutch in his latest and most daring serial, "Speed" the management of the Capitol theatre will present every child attending the Saturday matinee with a bag of candy and a 10,000 Mark note of German money whict at par is worth about $2400. "Speed" is Charles Hutchinson's latest serial and is undoubtedly the most exciting serial that the famous "Hurricane Hutch" has ever made—which, of course, means that it is the most exciting serial ever produced for no serial star has ever surpassed the daring deeds of Hurricane Hutch. Starting tomorrow matinee this serial will be shown for children every Saturday afternoon for the next fifteen weeks at the Capitol theatre.

GLORIA SWANSON IS POPULAR STAR CONTEST WINNER;; IN "ZAZA"

When the public of Peterboro selected Gloria Swanson as their best liked movie star, Manager J. C. Kennedy at once set out to secure Miss Swanson's very latest production for showing at the Capitol next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Through cooperation of the theatre department of Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Toronto, Mr. Kennedy was able to secure "Zaza", Miss Swanson's very latest production, for Peterboro and this will be shown at the Capitol the first three days of next week.

AT THE ROYAL.

HOOT GIBSON SUPPLIES LOTS OF LAUGHS IN "OUT OF LUCK"

One of the greatest laughs of the season was unfurled at the Royal Theatre last night in the screening of the Universal comedy-drama, "Out of Luck," in which Hoot Gibson is seen as a gob in the U. S. navy.

It isn't just a series of chuckles or broad smiles. It's hilarious laughter and the Universal cowboy star steps into a fast pace with the leading comedians of the screen. He presents a comedy slant that is all his own and funnier than a cat on flypaper.

The uproarious Hoot, who has been heralded as the world's greatest all-round cowboy and who proved that he was entitled to that distinction by winning the grand prize at the famous Pendleton roundup a few years ago, has more trouble riding a battleship than he ever had riding a bronco.

The story is that of a cowboy who gets into trouble with his prospective father-in-law and joins the navy. Shortly after his enlistment he learns that the old man has forgiven him and he promptly asks to be transferred from the briny back to the sage. The skipper is kind and tells him that he can go back to the riding boots and spurs in a few days less than four years. He had been in the navy a week.

To borrow a line from the famous cartoonist, Briggs, the picture of dejection that Hoot reflects is this: "It may be comedy to some folks, but it's tragedy to me." As he sits down and writes his sweetheart that he will see her in about four years he creates a laugh that chases gloom out of the theatre. And he looks as unhappy as an undertaker.

In short the whole play is a riot. It was written and directed by Edward Sedgwick, himself a former musical comedy star.

"STOP YOUR TICKLING JOCK" FOR ROYAL MONDAY

Stop Your Tickling Jock is one of the most uproarious and screamingly funny pictures that has ever come over from the old country.

The action of the story takes place in London and partly in an old Scotch castle up in the Highlands. The principals in the picture are Lady Stilton, one of the Highland Stiltons, who believes that the world is composed of two classes—Stiltons and others—young Guy Cheviot, Lady Stilton's nephew, who has an uncontrollable passion for certainties ranging from ten-to-one to thirty-to-one and upwards. Young Mr. Cheviot manages to keep himself in straightened circumstances by plunging on his uncertain certainties. Jock Jamison, the faithful retainer at Loch Stickie Castle, whose forefathers fought with Bruce at Bannockburn, which Jock is not likely to forget. The Earl of Crpplegate, an eccentric and ludicrous character, and John Josephs, famous theatre backer and main owner of the London Follies, and Trixie, Tootsy and Tiny, famous soubrettes of the aforementioned follies.

Up in Loch Stickie Castle, Lady Stilton meets with the astonishing intelligence that her only son, Gussie, has become engaged to a showgirl of the London Follies. The aristocratic lady is shocked out of composure and after a severe half-hour with her heir apparent, Lady Stilton decides spending the season in Monte Carlo and taking her young offspring away from the toils of these vulgar London show people.

The course of the story from here on is one sensation of screams, laughs and chuckles, which increase a pace on the arrival on the scene of the Dominie's daughter, Helen, the Earl of Cripplegate and lastly, Lady Stilton and the unfortunate Gussie.

AT THE REGENT.

"BRASS COMMANDMENT." SIZZLES WITH ACTION; IS WILLIAM FARNUM'S LATEST

Shades of Buffalo Bill! Colonel Cody, if he could but gaze at "Brass Commandments," would envy William Farnum his part in the Fox production, which began a three day run at the Regent last night. The story was written by Charles Alden Seltzer, who is well known as an author of breezy Western stories. The film sizzles with action, containing many exhibitions of dazzling riding, clever shooting and a whirlwind fight that furnishes a strong dramatic climax. There is romance too; not the sticky molasses kind, but red blooded, glowing, live romance.

Those who remember Tom Santschi's oft mentioned battle with Farnum, in "Thte Spoilers" will find a more exciting combat in this offering. In addition to the star and Santschi, the cast includes Wanda Hawley and Claire Adams, as well as Charles LeMoyne, Lon Poff and Al Fremont.

The entertainment value of the picture is best judged by the way in which the audience received it. In this case the approval was marked. The tense moments of the film brought forth the same clenching of hands and hunching of shoulders in the audience that were enacted on the screen. The romance was delightful in its charm, and at the finish many favorable comments were audible. If you were there you probably heard them. If you were not, you should go to-day.

COLLEGIATE HOPE TO AVOID MID-WEEK GAME

Ready to Play U. T. L. To-Morrow But Are Drawn For Wednesday--Prefer to Make Trip Week From Saturday.

KEEP IN SHAPE.

Coach Browne's rugby squad are looking eagerly forward to a prospective trip to Toronto to play University Schools at the Stadium either Wednesday or Saturday of next week. The locals fully expected to journey to the big town for a game this Saturday. But Wednesday U.T.S. played St. Jerome's and although the game was a very one-sided affair the U.T.S. boys scoring 13 touches and 72 points against the Kitchener Collegian's goose egg, some of the Toronto boys suffered minor injuries and the date of game without any consideration was fixed for Wednesday.

P.C.I. followers would like to feel that this is not another example of "Hog Town" spirit in the hope that at least Interscholastic rugby affairs might escape the Toronto control.

However the local youngsters will be satisfied if the game can be arranged for next Saturday. This later date will in no way disturb or delay the Interscholastic schedule of play-offs.

The P.C.I. vs U.T.S. game is a semi-final fixture. There are still four teams in the western group. The winner of the P.C.I. verus U.T.S. game will even as it is, have to wait a week or so before a team to meet them in the finals is produced.

Ready for Saturday

The P.C.I. team would have been in excellent shape for a hard battle this Saturday such as the U.T.S. game will be. All the squad are back in harness and dying to go. Walter Rye their star middle is on the game again after two weeks' absence on account of minor injuries. Bookout and Steven's ankles are well repaired and could stand the strain. In fact the locals would have been in the height of their form.

Coach Browne has had the gang out regularly to fast signal practices and the whole squad were on their toes. The plays are working with clockwork precision. But they should have a uniform practice or two early next week.

Would Avenge Defeat

The last time P.C.I. played University of Toronto Schools was three seasons ago at Riverside Park in the semi-finals. That time U.T.S. had a crack team and had their eyes glued on the championship and they won from the locals 25 to 0. Many of the U.T.S. stars of that game have moved up into senior company Notable among them is Hughie Plaxton now booting and playing in the backfield for Varsity who played the same position for U.T.S. in their game with P.C.I. This the Toronto school, as did P.C.I., thought their team ruined by graduation but under the expert coaching of Mike Rodden they have come along in great shape and are now casting side long glances at the championship.

SANTA LEAVES DAWSON.

DAWSON, Y.T., November 23 (Canadian Press). — Santa Claus is on his way from the North Pole via Dawson.

A heavy Christmas mail for continental and European points left here yesterday and another will leave next week for the outside.

Reds Purchase Another Cuban.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Pedro Dibut, ranked with Adolfo Luqu as Cuba's greatest pitcher, has been obtained for the Cincinnati Nationals, according to a special despatch to the Cincinnati Times-Star from Havana, Cuba.

Ditbut is a sturdy right-hander, a little larger than Luque, Cincinnati's star pitcher last season, and is the sensation of Cuba's winter league.

M'GRAW A GAME SPORT SAYS GROH AFTER OPERATION

CINCINNATI, Nov. 23.—Propped up by pillows on his cot in the Bethesda Hospital, Hienie Groh, third baseman of the New York GGiants, said thoughtfully to a friend this afternoon:

"I always thought that John McGraw was a straight-shooting sport. I don't think it any more. I know it. I've just been operated on. My knee is in good shape now, and I expect to be able to leave this place for home in a short time.

"When the big series was over in New York, I was all in. I could hardly stand up. I went to John McGraw and told John just what ailed me. He said, 'Heinie, you go home. Then you go to the best hospital there, get the best surgeon you can find, and have an operation. Spare no expense and send the bills to me.' The surgeons say that when I get out, I'll be better than I have been in five years."

Heinie will be cutting up around third base with the Giants in the South next March.

CULLY WILSON LIKELY TO REMAIN IN WEST

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Cully Wilson, former Winnipeg boy who has played hockey both at the Pacific Coast and in the National Hockey League for several years, arrived here yesterday from Arborg, Man., where he has been employed during the summer.

He is not at all sure of going [illegible] last winter. If a deal can be made, [illegible] in the Western Canada League this winter.

Pays Money To Pitch

Unique Experience of Pete Donohue, Star of Reds' Staff.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 23.—Ever hear of a major league pitching star paying $5.85 to pitch a game on a barnstorming trip?

No!

Well, that's what happened to Peter J. Donohue, pitching star of the Cincinnati Nationals, who was the feature performer in a barnstorming game between the Fort Worth All Stars and a club at Leonard, Tex., led by Topper Rigney, Detroit shortstop.

You see it all came about this way:

Pete agreed to pitch the game for the Fort Worth club and the team departed for Leonard via the automobile route. It was agreed that the company which furnished the automobiles would be paid a certain sum.

The boys were off for Leonard one Saturday morning. It ordinarily takes about four hours to make the 100-mile trip. But it rained all night and bad roads slowed the automobiles up. As a result, the team arrived in Leonard an hour after time for the game to start.

The guarantee on Saturday's game was automatically off.

Sunday, it rained all morning.

But the boys didn't care—they had rain insurance. If Jupe Pluve would only turn on the faucet from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for 10 inches the team would collect $1250.

Unfortunately it stopped before the insurance time limit. The sun came out. But only 300 fans were out to see the game.

At 4.15 p.m.—fifteen minutes after the insurance policy expired!—it rained cats and dogs. The game was called off in the third inning, the fans got their money back and the players were left holding the sack.

Then they all had to pitch in to pay the automobile company!

Pete says it was the first time he'd ever paid for the privilege of pitching a baseball game.

By the way, Pete left here Nov. 6 for Los Angeles to winter in the Land of Sunshine. He will try to take on some fat at the expense of Garry Hermann, president of the Reds.

GLASS KNOBS

McTigue and Wills Are Examples of Fighters Who Ruin Hands By Incorrect Hitting.

Why is it that the modern battle cracks his hands so often? Harry Wills, Uncle Tom of the ring has a pair of lame dukes, notwithstanding his protestations to the contrary.

Wills, in hammering the decrepit Jack Thompson into submission some days ago, took few chances, protected his hands at every turn, and rarely ever tried a full swing. It wasn't that he was "saving his hands for a Dempsey bout." The fact that Wills' hands are brittle, and he can no longer land a solid punch without suffering himself.

Mike McTigue, who went to Dublin to win the light heavyweight has a pair of plate glass mittens. It is said the Irishman's hands are so weak that he has to pull his punches while shadow boxing. McTigue has just canceled a fight with Gene Tunney on account of the condition of his hands.

Wills and McTigue are no exceptions. There is hardly a fighter in the game today who hasn't been laid up with busted weapons. Johnny Kilbane cracked his right hand in the Criqui fight. Johnny Wilson broke his left hand on Mike O'Dowd's head. Lew Tendler is a chronic sufferer from bad hands. Carpentier broke his hands the first time he hit Dempsey.

Don't Hit Properly.

No fighter will hurt his hand if he delivers the punch properly, especially in these times when heavy bandages and gloves are worn. Splintered hands were uncommon in the old days—even in the bare knuckle days. The old timers apparently made more of a study of the proper methods of hitting. They knew better how to hold their hands and how to land.

You certainly wouldn't say the old timers were weaker hitters! That's all John L. could do. Fitzsimmons had never had an equal as a hitter, considering his light poundage. Sharkey, Maher and Jeffries were bone crushers. These fellows seldom had their hands in splints.

Dempsey and Leonard are the two finest hitters in the game today. They work like the old timers. They hold their hands at the right angle when delivering a punch. They bank on sort, snappy jolts, rather than long, sweeping swings.

No fighter ever put his hands to a more severe test than did Dempsey in his fights with Willard and Firpo, giants who outweighed him by many pounds. Dempsey knocked Willard down and cut him to ribbons with vicious punches. After the fight his hands were barely swollen.

Dempsey knocked the massive Firpo down nine times, and then spent several hours after the fight, shaking hands with admirers. The champ's hands aren't glass knobs.

BOWLING

BIG NIGHT'S BOWLING AT WATER STREET ALLEYS.

Last night was a big night at the Water Street Bowling Alleys. Besides the Brinton Carpet Intershop League, the City Ten Pin League and the Mercantile Five Pin League a large number of ladies were bowling. There were some big scores set up in last night's bowling in both five and ten pins. Notably among the scores were those of the De Laval team in ten pins. Bowling five men on a team they smashed the pins for a total score of 2605. This score is as good as any of the big scores in a team game, in any of the large cities. The C.P.C. also had a nice total of 2485. In five pins also some nice scores were set up.

In the Mercantile Five Pin League the Bell Telephone took two games from the Nashua Paper. Dick Lush was the high man of the evening with 680 for three games, and a high single of 287. This is great bowling and it is can be easily seen that some good games and scores will be hung up before the league ends. All the games to date in the Mercantile League have been productive of great bowling and last night's games were no exception.

In the City Ten Pin League the De Laval took three from the C.P.C. Murray of the DeLaval was high man for the evening with a total of 574. Heckman of the losers had the high single of 214 and also was high man for three games for his team with 529. For the De Laval team four out of the five men bowled over 500. This gave them their big score for the team.

In the Brinton Carpet Intershop League the Dominions took two from the Ardebils. H. Rose of the winers was the high man with 546, and he also had the high single of 230. There was some rolling done by some of the bowlers on these teams.

There was a large crowd of ladies over at the alleys last night and some good score were rolled by the gentler sex. The ladies are fast taking to the game and they are improving steadily.

Bowling is gradually taking a hold on the ladies here as well as in the big cities. This fact is shown by the organizing of a Ladies' Intershop League by the Western Clock girls. There will be thirty-two girls bowling in this league, which will play every Monday and Friday.

It is expected that the Examiner girls will start and Intershop Ladies' League and will be fully organized in a short time.

Dr. Green had a nice score in a game of ten pins last night. He knocked the pins for 253. In making his score he made a strike in his first seven frames, counted the next, made a spare in the next and made three strikes in the last. Not bad!

BRINTON CARPET INTER-SHOP LEAGUE.

In the Brinton Carpet League last night at the Water Street Alleys the Dominion took two from the Ardebils. H. Rose was high man with 546 for three games and also had the high single of 230. Following are the scores:

DE LAVAL TOOK THREE FROM C.P.C.

Last night at Solomon's Alleys great scores where put up in the ten pins when the De Laval defeated the C.P.C. three straight game. Murray of the De Laval was high man with 574, while Heckman of the Canadian Packing was next with 539 and he also had the high single of 214. Following are the scores:

RUGBY CLAIMS POLO GROUNDS

Giants' Stadium Will Be Packed For Army-Navy Game.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—New York's sporting world focused its attention last night on the clash of Army and Navy elevens for service gridiron laurels at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

More than 65,000 are expected to pack the big stadium for this classic. Fifty-eight thousand tickets for the game have been distributed through the naval and military academies, while the remainder printed, 7,000 were disposed of by the New York National League Club.

According to J. J. Tierney, Secretary of the Giants, every precaution was taken to prevent speculation, but prices on Broadway for choice seats were quoted at $15 to $25 apiece.

Navy's squad was the first to reach the scene of battle, arriving on a special train last night from Annapolis.

Army's squad was scheduled to leave West Point this morning, arriving in the afternoon in time for a brief practice session in the ball park.

SAYS AMERICANS WOULD NOT ENTER.

Proposed International Horse Race Discussed In Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The opinions of the leading experts on the plan for an international race at Longchamps next May to decide the champion running horse of the breeding of 1920, were printed yesterday by the racing paper, Paris Sport.

Jefferson D. Cohn, owner of Sir Galahad and Checkmate, two of the possible competitors, believes such a match would be most difficult to arrange, "first, because the Americans would not come."

"The Americans," he says, "like to compete when they have the best chance of winning, which is not the case in such a race, necessitating a voyage, and in which a horse ought to have six months for acclimation."

TIGERS AVOID KINGSTON INNS

Will Sleep To-Night in Belleville — Queen's in Light Workout.

KINGGSTON, Nov. 23.—Queen's football team had a light workout yesterday afternoon with the cadets at the Royal Military College and the greater part of the time was devoted to line work. Reynolds was absent suffering from an ulcerated tooth but will be on the job today.

Red McKelvey was on deck with his new boot to protect his injured toe while Mundell still limping was also on the line up. Art Anglin, who is subbing for Delehay injured in yesterday's practice is suffering from a twisted knee.

Queen's team is saying nothing, simply sawing wood, but will fight hard to retain the championship. The Hamilton Tigers will come as far as Belleville today where they will spend the night and then come on to Kingston on Saturday morning.

TIGERS ARE READY.

HAMILTON, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The Hamilton Tigers, champions of the Big Four and conquerors of the O.R.F.U. champions, the Hamilton Rowing Club, had their last practice last evening before leaving for Kingston to tackle the champions of the Inter-Collegiate Union, Queens.

A special train with several hundred rooters will leave here for Queen's Saturday morning. The Tigers will put exactly the same team on the field as they did when they won the Big Four championship by defeating the Argos. Last Saturday when they met the Rowing Club they were without the services of Boyett, who had a torn ear. The team will be intact next Saturday. Their supporters believe that if the Tigers win at Queens it will be because of their wing line.

Although the students have a big husky line, the Tigers have several formidable line plungers. It is realized that the Queens' back division, Leadley and Batstone, are a pair hard to beat. They have all kinds of speed, brains and experience. They outshine the Tiger back division in their ability to kick field goals. Any time they are within 35 or 40 yards of their opponents' line they have a good chance to ring up three points.

The Tiger backs have been a dismal failure in that respect. In other respects they compare more favorably with their rivals. They all have had "sure hands" during the whole season and Gibb has shown ability to kick for distance and to place his kicks. He is also useful at line plunging and end runs. From here it promises to be a great battle between teams evenly matched.

WILLS WON'T FIGHT IN THE ARGENTINE

Rickard Trying to Arrange Match Between Negro and Firpo.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Tex Rickard has not given up plans to stage a match between Luis Firpo and Harry Wills in Buenos Aires next March or April, despite the negro's declaration that he would not fight in the Argentine, it was learned yesterday.

Rickard said he had put the Firpo-Wills negotiations temvorarily in the background to give more attention to his winter program, but added that his representatives in the Argentine were keeping him in close touch with the situation there.

There is a possibility that the scene might be shifted to New York, to which it is understood Firpo would not object, although the agreement he signed with Rickard before battling Dempsey provided that the match be held in the Argentine.

STRIBLING FIGHTS JOE EGAN MONDAY NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press). — Young Stribling, schoolboy light heavyweight boxer, arrived in New York yesterday from Georgia on his way to Boston, where he fights Joe Egan next Monday night.

Stribling conferred with Tex Rickard at Madison Square Garden relative to possible bouts in New York, particularly a return match with Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, with whom the Georgia youth fought a draw at Columbus, Ga., several weeks ago.

Unless the State Athletic Commission, however, lifts its bars which prevent tStribling, because of his age, from engaging in longer than six-round encounters, there is little chance of him signing for any match here.

HIS SLUGGISH LIVER MADE HIM FEEL DROWSY AND TIRED ALL THE TIME

IMPORTANT CURE AVAILABLE HERE

New Discovery for Cure of General Paresis. Hitherto Incurable, May Be Had in Ontario

TORONTO, Nov. 23. — (Canadian Press).—From Rockfeller Institute for medical research of New York City, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health and Labor has secured the release for use in Ontario of America's latest scientific medical product Tryparsamide, for the cure of general paresis ,or syphilis of the brain.

In announcing before the Royal Academy of Medicine last evening his successful negotiation for the use of the new discovery in Ontario the minister stated that he was establishing a clinic at the Ontario Hospital for mental diseases on Queen street west and as soon as the department could obtain additional supplies of Tryparsamide, he would open similar clinics at Kingston, London and other centres. The discovery or development of Trypar samide by the Rockfeller, Institute, the medical profession holds to be comparable in general importance to that of insulin by Dr. Banting. Like insulin, it has been patented in all civilized countries, not for purposes of commercialism, but to prevent commercialization.

Hitherto Hon. Dr. Godfrey stated, last night, the victim of general paresis died. There was no cure and no hope of cure. In the State hospital in Madison Wis., where they have been treating general paresis with Tryparsamide, there has been as a result of this treatment a discharge from hospital of 21 of 42 advanced cases.

There are two railroad systems in the Philippines, with a total mileage of about 800.

DEER DANCE ENDED BY CIVILIZATION.

Annual Tribal Jamboree of Indians Killed By Advancing Highways.

MIAMI, Fla., November 22. United Press. — The Deer Dance, ancient and annual tribal jamboree of the Seminole Indians, whose tepees are scattered through the Everglades, is in danger of following in the wake of many other customs and habits hitherto enjoyed by the aborigines of Florida.

The holding of the dance this year is in doubt, all because rainfall has been slight and water, the "roads" of the glades, is becoming scarce.

It is this way:

The white man, and with him civilization, is about to make subservient to his will the hitherto almost impenetrable jungle of everglades —the last refuge of the Seminoles. While not a swamp, there are large bodies of water in the glades, and every fall, with the beginning of the rainy season, large parts become flooded. The natural waterways thus provided furnished the means of transportation for the Indian and his dug out.

Now the everglades are being drained; a section of canals has already deprived large sections of their annual overflow and the dug outs, which used to carry the whole family of the Seminole to the annual gathering place is lying high and dry, and has begun to crack under the sun.

Every year in November, the Seminoles would come from all parts of the glades to a designated spot somewhere near Miami, for a prolonged feast, and also to put on the Deer Dance, in which all of the braves participated.

Now there is little or no water; distances in the glades are by no means slight and to walk and carry, perhaps the children and provisions is out of the question. So the Seminole is preparing to put another mark on the Cypress tree, already covered with similar marks, all denoting the passing of a cherished custom.

JUSTICE GIVEN AFRICAN STATE

Realm of Ruanda Reconstructed In Entirety By League of Nations.

GENEVA, Nov. 23.—(Associated Press)—The realm of Ruanda has come into its own again. The story reveals how the machinery of the League of Nations often turns to mete out justice to almost forgotten people. But Ruanda does not think it has passed out of the thought of the world, for it believes in its greatness and the bigness of its destiny as one of the state of East Africa.

When the "Big Four" sitting at Paris sliced up the map of Europe and fashioned new state out of big, old ones, they did a little ribbon work with African colonies. One result was to place the native community of Urundi and the "Kingdom of Ruanda" under the mandate of Belgium. Formerly they formed a part of German East Africa. But it was arranged that the northeastern part of Ruanda should pass under British mandate, because England wanted to construct a railroad connecting North and South Africa.

Later it transpired it would have been quite possible to build this line without cutting up Ruanda. Complaints began to be received by the permanent mandate commission of the league. With his kingdom cut in twain, the proud native ruler cried out that his prestige was crumbling. Families owning pasture lands on both sides of the new frontier complained they were unable freely to pass from one territory into the other. Cattle thieving became the vogue. Internal conflicts arose, and Ruanda threatened to be red with blood. French and Swiss missionaries warned the mandate people that conditions were dangerous.

The mandate commision brought the matter to the council of the league, and the whole affair was submitted to the British and Belgian governments. These governments were induced to open direct negotiations, and the result was an agreement rectifying the frontier and reconstituting in its entirety the kingdom of Ruanda under Belgian mandate. All Ruanda is now rejoicing, and civil war has been avoided throughout the land.

FILM KINGS WONDER IF RUDY CAN REVIVE THE OLD SHEIK GAME

Hollywood Declares That Sheiking Has Played Itself Out.

By ROBERT A. DONALDSON

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22. — Press). — Whether Rudolph Valentino can revive sheiking is a question which Hollywood is debating at length.

For Rudy will be permitted to go back to work in the movies in February, his contract with Famous Players-Lasky, which he refused to fulfill because it only paid him a paltry $1,200 a week, expiring at that time. The injunction restraining him from working for anyone else expires, too.

Rudy, who recently sailed for Europe, taking his latest bride, Winifred Hudnut along for company, is scheduled to go back to work for J. D. Williams and to produce pictures for Ritz-Carlton films.

Meanwhile, Hollywood, which keeps its fingers on the pulse of what the movie fans want, declares that sheiking has played itself out, and that sheik films or "great lover films are not a success.

But whether Valentino who is the great "sheik artist" can revive the part is another question. His many friends believe he can.. They do not believe it will be done under the label of "sheik," however, or anything like it. They believe that Valentino's beautiful eyes, his side burns, his continental airs and his ability to hold the flappers spellbound by a four-minute kiss are still "hot stuff," and that his following, which has died out to some extent, will be revived.

Valentino himself is thoroughly tired of "skeiking," and, like Gillet Burgess, who wishes to heaven he had never written the "purple cow" rhyme—he has told many friends that he curses the day he ever played the sheik part.

Valentino, like so many others who have "arrived" in the films, yearns to do "better things." Valentino and his many admirers are convinced that he is a great actor, and he is known to desire a chance at some classic emotional part.

A recent voting contest among film fans in the East produced an overwhelming demand that he play the part of Romeo in "Romeo and Juliet," If he does it would only make three productions of that play for the coming season. However, it is considered more likely that he will cast in some other classic part.

But, when all is said and done, the men who are going to pay him his big salary expect him to make the hearts of the flappers beat wildly, and it's a cinch Rudy will have to live up to expectations if he stages a real "come-back."

BOY'S BAD COLD TURNED TO BRONCHITIS

The frequency with which bronchitis develops into pneumonia is appreciated by very few mothers. The danger of pneumonia is, probably, well understood too, but how many mothers take into consideration that a neglected attack of bronchitis frequently leads to this dangerous disease.

We would advise all mothers to give their children Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup the first moment they show any symptoms of a cold or cough as by doing this they save them from an attack of bronchitis or pneumonia.

Mrs. Lawrence Quick, Sandwich, Ont. writes:—"My little boy, six years old, had a bad cold which turned to bronchitis. I tried every thing I thought would be best for it but did not see him getting any better. I was told to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after giving him two bottles he got wonderful relief. I cannot praise it enough.'

80,000 ASK REFERENDUM.

REGINA, Sask., November 23 (Canadian Press). — It was stated yesterday that the petition signed by 80,000 citizens asking for a Referendum on the Saskatchewan Temperance Act, will be presented to Premier Dunning on 30th November.

TRAFFIC VIOLATOR AS A TRAFFIC COP.

A Bit Unusual to Be Sure, But They Are Doing It In Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Nov. 22.—Traffic fenders serving as traffic policemen!

A bit unusual, to be sure. Yet they are doing it here.

For Police Judge H. S. Roberts is converting reckless drivers into careful drivers by teaching them the policeman's side of it.

Instead of fining or jailing traffic-law violators, Judge Roberts is sending them to school. Persons, convicted in his court, are required to attend classes so many nights.

The traffic code is studied, and lessons are given in careful driving. Pupils are required to become letter-perfect in the city ordinances before they are "graduated" and permitted to resume driving.

And a part of the course is traffic regulation. Offenders are required to go to busy downtown corners and handle vehicular and pedestrian traffic for periods ranging from half an hour to an hour.

Seeing the danger of speeding, "cutting in" and other forms of careless driving gives Judge Roberts' pupils a new conception on the order of things.

"Believe me," says one young man who has just finished his course. "I'm going to help the police all I can in the future.

"Hereafter, I'll drive slowly and carefully at all times. I learned a lot out there on that corner. And paying a fine wouldn't have taught me half as much."

So their friends and hangers-on won't jeer at his pupils, Judge Roberts always arranges to have policemen on hand on the corners where the fellows are "doing time."

FRENCH AUTHORITIES HAVE SEIZED GREAT MANY MARKS

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—It was semi-officially announced here yesterday that the French authorities on November 16, seized 35,000,000,000 marks in the Dusseldorf branch of the Reichbank. The seizures in the occupied territory now aggregate more than two trillion marks.

DESCRIBED RAID ON BOAT TORONTO WATER

TORONTO Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—With the evidence of Fred Van Winckle, cook of "Hattie C" case for crown was closed this morning in trial of four Toronto policemen charged with manslaughter, by killing or slaying of John Gogo, during raid on motor boat early on the morning of October sixth.

Hartley Dewart, K. C., who is defending accused, submitted to Justice Orde who is presiding in Assizes, that Crown had not made out a case, Justice Orde replied that was for the jury to decide.

Patrol Sergeant Wm. Kerr one of accused, described raid on motor boat and stated that he had given orders to plain-clothesmen with him to sink "Hattie C' with bullets. He had himself fired three.

FOREIGN CONSULS WILL EXACT FEES

TORONTO, Nov. 23. —(Canadian Press)—The Attorney General's Department of Ontario cannot enlighten the public as to the exact situation raised by the action of Cuban and Mexican Government's yesterday, in demanding of their consuls general in Toronto that they in future exact consular fees covering supervision of papers allowing vessels loaded with liquor and other merchandise to clear for "Mexican and Cuban ports."

"Ottawa will have to explain that," stated one of the officials last night. "All matters affecting navigation and consular service come under Ottawa."

STRESEMANN RESIGNS AFTER OVERWHELMING DEFEAT BY RADICALS

Events of Recent Weeks Culminated in Adverse Vote of 230 to 155 on a Resolution Expressing No Confidence.

DIVISION DECISIVE.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—Dr. Gustav Stresemann last night resigned as Chancellor when the Reichstag by vote of 230 to 155 denied his rump cabinet a vote of confidence Seven deputies abstained from casting their ballots. After the ballot was taken Dr. Stresemann tendered the resignation of himself and the members of his Cabinet, which President Ebert accepted. The president immediately sent for Paul Loebe, President of the Reichstag, with whom he held a conference, who will head the new government was a mystery last night. Herr Ebert has requested Stresemann to carry on current business until his successor is appointed.

The outcome of the second crisis during the Chancellor's regime was in doubt up to half hour before the voting took place, as there were strong influences at work in the ranks of the Socialists in the direction of weakening the Party's opposition by permitting sufficient members of the party to absent themselves from the Chamber, thereby cutting down the Chancellor's numerical opposition in the plenary session.

290 Deputies Present

The radicals, however, had so strongly pledged themselves in opposition to the Stresemann Government, and the German Nationalists also had refused to recede from the position of outspoken hostility, so that the Chancellor's fate was definitely sealed. The Chamber filled rapidly at the sound of the signal gong; three hundred and ninety deputies were present.

The vote may be said to have conformed to the Chancellor's wishes and his pronounced demand that it be decisive and free from all equivocation. Earlier in the day he had announced his determination to reject any vote of approval, which might accrue to him by the juggling of tthe three resolutions, any one of which was destined to fall through partisan tactics.

Might Have Lingered

Discussing the Reichstag's disapproval of his Government with the newspapermen after his retirement, Dr. Stresemann said his cabinet might have continued in office without courting the Reichstag's approval. But the "no confidences" resolution introduced by the Nationalists and Socialists confronted the Government with the necessity of having its prestige and its mandate defined peradventure, in view of the chaotic conditions obtaining within Germany, and also because of the grave issues awaiting solution in connection with Germany's foreign affairs which demanded a cabinet with strong parliamentary backing.

Set up Precedent

"This is the first time in the history of the young republic that the Government has demanded a showdown in open battle," the Chancellor declared. He said he believed the precedent set by him would prove a wholesome lesson for future cabinets and would break with the traditional custom of dodging responsibility by passing the buck to the quarrelling political parties.

The Chancellor said he also had been moved to invite the Reichstag's judgment upon his Government through menacing pressure from current emanating from the right and left, which individually and combined, threatened to become a grave danger to Parliament. He believed the decision reached today would materially contribute to clarifying this aspect of the Republic's numerous tribulations.

Pioneer of Reform

Dr. Stresemann was inclined to consider himself a pioneer in parliamentary reform in Germany where the system still is in its infancy and therefore without tradition needed for its guidance. He expressed the belief that the present German Reichstag had reached a stage of "supernervousness" and had outlived its usefulness as a constructive legislative organism, in that it had developed an over-supply of personal and partisan antipathies, which had resulted in splitting every one of its seven or more parties into two conflicting wings.

Possible Successors

Among the names mentioned in the Reichstag corridors last night as possibilities for the chancellorship are Dr. Johannes von Hieber, Democratic Premier of Wurtemberg, and Dr. Heinrich Albert, a non-partisan, who was associated with Count von Bernstorff, when the latter was Ambassador in Washington. Dr. Albert was German Fiscal Agent in the United States and later became Secretary of the Chancellery and Secretary of the Treasury under Chancellor Cuno.

The Clericals are reported to be opposed to a so-called non-partisan cabinet of experts, and unless President Ebert has decided to install a ministry comprising a restricted directorate which will govern under the existing "state of emergency" with General von Seeckt as military dictator a "three coalition" comprising Socialists, Democrats and Clericals, is viewed as one of the eventualities.

Five Million Will Hear Lloyd George

LONDON, November 24 (Canadian Press Cable). — Lloyd-George left London yesterday for a whirlwind ten-day tour, in which he expects to address about 5,000,000 people.

At Bolton a crowd will assemble on the Wanderers' football ground, and Lloyd-George will speak through microphones.

Gladstone used to deliver speeches from railway carriage windows at every stop.

Lloyd-George is going to do.... likewise, and he will fill in these odd moments by employing an amplifier.

His tour will cover practically all of England, with a slice of Scotland included.

WEALTHY ESTATE SAID TO BE MYTH

"Millionaire Evangelist" Said to Have Borrowed About $150,000 on Mythical Estate.

TORONTO, Nov. 24. — James Richardson, on whose information the charge of attempted fraud has been preferred against D. K. S. Byrne, the "millionaire evangelist," has been making some investigations in the record of Mr. Byrne. His opinion is that the Crown will have no difficulty in securing a conviction.

So far as Mr. Richardson has been able to ascertain the mooted estate worth millions is a myth, and that reams of documents in connection with the estate of the late W. S. K. Byrne are forgeries.

Mr. Richardson became interested in the case through a friend of the evangelist. The latter wanted money and was willing to pay handsomely for it. For the loan of $10,000 a note was to be given for $90,000 as a lien against the estate, and on which a payment of $1,000 was to be made.

Mr. Byrne paid $500 in cash and it was the note and the explanations surrounding the uses to which it was to be applied that created a suspicion which finally resulted in the cancellation of the cheque in the bank given to Mr. Byrne.

Crown Attorney Armour stated today that he was not in a position to say much about the case except that the Crown was reasonably certain of its ground.

According to Mr. Richardson, there will be no difficulty in showing that the documents alleged to have been signed by Judge Johnston, of Florida, were not signed by him, and that any papers in the courts appear to be copies and not originals. Mr. Richardson has made the interesting discovery that there are 53 ladies who have already laid claim to the unique personality of Lucy Byrne, daughter of the millionaire, who, according to documents filed in the courts, left his entire holdings to David S. Kidd, as the sole heir and executor, for his part in the rescue of his daughter Lucy from a life of shame in Chicago.

Borrowed $150,000.

Information is in the hands of the Crown that Mr. Byrne borrowed extensively on the strength of the legacy, the total aggregating approximately about $150,000, during the past few years. A Chicago man is said to have advanced Mr. Byrne $10,000.

No difficulty is alleged to have arisen over repayment of this loan, and proceedings were talked of. Mr. Byrne is said to have gone to Chicago and convinced the millionaire that his claims were good and he was given another $5,000.

SEEKING QUACK WHO IS CHARGED WITH 7 DEATHS

'Doctor' Sutcliffe Indicted at Hartford, Conn., As Slayer of Former 'Buddy' Overseas.

OVERDOSE OF ETHER.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 24. — States Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn yesterday left for New York, where it is expected he will spend the week end in conference with District Attorneys in that city relative to information secured by the Grand Jury dealing with the handling of bogus diplomas in New York State. Mr. Alcorn refused to tell the exact nature of his trip.

The search for Dr. George Sutcliff which has now extended for a week, is being pushed in an effort to bring the missing doctor back to Hartford. The State's Attorney's office is ready to ask for a bench warrant alleging manslaughter in order to bring about his extradition.

HARTFORD, Nov. 23.—Connecticut's war on quack doctors centred about the personality of "Dr." George Sutcliffe, of Unionville — a photographer until he found being a "physician" more lucrative—when the quack-investigating Grand Jury here ordered the placing of a charge of manslaughetr against him.

Specifically, according to State's Attorney Alcorn, the charge is based on the death of Albert Hoody, an injured former war "buddy" of Sutcliffe, while under the latter's care. But after this formal action was announced, investigators went to Unionville and learned that Hoody was but one of seven of Sutcliffe's patients who died within a year while in his charge.

Seven Victims Listed.

During this time, according to evidence presented before the Grand Jury, Sutcliffe posed as a doctor on a forged diploma from a fake school, and testimony was given to show that he bought his practice from at least one reputable physician of Unionville.

Here is the list of "Dr." Sutcliffe's victims, accordling to the death certificates filed by him in the town records of Unionville:

Mary Saunders, four; died Dec. 27, 1922, of bronchitis; Mrs. Emerette C. Belding, died Jan. 15, 1923, of myodicarditis; Case Ellis, farmer, died Jan. 30, of bronchitis and heart dilation; Mrs. Mary A. James, seventy-three, died March 3, of pneumonia; Mrs. Elizabeth Wetherly, sixty-eight, died March 29, of cerebral hemorrhage; Albert J. Hoody, twenty-nine, died May 22, of crushed finger and anaesthetic asphyxiation; Mrs. Maud J. Dorman, fifty, died June 28, of brain tumor.

Gave Ether in Excess.

According to State's Attorney Alcorn, the manslaughter charge was ordered on evidence placed before the Grand Jury that Hoody had been given ether in such excess quantity by "Dr." Sutcliffe that he died on the operating table.

Several residents of Unionville testified against Sutcliffe before the Grand Jury. I. B. Cook told of the circumstances in connection with Hoody's death, as did Dr. Edward P. Dunn, who was called to Sutcliffe's office by Hoody's friends after the latter's death.

Examiner Suspended.

Then, it was declared, Dr. Edwin M. Ropley, aged medical examiner of Farmington, who was declared to have sold Sutcliffe much of the latter's practice, was called to the stand before the Grand Jury. What he said was not revealed, but he denied to inquirers that any financial interests had caused him to forbear investigating the deaths of seven patients. He was unable, or unwilling, to give any reason for not having called an inquest over Hoody's death.

It was announced by Mr. Alcorn following the giving of testimony by Dr. J. William Calhoun, Coroner of Hartford County, that Mr. Calhoun had temporarily suspended Dr. Ripley as town medical examiner.

The average daily wages of the French laborer is reputed to be about 14 francs.

COULDN'T EVEN BUY A STICK OF GUM

Children in Berlin are playing with thousand-mark notes, instead of paper dolls. They paste a string of cyphers after the numeral, "making believe" the quintrillion would be sufficient to purchase a piece of chocolate. And that is about all it would get them. The mark, once mighty throughout Germany, has fallen, just as the kaiser has fallen—only a lot harder.

CAUSED REVOLT MUST DISSOLVE

German Communists and Nationalists Ordered to Disband and Forfeit Funds.

BERLIN, November 24. — Dissolution of the German Communist, Nationalist and National Socialist Party organizations was ordered yesterday by General Von Seeckt, the Commander in Chief of the National army. Confiscation of the Communists' funds also was ordered and the holding of Communist meetings and the publication of Communist newspapers prohibited.

The grounds for his action are set forth in an official communique stating that the Communist Party, by provoking the revolt in Hamburg and by their actions in Saxony and Thuringia, had clearly proved that they were aiming to incite the Reichswehr to disobedience and the population generally to law-breaking and revolt. The other parties named are held equally guilty of promoting mutiny in the ranks of the army and of other subversive actions

General von Seeckt's proclamation forbids the wearing of emblems of the parties concerned and all acts which may be construed as propaganda for them, violation of these provisions laying the offenders open to punishment.

In consequence of the order a number of buildings were searched in Berlin, including the offices of the Communist newspaper, Rote Fahne, which however has not appeared since the state of emergency was imposed. There also were searches yesterday of the homes of suspected persons in Frankfort, Erfurt and elsewhere.

In addition to the National Socialist, German Nationalist and Liberty Parties, the order applies also to organization supporting Adolph Hitler (the Bavarian Fascist leader), Capt. Ehrhardt, and General Ludendorff.

MADE SPEECHES BY RADIOPHONE

Addresses of Party Leaders in British Election Reach Vast Audiences—Lloyd George Favors Use.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press.)— A novelty in the present election campaign, whereby the speeches of great party leaders are reaching vaster audiences than formerly is the employment of radio broadcasting and the use of loud-speaking apparatus enabling large crowds which cannot gain admission to election meetings to hear the speeches outside. The plan is being especially used by former Premier Lloyd George in his tour. All the leaders spoke again last night. Winston Churchill in Leicester met with the same mixed reception with much heckling, while Mr. Lloyd George, journeying to Scotland to join Herbert H. Asquith, had the same impetuous reception as before. Both Mr. Lloyd George, at Carlisle, and Mr. Asquith at Paisley, denounced tariffs and capital levy almost in identical words.

THE HUNGER STRIKERS HAVE CEASED FASTING

DUBLIN, Nov. 24.—Free State Government announces that fifty more Republican hunger strikers in Irish jails, have ceased fasting.

"ASQUITH, LAMB LYING WITH LION"

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Two examples of election rejoinders are herewith given:

Sir John Simon, one of the Liberal leaders, speaking at Glasgow: "Premier Baldwin appeals to his followers to hang together. I do not want a hair of Baldwin's head hurt, but it would be a good thing if he and his followers were led out to political execution."

Lord Derby, Secretary for War, speaking at Fleetwood: "Poor Mr. Asquith; he is a lamb lying down with a lion. He must know it well as we do that he is only preparing himself for the lion's next meal. Though I abhor his politics, I have a personal affection for Lloyd George, but I am a little tired of his metamorphosis. I know that as soon as he gets into Wales he will have the bright sun of Liberalism appearing over the Cambrian hilltops."

CONSERVATIVES LINE UP 525 CANDIDATES

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—To-night's line-up in the 615 constituencies is as follows: Conservatives, 525; Liberals, 440; Labor, 412.

The Scottish line-up for the election is as follows to date: Unionist, 46; Liberal, 49; Labor, 46; Independent, 2; Unionist free trader, 1; Communist, 4.

There are 68 constituencies in Scotland.

CONFERENCE ON RUM SMUGGLING

United States Representatives Coming to Canada Tuesday—May Discuss Drugs.

OTTAWA, November 24 (Canadian Press). — Unless American representatives to the rum-smuggling conferenre which opens here next Tuesday, raise the question of the narcotic drug traffic, it is not likely that it will be discussed, according to those in touch with arrangements for the parley.

In Canada enforcement of the laws governing improper use of narcotic drugs lies with the Federal, Provincial, and municipal authorities in charge of the administration of criminal justice.

But the Dominion Department of Health exercises special supervision over this branch of law enforcement, and Federal health officials claim that as much "dope" reaches Canada from United States sources as enters the United States from Canadian points.

KINGSTON DOG IS DISTANCE WALKER.

Probably Holds the Record For Long Distance Walkers Among the Canines of the World.

KINGSTON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—"Sammy," the pet collie dog owned by Frank Butler of Ford City, Ont., formerly of this city, probably holds the record for long distance walkers among the canines of the world.

"Sammy" made the round trip between Ford City and Kingston in two weeks time. Mr. Butler and his family lived on Victoria street, this city, and are well known here. Last May they moved to Ford City and took "Sammy" along with them. Evidently "Sammy" got rather lonesome for his old haunts. As two weeks ago Wednesday he was missed from his home in Ford City and ten days later the dog turned up in Kingston, and after going to the old Butler home here, walked to the village of Glenvale, about six miles from this city, and spent the day with relatives of the Butler family and then returned to Kingston. Friends here wrote to Mr. Butler telling him about the dog being here. After making his rounds in Kingston "Sammy" started back for Ford City, and a letter received in the city today states that he arrived there on Wednesday with very sore feet after his long tramp of eight hundred miles.

TARIFF PEG ON IMPORTED HAT

Winston Churchill Expounds Alleged Illusions of Protectionists.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable) —Gladstone's collars used to be the joy of caricaturists but nowadays it is one of Winston Churchill's hats, which they always depict as a world too small for him. At a meeting last night in West Leicester, where Churchill is the Liberal candidate, he held up his own hat and one borrowed from a reporter and proceeded to expound the alleged illusions of the protectionists if they thought putting a duty on hats would keep out the foreign article.

"If the foreign hat remained out of the country,' Churchill said, "there would be no revenue from tariffs, and if it came in it would displace British labor. The protectionist cannot have it both ways."

Mrs. Winston Churchill is energetically visiting the factories employing thousands of women, voters' wives.

Churchill's opponents in the contest, Captain Alfred Instone, Conservative, and Pethwick Lawrence, Labor are getting diligent in seeking votes.

Winston Churchill is the first prominent speaker in the present election campaign to feel the effects of the pace. He cancelled the speech he was to have given at Manchester on Monday owing to overwork and overstrain.

GRAND SHOWS TO COMMENCE ON TIME

Patrons at the Grand Opera House are asked to note that at tonight's presentation of "Just Married," the performance of the Dumbells on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week and all future road shows the curtain at the Grand will go up sharp at 8.15 o'clock. This policy will be rigidly adhered to and patrons are asked to co-operate by being in their seats before 8.15 o'clock. Late arrivals disturb the enjoyment of the audience and interfere with the work of the artists on the stage and in fairness to both may I respectfully urge upon all our patrons that henceforth they make it a point to be seated before the advertised hour for the start of the performance.

There will be no matinee of "Cheerio" on Wednesday.

H W BICKELL,
Manager Grand Opera House.

CONFERENCE ON RUM RUNNING NEXT WEEK

OTTAWA, Nov. 23. — (Canadian Press).—A conference between Canada and the United States in regard to the prevention of rum-running is now set to open here on Tuesday next, November 27. The conference is expected to last for two days. No official programme for the discussion has been announced, but it has been reported that it may include the administration of the anti-narcotic as well as of the liquor laws.

Racing Town is Erased By Fire

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 24,—(Canadian Press).—Tia Juana, just across the border from here, virtually was wiped out by fire late yesterday, according to word received here.

Hurried calls have been sent for ambulances from San Diego. Early reports mentioned no loss of life.

LOCAL MARKET WIDE VARIETY

Two-year-old Beef Heart For 35 Cents Among Offerings.

Signs of winter's approach were heralded on the farmer's market this morning by the appearance of several sleighs, the first of the season. Their owners possibly may have been able to slide in during the early morning hours, but the appearance of the snow's remnants at a late hour this morning were very far from the beautiful white generally associated with it. A quantity of heavy black slush covered the ground on the open section of the market at eleven o'clock to-day. Vendors shivered at the curb, in the raw, chilly air, and the big fowls in the open crates had none of their usual jaunty demeanor.

A gentleman with a drop on his nose, studied an open note-book with a studious, absent-minded look.

Eggs were a golden commodity on the market this morning. Their price had advanced by fifty per cent. from last weeks' price, when they sold for fifty cents a dozen. This morning, anyone who was fortunate enough to pick up the depleted quantity paid seventy-five cents for a dozen of the precious things.

Fowl was very low in price, and there was lots of it.

One could purchase a large eleven-pound turkey for 35 cents a pound, or a small, light bird, for 28 cents a pound. Thirty cents was the general price. Chickens were selling from 20 to 25 cents a pound, ducks from 27 to 30 cents, and geese 25 to 27 cents. Butter, fairly plentiful, ranged in price from 40 to 45 cents a pound, and cream was 30 cents a pint. A golden pie squash was selling for 30 cents.

In the open section, there was plenty of pork for sale, and some lamb, the former at 16 and 18 cents a pound, the latter at 20 and 25. Potatoes were very scarce, the few bags on view asking $1.60 apiece. Mixey honey was 10 cents a pound.

There was a good assortment of roots for sale, with celery and big Savoy cabbages on the small tables which a couple of the dealers are using to supplement their cart space. Piled high with various vegetables, they stand on the curb.

Turnips were 05 cents a bag, onions 75 cents a peck, and beets 40 cents. The enterprising gentleman with the tomato supply had the last of his product for sale this morning, looking slightly nipped in the chilly air.

Big barred rock fowls in crates were selling for $1.50, Rhode Island Reds were $1 and $1.25, and White Leghorns $2.00 apiece. Little, sleepy pigs were $7 a pair, their price following the general downward trend in pork on the hoof just now. A gentleman fondling a beef heart with loving hands, proclaimed its price at 35 cents ,and its age as two years.

The fish man had little, delicate fresh herring at 10 cents a pound, and big salmon trout at 24 cents a pound.

A dealer in woollen yarns and blankets had an interested audience, fingering the warm-looking things.

Several loads of wood were on the open section, one of elm at $8, one, "all soft wood," at $6, and mixed load at $10.

Reports on the market this morning indicate a general desire for rain. Many farmers are drawing water for miles, and a general very dry condition is widespread throughout the surrounding district.

THREE FATAL ACCIDENTS IN SASKATOON YESTERDAY

SASKATOON, Sask., November 24 (Canadian Press). — Three fatal accidents were reported to the Provincial Police here yesterday.

Leafe Hagn, a farmer of Farmingdale, Sask., was killed in a hunting accident; Mrs. R. J. Somers was drowned in a well at her home near Senlac; and John Kelly, a harvester, of Kelfield, Sask., died from injuries received when he fell from a waggon.

INDIAN BAND CEDED RIGHTS CROWN LANDS

Royal Commission Visited in This District—Curve Lake Band Will Receive $92,000 of the Total Sum of $500,000

AT THE POW WOW

OTTAWA, November 24. Canadian Press.— The Royal Commission appointed by the Dominion and Ontario governments jointly to investigate the claims of the Chippawa and Mississauga Indians for compensation for the loss of hunting and fishing grounds in Central and Notrhern Ontario, has awarded the sum of $500,000 to the Indians.

This sum will be paid immediately by the Ontario government.

The award of $500,000 will double the capital already held in trust by the Department of Indian affairs for these Indians, and it will be divided equally between the two tribes.

An initial payment from this sum is now being made, as many of the Indians interested are in urgent need of help.

The Royal Commission which passed through Peterboro on Nov. 13th consisted of A. S. Williams, N. McFadden and R. B. Sinclair.

The Curve Lake Reserve was visited on Nov. 14th and others were approached in turn.

At the Curve Lake Reserve a powwow was held and the Commission debated by the Indians in a lengthy session, the Commission saying that the lands in dispute were Crown Lands to which the Indians had established no treaty rights.

The Indians contended that they had hunted and trapped there from time immemorial, and said that gave them the continued right so to do.

On representation from the Commission however they finally decided to accept the terms offered as being the best they were likely to receive The tract of land surrendered is bordered by the Ottawa River, Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay. This is absolutely surrendered to the Crown and the Indians received $500,000, of which about $92,000 will go to the Curve Lake Band.

In their address to theIndians, the Commissioners said: "It is one thing to ask for a thing, and another thing to deserve it. We have been very much struck with the integrity of the Indians and have resolved among ourselves that we must be fair with them. When the declarations were sent in by this and other bands several years ago were received at the Indian Department, they were referred to Mr. Sinclair. That was the beginning of this claim that had slept for 70 years, during which time many of the claimants had moul

LABOR CANDIDATE MAYOR WINNIPEG

S. J. Farmer Re-elected on Platform of the Independent Labor Party and a Variety of Issues.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24.— (Canadian Press.)—S. J. Farmer, Labor, yesterday was re-elected Mayor of Winnipeg, by a majority of 4,899. The unsuccessful candidate was Robert Jacob. The contest was fought on a variety of issues, including the record of Mr. Farmer as mayor during the past year, and the platform of the Independent Labor Party, which endorsed his candidature. The policy and personnel of the Winnipeg Civic Association which brought Mr. Jacob into the field, the alleged intentions of the Winnipeg Electric Railway in the matter of their city franchise and the general question of public utilities and city Hydro system in particular, were other issues.

The British Elections

(By WICKHAM STEED)

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Copyright).—When asked for the real reason of this election recently a Cabinet Minister said: "After Baldwin turned the protection tap half on in his Plymouth speech he found he could not turn it off again, and now he is obliged to turn it full on."

Much inquiry to many quarters convinces me that this explanation is the true one, although totally insufficient to justify the Prime Minister in jeopardizing the position the late Bonar Law created last winter when he liberated the country from the Lloyd George Coalition.

I am convinced also that the most sanguine Conservatives do not expect a majority sufficiently large to carry a serious protection program into effect. Unless the Conservatives actually gain seats, Premier Baldwin's position is shaken because he would find himself powerless to apply the policy wherefor he had sought a mandate from the people. If the Conservatives lose seats the discredit to the Premier within his own party will probably compel him to resign.

Labor leaders are seriously counting upon the possibility that the King may send for Ramsay Macdonald, as head of the second strongest party, in such an event, especially if Labor succeeds in capturing ten or twenty additional seats. These calculations seem to me to be too confident.

The Liberals have as good a chance as Labor of returning to Parliament the second strongest party, and therefore of becoming the official Opposition, although nothing yet warrants the extreme Liberal hopes of such a landslide as will give the Liberals an actual working majority.

A Short Run.

The best judges incline to the view that the new Parliament will be shorter lived than the old since the absence of a stable majority of any kind would necessitate a fresh dissolution. Were the home situation alone in question this supposition possibly would be accurate, but the threatening outlook in Europe and the expediency of British influence not being nullified over an incalculable period may falsify all calculations.

This week France tasted the first fruits of isolation into which the Ruhr policy was steadily driving her. At the Paris conference of the Ambassadors' Council, Premier Poincare wisely, although unwillingly, gave ground in order to escape the danger of having to confront, single-handed, the growing difficulties and dangers of the German chaos. Dissatisfaction with Poincare's handling of the situation is now audibly expressed in France for the first time since the Ruhr occupation. French Liberals are taxing him with exposing the country to the perils of isolation, while the Nationalists accuse him of weakness.

The King of Spain's visit to Rome accompanied by rumors of an Italo-Spanish alliance against France in the Mediterranean and North Africa, also disquiet French opinion. Fear lest the British election results in Lloyd George's resumption of office likewise makes Poincare anxious not to weaken Baldwin's chances by a rupture with Great Britain. Yet events in Germany may any moment precipitate a fresh Anglo-French crisis and sharpen British resentment against Baldwin's decision to bring on an unwanted general election at this juncture.

Speaking yesterday, Lord Derby, Secretary of War and former Ambassador at Paris, dealt significantly with the foreign situation. He agreed with Lloyd George that peace in Europe would do more to cure British unemployment than any legislation within this country. He thought that the French occupation of the Ruhr, though mistaken from the standpoint of reparations, had taught the Germans for the first time that they were a beaten nation and had created a German will to pay. But he likewise thought that that occupation might also destroy Germany's capacity to pay unless France, Britain, the other Allies and America examine closely into the economic condition of Germany and quickly hammer out some solution. He asked France to raise no obstacles to such an inquiry, claiming that Baldwin had made greater progress toward an agreement with Poincare last August than Lloyd George had made in countless seaside conferences. Derby therefore urged France to lose no precious time.

Should France heed this appeal and accept a serious inquiry wherein the United States could share before polling day, Baldwin's chances would assuredly improve. But the very fact that Derby thus appealed to France proves the intimate bearing of the European situation upon British electoral prospects and adds yet another uncertainty to an already thoroughly uncertain position.

PETERBOROUGH

LEADER OF CENTRAL ONTARIO HIGHWAYMEN CAUGHT AT LAST

Have Long List of Hold-ups and Burglaries On Their Record, Including Thefts Around Peterboro — Lindsay Man Said to Be Confederate.

LINDSAY, Nov. 24.—(Special to Examiner).—The people of this district, and especially through Victoria County, are breathing somewhat easier now that the alleged master mind in all the recent burglaries and hold-ups of the past few months is in the toils and has admitted having taken part in many thefts. They are far from being elated over the fact, according to the admission of the chief of the gang, Wm. Anderson, that a Lindsay boy, Russell Perrin, better known as "Tubby," is one of his pals. Perrin has a somewhat inglorious record in the annals of crime, dating from an early age in his career.

List of Burglaries

According to a statement made by police officials, this gang was responsible for the burglary at the Woodville garage, in which some fifteen tires and other supplies were carried off in an auto; also for the big theft at the Oro Creamery, when $300 worth of butter was stolen. The visits to the creameries, etc., around at Peterboro are laid at their doors, as are also the burglaries pulled off at Cobourg and other frontier towns. Perhaps the biggest clean-up was Manning's hardware store at Coldwater where $1800 dollars worth of goods was carried away. Anderson has confessed to these and other thefts.

Anderson is well known to many in Lindsay, and the story told that he got the wound in the head while hunting near this town is generally doubted. Both he and his pal gave Lindsay a wide berth, especially in day time.

Trussed Up Farmer

Anderson and Perrin, pulled off a theft at Flos township in Simcoe County on Sunday, Nov. 11, which places them in the category of real bandits. Lorne Draper was the victim of the hold-up, and the facts of the case are as follows: About mid night men in an Overland car drove into Draper's yard, roused him and asked him for gasoline. He started for his gasoline tank, and as he mad, his way across the yard, one of the men stepped from behind the car, poked a rifle in his face and ordered him to hold up his hands. It was quite dark, and befor, his hands went up Draper was quick enough to get rid of $300 in bills which he had in one pocket. The roll he threw on the ground. In another pocket, however h, had $80, and this the bandits got.

After this proceeding they took Draper to the barn and tied him loosely by feet and arms to a waggon wheel, putting a sack over his head. Draper, however, managed to work himself free and running out the back of his barn reached the house and got a shot gun just as the robbers were about to enter the house. He fired two shots and the bandits ran leaving their rifle, a scarf and cap behind.

Search For Perrin

The police here are on the lookout for Perrin, but he will hardly come to his home town. He is a married man and a brother of Lindsay Perrin, who is associated with Arlie Marks (his wife) in theatrical business. The arrest of "Tubby" is expected to take place before many days.

WARKWORTH MAN DIED IN STORE

Samuel Oliver, Suddenly Stricken, Died Before Doctor Arrived.

WARKWORTH, November 24. — Mr. Samuel Oliver, a prominent merchant and a life long resident of Warkworth, died very suddenly yesterday. Mr. Oliver was in his usual health but was stricken while he was sitting in his store, about five o'clock, and died before medical attendance arrived.

The deceased was 65 years of age, a prominent Mason of long standing and closely associated with the Methodist church, being secretary treasurer of the Trustee Board.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Mr. Nesbitt Oliver, of the Union Bank of Canada, Warkworth, and a daughter, Mrs. Gordon Penny, of Hamilton, Ont.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon, November 26th, and will be in charge of the Masonic Order.

SHIP LIQUOR TREATY GENERALLY APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The counter proposals of the British Government regarding the ship liquor and rum smuggling treaty reached the British Embassy for presentation to the United States State Department. Although heretofore no official word had been received as to the British proposals, their nature had been fully reported in press despatches from London, and there is little doubt that they are generally acceptable. A treaty agreement will be drawn up for signature in the near future and submitted for ratification by the Senate.

LORD'S DAY ACT NOT APPLICABLE

Claims British Columbia Counsel, Referring to Statute Enacted in 1625 Under Charles I.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 24. — (Canadian Press).—That the Lord's Day Act does not govern British Columbia, but that a statute enacted in the reign of King Charles I. of England, in 1625, governing Sunday observance, was the law in this Province, was the contention of Wendall Farriss, K.C., in Police Court here yesterday in connection with charges against Miss Laverock of violating the Lord's Day Act in promoting a Sunday concert.

Magistrate Shaw adjourned the hearing for a week to consider the question raised.

RENEWS REQUEST FOR PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY.

Victoria Council Approve Good Road From Lindsay to Peterboro.

LINDSAY, Nov. 24.—At the session of the County Council yesterday Reeve O'Reilly brought up the question of the road between Peterborough and Lindsay being made a Provincial highway. Members of the Council favored the scheme. A resolution was passed by the Council in 1920 in favor of the project, and yesterday the Council decided to renew the application to the department to have the work start as soon as possible.

The Peterborough Council and Chamber of Commerce have gone on record as favoring the scheme.

Gold Ore Found West of Sudbury.

SUDBURY, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—It leaked out here yesterday that prospectors have struck a vein of rich gold ore about 22 miles northwest of Sudbury, about two hundred yards off the Canadian National Railway, and that a shaft thirty feet deep has been driven by John Johnson and associates in the past week.

The vein has widened out to fourteen inches at that depth and assays completed yesterday show values averaging twenty-eight dollars per ton. Samples shown here have tiny nuggets of pea size imbedded in rock. Negotiations for an option were opened yesterday by a Sudbury syndicate.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

William Gillott Fell and Broke His Leg on Slippery Sidewalk.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 24. — Mr. W. J. E. Gillott, who had the misfortune to fall while coming from the Post Office on Friday evening, breaking his left leg above the ankle. Mr. Gillott had been washing his motor hearse and was wearing long rubber boots; when crossing in front of the Armouries he slipped on the smooth space where the newly-fallen snow had tempted the school boys to take advantage of the incline for a slide.

Dr. H. A. Turner was called in and pronounced the break a bad one requiring probably five weeks before the injured member could be used again.

A meeting of the Mothers' Allowance Board for the county of Durham, was held in the council chamber, Bowmanville on Friday, the members being, F. W. Galbraith, Port Hope, chairman; Mr. W. A. Van Camp, Burketon, vice-chairman; Mrs. A. L. Nichols, Bowmonville, secretary; Mr. H. Bland, Cavan and Miss Pearl Burnham, Millbrook.

In the town of Bowmanville there are six beneficiaries from the fund at present, and another application was considered. Millbrook has not at present any one receiving assistance from this source, the recipients of which are not in any sense considered a charity but as wards of the government doing a work of national importance in training their children at home rather than being obliged to place them elsewhere for care.

In Durham at present there are thirty beneficiaries on the list, the amount paid out between November 1920, and July 1923 being $19,457.

In Ontario there are 3,840 families receiving aid from the Mothers' Allowance Board, with 11,818 children. The amount paid out in the province in July was $136,770.

George Elson, Ewart Tucker, Ernest Burnham and Jim Larmer motored to Bowmanville on Friday to attend the Boys' Conference which is being held there over this week end. It is expected that at least three hundred boys representing the C.S.E.T. organizations of this district, will answer the roll-call on Saturday.

Rev. S. T. Tucker was unable to be present at the evangelistic service on Friday evening having contracted a severe cold necessitating his having to remain in bed for a few days. He hopes to be out again by Sunday, the final day of the campaign.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Nov. 24.—On Wednesday evening the Methodist Church met. The programme was provided by the Social and Literary Department. Christmas Gifts

A shoe bag is one of the most useful gifts you can make for the friend who is short or closet space.

The simplest type to make is of figured cretonne bound with ribbon or with tape, and fitted with brass rings by which it may be secured to the closet door.

Use a square of material about a yard wide, and have at least two rows of pockets made by adding two folds of the material, a foot wide, held in pleats to give the necessary fullness. A pair of ribbon covered shoe trees stuck in one of the pockets will enhance the value of the gift.

SECRETARY'S BRANCH OF POSTAL SERVICE HAS BEEN COMPLETED

From the Standpoint of Economy and Efficiency the Result Is Very Gratifying.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—The re-organization of the Secretary's Branch and the Postal Service Branch of the Post Office Department has been completed. From the standpoint of economy and efficiency, the result is very gratifying.

When it is considered that, notwithstanding the fact that during the re-organization period the work of the department has been kept up to date and that a number of important additional services to the public have been inaugurated, it has been possible to reduce the number of positions in these two branches by 52, some idea of the benefits derived from this organization can be better understood. It has, moreover, been possible to provide the employees who are carrying on more important duties with salaries more commensurate with the responsibilities of their positions and still show a saving of about $37,000 per annum. This saving has been made possible by the institution of a greatly improved procedure, which not only admits of the work being carried on more efficiently, but has also made it possible to extend the activities of the two branches in question, as well as those of the department as a whole.

The work of re-organization was carried out by representatives of the Post Office Department and the Civil Service Commission.

SMALL POTATOES.

In a neighbouring city a few days ago a deputation of the Council was being chosen to wait upon the Dominion Government in the interest of some local project, and the suggestion was made that care be taken to select only those aldermen who were of the same political stripe as the Government on the principle that a more cordial response would likely be obtained.

That suggestion seems to the Examiner an unwarranted reflection upon the Federal Government.

If there ever was a time when in order to get consideration from a Dominion or Provincial administration it was necessary to window-dress the deputation with supporters of that particular Government, it has long since passed.

There is surely no Government in this country at the present time either at Ottawa or in any of the Provinces so blindly partizan and so small in stature that it would refuse fair consideration to any municipal request simply because it was advanced by a deputation not all of the same political beliefs as itself, or that it would be swayed into granting concessions merely because those entrusted with presenting the case had been carefully selected from among Government supporters.

MR. MACDONALD'S POLICY.

Ramsay Macdonald, British Labour leader, gave utterance to some sentiments in his speech at Aberabon on Thursday that may perhaps have been appreciated by his hearers, but that have an unpleasant sound in the ears of Canadians.

Mr. Macdonald strongly depreciated the sending of the best British workmen to the Overseas Dominions, and added that some arrangement should be made by which the Dominions would absorb second-grade workers from the Old Country.

Possibly the head of the British Labour party thinks that industry in the Dominions is in such a condition that any kind of workers will do, and that the overseas portions of the British Empire will be glad to accept immigrants of any type.

Canadian immigration authorities should call Mr. Macdonald's attention to the fact that this country does not propose to allow itself to be made a dumping ground for what the Labour chieftain is pleased to call "second-grade men."

It has a welcome for all immigrants of a calibre suitable for assimilation into this country, and in this category, of course, would not object to a reasonable number of Mr. Macdonald's "second-raters," but when it comes to a question of a British political party endeavouring to keep first-class workmen at home and shipping only those of inferior grade to the Dominions the latter cannot surely be held blame-worthy for objecting to be considered as only fit for a depository for workers not considered in their own country as up to standard.

HAVE HAD ENOUGH.

The farmers of Ontario have had their fling at politics, and have arrived at the conclusion that the game is not worth the candle, if the list of resolutions to be submitted at the forthcoming convention may be accepted as a criterion, says the Hamilton Spectator. Seven out of ten motions are in favor of withdrawal of the U.F.O. from the political field. The last Provincial elections showed unmistakably how the land lay, the disagreement between the leaders completing the debacle. It has apparently been decided that little is to be gained from this course, for the farmers are reverting in large numbers to their former political allegiances. The remnant which still clings to the hope of salvation through independent political action is a small one, which will have little chance of carrying the December convention with it.

Things are not going smoothly in the West either. There is talk of a "reformed Liberal party," composed of Progressives, under the leadership of Hon. T. A. Crerar, ex-Premier Drury, Hon. A. B. Hudson and Mr. A. R. McMaster. The Liberals paid serious court to the Progressives, but met with little response. It is thought these attentions will be renewed at the next session, particularly towards the Ontario group. A week ago the Canadian Council of Agriculture met in Winnipeg and proclaimed itself to be without any political platform. It still adheres to its "principles," in a modified form, but these, it is explained, have no political significance. The Council dissociates itself from any political party. So that East and West it would seem that all faith has been abandoned in the efficacy of parliamentary action. So far as the agriculturists are concerned, the bogey of class government has vanished into thin air.

AID FOR AGRICULTURE.

A system of Federal grants for agricultural instruction was inaugurated in 1912 and was intended to last for ten years, a million dollars each year being devoted to the purpose.

The King Ministry last year made an appropriation of $900,000 for the fiscal year of 1922-23, but there is a feeling among the Provincial Ministers that this grant may disappear altogether or be considerably cut down, and because of that belief a strong effort is being made to persuade the Dominion Government that there still exists a pressing need for assistance and that the work being carried on is of great benefit to agriculture.

The Ministers of Agriculture in the various Provinces should be in a position to judge fairly and impartially of the nature of the work made possible by this appopriation, and apparently they are unanimous in endorsing the educational facilities made possible by Dominion assistance.

The Provinces manifestly are unable on their own account to accept responsibility for financing the work, and if it is to be continued it can only be maintained with the aid of the Federal Government.

In view of the unanimity with which the Provincial Ministers responsible for agriculture agree upon the desirability of a continuance of the grant, the Ottawa administration will doubtless be impressed with the reasonableness of the request.

FOUR THOUSAND TELEPHONES.

It was announced a short time ago that the four thousandth telephone had been installed in Peterborough.

That indicates two things—the growth of the city and a steadily increasing realization of the fact that the telephone is a necessity and not a luxury.

In five years the number of 'phones in Peterborough has grown from 2,760 to 4,000, an increase of 1,240 telephones.

To every subscriber such an increase means better service.

That feature may have escaped general notice, but it is nevertheless true, and there is a marked difference between telephone service and other public utilities in this respect.

It is of no particular benefit to you when your neighbor instals electric light in his house—it adds nothing to the utility of your lighting facilities. The same is true of gas or of the city water service.

You are quite independent, as regards your use of these utilities, of what other householders may do.

But it becomes of immediate concern to you when your neighbor instals a telephone.

Now you can talk to him at any hour of the day or night—you can summon him to your aid in an emergency.

Each additional telephone installed in Peterborough adds to the value of and increases the scope of the service, and therefore the announcement that the Bell Telephone has now 4,000 'phones in operation here is of more than passing interest.

The company has kept pace with the forward progress of Peterborough—it has spent many thousands of dollars here in improving and extending its service, and it is to be congratulated upon that fact, as is Peterborough, upon having attained a growth that makes 4,000 telephones a necessity.

THE LATIN REVIVAL.

While on this side of the water, we are watching the exchange of views between Paris and London for our "big news" as to what is going on in European politics, it is just possible that we could learn more by turning our eyes upon Rome. For the first time in so long that it would require a dip into history to find precedents, there are strong Governments in power simultaneously in Italy and Spain. In both countries, an incapable and corrupt travesty on democracy has given way to government by the sword.

We may regret the necessity; but we cannot fail to realize that two Governments which retain office by the sheer prestige of their military strength, and which can best hold the imagination of their peoples by dramatic and aggressive foreign policies, are very likely to jump at near and easy opportunities to display their prowess. Mussolini showed this disposition when he rushed his fleet down to Corfu without waiting for either the anaemic League of Nations or the dignified Council of Ambassadors to move. He showed it again when he thrust the Italian finger into the decidedly indigestible Tangier pie. And now he is in close and secret counsel with General Primo de Riviera, the Spanish Dictator.

Italy and Spain, united and militant, can exercise a great deal of power in the pivotal Mediterranean. Yet hitherto their influence in this sea which washes their coasts has been almost negligible. Italy has had nothing to show save an inglorious succession of indecisive actions in Tripoli, and the utter failure of the Spanish campaign in Morocco was one of the causes of the military revolt that upset the sham parliamentary government which had muddled it. But a Mussolini and a Riviera might reverse all this, and restore at least some of the glory that was Spain and the grandeur that was Rome.

* * * *

With the disappearance of Germany as a dominant Continental Power, the weight of authority in Europe inevitably shifts to the south. France is today the commanding military nation of the Old World to which there is no effective counterbalance outside of Italy. Most of the new and smaller nations east of the Alps are military satellites of France. We have just had our attention in Canada called pointedly to an illustration of this in the case of Rumania, which has received a large French loan to be expended in France on war munitions for the Rumanian army, but for the repayment of which it is attempted to claim priority over an antecedent Canadian loan for pacific reconstruction. France is arming her allies, though she is not paying her debts.

Italy, even with Mussolini in power, is too small and too impoverished a country to occupy alone the other scale in the balance of power. But an Italian-Spanish Alliance might be a more formidable competitor. Spain is a rich country, inhabited by a poor and unenterprising people; but they are a proud people and might easily be stirred to great exertions by a hero-leader who would promise a restoration of the resounding Spanish glories of the past. There was a time when the King of Spain was a dominant power in Europe; and King Alfonso may possibly be quite willing to essay the role of a Philip or a Charles.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Lady Astor's description of hecklers as "howling hyenas" adds colour to the British campaign.

Just because the newspapers started to call attention to Canada's summer-like early winter climate along came yesterday's snowstorm. It was ever thus.

Canadians generally will congratulate Hon. W. S. Fielding, the Dominion's veteran Minister of Finance, who is celebrating his 75th birthday today.

Deer hunting may be over, but down around Kingston a lively tiger hunt is in full swing today. When it is all over the smile may be on the face of the Tiger—but likely not.

New York has started an intensive campaign against bandits. The courts should co-operate by seeing that every prisoner convicted gets the maximum penalty.

The ranks of Canadian newspapermen have suffered a severe loss in the sudden death of Mr. Charles Dingman, editor of the Stratford Beacon-Herald.

The best thing about the British election campaign is that it will be all over in less than two weeks.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

You know, Christmas takes a lot of preparation. Buy your bootleg now so it will be a month old then.

Let your whiskers grow. Rub a little hair tonic on them daily. They will cover up Christmas neckties.

You will get some handkerchiefs for Christmas. Now is the time to catch cold so you can use them.

Get to work on your indigestion. Have a doctor look it over and patch it up for the coming holidays.

Don't throw away your old gloves now. They are good for a few more miles. You may get new ones Christmas.

And socks—how about your socks? Tell everybody what size you wear so Santa Claus will bring you some.

Do your getting mad early and avoid the rush. Squabble now to avoid giving her a Christmas present.

Who will send you Christmas cards? That's the question. You had better send out about a million.

Who gave you unexpected presents last Christmas? You can get even. Give them presents this year.

How about your enemies? Give them Christmas presents such as folding beds, saxophones and prunes.

As Christmas presents for government employes we suggest hammocks, easy chairs and lounges.

Make people happy this Christmas. Break up your old phonograph records to make neighbors happy.

Do you know a carpenter? Punch a hole in your roof and let him fix it. Make him happy for Christmas.

A Christmas present would cheer the street car conductor. His life is dull since longer skirts.

Give the policemen Christmas presents. Make friends of them. They may help you in a pinch.

The laundry folks need Christmas presents. Sew a million buttons on a shirt for them to tear off.

How about the pressing shop? They need Christmas presents. Give them an old suit to burn as they please.

Buy the bank clerk a Christmas present. Get him some stage money. He can count it without worrying.

Don't forget the plumber. Give him a nice sink all his own so he can sleep under it at home.

A thousand dollars makes a fine gift, but is rather expensive.

Would you like a Christmas present for a grouch? We suggest a nice box of dynamite, labeled "Candy."

Give the boss a Christmas present. Then tell him you must have a raise so you can pay for it.

How about the stenographers? They need Christmas presents. Buy each nine boxes of chewing gum.

Have you finished paying for the Christmas presents you bought last year?

Get something for the home this Christmas. A hammer for cracking nuts, burglars and collectors is fine.

When selecting the children's Christmas toys get two of each. One set is for father to play with.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, November 24. — Considering the large shipments for the week, nearly 10,000 head, they met a fairly good reception at the Union Stock Yards. For the heavy steers there was competition with the exporters for the first time in about two months. The exporters did not pay any higher than the previous week for the 200 bought, but those taken by the packers brought 20c to 25c a cwt. higher. About 300 exporters were bought direct in the country to make up this week's shipment, and for these as high as 7.00 a cwt. was paid. For export feeders the cost was from $5.25 to $6.00 a cwt. on this market.

In all the good butchers the market showed a betterment of about 25c a cwt. over the previous week. Choice butchers have been in demand and scarce, and for a specially good bullock Frank Hunnisett paid $7.75 a cwt., the top for the week. For heavy fat steers other packers paid $6.75 to $7.25, and good quality butchers were generally dealt in at about 75c a cwt. below this.

In the butchers' cows and bulls the supply was not too heavy, and prices were quite steady. Good to choice cows sold up to $5.00 a cwt., and bulls about the same. Good, useful cows were from $3.75 to $4.25 and the plain common cows $3.00 to $3.25. Packers were prepared to take the large number of canners which always arrive at this time of the year, and the majority of these did not get as high as 2 cents a pound. Bologna bulls were from 2 1-2c to 3c a pound.

Short keeps, 1,100 pounds and up, sold from $5.25 to $5.75, but the rougher feeders were only bringing $4.75 to $5.00 a cwt. Two-year-old steers around 800 pounds each held close to $4.25 a cwt., and some poor quality yearlings were selling at $3.25 a cwt. In milchers and springers, the market was satisfactory this week, with steady prices. Backward springers were a slow market, however, and few were held over for the week-end.

The calf market is holding remarkably steady, and with very little surplus. Good veal calves are readily taken from 10 1-2c to 11 1-2c. Medium to good sell from 8c to 9c, and common heavies, 5c to 6c.

A large arrival of lambs weakened this market on Wednesday, and the price for ewes was back to 10 3-4c a pound. Earlier in the week 11 1-2c was paid. Fe loads of lambs now coming in are as light as would be liked, and the market is mainly sustained by purchase made for cold storage. Handyweight sheep keep quite firm at 6 1-2c to 7c, owing to a light supply.

The hog market has been unsettled all week, during which the packers' bid has remained unchanged at $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. Current reports credit some packers with paying higher prices at country points.

Butter — No special or pasteurised grades quoted. Creamery 38 to 38 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 24 (Canadian Press). — With selling free and support lacking, wheat prices took a downward slide yesterday, influenced more or less by an outlook that world shipments for the week would be large, but from North America would be small.

The close was heavy, 3-8c to 1 1-8c net lower, December $1.02 7-8 to $1.02 7-8 to $1.03, and May $1.08 1-4 to $1.08 3-8.

Corn finished at 1-2c to 3-4 decline; oats 1-4c to 5-8c to 3-4c off; loss to 10c advance.

Disturbed conditions in Germany contributed to the bearish sentiment in the wheat trade, and news that an agreement had been signed between the French Government and German industrial magnates in the Ruhr came too late for any effect on the market. Assertions that the United States visible supply total on Monday would amount to as much as 75,000,000 bushels counted also as a depressing factor, despite further falling off in arrivals at primary points.

Corn and oats declined with wheat. Receipts of corn were larger, and a liberal movement in the near future was expected.

Provisions moved lower as a result of weakness of hog values.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, November 24 (Canadian Press). — Cattle receipts, 4,000; fed steers and yearlings scarce, but steady; killing quality plain; bulk, $7.25 to $9.00; best steers, $9.75; yearlings, $9.50; she stock 10c to 25c higher; fat cows, $4.00 to $5.25; heifers, $4.75 to $6.50; canners, $2.35 to $2.65; strong weights up to $2.75; cutters upward to $3.35; bulls steady heavy bolognas, $4.00 to $4.25; vealers to packers, $7.75 to $8.25; outsiders paying upward to $9.00; stockers and feeders steady.

Hogs, receipts 49,000; steady to 10c lower; closed active; bulk good and choice 210 to 325 pound butchers $7.00 to $7.25; top, $7.50; desirable 160 to 200 yound average, $6.60 to $6.95; packing sows, $6.50 to $6.75; desirable weighty killing pigs, $6.00 to $6.40; estimated holdover 9,000.

Sheep receipts 6,000; fat lambs, steady to strong; others and fat sheep steady; bulk desirable grades, $12.35 to $12.50; top, $12.60; cull natives, $9.50 to $10.00; bulk fat ewes, $5.00 to $6.50.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, Nov. 24.—The thirty-third annual convention of South Monaghan and Cavan Sunday School will be held in Fairmount Methodist Church, afternoon and evening, on Monday, December 4.

Amongst those from this district who are in Toronto for the Royal Fair are Mr. and Mrs. H. Tinney, Wm. Swain and Mr. and Mrs. I. Wood.

Mrs. Robt. Hooton of Fairmount spent a few days this week with her sister, Mrs. Jas. Douglas.

Oakley Carley and Clifford Elliott attended the Tuxis Boys' banquet in Peterborough on Tuesday evening.

Howard Staples of Balsover was a visitor to Cavan last week.

Josh. Swain is visiting friends in Mariposa.

Robt. Hooton as a visitor to Lindsay last week.

BAILIEBORO LADIES HAD A GOOD BAZAAR

Proceeds May be Used to Light Up the Town.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 23. — The Ladies' Institute, of Bailieboro, held their bazaar and five o'clock tea in the Forester's Hall on Wednesday.

The bazaar was opened at three o'clock by Reeve Anderson, of South Monaghan, and Reeve McCamus, of Cavan.

The goods supplied by the ladies found ready purchasers, and at five o'clock there was very little left.

A candy and fish pond was also operated by the young ladies. Several guessing contests provided excitement for the young people.

The tea commenced at five o'clock and the waitresses were kept busy until 7:30 o'clock serving those who came for supper.

The amount realized from the bazaar and tea amounted to $167. This money will probably be used to help install lighting system for the town.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Nov. 23—The convention held at Camborne under auspices of the Ontario Council of Religious Education, was one of the outstanding ones of the three held in West Northumberland. It was marked by deep interest, virility and inspirational teaching. There was a fair attendance in the afternoon of deeply interested workers, and in the evening the attendance was good. Mr. Charles Moffatt, township president, presided. Rev. S. E. Ferguson, Baltimore, read the Scripture lesson, and Rev. T. G. McKee lead in prayer.

The report of schools was received. Those present from each school were asked to stand and from among them a nominating committee was selected, this means being taken to secure one that was thoroughly representative.

The different officers next presented satisfactory reports of the year's work, which were most cordially received.

Dr. Fletcher of the Ontario Council of Religious Education, addressed the convention, giving an address of outstanding merit and illuminative suggestion. His subject was "A Graded School and the Grading of a County School"

Should Attend S. S. at Four Years

Dr. Fletcher said all country schools should be graded according to age. Every child of the age of four years should attend Sunday School. That is the age at which they graduate from the Cradle Roll Department. At the age of four they should be enrolled in a beginner's class. If a child does not go to Sunday School until six years of age, said Dr. Fletcher, that child will never regain what it lost in the two years at that period. He took up the timely subject of the grading of schools in a practical educative way.

Round Table Conference

After Dr. Fletcher's instructive address an interesting Round Table Conference was held, ably presided over by Mrs. A. R. Harper, Coldsprings. Teacher Training, the Grading of Schools, and other timely subjects were animatedly discussed in the conference. Rev. J. S. Ferguson said that, owing to so many organizations being in existence now among the young people, he thought the question of teacher training should be introduced into our C.G.I.T. groups and among our Tuxis Squares. Dr. Fletcher thought each church or community should have a teacher training course, and he would strongly advise separate classes for this. If the work could be done in no other way, he would advise its being done as Mr. Ferguson suggested.

No Graded Schools in Hamilton Township

A long discussion took place on the grading of county schools. At present there is not a graded school in Hamilton township, it is stated. Many ministers and Sunday School workers took interested part in the discussion and the concensors of opinion at the close was, that the schools should be graded in the future, the general expression being that this work should be taken up.

The New Township Officers

The nominating committee presented its report of officers for the coming year as follows:

President—Mr. A. E. Snelgrove, Cambourne.

Vice-President—Mr. Wilbert Cole, Plainville.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. Herbert Davey, Baltimore.

Plainville was chosen as the next place of meeting.

Expression of Regret

After other business had been transacted, Rev. T. G. McKee moved and Rev. J. S. Ferguson seconded a resolution conveying the regret of the convention because of Dr. Fletcher's expected removal from our Province, and of deep appreciation of his service and help to the rural schools of Ontario. Dr. Fletcher had devoted five years to Ontario Religious Education work in the rural parts of Ontario, covering every township. Dr. Fletcher expects to go to the United States shortly to take a position there.

The Supper Hour

The ladies of the Women's Missionary Society of the Cambourne church provided an appetizing supper, and a pleasant social hour was spent.

Evening Session

The evening session opened with Mr. Moffatt, president, in the chair. Mr. Wilbert Cole read the Scripture lesson and Mr. Eldred Lean led in prayer.

Splendid Addresses

Rev. W. A. Bremner, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Cobourg, gave a fine address on "The Value of Vision in Sunday School Work," in which he paid a high tribute to this most important phase of church service, emphasizing also the way in which we can do our best work, and hope to realize the best results.

Dr. Fletcher spoke on the important subject of "Early Soil, Selected Seed, and Assurance of Harvest."

The musical part of the service was also much enjoyed, the choir gave two special anthems, and Mr. W. Cole sang a much appreciated solo.

Votes of Thanks

Rev. J. S. Ferguson and Rev. H.A. Bunt moved a vote of thanks to all who had taken part in the programme or contributed in any way to the success of the convention. This closed one of the most successful conventions ever held in Hamilton Tp.

ANNUAL MEETING BURNBRAE LADIES

Legacy Invested in Victory Bonds—The New Officers.

BURNBRAE, Nov. 24.—The annual meeting of W.M.S. of St. Andrew's church, Burnbrae, was held in the church Wednesday afternoon. A good number of the ladies of the congregation were present.

The Society had one of the best years in its history. The membership was increased during the year and the contributions of the society marked a considerable increase over the previous year.

The legacy of $300 bequeathed by the will of the late Jean Donald, who was a life long member of the Society, was invested in 1927 Victory bonds.

Mrs. Maxwell Anderson was made a life member by the Society during the year.

The officers for 1924: President, Mrs. (Rev.) J. J. Black; 1st vice-president, Mrs. George Craighead; 2nd vice-president, Miss Alice Milne; secretary, Mrs. William Hutcheon; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Hutcheon; Strangers and Social Service secretary, Mrs. Alex. Milne; supply secretary, Mrs. William Little; Messenger secretary, Mrs. John Rannie; press secretary, Mrs. Andrew Milne; Home Helpers secretary, Mrs George Anderson; auditor, Mrs. Clayton Wallace.

Special Service

W.M.S. Thanksgiving service, held at Rylstone church, Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. The congregation was well represented. Rev. J. J. Black gave an inspirational address. A duet was sung by Miss Lillian McKeown and Mrs. Harold Barnum. A recitation by Miss Bessie Mirklejohn. Two musical selections by the choir. A special thankoffering was taken for the work of the Society.

St. Andrew's Y. P.'s Guild met on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The leader for the evening was Miss Freda Hay. Rev. J. J. Black conducted devotional exercises and gave a brief talk on "Who and What is Man," using as a basis for his remarks Dr. Swain's book, "What and Where is God," which the Society is studying this winter. The topic of the evening "The Value of Moral Courage" was taken up by Miss Jean Rannie. An action song by Ruby Collingwood and Fern Wetherill. Solo by Mrs. Charles Milne, Instrumental by Miss Gertrude Nelson. A reading by Mr. Lindsay Anderson.

FRENCH PARLIAMENT ALMOST UNANIMOUS IN ENDORSING POINCARE

Premiers Policies Approved By Vote of 505 to 70—Emphatically Declares Security of France Precedes Maintenance of the Entente.

STAMPEDED CHAMBER

PARIS, November 24, Canadian Press. — The French Parliament by one of the most sweeping votes of confidence in its history, yesterday aproved the policy of the Government of Premier Poincare in the recent negotiations in the Council of Ambassadors with regard to Germany.

The Chamber gave the Premier carte blanche to execute his programme for future forcible action in enforcing complete execution of the Versailles Treaty for the protection of France's national interests and security in accord with the Allies, if possible, but alone if he must. The vote was 505 to 70.

The Premier in an address to the Chamber to-day, did not flinch in his attitude of stern determination to force the Chamber immediately to proclaim either its approval or disapproval of his policy. His words seemed to remove the smouldering discontent expressed by the Deputies in the lobbies of the Chamber during the past week at what was termed the Premier's retreat before Great Britain's viewpoint with regard to the demands to be made upon Germany. The Premier put the responsibility squarely up to the Chamber, declaring that if it was not satisfied with his government it could get some other government to continue the negotiations.

Opposition Wilted.

M. Poincare cut short the discussion in the Chamber, which threatened to extend into the small hours of the morning, by insisting on an expression of plain confidence in the order of the day, without restrictions or qualifications whatsoever, either as to his policy of the past week or his future programme as elaborated.

The opposition with the elections approaching, wilted; no one seemed desirous of assuming responsibility for disapproving the acts of the man whose popularity apparently is supreme throughout the country.

The Premier declared that France would act against Germany with or without the Allies if her security was menaced; that France was ready to face a rupture with the entente, if this became necessary, to protect herself. Germany, he added, would be punished if she did not enable the Inter-Allied Military Control Commission to watch German armaments and if she did not pay indemnity for the attack on members of the Control Commission in Leipigz.

Security First.

M. Poincare declared that the failure of the United States and Great Britain to ratify guaranty pact was at bottom of the present trouble with regard to the Military Control Commission. He placed the responsibility for the lack of penalties in the Ambassadors' notes to Germany upon Great Britain, but declared that France would not wait on the pleasure of the Allies before acting when her security was endangered.

Amid great applause from the Extreme Left Communists to the Extreme Right Royalists, M. Poincare served notice on the world that France would oppose by force of arms any restoration of the Hohenzollern regime in Germany.

An admission of inability to act with the former German Crown Prince, due to a lack of Allied unanimity on this subject, however, somewhat chilled the Chamber.

Entente Attentuated.

When the Premier announced that he considered the question of military control threatened the security of France and that France might be compelled to act alone in the near future, thus emphasizing the precariousness of the accord with Great Britain and the Council of Ambassadors, the Chamber decided that the Premier's summary disposal of the two questions called for wider debate. It therefore altered its programme so as to hear Captain Andre Tardieu, the leader of the National ist bloc, and to discuss both questions at once.

Captain Tardieu declared that nonenforcement of the treaty was the cause for the lack of results. He said M. Poincare must adopt some policy, either in connection with the Allies or separately. The Premier's policy in the Ruhr and the Orient had achieved no results.

"Enforce the treaty integrally and the difficulties of allied control will not present themselves" the speaker asserted.

Political Attack.

M. Poincare's reply to Captain Tardieu's criticisms stampeded the Chamber. In great oratorical form, the Premier demanded of his most severe critics what policy he would have followed—whether he would have risked disruption of the entente He charged that Captain Tardieu was acting from political, not national motives in attacking the government, which he declared for three years had endeavored to get the maximum out of the treaty

MILLBROOK IMPROVES THE EXHIBITION PARK

A New Grand Stand Will Be Erected in Near Future—Grain Deliveries.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 23.—Considerable improvements that are of community interest are under way at the Agricultural Park in preparation for the proposed up-to-date baseball diamond and athletic grounds, and the building of the new grand stand. All the old sagging fences which divided the enclosure within the race-track into the various rings, have been removed, and the ground plowed and disced, ready to be seeded down when the spring comes and weather permits. Temporary, portable fences will be used at the time of the fall fair for division purposes. Plans for the grand stand are under consideration. It is to be a covered structure and will be situated so it can be used in watching the ball games, etc., another season; the old one, which has been practically unsafe for some years, was too far away from the diamond to attract spectators. Through the kindness of their directors and members the Agricultural Societyh as largely secured volunteer labor for their share of the work which is under the joint auspices of this organization and a committee appointed by the reunion executive.

The latter have offered to meet the Agricultural Society half way in the expense of the undertaking, the surplus of nearly $600 from the reunion in August being devoted to this worthy purpose. The stand will seat approximately 500 people, and with the other improvements completed, will make the Agricultural Park a valuable asset to the community. A. J. Fallis, M. P. P.; J. J. Clarke, and W. G. Sayles are the committee from the reunion executive.

Grain Deliveries

Grain deliveries at the elevator are, so far, less than last year, though prices are about equal. Apparently the crops were fully up to those of one year ago but either because the farmers are behind with their fall plowing, and are very busy taking advantage of the fine weather or for some other reason, less grain is being marketed than at the same time last season. About two-thirds of the usual quantity of peas are offered, the price being $1.25 per bushel. Fall wheat is 95, rye and buckwheat 70 cents, and barley 58 cents per bushel. The inflated war prices are evidently a thing of the past.

Gave a Tea

Miss S. Dean was hostess for a delightful tea on Tuesday afternoon, about 20 guests accepting the kind invitation to be present. The time passed only too rapidly as friendships were renewed and social intercourse enjoyed. The occasion was all the more pleasant as a number of the guests, though old friends, do not frequently have the opportunity of meeting and the hospitality of Miss Dean's cosy home made this possible under the most favorable auspices. Those present included: Mrs. L. S. Clarry, Mrs. A. Ferguson, Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. E. S. Burnham, Mrs. T. B. Collins, Mrs. J. C. Kells, Mrs. T. Gillott Mrs. W. O'Brien Mrs. John Fallis, Mrs. John Allen, Mrs. G. Fowler, Mrs. J. Deyell, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, Mrs. W. H. Byam, Mrs. H. A. Turner, Miss M. O'Brian and Miss P. Burnham, the two latter assisting in the tea-room.

TABLET RECORDS GIFT TO CANADA

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Prince of Wales yesterday handed to Premier King a silver tablet commemorating the gift of the regimental plate of the first battalion of the Leinster regiment to the Dominion of Canada. The tablet records that the plate was given on disbandment of the battalion as a token of regard for the Dominion which gave birth to the battalion, to be held in trust until such time as the battalion is again raised.

The first battalion of the Leinster regiment disbanded last year owing to reorganization of the army following a reduction of the general strength on creation of the Irish Free State.

BUSINESS AND WEATHER FAIR

More Frost Is Needed to Stimulate Trade—Municipalities Go After Taxes in West.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Limited states:

Halifax—Wholesale business continues satisfactory, retail trade slightly improved with fair collections.

St. John —Satisfactory conditions reported in wholesale circles is being maintained. Retail trade is very good notwithstanding the exceptionally fine weather. Collections fair.

Montreal—Wholesale groceries and hardware report business improving, grocery trade being very much better than last year with collections good. Boots and shoes trade report business less than last year though collections are on an average with this period last year. Dry goods holding up fairly well. Mens' clothing sales and collections much better than last year .Retail business fairly satisfatcory.

Toronto — Wholesale conditions generally considered fair. Cold weather needed to add stimulus to sale of seasonable goods. Collections showing slight improvement. Employment situation holding its own though very little demand for clerical help. Mining industry continues fairly active.

Winnipeg —Unseasonable weather continues to retard improvement in wholesale and retail trade locally. Business from points farther west improving slightly. Collections just fair.

Regina — Wholesale trade conditions fair, Retail trade showing signs of improvement but still much to be desired. Collections showing better tone but still inclined to be slow. Colder weather should stimulate sale of heavy goods.

Saskatoon — Wholesalers report business improving. Retail trade fair. Collections improving.

Calgary— Conditions in Southern Alberta are not so promising as a few weeks ago. Many municipalities adopting aggressive collection tactics and consequently diverting money from ordinary trade channels. Grain blockade at numerous points also affects collections.

Vancouver — Wholesale grocery, boots and shoes fair in city. Country reports better. Hardware very good; dry goods for immediate demands quiet. Retailers complaining of slow business on account of mild weather .Hardware collections very fair. Other lines not quite so satisfactory Employment situation good.

Refuse Liquor To Music Halls.

LONDON, November 24 (Canadian Press Cable). — The London County Council yesterday negatived the recommendation of the Theatre Committee of the Council to grant licenses for the sale of liquor to eighteen vaudeville houses.

Many members of the Council supported the proposal to grant the licenses in question on the ground that the Council allows what are virtually full vaudeville performances to take place during and after supper at the leading hotels, and big restaurants where liquor is sold without restriction.

The opponents of the measure urged that the tone of the vaudeville houses had been raised by withholding drink facilities.

Sudbury Muffled In Snow Blanket.

SUDBURY, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—King Winter blew a blast over the North Country yesterday afternoon, and three inches of snow fell here.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The discovery of a method of blood transfusion which not only rejuvenates aged patients submitting themselves to it, but prolongs life, is claimed by Dr. Freedrick Heyman, German consulting surgeon. The method of transfusion adopted, he states, revitalizes the blood of the patient and can be practiced on both sexes.

You Don't Begrudge the Fuel

The Kootenay is a range in which you may put your trust for years of economical service. The saving in coal bills is an evidence of its gratifying efficiency.

And every pound of fuel gives value in cooking and baking service. The Oven is so constructed that the heat completely surrounds it, and it is constructed of heat-retaining, rust-resisting Armco Iron, protected with tough porcelain enamel.

McClary's dealer will clearly show the economy and baking perfection of the Kootenay.

197

OVEN, WHITE-NICKELED
The interior of the Armco-Iron oven is nickeled. Its clean white surfaces radiate heat quickly and evenly, a factor which adds to the economy and baking qualities of the Kootenay. This white-nickeled oven is washable and, of course, resists rust.

McClary's Utensils
High quality and lasting brightness is combined in this enameled ware. There's a McClary's Utensil for every kitchen need.

There is Much Anxiety Over Children's Colds

WE do not mind so much having colds ourselves, for we imagine we can tell when they are getting serious and apply the remedy.

But when the children cough it is different. Especially does the sharp, metallic cough of croup send a thrill through the mother's nervous system.

The trouble is the child does not realize the danger, cannot describe the trouble, and all depends on the prompt action of his elders.

Why not be on the safe side by always keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine on hand for use in case of emergency?

Croup and bad colds usually develop in the night, when it is not convenient to send for treatment, even if you are within reach of a drug store.

Being pleasant to the taste, gentle and soothing in action, and composed of simple ingredients of well-known medicinal value, this medicine is especially suited for children, as a relief from coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, sore throat, whooping cough, etc.

In very many thousands of homes it is the old favorite treatment which has proven its exceptional value so many times that it is depended upon absolutely.

Next to knowing what to use, the most important point is to apply the treatment promptly, and this is why we emphasize the necessity of keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine on hand at all times. For this reason it is well to get in the way of buying the large, family-size bottle. This ensures an adequate supply.

GEORGE MULLER'S FAITH

When I first came to America, thirty-one years ago, I crossed the Atlantic with the captain of a steamer who was one of the most devoted men I ever knew, and when we were off the banks of Newfoundland he said to me:

"Mr. Inglis, the last time I crossed here, five weeks ago, one of the most extraordinary things happened, which has completely revolutionized the whole of my Christian life. Up to that time I was one of your ordinary Christians. We had a man of God on board, George Muller of Bristol.

"I had been on that bridge for twenty-two hours, and never left it. I was startled by someone tapping me on the shoulder. It was George Muller. 'Captain,' he said, 'I have come to tell you that I must be in Quebec on Saturday afternoon.' This was Wednesday.

"'It is impossible,' I said. 'Very well, if your ship can't take me, God will find other means of locomotion to take me. I have never broken an engagement in fifty-seven years.'

"'I would willingly help you. How can I? I am helpless. Let us go down to the chart-room and pray.'

"I looked at that man of God, and I thought to myself, what lunatic asylum could the man have come from? I never heard of such a thing. Mr. Muller,' I said, 'do you know how dense the fog is?' 'No,' he replied, 'my eye is not on the density of the fog, but on the living God, who controls every circumstance of my life.'

"He got down on his knees, and prayed one of the most simple prayers. I muttered to myself: 'That would suit a children's class where the children were not more than eight or nine years old.' The burden of his prayer was something like this: 'O Lord, if it is consistent with Thy will, please remove this fog in five minutes. You know the engagement you made for me in Quebec Saturday. I believe it is Your will.'

"When he finished, I was going to pray; but he put his hand on my shoulder, and told me not to pray. 'First, you do not believe He will; and second, I believe He has, and there is no need whatever for you to pray about it.' I looked at him, and George Muller said this: 'Captain, I have known my Lord for fifty-seven years, and there has never been a single day, that I have failed to gain an audience with the King. Get up, captain, and open the door, and you will find the fog has gone. I got up and the fog was gone!

"You tell that to some people of a scientific turn of mind, and they will say: 'That is not according to natural laws.' No, it is according to spiritual laws. The God with whom we have to do is omnipotent. Hold on to God's omnipotence. Ask believingly. On Saturday afternoon, I may add, George Muller was there on time."—Christian Advocate.

EXPATRIATE

City towers that have prisoned me
Will fade . . . at last . . . from view,
And sounds that hurt will die—I shall know
What things my childhood knew.

I shall find my own red hills again
After long wandering;
I shall see my yellow river—mine!
And I shall hear it sing!

I shall smell the pines once more—my pines
That fling their odors far;
I shall come to where the jessamine
And the violets are.

I shall know again Winter greenness—
The dark and shining leaves
Of dusk, wild olives and of live-oaks,
Where gray moss hangs and grieves.

And all about me there will be—sunshine!—
My sunshine, that is gold
And warm . . . not the pale Northern sunshine
That is silver and cold!

I shall see the far buzzards soaring . . .
High . . . in the blue above;
There will be wild birds calling, calling
In red gullies I love!

And there will be mocking-birds singing;
I shall hear bluejays scream . . .
This time no one will wake me . . . this time
It will not be a dream!

CALLS FOR AN ANSWER
(By J. H. BURNHAM)

To the Editor of THE EXAMINER:

Sir: The shock it was to many people to find that the higher critics in the pulpit had actually declared that Jesus Christ was in error regarding the Old Testament, has caused people to inquire of one if the "higher criticism" of the Saviour extends any farther than to the one or two instances I gave. One of the many other instances is Speaking of Psalm cx., Dr. James Denney says: "It is not written by David nor about David. It is the work of an unknown poet in a much later time; but that notwithstanding, Jesus believed it to be written by David, it is," Dr. Denney thinks, "impossible for any fair-minded reader to doubt."

Dr. Denney is one of the chief higher critics. It is thus Dr. Denney against Jesus, and the higher critics believe Dr. Denney! What a faith theirs is to be sure! Now let us sing: "Holy Bible, Book divine, precious treasure, thou art mine," and "Jesus, Lover of my soul" immediately after. We must be careful to give the higher critics, however, a fair trial. It will not do for us to do as many unbelievers do in these latter days when they brush aside the Almighty's plan of punishing for misuse and have substituted for it their own plan of the abolition of the use, and of which even prohibitionists must still admit the use of in sickness. They yield to the orders of the doctors, but not to God. Why? Because no man or woman can possibly say that he or she believes in God and Christ and yet scorn the divine plan for the salvation of mankind.

When we criticize the critics we must not forget those of the other people who are at least equally to blame in condemning what they know to be actual works of God while the others condemn what they think are not the actual words of God. It is evident that infidelity and unbelief are widespread amongst Christians self-called. But I believe that what has happened so many times before in history will happen again and that is the trembling by the people of themselves before God.

We have gone mad, I was going to say with conceit, but I should say with cheek. Such in all history there never was such a spectacle as that of people's presenting to worship Jesus Christ, and to regard Him as their saviour and the Saviour of the World when they actually do the very opposite of what He preached and what He practised, and condemn it as well. We cannot condemn the things of God and get away with it.

Sinners cannot escape in that way. Nor the self-righteous either. There is only one way—not two ways, but one way. So that the higher critics whose only fault is that of inscere unbelief in the divine inspiration of the Bible and in Jesus Christ as supernatural and therefore able to work miracles, are not yet in the same class with those who presume to rule the world in their own way as if their surpassing righteousness had rendered them quite capable of doing so. We cannot restore Protestantism to the ranks of Christianity until both of these grotesque features are eliminated. That, it seems to me, is only the plain common sense of it all, but unlike the people whom I am criticizing, I may be mistaken and with that submission, I am,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SIR:

I am very glad of the opportunity that is from time to time afforded me by some correspondent, who has little knowledge of what he writes, to further emphasize the alarming situation that is facing Canada with regard to its rapidly diminishing wood supply. Ellwood Wilson, one of Canada's foremost foresters, says that this is not only the most important pending question before the Dominion today, but is one for Canada alone to solve.

The figures pertaining to the amount of pulpwood now standing in Canada, as quoted by a correspondent in a recent issue of a Canada newspaper, are, to say the least, very wide of the facts! The makers of these figures frankly state that they are a mere guess at best. In any event, we in the East are only concerned with the stand of spruce and fir pulpwood in the four provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. In this connection, I will quote from this same Dominion Forestry Branch document, referred to by this correspondent, which states that these Eastern Provinces contain 552,210,000 cords of all kinds of softwood, but as only two-thirds of this amount would be merchantable pulpwood, this would be reduced to 368,000,000 cords and deducting 80,000,000 cords for inaccessibility, we get 288,000,000 cords of accessible pulpwood in these provinces. Accepting these figures, which I shall challenge later on, and allowing for an annual cut of 5,000,000 cords and a far greater depletion caused by insects, fungi, fire and wind, the situation is critical indeed. In support of this I need refer only to what has happened along just one line of railway in Canada, the Transcontinental between La Tuque and Cochrane, where, by an actual cruise, it was found that 20,000,000 cords of standing wood were destroyed by fire while the railroad records for the same period show that only 1,000,000 cords of all kinds of wood products were shipped, showing a loss of twenty cords by fire to one cord utilized. This, with the loss of 200,000,000 cords by the spruce budworm in these same Eastern provinces, will enable the people to understand how rapidly we are losing our wooded areas.

The reason I challenge some of the figures that have been published in Government and Conservation Commission reports, which, as I stated before, even the makers say are largely mere guesses, is because some of these, by an actual cut, have proved to be over-optimistic as to the supply.

The exhaustive aerial survey made a year ago by the Ontario Government over the James Bay Watershed is a case in point. This territory has always been considered as a part of our future wood supply, while this survey revealed the fact that the wood resources of that region were a mere myth, as that whole area consists of either burns, muskeg or scrub, with merely narrow strips of wood along streams and in patches too small and remote to make commercial operations possible. As one member of a party who recently flew across that country stated, "the only visible resource was duck shooting."

The amount per acre that some of this small pulpwood timber will actually cut out has been alarmingly small, deceiving some of our very best foresters and lumbermen, as evidenced by actual operations in this small northern growth. I can refer to instance after instance where this has occurred. The most recent case that has been brought to my attention was at a hearing in Halifax, when the president of the company holding the "Big Lease" in Victoria and Inverness counties, Cape Breton, publicly stated that the territory covered by this lease contained only three million cords of pulpwood, while in the report of the Conservation Commission, it is stated that this lease contains twelve million cords. This estimate of twelve million cords, which was later corroborated by some of the best foresters and lumbermen of Maine, was made by the late Dr. Fernow who was probably the most noted, capable, highly educated and trained forester of his day. As it was also stated by this same witness that there was no budworm on this tract, and that only a matter of one hundred and fifty thousand cords had been cut since this estimate was made, it shows clearly that the amount called for in this report fell short just seventy-five per cent and this is only one instance of several of the same nature that have recently been brought to my attention, proving conclusively that the estimates in this small growth are almost invariably too high.

In their frantic endeavour to fool the Canadian people, some of these American representatives, with their large figures, totally ignore the fact that we have lost two hundred million cords of pulpwood through the ravages of the budworm alone, while our forest fire loss is increasing from year to year, the present season having shown the greatest loss from this cause in Quebec and New Brunswick that has been experienced in the history of these provinces. There is not a water power or watershed in the Dominion that is not already suffering from a lack of forest cover, many rivers having been lower the present season than ever before, and many wells and springs having failed for the first time. This drying up of the earth's surface is accountable for the alarming increase in our forest fires, and this is a phase of the situation that our puny politicians at Ottawa will be forced to recognize.

Judging from the "testimony" given by some American pulpwood dealers at these "hearings," one might be led to believe that with the advent of an embargo at least one-fifth of all the newspapers in the United States would go out of business,—while as a matter of fact, the only change that will be brought about well be the erection of at least sufficient new pulp mills in Canada to make good the deficiency in the being exported. In order to provide a market for what actual farmers or settlers wood is now leaving the country, not more than six mills of a hundred tons capacity each would have to be built.

No other solution would be open to the American newspapers whose owners care not whether their pulp or paper is manufactured one side of the line or the other, provided they can only be assured of a sufficient supply. They must have the paper, and if this cannot be obtained through the export of raw wood, then they will be only too glad to take it in pulp or paper.

All this hue and cry by the American pulpwood dealers for the farmers' and settlers' rights is pure bunkum. The farmer and settler will be very appreciably benefited by an embargo, as he will not only have ample home competition for his wood through the advent of, I am afraid, too many new mills, but he will have a home market for his farm produce and labor for himself and family as well.

The Government of Ontario has already received applications for locations for ten new pulp mills, which causes the efficient Minister of Lands and Forests, the Hon. James Lyons, to remark that if all of these requests are granted, he does not know what will become of the pulpwood supply of the province. Several new pulp mills are projected in the provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. If the mere agitation for an embargo has already produced such substantial results, I will leave the people to judge what the announcement of the actual embargo would accomplish for the welfare of Canada. As soon as the embargo goes into force, it will then become immediately necessary to take up the question of a reduction in the cut, better fire protective measures and a real forest conservation programme.

With reference to the embargo, it is with much pleasure that I quote what Sir John Willison, as President of the Canadian Reconstruction Association says, as follows:

"We must either manufacture the raw materials of Canada within the country—thus employing labor, rearing new communities, providing local markets for merchants and producers, strengthening the national structure, making the back of Canada strong to bear its accumulating burders—or the sons of Canada will follow these raw materials out of the country, establish themselves in foreign industrial centres, and, more and more from year to year, the national burden will become heavier and the issue of the great political experiment in which we are engaged become more difficult and uncertain. Every sound economic and natural reason, therefore, demands that the raw materials of Canada shall be manufactured in Canada, and the Canadian people protected in the possession and control of their natural inheritance."

The opinion and corroboration of such outstanding loyal Canadians cand high authorities as those whose names I have the honor of referring to below will carry greater weight with the people of Canada than the mere rhetoric of a man engaged in the foreign export of his country's most vital natural resource.

The Right Honorable Robert Laird Borden, Sir Lomer Gouin, Sir William Price, Sir John Willison, J. R. Booth, Dr. C. D. Howe, Edward Beck, G. C. Piche, Ellwood Wilson, Robson Black and hundreds of others, including the editors of all of Canada's best newspapers, who have given the question serious study.

If the Government at Ottawa does not possess a sufficient sense of propriety to now issue an order disbanding the worse than useless waste of the people's money, the Royal Pulpwood Commission, then the members of this Commission, out of self respect, should hand in their resignations and decline to any longer continue participating in these farcical proceedings.

THE EXAMINER:

Sir:—The world's worst tragedies are not physical but moral and spiritual. Of such tragedies Church Coercion has a plenteous share.

1. It is a tragedy that in this age of light and liberty, of brotherhood and co-operation between the churches, with Christ's prayer for the unity of His people so fully realized, there should be such attempted reversion to the dark ages when men had to worship as others willed, at peril of prison or death. The penalties today may be different but the evil spirit of coercion still operates as far as the Civil Law will allow.

2. It is added tragedy that this Coercion comes not from without the Church but from within, from those who were entrusted with her care and defence, as her watchmen and guardians, but who have not kept their trust, and are illegally using their position to blot out the Church and drive her membership elsewhere. All who wish are free to leave the Church, but not content with freedom for themselves, they attempt to drive out all others.

3. It is an added tragedy that this illegal misuse of trust is by those who obtained that trust on their giving solemn pledge to "maintain and defend the same" and "not to follow any divisive course from the present order established therein."

4. It is further added tragedy that at the outset of their attempt they entered into unanimous agreement in Assembly, and sent it forth to the Church, that Union "must carry the consent of the entire membership" and have "practically unanimous action"; and when they found that the strong opposition in the first vote was greatly increased in the second vote, and that only one-third of the membership voted for "Union," they flouted the people, treated these agreements as a "scrap of paper," and are attempting on that eight year old vote of one-third of the membership to wipe out the Church by Act of Parliament.

5. There is the tragedy of attempt to confiscate all trusts held by the Church, a moral wrong, hereto unknown in Canada; and which, if made law, would forever destroy confidence in the sacredness of a trust, prevent men giving in trust, and greatly injure the work of a Institutions depending upon Trust Funds.

6. There is the tragedy of lost confidence in men who—by such ways and means—are attempting this Coercion, and while those whom they wrong may forgive them when they repent, the lost confidence can never be restored.

7. There is the tragedy of the effect upon the men of truth and honour outside the Church when they see methods used in the Church and in the name of religion which they would not allow in their own business affairs.

8. There is the tragedy of time and effort wasted in this attempted coercion, compelling others to give time and effort to save the Church, now threatened with wreckage by those pledged to her defence.

9. There is the tragedy of wasted money, thousands of dollars in the past given for missions and misused to coerce those who gave it, this also compelling the spending of thousands more in defence of the Church.

10. There is the tragedy of an empty Church Treasury and hindered mission work caused by this Coercion. Some will not give until assured that their Church will continue, and some are diverting part or all of their giving for the most important work now before them, the saving of their Church to continue her great work in the days to come.

11. There is the tragedy of alienated sympathy from missionaries, who have always been very near the heart of the Church. They have fullest freedom to shape at will their own Churches in foreign fields but some of them, not content with that, have been doing their utmost to wrong their supporters at home, thus alienating sympathy from themselves and their work. An unfortunate result sult is that other missionaries also suffer in their hindered work.

12. There is the tragedy of members of a great Church having to appeal for justice to Civil Courts and Parliaments from the injustice and wrong illegally attempted against them within their own Church.

13. There is the tragedy—it would be comedy were it not so pitiable—of meetings now being held all over the land from coast to coast "to show the people the great spiritual uplift" that is to flow from misused trusts, broken vows, and unkept faith, and from the legal enforcement of the "iniquitous" Church Union Bill.

14. The greatest tragedy, that "Bill" becoming law, with its disruption of congregations all over the Church, and its wreckage of the great Women's Missionary Societies, East and West, is not yet come, and will not come so long as justice and right, denied in Church Courts, hold their present high place in the Civil Courts and Parliaments of Canada. But these Civil Courts and Parliaments, and the people at large, must be made to see and realize this violation of the Constitution and Laws of the Church, and this attempt to rob the people of their rights; and every loyal member of the Church should give and work for her safety, till this threatened tragedy is averted and she is free to take up once more, unhindered, her great task of giving the Gospel to the world.

TO THE EDITOR, EXAMINER:—

Dear Sir,—In a recent issue, which included a Warning to Parents, (in your advertising columns) you state that the Anti-Vaccination League is very hopelessly out of date. It may interest you to know that there is no reason for us to confine ourselves to one question only, but we now ask for the liberty, accorded us in religion, to apply to medicine. Our members comprise men who served overseas, some as Medical officers. Also big business men, and men and women of the thinking class. As you have evidently swallowed all the political doctors medical dope, I would recommend you to read "The Crime of the Century" as an antidote. Your every assertion will be met and you will realise that we are not old-fashioned enough to believe every statement emanating from the Politicians and Professors who have captured the medical organizations.

Yours truly,
JOS. E. HULL.

BOY OF EIGHT MONTHS HAS 56 FOSTER MOTHERS

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 24 (Associated Press).—Rowen Robert, aged eight months, will have 56 young women as foster mothers before the present school year ends at Oregon Agricultural College, for he is the living subject of experimentation in the "practice house." Reared by science since he came to the practice house last April, Rowen Robert now weighs something over 17 pounds. The care and feeding of this baby are in the hands of girl students, under the direction of Miss A. Grace Johnson, professor of household management.

Two groups of eight girls live in the practice house every school term. They receive practical training in every branch of household activity, including that most important one—raising a child.

INDIAN CONGRESS PROPOSES BOYCOTT.

Wants Self - Government

DELHI, India, Nov. 2[illegible] (Associated Press).—The Indian National Congress in special session has reaffirmed its adherence to non-violent non-co-operation and the boycott of British goods as means toward obtaining self-government. Although the ban to council-entry was removed, the congress voted to embark upon a definite program of civil disobedience at an early date.

The congress, with an attendance of more than 5,000, stressed the importance of unity between extremists and moderates and between Hindus and Mohammedans in the struggle for home rule.

Maulana Abdul Kalam Azad, president of the congress, declared in his opening speech that three years of the Reformed Councils, the salt tax, unfulfilled promises about Indianization of the services, and the Kenya decision had disillusioned the moderates. India, he said, should make common cause with the universal struggle of Eastern nations to attain freedom.

AT DRUGGISTS ONLY

Help the Veterans

Try this new patience

The Poster-Judging Competition now being conducted in Canada for the benefit of the Veterans' Associations is one of the most fascinating of games. On the ticket-folder which donors of $1.20 are presented with, sixteen of the most famous posters of BOVRIL are reproduced in colors.

Which are the 12 best, in order of merit, is what you must decide. The folder shows just what you must do and how to do it.

It is an interesting trial of taste and judgment to class these posters in the order which popular fancy will endorse. It is a real game which can be played over and over again, and in which all the family can join and which will interest visitors, be they young or old.

And just think of the possible reward? A Prize which is a real fortune—and you help an excellent cause.

You can make as many trials as you like—for every donation of $1.20 one ticket-folder is presented, thus $12.00 secures 10 folders—though only one prize will be given to one person.

BOVRIL LIMITED has donated £30,000, about $138,888, which has been divided into 2,003 prizes. The first three are approximately as follows:

1st Prize, $55,555.00
2nd " 13,888.00
3rd " 4,555.00

Send donations to any of the following organizations or their branches which are actively interested and ask your help:

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN
By SISTER MARY

A salad always adds zest and interest to a meal and should be included just as often as possible, during the winter months.

There are many small economies that can be practiced in this course that do not require any extra time. Nor do they detract from the food value or beauty of the dish.

Unless the salad is a lettuce salad, use lettuce only as a garnish. Outside leaves of head lettuce or leaf lettuce cut in shreds will furnish the necessary green at almost no cost. Or parsley, broken in tiny sprigs and dropped over a fish or meat salad, adds the needed color without any lettuce. Celery tops, carefully looked over and crisped, take the place of lettuce. Or a fruit salad can be served in an apple or orange cup, doing away with any green except a thin slice of green cherry.

A simple vegetable salad should be served with a hearty meat course. French dressing is preferred to a rich mayonnaise. A plain orange or grapefruit salad served on romain with a French dressing is ideal with pork roast or rich fish. But a fruit salad swathed in a rich dressing topped with whipped cream is a different matter. This sort of salad should follow a light meat course and is in better taste for the luncheon menu than for the dinner.

The vegetable used in the salad should not appear in some other form in another course of the same meal. The same is true of fruit. If apples are an ingredient of the salad an apple pie should not form the dessert.

Asparagus Salad

Put canned asparagus in a large flat strainer. Carefully dip into a big pan of cold water. Care must be taken not to break the heads. Drain and arrange in neat piles on salad plates. A sprig of parsley can be used in place of lettuce for the garnish. Cut narrow strips of pimento and lay across each pile to seem to form a band to hold the stalks together. Mash the heads with mayonnaise or, if used with beef as a dinner salad, pour over French dressing.

Cheese Salad

One package neufchatel cheese, 2 tablespoons finely chopped nuts, 2 tablespoons minced olives, 2 tablespoons minced pimento, cream, hearts of lettuce, paprika, French dressing.

Work cheese to a smooth paste with cream. Work in nuts, olives and pimento, adding cream if necessary. Form into small balls and place in a cold place to chill and become firm. Arrange on hearts of lettuce and sprinkle with paprika. Serve with French dressing.

Lima Bean Salad

One cup canned or cooked dried lima beans, ¾ cup diced celery, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced green pepper, 2 tablespoons grated cheese, French dressing.

Mix beans, celery, onion and pepper with dressing. Arrange in neat mounds on salad plates, sprinkle with grated cheese, top with a dash of paprika and garnish with celery tops. A well-colored cheese adds to the attractiveness of the salad.

Grapefruit Salad

Two green peppers, 1 cup grapefruit pulp, ½ cup minced celery, slice of onion, 1 tablespoon nut meats.

Cut peppers in halves lengthwise. Remove seeds and white fiber. Remove pulp from grapefruit and drain. Use the juice in the French dressing instead of lemon juice. Rub the bowl in which the salad is to be mixed with slice of onion. Mix grapefruit, celery and nuts with a French dressing. Fill peppers with mixture and serve with or without a bed of lettuce.

MARKED HANDKERCHIEFS

If you starch your handkerchiefs very stiff before marking them with indelible ink the ink will not run and you can make smaller and neater letters.

Always Appreciated

Your palate never wearies of O'Keefe's Dry Ginger Ale. It is the one beverage you can drink and thoroughly enjoy over and over again. There is something about the sparkling life it embodies—the keen tang of its flavour—that makes it a delight to the taste.

Made of the most carefully selected tropical ginger, the juice of properly refined limes, aromatics, mellowed with age, and the celebrated sparkling York Springs water—O'Keefe's is the natural first choice of the discriminating connoisseur.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, November 24 (United Press). — Despite the distraction constituted by the annual service football game in New York and the Harvard-Yale struggle at Cambridge, which kept many traders away from Wall Street to-day, extraordinary activity was maintained in the brief session which closed the week. A further outburst of strength took place in many sections of the list, and the spirit of bullishness was fully as pronounced as at any time since the current up swing got under way.

Among the industrial leaders, corn products was the outstanding feature, while numerous issues of the specialty class scored substantial gains. Davison Chemical experienced a characteristic spurt which wiped out a good part of the loss sustained on its ugly break in the middle of the week.

United States Cast Iron Pipe was another individual issue which displayed exceptional buoyancy while considerable strength was in evidence in several trade groups like the sugars and steels.

No let up occurred in the trading pace in the final dealings which retained the buoyant characteristics marking the earlier stages of the two hour session.

Bullish demonstrations continued in a broad group of industrial issues, while steadiness of Chesapeake and Ohio demonstrated that the expectation of an increased dividend was not the prime force behind the stocks' recent uprising.

Chesapeake and Ohio experienced further pressure in the early dealings in the stock market as a result of the overnight confirmation of the news published a few minutes before Friday's close to the effect that the directors of the road had decided to continue a four-dollar dividend on the issue.

INDIAN BAND

dered into dust. Mr. Sinclair urged the government to take up the question. For your information I would tell you that you have no better friends anywhere than these gentlemen who form the Commission. When we are finished with this investigation I will return to keep my fire burning in the wigwam of the Department in Ottawa. We have given this claim careful and dispassionate consideration, and but for the efforts of your friends this claim might not have been adjusted.

"We have had careful and gracious attention from the Indians in all the bands we have visited, and we hope to receive the treaty from you."

Traced Indian History.

R. B. Sinclair reviewed the history of the Indian in Canada, speaking at times in the picturesque language which is still used in their important debates by the Indians.

"Chief and members of the band," he said, "this claim was referred to me some years ago. I have in the time that I have been practicing law had the pleasure of doing business for the Indians and at one time I was engaged in a suit in which these very Indians I am addressing had considerable interest. We got you about $6000 from the government then."

The Indians of this country as you very well know were the original inhabitants of the country. Long before Christopher Columbus discovered America there were people from the continent of Europe here. Norsemen came over from Labrador. You were here we do not know how many centuries before the Norsemen but there are no records. When Cortez came from Spain and crossed the Isthmus of Panama he found Indians there—the Aztec races. They lived in a very high state of civilization, but they had very poor weapons, only arrows and spears, and they had never seen a horse. They could not quite understand what kind of thing it was when they saw a Spanish soldier sitting on a horse. Ultimately the Indians, who had always walked before, learned how to get around on horses.

No Wheels Known.

When you wanted to move your place of abode you used two long poles and put a covering of skin over them. You put your tepees and pemmican on them and dragged them behind a horse. You never thought of making a wheel. You did not make a motor car or an engine or a mowing machine, or a sewing machine or a piano or a stove or anything you are using to-day.

You did not become miners or dig out coal or iron or ore. It is owing to the inventive ability of the white man that enabled him to get from place to place quickly that the value of the land has increased. If the white man had not come here the probabilities are that the Indians today would be living like the Indians were living hundreds of years ago. Although you have been living in close contact with the white man ther, is not a single patent registered in the patent office in an Indian.'

Mr. Sinclair, having pointed out to the Indians that the value of the land increased only because of the white man's industry and inventiveness, indicated the wishes of the Government in the matter of the hunting and fishing rights living north of the Curve Lake reserve, which h. claimed the Indians do not now use to gain a living.

When the offer had been made the Commission withdrew and the Indians were giving until the following day to discuss the offer. It was finally accepted.

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite so happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many people lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying a little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

CLAIM TOPPING HAS CONFESSED

Statement Said to Have Been Made by Clarence Topping Admits He Deliberately Fired Two Shots Into His Sweetheart's Body.

KNOWN THREE YEARS

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Special).—In a signed confession known to have been given to jail officials late yesterday afternon after being duly warned that it would be used against him, Clarence Topping states he went to his sweetheart's boarding-house yesterday morning with the express intention of seeing the girl of his heart, Geraldine Durston.

Although frightened to the point of fainting, the girl steadily refused to go out with him and Topping then confesses he fired two shots into the floor and two into his sweetheart.

Topping was arrested after the shooting of Geraldine Durston and Viola McNaughton, at 318 York Street yesterday. Jail officials refused to admit or deny that the confession had been made. However, it was definitely established that there had been a confession after Topping eagerly discussed the shooting with the turnkeys. It is believed that the document will be turned over to the Crown Attorney during the day and will be used against Topping when he comes up for a hearing in Police Court next Friday. Topping stated he had no idea how Viola McNaughton was shot.

Together Three Years.

Topping, it is said, began his statement by telling that his revolver was purchased in the United States four weeks ago to take on a contemplated trip to the north woods. He then went on to write the fact that he had been keeping company with his sweetheart since she was fifteen years of age. As Miss Durston is but 18, this would mean the pair had been going together for three years.

Topping is known to have stated in his confession that he and Miss Durston were engaged for the past year and were to have been married at Christmas. He was quite happy in that fact until he came to London two months ago and found that his sweetheart was going out with another man. It worried him and he pleaded with her time and again not to go out with another fellow, but she would pay no attention to his pleadings.

Wanted to Elope?

At this juncture Topping is said to have thought intently before going on with his statement. Finally he wrote down that he went to Miss Durston's boarding-house, 318 York Street, on Thursday night with the intention of shooting the girl of his dreams unless she promised faithfully not to keep company with any other man. Miss Durston flatly and scornfully refused to be frightened when he threatened to shoot her, and said, "Go ahead and shoot me."

The pair talked and argued until 2 o'clock on Friday morning, when he left the house with the promise from Miss Durston that she would accompany him on the 8 a.m. C.N.R. train to Watford that morning. Topping arrived at the boarding-house in plenty of time (7 o'clock) and was driven into a fit of rage when his sweetheart broke her promise and again scornfully refused to go with him.

"I again told her I would hurt her if she did not go with me but she still refused, and I fired two bullets into the floor and then two into Geraldine," the confession is said to have read. Topping then went on to state that about the time he was firing the fourth bullet Constable Harpur fired at him through the doorway of the bedroom and the bullet passed through his overcoat. He concluded his confession, it is understood, with the statement that he did not know how Viola McNaughton was shot and that he had no intention of hitting her.

Geraldine Durston, aged 18, formerly of Watford, and Viola McNaughton, aged 19, formerly of Strathroy, victims of yesterday's shooting affray at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cook, were still in a precarious condition this morning, according to Victoria Hospital physicians.

Miss Durston, whose wounds are less serious than those of her chum, showed improvement during the night, and an X-ray examination was made to locate the bullets. One was found to have penetrated deep into her left side and the other pierced her body, lodging near the spinal column, close to the base. An operation will be performed as soon as possible for the purpose of extracting the bullets. No hope is held out for the recovery of Miss McNaughton.

WOULD-BE BURGLARS ON GILMOUR STREET

Burglars attempted to gain an entrance last night to the house at 480 Gilmour street, recently vacated by G. Edward Huff. Mr. Huff has rented the house, but the tenant has not yet moved in.

Marks of a screw driver or jimmy indicate where attempts were made to force windows, and the marauders also tried to force the lock on a door. So far as could be ascertained entry was not effected.

Athough the house is not occupied there is a considerable quantity of furnture in it.

NATIONAL IRISH LOAN WAS RECEIVED WELL

DUBLIN, Nov. 24. — (Canadian Press).—It is stated in Government quarters that the new national loan has made an auspicious start. The Irish Banks are said to have again guaranteed to subscribe five million pounds, the church of Ireland will take two hundred and fifty thousand guineas, Dublin Brewery three hundred thousand guineas and the South-Western Railway twenty-five thousand guineas.

IRONING LACE

Instead of ironing lace it is more satisfactory to stretch it while wet into its original shape and pin in position on a well padded board. If allowed to dry this way it is like new when dry. If is must be ironed, always iron on the wrong side over a thick pad.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL ABOUNDS IN BEAUTIES FOLLOWING ALTERATION

Original Church Built In 1836 By Rev. John Butler —Present Building Completely Redecorated By Order of Bishop O'Brien.

OPEN ON SUNDAY.

The alterations and renovations which have been going on for some time past at St. Peter's Cathedral are now practically completed. With the installation of the Bishop's throne and the placing of the new electric light fixtures, the last touches will have been put on the long list of additions to the furnishings of the interior.

The grey stone edifice that dominates the Hunter street hill, its lines of fourteenth century(Gohtic formation standing out against the skyline, has weathered in sturdy fashion the storms and suns of many a year. In the interior, at the Gospel side of the church, against the wall in the oldest portion of the building rests the marble slab that commemorates the memory of the Rev. John Butler, a native of Tipperary, who, in 1836, erected the old church of St. Peter in Chains, at a cost of $12,000. At that time, a plastered sacristy stood to the north of the old building, the(Government grant for which, made to Bishop Alexander McDonald of Kingston, was dated February 13th., 1834.

In 1882, Peterboro was made the See for the diocese, when the church was created a cathedral. Transpets were added, and a sacristy at the northern end. Bishop Jamot was appointed the first bishop of the new See.

In 1897, the side galleries in the original building were removed, new pews and an altar placed within, and the entire interior decorated by order of the late Bishop R. A. O'Connor, third bishop of Peterboro.

This summer, Bishop OBrien decided to enlarge the narrow limits of the sanctuary by making an opening in the north wall and building an apse into the sacristy, which has been done with splendid effect. The sanctuary proper, in its enlarged condition, now has a length of 42 feet and a width of 25 feet, while the domed recess at the rear is 26 feet long and 15 feet deep, with a height to the top of the arch of about 22 feet.

Much of the fresh, new beauty of the interior is due to the cleansing, re-painting and re-decorating of the whole vast expanse of walls and ceiling, every inch of which has been renovated. The ceiling, with its large painted squares has been cleaned, and the walls re-painted and decorated in colors of cream and gold. The pews, all the interior woodwork and the three front doors have been re-finished, the floors re-finished and repainted, and aisles laid with a heavy brown cork matting. A complete new outfit of electric fixtures, of the most up to date style, is in process of installation and minor alterations such as a complete overhauling of the organ, a placing of knee rests in a more comfortable position, and a good deal of underground work in an overhauling of the heating system and a strengthening of the supports of the building has been carried out.

The arch which has added fourteen feet to the interior dimensions of the Cathedral is a very fine thing, springing lines rising in graceful and unique fashion in the 15th century Gohtic style of architecture which conforms to the general lines of the building its surface finished in cream and gold, lighted invisibly from above with soft, warm effect.

Against the warmly tinted background of the imposing arch rise the graceful tapering lines of the high altar with its pointed sections and pure whiteness imparting an atmosphere of exqisite, ethereal loveliness to the background of the sanctuary. In its upper centre stands the figure of St. Peter, patron of the church. This altar, and the small ones at either side, are composed of Regalico composition, a material with marble finish and effect. At the Gospel side stands the altar which portrays the apparition of the Saviour to St. Margaret Mary, and at the Epistle side is the delination in the same pure white stone of the apparition of the Blessed Virgin Mary to Bernadette, at Lourdes.

A beautiful feature of the three altars is the inclusion in their construction of slender onyx pillars of pale green. These same onyx columns, with ornamental capitals and pointed, springing arches intersecting, appear in the handsome and massive communion railing, which is composed of the same Regalico material, with a base of Italian marble and Vermont marble top. Heavy corner columns are ornamented with simulated bunches of grapes and sheaves of wheat.

The entire floor of the sanctuary, together with the five steps leading leading to the Bishop's throne, are of white Vermont marble The new thone will be of quarter cut oak.

The sanctuary lamp, together with the crucifixes and candle-sticks on the main altar stands the graceful figure of an angel, in pale, lovely colourings. These are also in the Regalico material, in satin finish, the same composition which has been used for the beautiful new Stations of the Cross. Portraying the Passion of Christ the fourteen Stations stand out in full relief against the side walls, surmounted by flat crosses of ornamental design, executed in brown woods.

At the entrance to the Cathedral have been erected new holy-water fonts of burnished bronze, and a lantern of rich design hangs in the vestibule, where doors with glass panels will shortly be placed.

To finally complete the work of renovation, within and without, it is their intention to build, some time in the coming spring, a new fence around the handsome Cathedral grounds.

A. W. Holmes of Toronto acted as architect for the changes made in the interior of the Cathedral. Mr. James J. MacPherson was general superintendant of the work, Mr. W. J. Koster had charge of the painting and decorating and the overhauling of the heating system and installation of the electric fixtures, purchased from the Metal Studios of Hamilton, was done by the F. R. J. MacPherson Company. The cork matting and green carpet in the sanctuary was purchased from the J. C. Turnbull Company, the DaPrato Company of Chicago and Montreal supplied the three altars, the communion railing, Stations of the Cross holy water fonts and statuary, while the marble floorng and steps to altar and throne came from the workshops of the local Ontario Marble Company, the throne from teh Globe Furniture Company of Walkerville, plate from the Meridan-Brittania Company of Hamilton.

The formal opening of the Cathedral, after its renovation, will take place on Sunday, when His Lordship Bishop Fallon of London, will preach on "Peace Through Faith," at the Vesper services in the evening. The parishioners who have contributed so generously to the work will then have an opportunity of seeing the result of the labours of the past few months.

BELLEVILLE CLUB IN POLICE COURT

Was Acquitted on a Charge of Running a Gaming House.

NIAGARA FALLS Nov. 24. Canadian Press. — Magistrate Fraser today acquitted the Belleville Driving and Athletic Association Limited on charges of running a gaming house.

The Magistrate said that he could not see any difference between the local cases and that of the Windsor Jockey Club and the Western racing Association, which was decided in favor of the defendants—"for that reason I acquit defendant," Magistrate Fraser said.

TO SELL LABRADOR TO NEWFOUNDLAND

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.— (Canadian Press.)— Negotiations in regard to purchase of Labrador by Canada, whi chare reported from Newfoundwhich are reported to have taken place between Premier McKenzie King and Premier Warren of Newfoundland, while they were attending the Imperial conference in London. No further information is available here on the subject, but it is known that the question of Labrador boundary has been the subject of negotiations between Canada and Newfoundland for some years. It is thought porbable that conferences between the Premiers of Canada and of Newfoundland will be renewed here after Premier King returns from London, The Canadian Premier sailed yesterday from England and is expected to reach Halifax on Friday next, coming on to Ottawa by the first of the week following.

THE SANITARY WAY

Always wipe off the mouth of the milk bottle carefully before you pour out the milk. This is the place where dust an impurities are most apt to gather.

THE TEACHERS' CONVENTION

The first item of business of the Teachers' Institute on Friday afternoon was the adoption of the report of the Nominating Committee which was printed in yesterday's paper. It was found necessary to make one change. Sister Imelda took Sister Helena's place on the Executive Committee.

Mr. Wightman gave a paper on "Freedom and Restraint in Education." Greater freedom is the modern trend of education. In the past force and restraint were too evident. Flogging was too customary as the chief means of correction. A reaction from this was inevitable. Then came a tendency to have no discipline at all amongst some innovators. This did not produce results in learning. Pupils learned just what they wanted. This does not make for a full development. Environment must be restrained after all. Unrestrained environment leads to no definite goal; it does not give freedom either. Freedom is only possible through law and ability to live within law; it does not grow out of license. Civilized man enjoys freedom because he has submitted to restraint. Freedom is the aim of education as it is the outcome of self-restraint. Restraint is necessary until the child can govern himself. It is only a means to an end. There should be a gradual decrease of teachers' authority as pupils advance from class to class. There will be all stages of self-control in any senior class. Military precision may be misleading. If there is never any relaxation of control, when is the child to get self-control?

Teachers must select and impose such knowledge upon pupils as will be to their advantage. Much that we teach is after all not of great advantage to the majority of pupils and may lead to a hatred of things scholastic. The effect of this is not lasting. Pupils ought to be taught to think. Compulsory matter ought to be lessened if we are to have greater freedom in the content of education. Are teachers interested in much more than the daily routine Are they considering education in a broad sense?

Teachers are apt to be too professional. Do we consider carefully what is after all of greatest value in after life? Do we teach pupils more according to their individuality or individual tendencies? This would do away with much of class teaching. If some pupils can go ahead of others why not let such ones have some freedom of inclination and go their own way in subjects by providing them with suitable material? Pupils can do much for themselves. The selection of material will depend upon the teacher. Freedom of activity is ideal, but behind all is the control of the teacher.

In the morning session of Friday, Miss Murphy gave a most illuminating paper on "Immigration," especially from the standpoint of the education of the foreign-born. The paper just bristled with facts of which only a part can be given here.

Immigration presents many difficulties. There is the difficulty of selecting suitable immigrants and of rejecting unsuitable ones. The assimilation of foreigners is also a great problem.

We usually think that the foreigners are nearly all in the West, but that is not the case. Thirty eight per cent of them is found East of Manitoba. A large percentage of foreigners is never naturalized, but the West has done better than the East in this matter. In the East they are settled most in segregated districts in cities or in the mining areas. Ten per cent. of the population of Montreal is foreign-born, and Toronto has almost as high a percentage.

In Toronto the foreigners are easily made conversant with English because they are taught in that language only. Small children learn to speak in our language in from two to four months. Formerly interpreters were used in teaching adults but it is found that better progress is made without their use.

In New Brunswick twelve and a half per cent. of the people cannot read or write. This shows that the foreigners have been neglected. The Prairie Provinces have done much more in their education. Of these Manitoba is the worst because a bilingual system prevails by which they can demand instruction in their own language as well as in English. This has hampered progress. To get the Mennonites to come to Canada an order in council granted them special privileges. They were exempted from military service, granted large blocks of land, permitted to confirm instead of taking affidavits, and assured of freedom in religion and education. The last privilege was outside the power of the Dominion government to grant as each province controls its own education. This has led to much friction in dealing with these people.

We were also quite too free in granting the franchise to foreigners. At one time a residence of three years was the requirement to be allowed to vote. The law has been changed so that now a five years' residence, a knowledge of English or French, and a good character are requisites for the franchise.

In Manitoba, where the foreigners settled in blocks they expected state aid in teaching children their own language. All their meetings of what ever nature were conductde in their foreign tongue.

Saskatchewan has had its problems too. The population increased so rapidly for a few years that it was difficult to build schools fast enough. English is taught in the schools. If foreigners want their own language they have to pay for the extra cost of instruction. There has been no clamor for this due to such provision.

The Mennonites object to attending public schools.In private schools English and British subjects, such as history and others, are entirely ignored.

The foreigners are in many ways a menace to our country. Too many of them figure in police court cases; our asylums have a large foreign population; many of them are bootleggers; a very large percentage of the patients in hospitals is foreign-born.

Not so many foreigners are now coming into the country. This is due to the war. About eighty-six per cent. of the present birth-rate is British or French. At present the British make up slightly more than fifty-five per cent. of our population.

Why do we not send the foreigners out? Simply because if can't be done. We encouraged them to come. They came from congested districts in Europe, which were overcrowded and there is no place for them to return. We need immigrants. Our population averages about three to a square mile, while in some countries in Europe there are as many hundreds. We cultivate but a small part of the land. In justice to these people we must try to make citizens out of them.

Our immigration is now more selective. Our railway expansion a few years ago was so great that large areas of unoccupied land are near railways. This land has to be bought, and this requires capital. Immigrants come in from the United States and England, but, unfortunately, too many of them leave again for the United States. The cost of Bringing them in amounts to millions of dollars, and makes the Government wonder if the actual gain in population warrants the expense.

In Edmonton, Calgary and Medicine Hat there are twenty-six nationalities. There are one hundred and thirty Ruthenian schools in Alberta. English is the medium of instruction. Residences for teachers are placed in the centre of adjoining sections so that teachers may live together as few want to board with these foreigners. Some Ruthenian teachers have been educated. An official trustee is appointed by the Government to look after these sections. Volunteers from the Normal Schools are invited to do real missionary work amongst these strangers. Churches have established school homes and yet they experience much difficulty in getting in touch with foreigners after all. Icelanders, Danes and others from Northern Europe are the most desirable immigrants, and make excellent citizens. Where foreigners go to the common school, they are not difficult to educate. The Doukhobors and Ruthenians present the greatest difficulty. The Poles will no doubt in time prove their value to Canada.

The Jews of Canada come mostly from Russia. Although their numbers are less than a quarter of a million they exercise much power. They control largely wearing apparel, furs, the movies, etc. They own much land and exercise much control over labor They are greedy for education, get many junior scholarships due to their earlier development, but do not assimilate. They are very exclusive.

In British Columbia there is the Asiatic problem. What must be done with the Chinese and Japanese? The head-tax has not stopped them as wealthy Chinese provide funds for their less fortunate brothers and bring them out in a capacity almost bordering on slavery. Their standards of life are low. The public school, which influences such people but for a few years can do only a little. There must be a great cooperation from the church. British Columbia is a great melting-pot, for here the Oriental races intermingle with the occident ones. There is abundant opportunity for great missionary endeavor.

In the afternoon session of Friday Mr. A. Macdonald, of the Normal School, gave a paper on Poetry.

Poetry is a broad subject; it covers much, it embraces life itself, yet it is not popular generally. Only highbrows are supposed to read it. People do not buy books of poems except perhaps as Christmas presents. Many fine poems are never publish because the cost of publishing is greater than the income from the sale of the books. We are too prosaic.

There is a great contrast between our time and that of Shakespeare. The garb alone evidences this. Our dress is sombre with little to brighten it except some colour in necktie. The men of that day were more picturesquely dressed.

Manners, then seemed more gallant. Gentlemen could indite in those days. Sonnets were written because there was a poetic sentiment. The trouble seems to be that we have become alienated from our poets. We have feelings and emotions as they did but they are kept inarticulate. A love of poetry is a love of life. Poetry is the warp and woof of life' Experiences in living make up the raw material of verse.

The lowest terms of poetry is child's verse. It is based on the little experiences of childhood. Poetry is life. Poets think more of life and beauty than verse.

We should cultivate a love for poetry. Don't do it in a cold-blooded fashion Don't be bored or you will not appreciate it. Read what you like or what appeals to you. Tastes differ very much. Some dislike Browning or Wordsworth or other standard poets and yet have a fondness for some poetry.

Poetry changes from time to time. There is a great contrast between the poetry of to-day and that of the Victorian period. In the latter there were sentiment and pathos. Poets to-day do not write about commonplace things; they search for something striking or unusual on subject and diction. The secret for developing a taste for poetry is to read what you like best. A love of verse will not give placidity and contentment. It will fill you with the poignant sense of the deeper longings of your soul.

It is impossible in a synopsis like this to do justice to the charm humor and originality of Mr. MacDonalds' address. He read many poems and extracts to illustrate the various ideas he had wished to impress His discussion of the subject was admirable and much appreciated. One person in complimenting him said that the lack of interest in poetry was due to the greater interest in economics and inventions of this age. Our great industrial life made people think along other channels and suppressed the reading of poetry.

The paper of Mr. Park on "Professional Technique," that of Sister Paula on "Value of Politeness in Our Schools," and a synopsis of Rev. M. C. McKinnon's paper on "The New Psychology and Our Schools" will appear at a later date.

She Won First Prize

A four-year college course, absolutely free! No, this isn't an advertisement. It is the reward that came to Dorothy Louise Roberts, 17-year-old Harlan (Ky.) girl, for her essay, "The Influence of Highway Transport Upon the Religious Life of My Community," in the fourth H. S. Firestone competition. Miss Roberts, daughter of a Methodist Episcopal minister, has matriculated at Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio.

CHURCH UNION ORATORS AWAY

Three Great Ideas Wrapped Up in Merger of Churches.

MONTREAL, Nov. 24. — Canadian Press. — Holding high ideals of union, pleading for a whole-hearted acceptance of those ideals and defending the course of action taken towards their establishment, Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) of Winnipeg, and Rev. Dr. James Endicott, of Toronto, addressed a joint church union meeting held under the auspices of the interdenominational church union committee of the Province of Quebec, here last night.

Dr. Gordon pictured union movement as centred about three great ideas:

First, the idea of Christian unity.

Second, emphasis of the spirit of religion as opposed to form.

Third, clarification of objective as a Christian people.

HUNGER STRIKER DIED AFTER FORTY DAYS' FAST

DUBLIN, Nov. 24. — (Canadian Press.)— Calling off of the hunger strike among political prisoners of the Irish Free State came too late to save Andrew O'Sullivan, of County Cavan, interned in Mount Joy prison. He died in hospital yesterday after a fast of forty days.

OIL SWINDLES TAKE THOUSANDS DOLLARS FROM POCKETS POOR

As Usual it is the Widows and Orphans Who Are Among the Chief Sufferers—Only Salve is That Some of the Promoters Went to Gaol.

Before you buy any form of security: INVESTIGATE. This warning wasn't heeded by thousands of persons in parts of the United States when they received alluring literature of irresponsible oil companies operating in and around Fort Worth, Texas. They bought—and now the federal authorities are investigating. To date, 40 have been convicted or pleaded guilty to fraud charges.

The result is the most amazing story of swindling uncovered in the history of the postal inspection service. Old and young, poor persons and folks in moderate circumstances all over the country listened to the promises of gigantic returns and easy fortunes—only to lose all they invested.

(By ROY J. GIBBONS)

FT. WORTH, Tex., Nov. 24.— Never before in all the history of "come-on" games has so monstrous and conscienceless a piece of fraud been perpetrated on the American public, as here by flimflam oil promotion artists.

When I say this, I do so unequivocally and without fear of warranted contradiction for the following reasons:

That my statements are reinforced by voluminous testimony and evidence in possession of the federal government.

That I have drawn an unbiased conclusion from first-hand investigation of the facts in a survey just completed.

Government investigators estimate that $1,250,000,000 has been paid in by investors since fake oil promoters started operating in Texas. They also estimate that the total capitalization of these companies will aggregate two billions of dollars.

This estimate includes the operations now under investigation and others dating back over a period of several years.

All the Rufus Wallingfords and get-rich-quick men that ever ventured in the lane of frenzied finance were as mere pikers compared with these who lured victims who could ill afford to lose, into their camouflaged traps.

High government officials who have spent lifetimes in pursuit of suave shysters using the mails to defraud, make bland admission that this is the truth and further admit that even they are dumbfounded at the enormity of the operations.

Holding aloft a snaring vision of golden fleece which they promised to shear for their trusting, gullible investors from profits in wells never sunk, or else purposely drilled past oil level production, these vulture-promoters turned fleecers themselves.

The scant teacups of oil they produced with the vast sums duped from any unwary public, made the oil cost something like $5000 a barrel. This is the estimate of government accountants who have checked the swindle operations.

Something for nothing, or a lot for a little was their particular stock in trade.

By means of high-power, flamboyant literature, advertisements and misleading circular, they bombarded the country with a cloudburst of roseate promises mostly built upon veiled misrepresentations and day dreams of finding oil.

Mention of the name of that sticky, black fluid was as a magic spell which called for entrance into meager purses.

From start to finish it was the poor man's Waterloo. The rich, never needy of far-flung opportunity for gain, were immune from the oil promoter's wiles by very reason of their financial state.

Only the money hoarded away in stocking and pantry crock against a rainy day poured in on the oil promotional coffers.

And behind each offering stinted for and sacrificed, were widows and orphans, the lame, the halt, the blind, aged and the feeble and even disabled war veterans, all hoping to make up for former misfortune in one jump to moneyed ease.

They parted with their Liberty bonds in trusting confidence. Then they mortgaged their homes, as hundreds of cases testify, to satisfy the appetites of the promoters who baited their prey on to further misery with telegraphic followups to the literature already sent.

At the time of this writing, some 40 of these promoters have either been tried or else pleaded guilty and been given prison terms.

Of the 92 persons indicted as conspirators in the swindle plot at the first meeting of the grand jury, many have yet to be arraigned.

An army of postal inspectors—as many as are usually distributed over a postal district of three or more states—sent here upon orders from Washington, is now going over the investigation of a prospective list of some 400 additional promotional enterprises.

Some scope of the oil swindle ring will be gained by picturing the countless truck-loads of questionable oil promotion literature which were dumped daily into the postal inspection offices here when the probe first started.

Tons and tons of it were gathered. So much has accumulated that the inquiry division now occupies almost half a floor in one of Ft. Worth's modern skyscrapers.

All of it in lurid pictures and by honeyed word promised rivers of oil.

But what really came of these promises were rivers of tears and teacups of oil as we shall see later.

METHODS USED

Changing Names

This involves nothing but a simple operation whereby the promoter would christen his oil stock by some different and high-sounding phrase. For example, he would no longer call it stock, but probably, units, royalty rights, plan royalties, blocks, mineral deeds, interests and gusher rights.

All of course mean the same thing at law. But the promoter wanted the public to believe he had something different to offer, and discovered that whenever he changed the brand of his wares his sales jumped by leaps and bounds. The only thing he had to do was be first to change to the new name and then hang onto it until it was played out.

THE AGREEMENT WILL BE USED AS A LEVER

France Secures Control Over Entire Output of the Ruhr Mines.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(By John De Gandt, United Press Staff Correspondent.) — The Franco-German agreement giving France control over the output of the Ruhr basin will be used as a lever to overcome British opposition to the re-occupation of the German industrial area, it was indicated here to-day. The agreement signed in Dusseldorf between French representatives and leading German industrialists, gives France control over the entire output of the Ruhr mines, factories and chemical plants.

The big product of course, is coal, and it is through control of the German mines that France hopes to bring pressure to bear on England. Pertinax, a well informed writer, and usually considered a mouthpiece of the government, says:

"What will France do with the coal now that she controls it. "Germany cannot purchase coal from France and she can purchase it from England because of credits granted by Prime Minister Baldwin.

Must France replace imports of coal from England by imports from Germany.

We will consider British interests in accordance with the measure in which England reconsiders her opposition to our occupation of the Ruhr.

In other words the French feel that the Ruhr agreement insures them control of Europe's coal supply. With control of the former German mineral despots already in their hands through territory exacted by the Treaty of Versailles the industrial union is complete—ore and fuel.

The agreement, which continues until April 15, 1924, provides that the German mines will pay the tax due from January 1 to Nov. 1, about $15,000,000 and will pay a tax of ten French francs per ton on coal sold in future. Eighteen per cent. of the net productions will be delivered free to the Entente and stocks as accumulated on October first must be turned over to the Allies.

Export licenses must be retained and accumulated, manufactured products of iron and steel can be sold only after taxes have been paid and exported in quantities not greater than the average for last year. A special agreement will be made to cover delivery of chemical products.

GLASGOW HEARS LLOYD GEORGE

Ex-Premier Greeted With Enthusiasm--Churchill Had Cool Reception in Leicester.

LONDON, Nov. 24.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Lloyd George's tour of Scotland has opened auspiciously. Crowds surged about his carriage door on his arrival in Glasgow and pushed down the barriades. Students endeavored to carry him shoulder high.

On the contrary at Churchill's meetings last night in Leicester, there was apparently oragnized opposition. Churchill addressed three meetings and was subjected to heckling. One woman persisted in a demand to hear his policy, then declared that he had none. When Winston pleaded for forbearance another woman interjected: "Leave the lady alone or I will settle you."

BRIDGENORTH HAS MANY ACTIVITIES

Ladies' Aid Paints the Methodist Church—Long Swamp Road Widened.

BRIDGENORTH, Nov. 24.—Mr. Sam Bell is in New York City and may not return until spring.

Mrs. G. D. Morin's many friends will be pleased to know she is improving in health.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Curtis motored from Toronto and spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Beatty.

Capt. and Mrs. W. H. White, accompanied by some friends, spent Tuesday afternoon in the village.

Mrs. Peter Nicholls Sr. is in very poor health

Miss Frieda Jobe entertained a number of young people who motored from the city on Monday night.

Mr. James Grant accompanied by Mr. Thos. McColl was in Peterboro on Sunday attending the funeral of Mr. Abraham Bulla.

Mrs. Harry Jopling, accompanied by her three children, returned to her home in the village on Monday, after an absence of three weeks which she spent at Detroit, Mich., visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steinmiller.

Mr. Thos. Black removed the light which has guided so many ships to safety during the past summer. The swing bridge is now closed for the season of 1923.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tedford and Mr. and Mrs. Eli Burston motored to Selwyn on Sunday, where they spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fitzgerald.

Landmark Gone

The Dean grist mill, one of the old landmarks in Bridgenorth, which was erected some fifty years ago, has been dismantled. Mr. Aaron Morin had the contract. Kelly Bros., the present owners, intend using the material to help build stables at their coal yard in the city.

Mr. James Beatty and Mr. J. Jobe motored to Catachoma Lake on Monday on a business trip.

Mr. Lyman Ball, who represents the C.P.C. at Fort William, Ont., made a pleasant call in the village on Wednesday. He spent the day under the parental roof with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ball.

A Long Trip

Mr. A. P. McIntosh, our 'ocal school teacher, motors to his home in Stirling, Ont., each Friday after school and makes the return trip on Monday morning and arrives in time to ring the bell at 9 a.m.

Bad Accident

Mrs. P. T. Udy went down to Sidev's pump on Tuesday for a pail of water . IOn the return trip she accidentally sliped and sprained her ankle. Her many friends will look forward to a speedy recovery.

A quantity of hay and an occasional load of wood seems to be the only farm product moving in towards the city these days. Farmers are asking $15.00 for hay in Bridgenorth As for the wood, it seems to be so much for the load.

A very successful dance was held in the Forester's Hall on Friday night. Two orchestras supplied the music. The Comet motor bus looked after the transportation. There was a large crowd and refreshments were served.

Methodists Honor Members

Every person who ventured up the hill to the Methodist church on Wednesday evening were supposed to take a bag of yellow sugar. It was League night and after the meeting there was a surprise in store for a couple of their members who are moving into the city. Burwell McConkey and Miss Marjorie were the lucky ones.

Regrets at their departure and also a taffy pull brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Long Swamp Improved

Bruce Bell, who has charge of the work on Chemong road, has been making some improvement in the long swamp. The trees have been cut out, also some of the roots have been extracted. They intend to widen the roadbed to the usual width. Mr. Bell also distributed a few loads of gravel through the village which, no doubt, will relieve the motorists who have a dislike for the rough spots.

Ladies' Aid Active

The ladies Aid of the Methodist church have been giving a demonstration with the paint brush at the church and have treated the doors and windows on both flats to a nice coat of cream and white. They engaged Wallace Nicholls to paint the high spots The church looks a whole lot better and the ladies must be congratulated for being so industrious. They paid the bills out of their own funds.

Enlarging Premises

Mr. W. J. Telford, one of our enterprising business men, is at present erecting a building west of his garage. Mr. Telford, who has gone into the industry very extensively, finds he must enlarge to keep up with the increasing flow of clover honey which the bees have gathered in during the past season. One half of the building is intended for extracting purposes and he also intends erecting a radio station in the other portion of the building.

Mr. Albert Nicholls, one of the leading farmers in this district, has suffered a heavy loss during the past months. Mr. Nicholls purchased a number of year-old cattle in Harvey township during the past summer and eight have died.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

QUEER FOLKS IN A QUEER HOUSE

The Twins put their eyes to one of the wide cracks.

Nancy and Nick came to a queer-looking house down in Dixie Land.

"Hello, here, what's this?" cried Nick. "Every other board is gone off the sides. What do you s'pose has happened?"

"It must have been a storm," suggested Nancy.

"Perhaps they ran out of boards," said Nick, "and had to put them on this way to make them reach. It's a good thing Dixie Land is warm. Such an open house would never do up north. Let's look and see what's inside."

"That's not polite!" said Nancy. "Suppose the people are at home. Even if they are not, it isn't nice to peep into people's houses."

"You may look all you want to," called a voice suddenly. "We've heard every word you said, anyway."

Without waiting to be asked twice, the Twins put their eyes to one of the wide cracks and looked inside with all their might. There wasn't a thing to be seen but some more boards going across the space inside like clothes-lines on a washing day.

"We're up here!" called the same voice again. "We're up on the stick nearest to the roof. Can you see now?"

"I see two brown bats hanging by their feet," said Nick.

"Well, that's us," called one of the bats. "We live here."

Nancy laughed. "Why, it's a terribly big house for such a small couple, Mrs. Bat. But if you have so much room, why do you live in the attic?"

"It's a little difficult to talk so much upside down," said Mrs. Bat, "particularly when one is sleepy. Bartholomew and I always sleep in the daytime, being out all night doing our marketing—well, as I say, it's a little difficult to talk upside down, but if I let go with my feet, I have to fly every second and then I can't talk at all. There! I'm all out of breath!"

"And I'm glad of it," grumbled Mr. Bartholomew Bat. "I can't get a wink of sleep for your chattering."

"But it's such a big place for you," went on Nancy, not paying any attention to grumpy old Mister Bat.

"Oh, it's not for us," corrected Mrs. Bat. "This is a tobacco house. It's where Mister Dixieland Farmer hangs his green tobacco leaves to dry. The tobacco isn't ready to bring in yet so we just borrowed the place. Those cross-beams are so handy to hang on! Besides the wide cracks in the sides are so convenient for us to fly in and out. I'll tell you what the cracks are for. They are left there on purpose. It's so the wind can blow through and dry the tobacco when it's hanging on these sticks like clothes on a clothes-line on wash day."

"Oh, do shut up and go to sleep," growled Mister Bat again. "One of these days they'll be bringing the tobacco in and we'll be out of a home. You'd better sleep while you can."

"We're going anyway," said Nick, not minding Mister Bat's poor manners. "Goodby!"

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

CAUSES OF HEADACHE

People who fly for a headache remedy, at onset, and keep it up year after year are surely on the wrong track in the pursuit of health. Trying to cure a headache without giving any attention to its cause, is like trying to put out a fire by shutting off the water supply

The chief causes of headache come within a well defined limit. The so-called nervous headache, or hysterical attacks, lead all other causes, real or imaginary.

Probably headache from digestive troubles might come second. Imaginary or "bluff" headache would come in a good third. As the also-ran causes, we have a group almost as numerous as all the parts and organs of the human body could furnish.

To give yourself a vacation from headache, carefully take stock of your daily habits and work and then see if real health habits can't accomplish more than the "rescue" cures.

The greatest preventive to that daily headache is to know your own condition thoroughly. If you strain your eyes by overwork at night or in poor light during the day, a headache is liable to come your way.

The daily breathing of air contaminated with gasoline fumes, or other gases that attack the nasal membrances, will cause a dull throbbing headache. Poor circulation in many persons, especially those who refuse to take any exercise, causes headache. To prevent this class of attacks, take a bath every day and institute a regimen of exercises that will make the blood tingle.

Headaches common to women, who claim pelvic disease or female trouble as a cause, usually result from incorrect posture. Learn to eat, stand, sit and walk correctly and many of your headaches will vanish like mist before the morning sun.

GETS THE SECRETS OF STARS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (United Press).—Amazing discoveries concerning the heat of the spectre of the stars, made by Dr. C. G. Abbot of the Smithsonman Institution at the Mt. Wilson, Cal., observatory, are announced here by the institution.

Though the details are of so technical a nature as virtually to defy understanding by the layman, the discoveries are believed certain to revolutionize present knowledge of the physical nature of the stars.

Abbot measured nine stars of all the principal types while spending the summer at Mt. Wilson, employing the Nichols radiometer, an instrument on the same principle as the little-blackened vanes which revolve in the sunlight in opticians' windows, and the spectroscope. These nine stars were Rigel, Vega, Sirius, Capella, Procyon, Aldebaran, Betelgeuse, Alpha Herculis and Beta Pegasi, ranging in types from blue to very red.

Results of these measurements overturned previous theories. Vega and Sirius, which are classified as blue-white hydrogen stars nearly twice as hot as our sun, were found to be of greatly different types as regards heat. Vega showed a maximum spectral heat a great way further toward the violet end of the spectrum than Sirius, whose maximum heat was found not very much nearer the violet than that of the sun.

Still another more remarkable discovery from the astro-physical point of view was that Rigel showed two spectral heat maxima.

Concerning his discoveries, Dr. Abbot said to the United Press:

"I do not know how I can make the significance of these discoveries plain to the man in the street. I guess I will have to depend on someone's statement that 'of all sciences the man in the street is more interested in astronomy and it has less to do with him than all.'

"However, such discoveries are just one more step forward in our conquest of the heavens. First, all we could do was look at the stars. Then we got the telescope. After that came stellar photography, which broadened our field tremendously. Then ensued spectroscopy, and the interferometer, which measured distances. Lately we discovered how to measure the relative brilliance of the stars and learned they are of two classes. Now we are measuring their heat, and I have just found out how to measure the heat in different parts of their spectra. We shall go further."

Abbot has measured virtually all the stars he can with his present instruments. Though styled as "crude," they measure star heat to the 100-millionth part of a degree. Instruments to measure the billionth part of a degree are under construction and may be used by Abbot in measuring smaller stars next summer.

This winter Abbot will devote much of his time to reducing the spectral heat values obtained at Mt. Wilson to centigrade scale values, more adequately to represent stellar heat value to the layman.

Tanol Ca omel Much Bett r Than Ordinary Calomel

CLEANS AND TONES UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

Instead of rising in the morning feeling tired, dull, with headaches, bad taste in mouth, sick stomach or after eating a bloated, heavy feeling, indigestion, constipation, kidney trouble, etc., can instead both look and feel as fresh as a daisy by flushing the poisons that have accumulated in the stomach, kidneys and bowels by following a doctor's advice by taking one Tanol Calomel Tablet 15 minutes before meals or two at bedtime. This will flush the previous day's indigestive waste, sour bile and poisons from the system before more food is taken. Tanol Calomel Tablets are recommended because they have no bad after effect. No salts or seidlitz are necessary to remove them from the system, as they are self-eliminating. Get a few of these tablets from the druggist and you will feel 100 per cent. better. Sold by Weber, druggist, Charlotte street.

AGED ENGLISH PAPERS SHOW ORIGINAL COPY

First Bit of Copy Appeared in "London Occurrences" Published 1647--Want Ad. Types Were Followed by Proprietary Medicine and Store Items.

The first newspaper advertising in the English language appeared in "Perfect Occurrences," London, in 1647. Henry Walker, the publisher who was responsible for the innovation, thus earned himself the distinction of Daddy of all the Ad-Men.

It is worth noting that publicity for local business followed soon after the beginning of publicity for local news. Though newspaper publishing began in England in 1622, it was not until 1641 that the domestic news of England was given a place in the public prints along with the news of continental Europe. Six years later some advertising was introduced.

Even at that there was a lack of retail store advertising until the early part of the last century. Auction sales, houses to rent and sell, and the general run of what would now be called want ads were always in evidence in the old London papers, but the tradesmen of the 17th and 18th centuries did not have the bargain sale idea.

Some reprint copies of the London Times, dated 1793 to 1798, are of quite as much interest from the standpoint of a marketing as of a news service. The Times was apparently then, as now, a favorite resort for people who had lost things, or who had some personal difficulties of one sort or another, or who had something to sell, and they made known their wants and troubles with a pleasant frankness and an evident confidence that printer's ink would bring results.

"I assure you, with the strictest veracity," appeals a lady in the vicinity of Tottenham Court road to a gentleman who had assisted her, "that your last absence from me has rendered me so unhappy that it has occasioned my being very ill, etc."

And surely this has a touch of up-to-dateness, despite the years that have passed: "Wanted immediately, £2,000."

Miss Rutter, of Morden, kept and advertised a boarding school for young ladies, whom she carefully instructed in a grammatical knowledge of the English and French languages and in the various branches of useful and ornamental needlework.

"Miss Rutter begs leave to observe that from her vicinity to Modern House Academy her pupils will derive many very considerable advantages; and as writing and arithmetic are indispensably necessary in domestic economy, she wishes it to be understood that they are daily taught by Mr. Rutter with all that attention their importance demands. The above mentioned branches of education, together with the use of the globes, are taught on reasonable terms. Drawing, music, and dancing by able masters, on the usual terms."

There was a fair amount of theatrical advertising in those days. The King's Theatre announced a bill of Italian opera at the beginning of 1793, the seats for which sold at 10s. and 6d. in the pit and 5s. in the gallery.

"Gentlemen are most respectfully informed that they cannot be admitted either into the Boxes or the Pit unless they are in afternoon dress. The Nobility are intreated to give directions to their servants to set down and take up at the Theatre with their horses' heads toward Pall Mall. The Door in Marketlane for chairs only."

People wanted comfortable and remunerative employment a century and a quarter ago and in some cases advertised their willingness to pay handsomely for it. The Times had several announcements of this kind:

"Twenty pounds will be given to any lady or gentleman who can procure a Place in any public offices for a steady, active young man, about 28. In the Excise Office, Custom House, or Victualling Office."

"One Hundred Pounds will be given to any person who can procure the advertiser any Permanent Place under Government where much writing is not required. Any other situation will not be objected to that will bring in £100 per annum."

"Five Hundred Guineas will be given to any lady or gentleman who can procure the advertiser a Permanent Situation, of proportionate value, in the Exchequer or any other office under Government where not more than three hours' daily attendance is required."

The advertising of medicines and proprietary preparations began early in the history of English newspapers. Sir Dr. John Hill's Genuine Pectoral Balsam of Honey had been on the market for thirty years when, in 1793, the following appeared in print:

"This elegant medicine for the immediate relief and gradual cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats, etc. . . It contains all the healing, softening, and soothing qualities of that salubrious extract of flowers called honey and the essential part of the richest balsams. It is as restorative as asses' milk and never disagrees with the stomach. . . . A common cold yields to the benign influence of this medicine in a few hours, and when resorted to before the lungs are ulcerated all danger of consumption is certainly prevented. Such are the faint outlines of the merits of Sir John Hill's Balsam of Honey, a preparation of most exalted efficacy, the result of long researches into nature by the Linnæus of Britian, a man who dedicated his life to botany and justly sought the true means of health in the vegetable kingdom."

Other medicines advertised at about that time and for several years agere were "Dr. James's Analeptic Pills, for health and longevity"; "Spilsbury's Anticorbutic Drops," which had worked some wonderful cures; and "Dr. Steers' Opodeldoc," for rheumatism, sprains, chilblains, and such like.

By 1816 the idea of store merchandising with the aid of printer's ink had caught on, and some of the London traders sought public patronage for their wares in ways like these:

"Irish Linens, French Cambrics, etc., particularly cheap. Several boxes of French cambrics at 30s. the piece upwards. Sheetings of every description very cheap. Stout India calico, full ell wide, at 12d. and 14d. per yard."

"A very extensive assortment of Muffs, Tippets, Trimmings for Pelisses, etc., full 30 per cent lower than the trade in general. Velvets for Spencers and pelisses from 7s. per yard upwards; yard wide Silk Handkerchiefs, 4s. each; Gloves, 1s. per pair upwards. J. Betts invites the Ladies and Public in general to favor him with a call, having no doubt but he will have it in his power to offer them the above goods at such prices as will secure him a decided preference."

"Sofa Beds, Chair Beds and Tables, all upon an entire new construction, the superiority, elegance and convenience of which is generally allowed, as well as their remarkable portability and convenience in taking down and fixing up."

None of this oldtime advertising had anything of the mechanical genius shown in modern newspaper display style. It was all set in solid want ad style, with possibly a heading and a signature in separate lines, and the effect was necessarily heavy. But no doubt it served its day and place and paved the way for the artwork that has come after it.

STOMACH TROUBLE DUE TO THIN BLOOD

It Usually Disappears When the Blood is Made Rich and Red.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion, and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. This is shown by an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood enriching pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are vigorous instead of irritable and listless. If your appetite is fickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion, you should at once take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and profit by the better condition in which they will put your blood.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BERLIN OPENS DRIVE ON FOOD PROFITEERS

New Rentenmark Currency Used as Club to Force Down Prices.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—A double-barrelled campaign has been started by the military authorities against the profiteers who have made Germany the most expensive country in the world to live in.

The campaign is undertaken as an economic measure simultaneously with the introduction of a more stable currency through the rentenmark.

Heretofore traders have included in the price of articles a premium for the risk they took in the further drop in the mark. This is now made unnecessary by the new stable money. But the habit still persists, especially while there is the excuse the ultimate value of the new currency is unknown.

Prohibited from raising the exchange rate, traders simply raised the basis price and got the same result, as evidenced by comparison of gold prices before the war and now:

Beef, formerly 22 cents, now 73; pork, 19 cents a pound, now 65; bread, 3½ cents a pound, now 4½; eggs, 2 cents each, now 8 cents; other things in proportion.

CUSTARDS

Warm the milk before adding it to the egg when you make a custard and no water will settle in the bottom of the dish.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

If you are suffering from the tortures of a displacement, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness, or a pain in the side, you should lose no time in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write for it to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario. This book contains valuable information that every woman should know.

AFTERNOON SESSION OF TEACHERS MEET

Advantage of Knowledge of Good English in Business Stressed by Mr. Deyell.

Mr Deyell, in his paper on Composition, at the teachers' convention Thursday afternoon, said that many employers were finding increased difficulty in getting clerks who could speak and write good plain English. Teaching of English at present seems to produce a very limited command of the English language. Too many graduates of the schools do not appreciate shades of meaning and show a weakness in work that requires accurate description or careful arrangement of detail. This seems to indicate a weakness in our system of teaching the subject.

Composition lies really at the basis of all education. The child must have a language in order to understand any subject at all. If he has a good home environment he will unconsciously adopt proper forms and methods of verbal communication. If he is unfortunate in this regard he will become drilled in bad forms and incorrect speech. These perversions are naturally difficult to overcome.

In the beginning children should be trained to express themselves, not in words only, but also in gestures, drawings, etc. They should start by expressing things seen rather than things felt as feelings are difficult to express. Children must be taught to follow some definite order in expression; it is a good thing, for example, to have a child explain the method of playing a game or the construction of some article. Telling a joke well is a good training in systematic expression. Easy natural conversations on topics in literature, geography, etc., are very valuable. Writing poetry is good since it requires exactness in the use and position of words.

Criticism of compositions must have a place in a process of education. What is the standard of criticism? Too often, if there are many compositions to correct, criticism is limited to the more noticeable errors such as misspelt words, faulty punctuation, etc. Little attention is paid to the preparation of a composition the arrangement of ideas, or the relative importance of the ideas. If proper attention is paid to preparation, and sufficient time is given pupils to get ideas and to get their ideas arranged in their own minds, less time should be necessary in correction. Compositions written, as many are, on short notice are not likely to be satisfactory in matter, style, or accuracy. A teacher, who puts all his time on correction and does not give pupils other models than their own corrected essays, will not find them making adequate progress. His teaching of composition will be a failure to a great extent. Pupils must be taught to try to express the substance of their thoughts and not merely to avoid mistakes in form.

Pupils may be helped in the writing of English by (a) continuous narration in other lessons as for example, in history; (b) interpretation work in reading as in literature lessons; (c) "summarizing" or reading lessons or in preparation work; (d) direct and critical examination of suitable passages in books read; (e) listening to the interesting and choice extracts read sympathetically; (f) the use of the dictionary for choice of words; (g) proposals from the children about the choice of subjects; (h) preparation in advance of the subject-matter of the composition, the older pupil being granted longer time for preparation; (i) practice in simple descriptions, especially of common objects; (j) free and friendly criticisms by the pupils of each other's work.

Pupils should be trained in the selection of words. Oral composition helps to increase vocabulary. Pupils to learn to write must write. It is wise to have them write many distinct paragraphs. These being short can be more readily discussed and criticised. Frequent discussion of prose and verse helps so much in acquiring good taste in selecting words and in expression of ideas. Boys with good vocabulary will be almost invariably good spellers.

To teach composition needs enthusiasm. Composition should be taught from good models as extracts from Stevenson, Dickens and others. The methods used in these to obtain special features being observed, pupils are asked to write paragraphs dealing with familiar experiences, using the methods adopted by these various authors These are criticised and discussed. This method of teaching composition from good models produces very satisfactory results. Models used in public schools must necessarily be simple and within the pupils' appreciation. Pupils are apt to use stilted and unnatural language. They seem to think that they are expected to write something out of the ordinary. The great idea is to develop naturalness of expression. Telling stories is a very valuable means. Letter-writing is a most practical means to develop power in composition.

SEARCH FAILED TO RECOVER CAR

Thomas Ruth's Automobile Was Stolen at Port Hope Fair — Beef Ring Succeeds.

OMEMEE, Nov. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ruth, of Peterborough, were visitors in town on Wednesday.

Mr. Ruth, who was the owner of an automobile had the misfortune to have it stolen while attending Port Hope Fair, and although investigation was made, no trace of it has been found.

Beef Ring Continues

Some years ago beef-rings were common in this vicinity, but of late interest was lacking and they gradually died out, until early last summer a number of farmers got together and succeeded in again organizing a ring and no difficulty was found in distributing the twenty shares.

On Wednesday evening the members met and re-organized, all feeling satisfied that the undertaking had been a real success. Mr. Vaughan was the capable butcher, while Mr. O. G. Williamson proved himself an efficient secretary.

H. S. Commencement

Programmes are out for the High School Commencement to be held in Coronation Hall, on Friday evening, November 30th. An interesting and varied programme has been arrantged and as this is an annual affair which has always attracted a large crowd, many are looking forward to the entertainment which will be composed of folk dances, songs, presentation of certificates and diplomas, etc., and a play entitled "O, What a Family."

Sunday Service

The morning service will be withdrawn in the Methodist church on Sunday next, owing to the absence of the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland, who will preach anniversary services at Bethel. In the evening, Rev. Walter H. Nugent, of Portland, Oregon, will take charge of the service at Omemee.

Rehearsing Play

The Young People of Christ's church, Omemee, have commenced their practice for a play to be given in Coronation Hall on New Year's night, entitled "Eliza Comes to Stay." This play has a royalty attached of twenty-five dollars and all are waiting with interest to hear it presented in Omemee.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met in the Sunday School room on Monday afternoon and succeeded in tieing and quilting four quilts which they donated to Mr. and Mrs. A. Fee.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Black spent a few days in Toronto this week.

After Nights of Coughing

Sleep Comes at Last

Home Made Cough Mixture Best of All

The cough that hangs on and hangs on—the cough you've taken everything for with no results, is just the cough that your own home-made cough mixture will end speedily.

Make a supply yourself in a few minutes and keep it on hand this winter—a half pint doesn't cost much; it's better than any you can buy, and the kiddies love it.

It's a fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh.

With speed almost beyond belief this home-made cough mixture stops the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a substance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately covers the membrane like a soothing, healing poultice and blessed relief comes at once.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one-half pint—that's all there is to it.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

NEWS OF MARMORA AND THE DISTRICT

MARMORA, November 24th. — On Sunday last Communion Service was held at 11 a.m. in the Methodist church. The Rev. D. R. Clare spoke on the text, "That ye give your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable," taking as his subject "Consecration." A larger number than usual partook of the Sacrament.

In the evening the annual missionary appeal was made. The pastor gave some interesting facts from last year's reports. Then he spoke of the urgent need on the Mission field and the heroism of the missionaries. He made a strong appeal to the people as to their responsibility and the tragedy that it would be if the response did not meet the demand.

There was no service in the Anglican church Sunday night as the Rev. Watson was preaching in Deloro.

High School Principal

Miss Daley, of Port Hope, recently teacher at Moulton College, is taking the principalship of the High School as Mr. Payette, the former principal, left last week to take up his new duties as Separate School Inspector of Northern Ontario. Miss Daley is no stranger to Marmora as she was one of the teachers when the High School was first established four years ago.

A.Y.P.A. Installation

On Monday night the A.Y.P.A. of Marmora held a special meeting for the purpose of installing their new officers. The Madoc A.Y.P.A. motored over to assist in the ceremony and a very enjoyable evening was spent in the basement of the Town Hall. Marmora expects to pay a return visit next week to Madoc.

Mr. Hallie Osborne, who has been training in the military camps at Montreal for the last six weeks, has returned home on Monday.

The Rev. D. R. Clare is in Warkworth this week assisting the Rev. S. Kemp in a week of special prayer services.

Mr. F. S. Peare and son, Stanley, were in Stirling on Saturday.

Mr. Howard Sabine, former editor of the Marmora Herald, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. Ray Jones spent the week-end in Toronto, visiting his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Simmons, of Belleville, spent the week-end with the farmer's brother.

Mrs. Edith Howes motored to Campbellford last Thursday and is still visiting there.

Mr. Wilson Grant is quite ill with double pneumonia.

Mr. David Simmons, who has been working all summer in Campbellford, has given up his work there and returned home. He is at present working on the new rectory.

Mrs. McKenzie, who has been visiting her sister in Eldorado for several weeks, has returned home.

The hunters have all returned home. Some are joyful, some discouraged, according to their luck.

Mrs. Doctor Thomson and Mrs. Fraser Bowen left on Monday to attend the annual convention of the Women's Institute in Toronto.

Mrs. Bailey, of Eldorado, visited friends in town on Monday.

PROTECTION WOULD INCREASE EMPLOYMENT.

LONDON, November 24 (Canadian Press Cable). — The National Union of Manufacturers has circularised its members asking how many more workers they could employ if their markets were adequately protected.

The replies already received place the number of new employees at over half a million.

The Union itself estimates that the complete result of the canvass will show that protected markets would add a million employees to the National Union members payrolls.

LIGHT

A flashlight, operated by a small storage battery and throwing its rays three-quarters of a mile, was invented in Boston. It's being adopted by fire departments, sewer diggers and so on. The whole outfit weighs only 12 pounds.

The best brains of our generation are engaged in invention and business. In former generations the top-notch intellects "went in for" the arts and government. That's why real artists now are scarce, and real statesmen scarcer.

TREES

John Davey of Ohio is buried. He was "the father of tree surgery in America." It takes years to grow a fine tree, and Davey performed a great service in teaching us how to prolong the life of the plant giants, especially shade trees.

Protect the old trees. Plant new ones, lots of them. Plant life alone has the power of trnasforming auto exhaust from poison gas to a harmless vapor. A tree by the auto road is an antidote.

Advises People to Relieve Constipation Without Drugs—Suffered Ten Years, Well in Three Weeks By Internal Bathing.

Did you ever hear of a person being permanently relieved of chronic constipation with drugs? They help temporarily, but larger doses are necessary from time to time. Nature's own remedy, just pure sterilized water, administered with the J. B. L. Cascade, is the only scientific and permanent treatment. Don't force Nature with drugs. Bathe internally.

Mrs. A. McLeod, Middleboro', B.C., writes: "For ten years I suffered from constipation, and for the last year I became a wreck. I had awful pains in my back, severe headaches, indigestion and swollen limbs. I tried all kinds of medicine, and many doctors without permanent relief. It was an act of Providence that I saw the J. B.L. Cascade advertised. The first time I used it I felt relieved, and in three weeks I was completely cured. My habits are now quite regular, and am in better health than I have been for years. I am very thankful to be doing my own work again."

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York for Internal Bathing. It is now being shown and explained at Warne Drug Company.

Write to them for free booklet, "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient"—or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto.

NEWEST AIRPLANE RIVALS BIRD IN FLIGHT

Here is the Perry helicopter, recently completed at Lombard, Ill. During a recent flight it lifted 3,500 pounds of dead weight directly off the ground straight up into the air. It has two pairs of wings superimposed one above the other and revolving in opposite directions. The wings have a spread of 44 feet. It is said the craft can rise or land in a ground space of 100 feet and can fly sideways or hover in the air like a bird.

APSLEY OPENS MISSION WEEK

Rev. W. J. Creighton Is Visiting Outposts of the District—Sam. Bullied Injured.

APSLEY, Nov. 24.—The Anglican mission of Apsley commenced its participation in the Diocesan General Mission on Saturday the 17th of November, and will continue until the 28th. The Missioner is the Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., R.D., rector of Bradford, Ont., who is delivering forceful and inspiring addresses at Owenbrook and Lasswade, the outposts of the mission, three days being devoted to each of these stations, with most encouraging results, every service bringing out most of the residents in the district. St. Stephen's, Chandos, will have services on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and St. George's, Apsley, on Sunday evening, and morning and evening services on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Basket Social

The Orange Hall at Apsley was crowded on Thursday evening when the celebrated picture "The Stream of Life" was shown, under the auspices of the Methodist church and thoroughly appreciated. Besides the picture an added attraction was a sale of baskets which was highly successful. Mr. R.H. Knox was entrusted with the duteis of auctioneer and had no difficulty in disposing of them at good prices. Prizes were offered for the prettiest basket and the highest priced one. Miss Ella Brown was the winner of the former, the judges being Will McCauley and the picture operator, while Miss Lulu Knox won the latter, her basket fetching the highest price. The proceeds for the evening amounted to nearly $100, a very gratifying result to the organizers of the entertainment.

Thrown Off Wagon

Mr. Sam Bullied, a highly respected resident of Lasswade and one of the pioneers of the settlement, met with a painful accident on Wednesday. While unloading manure the lines became entangled causing the team to upset the wagon. Mr. Bullied was thrown to the ground being struck by the wheel in his fall. He sustained a severe scalp wound and was badly bruised about the arms and chest, but fortunately escaped very serious injuries. His many friends will be glad to know that he is progressing favorably.

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overfat carry a burden they can not conceal. There is one sure way to reduce your weight surely and quickly. The harmless Marmola Prescription, which changes the fatty tissues and fat-producing foods to solid flesh and energy, helps the general health and digestion, permits you to eat substantial food, and leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. Each tablet contains an exact dose of the same harmless ingredients that made the original prescription capable of reducing the overfat body steadily and easily without the slightest ill effects. Take but one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the bodily health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription tablets or send one dollar to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., the price the world over, and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to slimness and happiness.

Factory accidents in New York state cost approximately $35,000,000 last year.

FOOD COSTS BIG FACTOR IN BATTLE

By P. M. SARL

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(United Press).—As to the result of the coming British elections, to be fought on the tariff question, even the boldest political prophets are chary about committing themselves.

Ever since Cobden raised the "Free Food" cry, and secured the repeal of the corn laws, the British voter has shied at the slightest suggestion of food taxes. The 1906 political landslide was due mainly to the Liberals raising the cry of "Your food will cost you more" in response to the Conservative slogan, "Tariff reform means work for all," and is significant of the times that the powerful Rothermore press, formerly staunch Conservative and Tariffite, has recently come out strongly against any form of food taxes.

In the General Election of last year the issue lay between the Cabinet of "first class brains," controlled by Lloyd George, and one man—Bonar Law. The nation decided that is was tired of "first-class brains" and was willing to accept the second and third-rate statesmen under the guidance of one man—Bonar Law.

The death of Bonar Law has created an extraordinary change in the situation. There are now practically no personalities in the fight—with the exception of David Lloyd George.

Premier Baldwin is respected as a worthy capable business man and trustworthy statesman, but his most ardent admirers would not claim that his is personality to sweep the country. Nor are there many members of the present government with election-winning personalities. Few of them rise above "second-class" —as Lord Birkenhead bitterly put it when lamenting the defeat of the "Cabinet of First-class Brains."

But of the leading political parties, there would appear to be no serious opponent, provided the Conservatives remain united.

Labor Is Weaker.

Labor probably reached its highest flood-tide mark at the last election, when the party secured the election of 142 members, and is doubtful if the most sanguine Labor leaders expect to increase this representation for some years to come. Liberal organizers claim that they are right.

The Liberal Party has been badly split between Asquith and Lloyd George are now that they have reunited and will fight the coming battle under one banner their strength is problematic. Asquith has no very great strength, but he controls an effective minority which has been bitterly hostile to Lloyd George, but who will unquestionably follow Asquiht into the Lloyd George camp.

The strength of the Lloyd George Asquiht Liberal Party is decidely uncertain. It is no secret that Lloyd George was great disappointed over the meager score of his party at the last election, when the National Liberals only equalled the Asquithites with a score of 59 each. At that time the Lloyd Georgians were hoping for the powerful support of the Chamberlainite Conservatives; in some constituencies they received it, but the result fell far below expectations.

Influences at Work.

However, it is admitted that the Lloyd George National Liberal wing had scarcely time to organize for the last election and since then powerful propaganda and organizing agencies have been at work, with the result that no one can forecast how the part will shape at the next election.

The Chamberlainite faction has definitely gone over to Premier Baldwin, and Chamberlain himself, while still a staunch admirer of Lloyd George, and feeling bitterly hurt about his rejection by his own party, is still a loyal party man. Chamberlain has no special ambitions to be Premier, and he realizes that he can never again control the Conservative Party. But he is a simple English gentleman who would feel like a renegade if he joined another party or headed a revolt against the recognized leader of his own party.

TRUE BROTHERLY LOVE

All the way from distant Italy Michele Crudelle, left, and Vicenzo Crudelle, right, have come in an effort to save their brother, Peter, from the gallows. He's in Cook county jail, Chicago, awaiting execution, along with his wife, for the murder of Mrs. Crudelle's first husband. The brothers read of his plight in Italian newspapers and immediately got in touch with Ambassador Child in Rome. Through him, the gates at Ellis Island were thrown open to them. Meanwhile, a stay was granted Peter.

Treat Sore Throat With Vicks

FOLLOW THE EXAMPLE OF THIS NOVA SCOTIA LADY.

Mrs. F. S. Myra of Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, writes: "I am delighted to let you know of the good Vicks VapoRub has done me. A few weeks ago I had a very bad sore throat. I happened to have a sample of Vicks in the house, so I used it, and it did my throat so much good that I bought a bottle from my druggist. I cannot praise Vicks VapoRub too highly."

Treat one cold with Vicks VapoRub and you will adopt this external treatment for all the cold troubles of the family. Vicks is a salve that acts like a plaster and a vapor lamp at the same time. It is absorbed and inhaled.

When the children come in wet and sniffling, apply Vicks liberally over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

Treated at bedtime, the child is usually better next morning and all the bad after-effects of internal dosing are avoided. Croup attacks are kept away, too.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

BITUMINOUS MINES CLOSED IN STATES

CHICAGO, November 24. Canadian Pressdian Press. — A slump in the marekt demand for bituminous coal has closed twenty per cent. of the Illinois mines, and 33 per cent. of the Indiana mines, since January 1st. Dr. F. C. Honnol, secretary of the Illinois Coal Operators Associations, said yesterday.

Seventy-one Illinois mines with a potential daily capacity of 100,000 tons or more and 69 Indiana mines with a gross daily output of more than 50,000 tons, have been closed or abandoned.

OWL RAIDER OF POULTRY SHOW

Digesting Young Pullet On Barn Gable When Bullet Brought Him Down.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 23.—Mr. N. Stanley Higgins of the Ninth line of Smith, shot a large owl last week on the peak of Mr. Young's barn. The owl has been a persistent poultry thief and just before he was shot he had killed a fine young pullet, so there is a good deal of relief over the capture of an undesirable. The owl was very large, measured 50 inches from tip to tip.

Had a Weak Heart Was Very Nervous For Three Years

Miss Jessie Peterson, Zealandia, Sask., writes: "I wish to let you know how much good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

"For nearly three years I was very badly run down, had a weak heart, and was so nervous that sometimes I would almost faint away.

"I heard of many people who had recommended your Heart and Nerve Pills, so I decided to give them a trial. After I had used two boxes I found they had done me good, and after having taken five boxes I was completely relieved.

"I cannot recommend your Pills enough, and I would advise anyone having a weak heart or troubled with nervousness to use them."

Milburn's H. & N. Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LEAF PLANTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(Associated Press)—Artificial light as a means of hastening the maturity of plants can be used most successfully with plants with large leaf areas, experiments recently conducted for the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company, Columbia University and Peter Henderson and Company, seedsmen, indicate.

The experiments carried out under the supervision of 73-year-old Julius Heinrichs, veteran florist and landscape gardener, in a hothouse at Baldwin, N.Y., were said to be the most scientifically accurate so far attempted in this country.

The utility of artificial light, used when sunlight is not available, as a means of maturing plants has been known for many years, according to horticulturists who asserted, however, that the experiments at Baldwin established the degree of utility. Experiments of a similar nature, it was said, are being conducted by government experts at Washington and by the research department of the National Electric Light Association. Others were carried out a score years ago by the late W. W. Rawson, pioneer market gardener and horticulturist of Arlington, Mass.

The experiments were undertaken it was said, to determine the exact scientific effect of artificial light on plant life and to determine whether artificial light might, if necessary, be successfully substituted for sunlight.

Rows of exactly similar plants were grown in the hothouse, one row dependent entirely on the sunlight, and another subjected to five hours of artificial light switched on one hour after sundown.

Many of the specimens subjected to electric light, it was asserted, grew upwards of twice the size of similar plants receiving sunlight only, and were considered by experts of the Bronx Botanical Gardens, who attended the conclusion of the tests, to be from 14 to 27 days in advance of normal growth.

Vegetables having large leaf surfaces, such as lettuce, endive and cucumbers, responded most readily to the stimulation of the electric bulbs. In some cases there was no perceptible gain in growth, particularly in root plants, such as the beet, carrot and radish. The tomato plant actually seemed to have thrived less under the "overtime system" of sunlight during the day and electric light at night.

Cauliflower seeds germinated in 5 days, as compared with an average germinating period of 10 days in the field; celery in 11 days, as compared with three to five weeks afield; beans in three days, as compared with 12; carrots seven, as compared with 14; cucumbers three, as compared six; lettuce six to 16 days under electric lights in the hothouse, as compared with 32 days afield; radishes in three days, as compared with six; beets seven as compared with 14; musk melon four, as compared with 10; tomatoes seven as compared with 14, and endives four as compared with 10.

After the period of germination the root crop plants slackened in the pace, until at the end of the test period there was little difference between them and the same varieties grown under sunlight alone.

The Red Cross originated in Geneva, where it was found in 1863 by M. Henri Durant.

The "Night Cap" that assures Restful Sleep

IF you would enjoy sound, natural sleep, make "Ovaltine" your regular "night cap."

"Ovaltine" overcomes the two main causes of sleeplessness—digestive unrest and over-strained nerves. Made from ripe barley malt, rich, creamy milk and fresh eggs, "Ovaltine" is highly nourishing but causes no digestive activity. It induces restful sleep by soothing and restoring the worn nerves, brain and body.

"Ovaltine" is easily prepared—in the cup—with warm milk.

We will gladly send you a trial sample on receipt of five cents to cover postage and packing.

cannot hope ever to become strong and well again unless they have plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that organic iron—Nuxated Iron—helps make. Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on iron filings. Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach; it is an entirely different thing from ordinary metallic iron. It quickly helps make rich, red blood, revitalize worn-out, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using it. At all druggists. SAVED ROOSEVELT'S PICTURE FROM FIRE

Japanese Servants Saved Picture at the Risk of Their Lives.

By CLARENCE DUBOSE.

TOKYO, Nov. 24 (United Press)—Theodore Roosevelt's picture was saved from the Tokyo fire.

Japanese servants, in a home where it was hanging beside a picture of the late Emperor Meiji of Japan, saved "Teddy's" picture and the Emperor's at the risk of their lives.

They were not told to do it. The instinct of every Japanese in a fire is to save the Emperor's picture. In the Tokyo-Yokohama disaster hundreds of school teachers and local officials lost their lives by rushing into burning school houses and municipal and public buildings to remove the picture of their Emperor—to them a sacred thing, although a picture.

"Teddy's" picture hung in the home of Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, member of the Privy Council, president of the America-Japan Society, noted Japanese statesman, a descendant of one of the most powerful old clan families of feudal Japan, and one of the first Japanese, if not the first, to graduate from Harvard University, which he did with the class of 1878.

Friend of Roosevelt

Kaneko and Theodore Roosevelt were warm and intimate personal friends. He visited Roosevelt extensively during his presidency. He admired Roosevelt extravagantly and never in all the many speeches Viscount Kaneoko has made at meetings of the America-Japan Society—never once has he failed to tell of his love for Roosevelt. It really was an obsession with him.

In Kaneko's house Roosevelt's picture hung beside that of the Great Meiji, father of the present Emperor. When the earthquake came Kaneko's house was damaged, like everything in Tokyo—and then it burned, as did a large part of Tokyo. Kaneko was not at home at the time.

A few days later he managed to reach what had been his home. The faithful Japanese servants—and there is nothing more faithful on earth—were sitting beside the heap of charred wreckage that represented his ruin. They had a little rice, a jug of water and two small packages—all that remained of Kaneko's personal possessions. One of the packages was the Emperor's picture. The other was Roosevelt's. They had wrapped the pictures up in bits of burned kimono because the Japanese regard it as irreverent to display publicly the features of the Emperor. To Roosevelt they accorded, instinctively, the same treatment as to their Emperor, because they knew how Kaneko loved his picture.

General McCoy of the American Red Cross sent Kaneko a suit of clothes, a shirt, tie and collar, underwear and socks. "This shirt, this white collar and this necktie," said the old man, "shall be handed down as souvenirs, precious souvenirs, to my descendants." And he meant it, although, having an American sense of humor he joined in the laughter of the group to which he told the story.

But he wept when he told of "Teddy's" picture.

BETTER ENGLISH IS BEING USED IN BUSINESS WORLD.

Standard of Sales Letters Is High, Says University Director of English.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 24 (Associated Press)—The English of sales letters has reached a standard as high as the general standard in advertising and in journalism, according to Mrs. Alta Gwinn Saunders, director of Business English work at the University of Illinois.

"I do not maintain that good English is the one test of a good letter nor that it is the most important element of a good letter," Mrs. Saunders asserts. "It is my contention that it is as important to the good letter as is any other element, and that a letter cannot be a good letter until good English is combined with a business mind, good character, pleasing personality, and knowledge of human nature in getting results.

"My definition of good English does not include slang, colloquialisms, or slouchy English sometimes used in letters that get results, but the English that conforms to the way writers of English used in successful letters. This means the best language of daily life, that which is adapted to all sections of the country, and to good taste. It means English appropriate to the occasion, the subject matter, and the person.

"The catagories of bad English are: Disregard of the elementary rules of grammar; inaccuracies of expression; stereotyped diction, and inflated diction. The main concerns of good English are: Good structure of the whole composition, paragraphs and sentences, and simple, plain direct and appropriate language; English that is moral, social and artistic.

"Awkardness and crudities are disappearing. There is growing up a free, plain, tradesman-like style becoming to the nature of its subject matter. There is a noticeable growth in the artistic quality of the descriptive and narrative parts of sales letters."

REGULATION OF DIET IS STILL NECESSARY IN DIABETIC CASES

Prominent United States Physician Characterizes the Discovery of Insulin As One of the Greatest Achievements For Relief of Suffering.

SELF ADMINISTERED

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(Associated Press)—In an article in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Frederick M. Allen, director of the Physiatric Institute, Morristown, N.J., gives an authoritative review of the treatment of diabetes with insulin, based on its use at the Institute for a period of more than a year, or since the discovery of insulin by Dr. Frederick G. Banting and his associates.

The impression has gained much headway with the public during the past year, according to Dr. Allen, that insulin is a cure for diabetes and that regulation of diet is not necessary. This is far from the truth. The use of insulin without a regulated diet is a dangerous error. Continuing Dr. Allen writes: "The purpose of insulin treatment is to improve the nutrition of patients with severe diabetes and to add a safeguard against downward progress. Mild cases, which can be kept symptom-free on adequate diets, ordinarily do not require insulin. Insulin does not offer a cure of diabetes or a license for carelessness.

"The insulin treatment should be carried out in conjuction with accurate diets under labratory control to assure that patients remain sugar free. It involves the inconvenience of frequent subcutaneous injections and other disadvantages, does not simplify diabetic treatment or justify careless methods; and is not the final step in diabetic research. Nevertheless this discovery of Dr. Banting and his associates in the first replacement of negative by positive therap in diabetes. It affords the possibility of relegating emaciation, progressiveness acidosis, and most of the disabilities and fatalities of diabetes to the past. It therefore stands as one of the greatest achievements of medicine for the relief of human suffering. It theoretical and indirect consequences may ultimately outweigh the immediate and practical ones.

"Insulin must nearly always be injected by the patient or some member of the household, since the physician can seldom spare the time, and few persons can afford the continuous service of a nurse. Patients have experienced no difficulty in learning the hypodermic technique, and, somewhat to our surprise, not a single one, even among the ignorant, has produced an abscess. The frequency of the injections, which at first thought seems formidable, has likewise proved compatible with the living and working habits of all patients, and is a trivial price to pay for the improvement of health.

"Hypoglycemia (loss of sugar in the blood) is ordinarily emphasized as the chief danger and the reason for allowing more or less glycosuria (presence of sugar in the blood); but properly prepared patients can readily avoid both these extremes, or can take a little orange juice or sugar if they ever experience the warning symptoms of weakness, tremulousness and perspiration. We instruct every patient to carry a one ounce package of powdered glucose for emergency purposes. This is convenient, and less of a temtation that candy or other food.

"Now that there is an abundant supply of insulin and sufficient experience in its use, we find two to four weeks to be about the average duration of institutional treatment required for uncomplicated cases. This institutional care, comprising the study of the individual needs of diet and dosage and the training of the patient in both these phases, is somewhat more important with insulin than under the former treatment by diet alone."

HOME TRAINING BLAMED FOR MOST MODERN CRIME

By ROBERT A. DONALDSON

LOS ANGGELES, Nov. 23.—(United Press).—Lack of proper home environment for children and young men and women is the starting point of most crimes, Chief August Vollmer, "scientific chief of police" of Los Angeles, believes.

Girls go wrong for exactly the same reason as boys, he says.

"It takes more than a desire for better clothes or any other "powder-puff' reason to cause a girl to go wrong if she has been raised in the proper home environment," Vollmer declares.

"Jails are as largely responsible for keeping the criminal class alive as anything else. After a man has committed a crime, he is likely to be made a professional criminal through the present ruthless jail methods.

"Instead of demonstrating that civilization is not cruel and barbaric, but stands for something finer and nobler than a policy of mere revenge, even when it is necessary to punish a man, our jail conditions should be completely changed.

"I believe the prison farm idea is the proper one. To clap men into cells or tanks, where the light of day seldom penetrates with any force, where they are usually overcrowded, and the problem of vermin is a real one, is to give a prisoner a lasting feeling of resentment against organized society, and to demonstrate that, in the final analysis, we are living in an age where mans' inhumanity to man is still the guiding idea. I do not, of course, refer to penitentiaries, which are necessary to restrain hardened offenders"

One of Vollmer's first steps was to stop the practice of throwing decent citizens into jail for minor offenses, such as speeding. He claimed they came in contact with the dregs of humanity, contagion and diseases, and that the law was not intended to punish decent citizens for minor offenses in any such manner. Speeders are now being fined, not jailed, and every consideration is being shown citizens, not of the criminal class, where minor infractions are involved. Vollmer believes this policy will build up good-will and co-operation among the law-abiding residents of the city.

"There will always be a criminal class, and there will always be vice, to a certain extent," says Vollmer. "Ninety per cent. of all criminals are, in the final analysis, not right mentally. They are not insane, but somewhere in the devious channels of the brain the impluses to do right have not overcome the impulses to do wrong. The problem is to take these unfortunates in hand as soon as possible and, instead of throwing them into jail and forgetting them, to give them an environment which will change their outlook on life to something more normal. I may illustrate what I mean by stating that the medical test to determine insanity is whether the person's mind clearly distinguishes right from wrong and true from false."

The traffic problem, Vollmer believes, is not rightfully a police problem, but an engineering one. It should be taken out of the hands of the police, in his opinion, and conducted by a bureau of traffic engineers, who would consider it as a problem of moving a given amount of traffic at varying times a day over certain routes.

Having to detail such a large number of men to handle traffic is a drain on the resources and efficiency of a police department, he believes. It takes too large a number of police, trained in crime methods, to tag machines and the like, and brings the police into an unfavorable light with the public, whose co-operation is needed in solving the real crime and vice problems of the community.

OLD SPELLING MATCH VARIED

Young People of Omemee Methodist Church Inject Novelty Into Old-Fashioned Pastime.

OMEMEE, Nov. 24.—The grand finale of the Young People's contest which has been running for some weeks in the Methodist church took place on Wednesday evening when the young men of the League gallantly paid off their penalty by giving a social evening. Mr. Gordon Bradley, citizenship vice-president, presided. After a rousing song service, prayer and scripture reading by the pastor, the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Muriel McGinnes. A chorus by the young ladies of the League, "O, Come in Childhood's Sunny Hour" was well received. Then followed a splendid paper by Mrs. Bradburn, "How to make this a Happier World." Master Floyd Parsons contributed to the programme a splendid instrumental for which he was heartily encored. Dr. W. H. Nugent, an old Omemee boy who was present, was called on and delighted the young people with his breezy address. The Misses Eva and Lillian Race again gave great pleasure to their hearers by their rendition of a very tuneful piano duet.

A spelling contest followed; Captains were chosen and sides drawn up; large cards bearing the letters of the alphabet were distributed, one side red, the opposing side black. When a word was given out, those holding a letter in the word rushed to one end of the room and held his or her card at arm's length. The duty of each captain being to see that the letters were in proper place. Excitement and keen rivalry reigned supreme during the contest which resulted in a win for the reds by five points. A social half-hour followed in which the young men proved themselves to be real hosts. A closing hymn followed by a brief prayer by Dr. Nugent, brought another pleasant evening to a close.

Wm. Balfour Buried

The body of the late William Balfour, who died in Edmonton on Armistice Day, arrived on the noon train, Monday, and was conveyed to the Masonic rooms where it lay in state until Tuesday afternoon, when after a brief Masonic service the remains were taken to the Methodist church and a very impressive service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland, who opened with that beautiful hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," after which he offered an earnest prayer. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the life of the deceased, his life overseas and in closing used those beautiful words found in the 90th Psalm, "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." The service was brought to a close by singing "Rock of Ages," after which the large congregation viewed the last remains of a loyal soldier, before it was borne from the church by the Masonic brethren, Messrs. E. R. Correll, N. Clemett, R. Grandy, J. J. H. Fee, F. Evans and Bruce Lowes.

The funeral cortege led by Lorne Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 375, proceeded to Emily cemetery for burial. Many floral tributes bore mute testimony of the high esteem in which he was held among them being: Sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ross, Victoria, B. C.; A friend, Victoria, B.C.; sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Balfour, Edmonton; poppy wreath, War Veterans, Edmonton; sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. Cond, Saskatoon,; compass and square, Masonic lodge, Omemee; sheaf of 'mums from the Associates of the old Omemee club; wreath, Mr. Lloyd Wood, of Lindsay, and others.

Among those from a distance who attended were his sister, Miss Harmony Balfour, of Edmonton, Mrs. I. Laidley, Mrs. George Balfour, Miss Mary Balfour, Mr. Lloyd Wood Jr., Messrs. William and Thomas Moore and Mr. R. Abercrombie of Lindsay, Mr. H. Fee, of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. G. Magee and Mr. and Mrs. E. Hannah, of Janetville, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arnott, of Fleetwood.

HUNDRED IN COSTUME AT LAKEFIELD DANCE

Masquerade Under the Auspices of the Firemen Brought Out Fantastic Assembly of Shieks, Pierottes, Queens, Indians, Before Interested Spectators.

SOCIAL SUCCESS.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 24.—The masquerade dance held under the auspices of the Lakefield Fire Brigade was the event of the season and establishes a record in masquerade dances, as it was decidedly the largest and most successful ever held in Lakefield. The firemen were unremitting in their attention to the comfort and wellbeing of their guests, showing the same efficiency and gallantry which they display when called out on duty.

Fully three hundred people were present and if happy faces were any indication of enjoyment, everyone was having a very pleasant time. The hall was decorated prettily and never showed off to better advantage and there was none of the stiffness which has marred many of the dances of recent years, it was more like the old-time community dances which are a happy memory to many citizens.

The patronesses present were Mesdames J. C. Strickland, T. B. Marling, W. M. Graham and W. W. Leonard. Several novelty dances were introduced which were very popular and varied the programme. Hendren's orchestra provided the music for the evening very acceptably.

The climax of the evening was the judging of the costumes which took place about 10.30. Owing to the remarkably large proportion of costumes which deserved special notice, the task of judging was a very difficult one as there were so many of equal merit. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. C. Smith as "Queen of Hearts," Mrs. Millage as "Pierrette," Miss Hewitt as a "White Chicken," and G. J. Elmsley as a "Skeleton," and J. W. Redpath as the "Skipper of the Toonerville Trolley."

Others deserving special mention were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. Spence, Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. Grier, Mrs. Gordon Northey, Miss Jean Redpath, Eric Fawcett, Mrs. Osborne, E. H. Northey (whose feminine impersonations are always remarkably good), Dr. Renwick and Dr. Smith.

Mr. Elmsley's costume was decidedly the most unique costume in the hall and excited a lively curiosity until the hour for unmasking, while Mr. Northey was a "perfect lady." The number in costume was probably about one hundred while about two hundred in "mufti" observed the parade and enjoyed the dancing.

The Comet bus and several automobiles brought a large delegation from Peterboro while a number from Warsaw, Buckhorn, Young's Point and Selwyn attended also.

The firemen deserve congratulations on their very successful dance which is the best yet from everyone's point of view, the financial returns were gratifying indeed and the social success augers well for future occasions.

Among those in costume were: Mrs. F. Brown, Turkish Lady; Mrs. Fawcett, Queen of Night; Mrs. Sanderson, Queen of Hearts, Mrs. Elmsley, Summer Girl; Mrs. W. Millage, Pierrette; Mrs. E. M. Grier, Spanish Lady; Mrs. Osborne, Arabian Shiek; Mrs. G. Northey, Arabian Lady; Mrs. E. H. Northey, Eastern Lady; Mrs. B. Blewett, Turkish Lady; Mrs. J. C. Smith, Queen of Hearts; Mrs. Alex. Spence, Queen Tut; Mrs. Ella Bogue, Little Girl; Mrs. S. Sutton, Shamrock; Miss Gwendoline Simpson, Rambler Rose; Miss Ida Webster, Summer; Miss Helen Simpson, Interrogation; Miss Marv Johnston, Eastern lady; Miss Florence Hewitt, White Chicken; Miss Helen Burgess, Chance; Miss Jean Redpath, Indian Maiden; Miss Helen Brookes, Hawaiian Princess; Miss Lillian Summers, Pierrette; Miss Mary Mackenzie, Pierrette; Miss Dorothy Turner, Red Cross Nurse; Miss Fern Wannamaker, Orange Lily; Miss Winifred Sage, Orange Lily; Miss Stella Lennox, Turkish Lady; Miss Florence Batten, Highland Lassie; Miss Winifred Batten, Ballet Girl; Miss Eva Brown, Ballet Girl Miss Angela Osborne, Sir Walter Raleigh; Miss Yvonne Stuart, Turkish Lady; Miss Jean Erskine, Indian Lady; Miss Ivah Windsor, Vamp; Miss Edna Braden, French Peasant; Miss Elsie Kidd, Queen of Hearts; Percy Stenner, Courtier; George Hendren, Pierrot; James W. Redpath Skipper Toonerville Trolley; F. S. Brown, Turkish gentleman; Eric Fawcett, Shiek; G. J. Elmsley, Skeleton; E. M. Grier, Italian; E.H. Northey, Lady of Fashion; Dr. J. C. Smith, Indian Chief; Elwood Givern, Cow Boy; Dr. G. E. Renwick, Toreador; Thomas Doughty, Clown, and many others.

THE COACH'S JOB

Something of the taskmaster, the general and the diplomat, and a lot of the doctor must be hidden away in the man who would be the coach of a successful football or track team.

Emergencies of all kinds are his daily routine. A thorough knowledge of first aid is as essential as a knowledge of the game played by his men.

Bumps, bruises, strained ligaments and muscles are every day happenings, but the coach never becomes contemptuous of them. He knows that if neglected, they may result in anything.

Trainers everywhere keep Absorbine Jr. in their lockers. They use it not only for sprains, cuts and bruises, but for the skin and blood protection of its disinfecting properties. In one convenient container it combines the functions of a number of preparations.

It is the first of all the First Aid requisites in use in all of the leading athletic clubs.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—A seven-day program of transatlantic broadcasting will begin Sunday night at 10 o'clock, Eastern standard time, when eight radiophone stations in the British Isles will radiate special programs until 10.30 p.m. for the radio audience in this country. Following this, stations in the United States and England will alternate until December 1, when they will speak to each other in two-way communication at five-minute intervals.

Henry Ford will speak on Thursday night from his station, W.W'I. at Dearborn, Michigan, operating on the 300-metre wave length. Arrangements are under way in England to have the Prince of Wales Premier Baldwin and Marconi speak to American listeners. All American, stations will be off the air while the English transmitters are in action.

Station WJZ New York, and WGY, Schenectady, N.Y., will be connected by long-distance wires, so the same program will be broadcast simultaneously from both cities. Eight stations in England will be joined by land lines so one microphone located in London will control all stations. When a voice activates the microphone in London it will be sent into the air simultaneously from eight different stations, all operating on different wavelengths.

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience, through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested, Dinwiddie declaring that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced this is Mary's daughter, but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering manages to meet her, and she tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; that Mary is ill in a sanitarium in Vienna.

Clavering does not believe her story and frankly tells her so. Each is aware of a more than passing interest in the other, Clavering, as time goes on, becoming so distraught over the affair that he goes for advice to his friend, Gora Dwight, who is just creating a stir with the publication of her first novel.

XIV. (Continued)

It was difficult to be pessimistic with a hundred thousand dollars in bonds and mortgages and the deed of a house in her strong box, but Gora Dwight was an artist and could always fall back on technique. But although her book was the intellectual expression of wildly distorted complexes, owing to the disillusionments of war, the humiliation of her ego in woman's most disastrous adventure, and the consequent repression of all her dearest urges, she deserved her success far more than any of her adolescent rivals. She had formed her style in the days of complete normalcy, and not only was that style distinguished, vigorous and individual, but she was able to convey her extremest realism so subtly and yet so ambiguously that she could afford to disdain the latrinities of the "younger school." A marvelous feat. Most of them used the frank vocabulary of the humble home, as alone synonymous with Truth. Never before had such words invaded the sacrosanct pages of American letters. Little they recked, as Mr. Lee Clavering, who took the entire school as an obscene joke, pointed out, that they were but taking the shortest cut—advantage of the post-war license affecting all classes—to save themselves the exhausting effort of acquiring a vocabulary and forming a style.

The spade as a symbol vanished from fiction.

Miss Dwight had her own ideals, little as she permitted her unfortunate characters to have any, and not only was she a consummate master of words and of the art of suggestion, but she had been brought up by finicky parents who held that certain words were not to be used in refined society. The impressions received in plastic years were not to be obliterated by any fad of the hour.

No one knew, not even her fellow Californians, that she had had a disastrous love affair, which had culminated in an attempt to murder her beautiful sister-in-law. Her book had been a wild revulsion from every standard of her youth, and she loathed love and the bare idea of mutual happiness in fellow mortals as she recently had loathed blood and filth and war and Germans.

Success is a great healer. Moreover, she was a woman of strong and indomitable character, and very proud. She consigned the man, who, after all, was the author of her penomenal success, to nethermost oblivion. You cannot sell three hundred thousand copies of a book, receive hundreds of letters from unknown admirers telling you that you are the greatest novelist living, see your name constantly in the "news," be besieged by editors and publishers, and become a popular favorite with Sophisticates, and carry around a lacerated heart. The past fades. The present reigns. The future is rosy as the dawn. Gora Dwight was far too arrogant at this period of her career to love any man even had there been anything left of her heart but a pump. Her life was full to the brim. She was quite aware that the present rage for stark and dour realism would pass—the indications were to be seen in the more moderate but pronounced success of several novels by authors impervious to crazes— but she was too fertile for apprehension on that score. She had many and quite different themes wandering like luminous ghosts about the corridors of a brain singularly free from labyrinths, ready to emerge, full-bodied, when the world was ready for them.

The last time Clavering had sat opposite a woman by a log fire both had enjoyed the deep luxury of easy chairs and his hostess had seemed to melt into the depths until they enfolded her. But Miss Dwight never lounged. Her backbone appeared to be made of castiron. She sat erect today on a hassock while he reclined in a chair that exactly fitted his spine and enjoyed contrasting her with the other woman. Gora Dwight had no beauty, but she never passed unnoticed in a crowd, even if unrecognized. Her oval eyes were a pale clear gray, cold, almost sinister, and she wore her mass of rich brown hair on top of her head and down to her heavy eyebrows. Her mouth was straight and sharply cut, but mobile and capable of relaxing into a charming smile, and she had beautiful teeth. The nose was short and emphatic, the jawbone salient. It was, altogether, a disharmonic type, for the head was long and the face short, broad across the high cheekbones; and her large light eyes set in her small dark face produced a disconcerting effect on sensitive people, but more often fascinated them. Clavering had been told that in her California days she had possessed a superb bust, but long years of unremitting work in France and England had taken toll of her flesh and it had never returned; she was very thin and the squareness of her frame was emphasized by the strong uncompromising bones. But her feet and her brown hands were long and narrow, and the straight lines of the present fashion were very becoming to her. She wore today a gown of dark red velvet trimmed with brown fur and a touch of gold in the region of the waist. It was known that she got her clothes at the "best houses."

She was a curious mixture, Clavering reflected, and not the least contradictory thing about her was the way in which her rather sullen face could lighten up, exactly as if some inner flame leapt suddenly behind those uncanny eyes and shed its light over the very muscles of her cheeks and under her skin. The oddest of her traits was her apparent pleasure in seeing a man comfortable while she looked like a ramrod herself; and she was the easiest of mortals to talk to when she was in the right mood. She was morose at times, but her favorites were seldom inflicted with her moods, and of all her favorites Clavering reigned supreme. This he knew and took advantage of after the fashion of his sex. He told her of his troubles, his ambitions, which he believed to be futile—he had written plays which his own criticism had damned and no eye but his own and Gora Dwight's had ever seen—and she refreshed and stimulated his mind when his daily column must be written and his brain was stagnant. She also knew of his secret quest of the one woman and had been the repository of several fleeting hopes. And never for a moment had she thought him saturnine or disillusioned. Not she! Gora Dwight had an extraordinary knowledge of men for a woman to whom men did not make love. But if she had neither beauty nor allure she had genius; and a father confessor hardly knows more about women than a nurse about men. Moreover, she had her arts, little as men suspected it. Long ago she had read an appraisement of Madame Recamier by Sainte-Beuve: "She listens avec seduction." Gora had no intention of practicing seduction in any of its forms, but she listened and she never betrayed, and her reward was that men sound and whole, and full of man's inherent and technical peculiarities, had confided in her. Altogether she was well equipped for fiction.

HAVELOCK HAS A GOOD SCHOOL

Board of Education Made Tour of Inspection — Approved the Use of Soft Coal in Boilers.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 24.— The Board of Education of the village of Havelock met in the school house on the evening of Wednesday the 21st of November at the hour of 7.30.

The repairs undertaken by the Board during the summer vacation add greatly to the appearance and convenience of the school, while they enhance the safety of the teachers and children in times of panic, such as would be caused by a fire in the school building during school hours.

The steam heating system, installed some years ago, is giving excellent service, although the caretaker contends this could be improved by installiing a separate return pipe leading from each radiator, for the purpose of making the circulation in the system more active, which would tend to give the results required under the lower steam pressure. This would naturally tend to reduce the fuel bill.

The fuel question is not so serious since the use of soft coal has been adopted, and while the smoke nuisance has brought several complaints to the Board the saving in expense is considered sufficient warrant for continuing the use of the cheaper fuel.

Before the meeting adjourned, at the suggestion of the chairman, the Board formed itself into a committee of inspection and betook themselves to the Third Book room to investigate the condition of the floor in this room. It was found after carefully running a line that there was some three inches of a sag in the floor, but from the appearance of the ceiling below, which was inspected, and showed no sign of break, it was considered that the sag was not of recent development and the Board decided the occupation of the room to be perfectly safe.

The retiring members this year are Trustees J. J. Carter and D. A. Forde. Mr. Carter expresed himself as being unable to stand for re-election as he is seriously considering making Smith's Falls his place of abode for the reason that his work can be attended to much better when living in the home terminal.

It is expected that Trustee Forde will again accept nomination.

The minutes of the meeting follow:

Members present: Chairman H. Falkner, Secretary-Treasurer H. W. Roche, Trustees D. A. Forde, Robert Anderson and J. J. Carter.

Trustee Benjamin Haig was unavoidably absent.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Accounts.

A. J. Peeling, for paint and hardware, $69.93.

Moved by Trustee Carter and Forde that Peeling account amounting to $69.93 be passed and treasurer be authorized to make payment.—Carried.

At this point the unanimous opinion of the Board was expressed by Trustee Anderson, that all accounts should be submitted to the Board each month for consideration, with a view to assist the treasurer to a better knowledge of the expenditures occurring, allowing him to be in a position to advise the Board as to the relation the expenditures bear to the appropriation asked for.

Communications.

Resignation from Miss Lillian Hubble, the Primer Class teacher, to take effect Dec. 31st, 1923.

Moved by Trustees Anderson and Carter, and carried, that Miss Hubble's resignation be accepted.

The high esteem in which Miss Hubble is held was voiced by several members of the Board, and there is no doubt, should she desire testimonials for the future position she has in mind, there will be no difficulty in obtaining them from her present employers.

The motion by Trustees Anderson and Carter also authorized the Secretary to get in communication with Miss Hendron, who is visiting in this vicinity, and if possible, secure her for the vacancy caused by Miss Hubbles' resignation.

It was decided to hold the next meeting on Wednesday, the 12th day of December.

Meeting adjourned.

INDIGESTION GAS ON STOMACH PAINS AFTER MEALS

Many people suffer terribly from gas and pains in the stomach after every meal, and are kept in constant misery.

For the past 44 years Burdock Blood Bitters has been bringing hope and joy to thousands suffering from various forms of stomach trouble, helping them to eat three square meals a day; helping them to eat anything they wish, without having to suffer for it afte..

Mr. Fred. Nielson, Moose Jaw, Sask., writes: "All last summer I was troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion, and also gas on the stomach. I could not eat anything except some light food and even then I would be bothered with pains after each meal. I could not work a whole day without being done out. I had tried everything; doctors, medicines and pills, until I read about Burdock Blood Bitters. I have taken four bottles and it has nearly, if not completely, restored me to health again."

MANY RUSSIAN MENNONITES SETTLED IN SASKATCHEWAN

WINNIPEG, November 24 (Canadian Press).—Twenty-five hundred Russian Mennonites, men, women, and children from Southern Russia, have been placed on Western Canadian land during the past year by the Mennonite Colonisation Association, according to Rev. David Toews, president of the organisation.

Most of them were placed in the Rosthern district, Northern Saskatchewan.

TEETHING TROUBLES

Baby's teething time is a time of worry and anxiety to most mothers. The little ones become cross; peevish; their little stomach becomes deranged and constipation and colic sets in. To make the teething period easy on baby the stomach and bowels must be kept sweet and regular. This can be done by the use of Baby's Own Tablets—the ideal laxative for little ones. The Tablets are a sure relief for all the minor ailments of childhood such as constipation, colic, indigestion, colds and simple fevers. They always do good—never harm. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FAVORS PACIFIC WHEAT ROUTING

Sir Henry Thornton Suggests Dividing Line on Prairies For Shipments.

WINNIPEG, November 24 (Canadian Press) — The marketing of wheat through the Pacific Coast ports is strongly favoured by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railway, according to the views he expressed here yesterday during an interview.

There should be a dividing of ways on the Prairies, he said, where wheat grown West of this division line should be shipped by Pacific ports to the world's markets and wheat grown East to the Eastern seaboard.

In case of congestion it should always be possible to switch shipments so that there would be no bolding up of traffic.

With the development of Orient markets, shipments might have to be made through Prince Rupert, said Sir Henry.

STUDENTS STIRRED WHEN WINE HALTED

Thirty at Yale Punished on Discovery of Intoxicants in Their Dormitories.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.— As a result of fermented grape juice being found in a number of rooms of Yale students, thirty of them were disciplined.

The discovery several days ago has stirred university officials and drastic action has been decided upon to prevent anything similar in the future. The number of classes from which the students may absent themselves has been reduced.

An agent of a grape-juice concern is said to have visited the campus several weeks ago and obtained several hundred orders from students. He is said to have given the purchasers a recipe to convert the grape juice into a strong wine.

The campus police got a tip on the shipments and obtained a list of students from the local express office. The students were called before Dean Jones, at which time they were severely lectured.

With the two greatest games of the football season at hand, President Angell has ordered increased vigilance for violations of restriction recently imposed upon students here.

Many of the undergraduates have been stirred by the "paternalistic" spirit of the administration, which they consider as being overdone.

Several editorials have already appeared in the Yale News about this and some form of organized objections on the part of the students to the searching of personal effects and rooms is expected to be forthcoming as soon as the intense football excitement is ended on November 24.

Pioneer Missionary In Critical Condition.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., November 24 (Canadian Press). — Word was received yesterday morning by Bishop G. E. Lloyd that the Venerable Archdeacon May is lying in a critical condition at North Battleford, and little hope is entertained for his recovery.

The Archdeacon is one of the most prominent of the old-timers of the North-West, having been associated with it since 1838. He translated the Bible into the Cree language.

Hugh Masterson Was Honored in Burnley.

BURNLEY, Nov. 24.—A very pleasing event took place at the home of Mr. Hugh Masterson of the Township of Alnwick, who has been forced to give up farming on account of ill-health. A large number of friends from the surrounding country gathered, when in a speech by Thomas Drope, chairman for the occasion, he told the object of the gathering and called on M. Davey to read the address. Then Ed. Weir a life-long resident of Alnwick, presented Mr. Masterson with a watch and chain and a purse, told of the happy days they had together in years gone by and in glowing terms spoke of Mr. Masterson's fine character and honorable career.

Mr. Masterson for a few moments was overcome with emotion, but soon his fine humor came to his aid and he had everybody laughing.

Other speakers were called on and finally the ladies took charge and entertained all to lunch.

The following is the address:

"Dear Mr. Masterson,—

"We have met here this evening to do homage to an honorable citizen, a man who has lived here practically all his life, over 70 years taking part in all that pertained to the welfare of the people of the community.

"You also deserve to be congratulated on the noble family you sent out to grace different walks of life throughout the Dominion of Canada.

"Now old age and ill-health have come, you have given up your farm and are leaving the community you have honored for so many years. We, therefore, have gathered here to show you that we appreciate all that you have done for the community and ask you to accept this watch and purse as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held. And we trust that wherever you many decide to spend the rest of your days, the evening of life may be filled ith happiness and great content.

"Signed on behalf of your friends of Roseneath, Alnwick Township, Burnley and vicinity—Edward Weir Thomas Drope, Peter Brohoney, F. W. Harner, John Dillon, John Murphy, M. Davey and George A. Dawe."

HEALTH OF ZOO ANIMALS FAILS ON OATMEAL DIET

Leipsiz Zoo Loses Animals Through Substitution of Porridge Diet for High-Priced Meat.

LEIPZIG, Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—Oatmeal as a substitute for meat for the carnivorous animals of the Leipzig zoo has been tried out with interesting but not particularly successful results. Meatless days reached the zoo here some months ago, because of the high prices, the principal outcome of the experiment being, it has been noted, a decided falling off in the visit of the stork.

The lions and tigers and wolves became thin and ill-tempered, and howled a great deal at night and after breakfast when oatmeal day after day was dished out to them. Furthermore, the fur of the animals, according to the zoo authorities, has failed to thicken up on the vegetarian diet, as it should in the fall to form the animals' winter covering, and the pelts of most of them are so thin that the caretakers say they are trying to conceive some form of blankets or overcoats for their pets to keep out the chilliness of January and February. Only one little lion has appeared since oatmeal was put on the menu regularly in the place of meat, and the old mother lioness promptly ate that.

The bear, says the zoo superintendent, has not minded the oatmeal diet quite so much as some of the others of their neighbors. When the feeding of meat was suspended the bears faded away, and lost most of their playful manners much to the regret of the regular Sunday assembling of Leipzig children, but nevertheless every now and then a new little bear, or twins, appeared within the bear enclosures. The Leipzig zoo is one of the main sources of supply for many German trained animal shows, and frequent shipments are made from here to the United States.

The animal keepers contend that if they had an abundance of cream and sugar to add to the oatmeal possibly the beasts would soon relish their meals once more and that the stork would again begin to appear at regular intervals.

JUNIORS START WITH BIG CLASS

Fifteen Turned Out at 'Y' Last Night—Others to Be Counted in Squad.

Fifteen candidates for the junior hockey team reported to Walter Jackson at the Y.M.C.A. last night Others including Chew, Holland and Mulholland who have kept in shape playing rugby will be added to the class, bringing the total to about twenty. Manager Jackson was highly pleased with the spirit exemplified by this large turnout, and expects another big roll call next Tuesday. There is apparently no dearth of material, and the "gym" workouts should start the squad on the way to good condition.

SUDBURY TEAM LOSING STARS

Other Northern Clubs Are Affected By the Search For Hockey Players.

SUDBURY, Nov. 23.—Meeting of Executive of Sudbury Hockey Club will be held next week to discuss important matters in connection with the season. The present intentions of the club are to carry on despite the loss of the Green brothers but the fine balances of Wolves has already been shattered and the loss of one or two more of the veterans would mean that Sudbury could not field a team that would hold its own with the Soo and Iroquois Falls. In that case, intermediate rank is more than a possibility. The greatest loss is Shorty Green, who was coach as well as star, and lines will have to be laid at once for a new coach. There is no real scarcity of players for the wolves have five new men but they lack experience of men leaving.

Sudbury, fans believe, however, that the Greyhounds will also lose at least three men and it is positively known despite denials from the Soo, that these men have left the way open for further negotiations. One Scout who has been working this territory has gone to North Bay but absolutely refused to name the player he was after but one of the Sudbury players who had been approached says Lowry is the North Bay man wanted. The next raid will likely be on Grayhounds and it is believed here that some of men who have been around the North section talking of money are really scouting for possibilities for the proposed international league.

A tentative schedule has been draw up for N.O.H.A. and calls for Sudbury and Soo each to make one trip to Iroquois Falls, playing games there Saturday and Monday nights. This means Sudbury will leave here on Friday morning and return Tuesday night while Soo will require one full week. Falls will make two trips south playing the first game here and then continue to the Soo for the second on each trip. Expenses of mileage for the second trip will be split four ways between three clubs and league.

RUGBY SEASON AT ITS CLIMAX

Big Games in the East Across the Border Are Scheduled For To-Day.

NEW YORK, oNv. 23—The foot ball season in the East comes to a climax tomorrow with two games that stand out as the more colorful of the season—the Army-Navy battle at the Polo Grounds and the traditional struggle betwen Harvard and Yale at Boston.

A number of other important contests are listed, including intersection al duels between Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech. at Pittsburgh, and between Syracuse and Nebraska at Lincoln, Neb., but chief interest will be centered in the service game, which 66,000 are expected to witness and the deciding "Big Three" engagement before probably 55,000 in Harvard Stadium.

Army, because of its heavier and more experienced lineup, and despite its disappointments, rules a favorite over the Navy, while Yale, due to its admitted offensive power and impressive record, is picked to down the Crimson.

Analysis of the Middle and Cadet records indicate the elevens are closely matched for their twenty sixth annual battle which will decide the leadership in the series now standing at 12 victories apiece, with one tie. Yale, on the other hand, unbeaten this year and apparently possessing one of the greatest combinations turned out at New Haven in years has a record far superior to that of the Crimson, which has bowed to Dartmouth and Brown and been tied by Middlebury. But the psychological factor which has jifted Harvard to victory in eight out of her last nine encounters with the Blue often when the latter went into the battle a favorite, may have a bearing again this year. In addition the Crimson boasts a fine forward wall, but calibre of its attack has at no time this year measured up to the high standard set by Yale, and Eli enthusiasts see in this their main hope of triumph.

HOCKEY STARS ON THE MARCH

Hockey in Canada Will Be Affected By Exodus to the States.

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Although present indications are that hockey in Canada will be affected and its strength reduced by the migration to the United States of many star players, the officers in charge of the various leagues throughout the country are preparing for another successful season. This is the golden age in sport and the departure of players will not greatly affect the enthusiasm of the fans or the keen duels on the smooth ice surface.

The Ontario Hockey Association has been hit a heavy blow by the decision to send the Granites to the Olympic games and the departure of players lik. Lionel Conacher Harold Cotton, Eddie Rodden, Roy Worters and others to cities in the United States. At the present time Canadian players are making the fascinating winter sport more popular than ever in Uncle Sam's domain. Even after years of playing the United States has failed to develop players of ability and still reaches its long hand into Canada for its hockey stars.

The same condition does not exist here, however, and each year finds players, equally as good as those who have gone before, graduating from junior ranks. The players wearing the Aura Lee colors last winter showed what can be accomplished by boys still eligible for junior hockey. Out in the West they have a junior team, University of Manitoba, who can outscore the majority of senior teams. It is considered by many there is no greater amateur forward in the sport than Murdock, the great U. of M. centre man.

And thus the officials are not hanging out any sign of discouragement. They know that the youngsters will fill the shoes of the players who have migrated and that the rinks will ring with the cheers of applause as Canada's young manhood helps foster the winter sport.

Hamilton and University of Toronto appear to be the strong teams in the O.H.A. senior series. They have nearly all of last year's players left. Kitchener will lose Hainsworth, Hillman and possibly Hiller. Good juniors, however, are ready to fill the vacancies.

Granites' all-star cast will be missed by O.H.A. fans, but the Olympic trip means that other teams will get a chance to get into the national series—something desirable in view of the fact that the Granites have pretty well monopolized the honors for four years. It is time for a change, and Granites have made their final appearance for some time in league competition.

Aura Lee will have to rebuild, as Cotton, Rice and Cain will not be available this season. Dinsmore Speyer, Hayes, Harrington and Shaw are the 1923 players again in line. St. Mary's, new entrants, have all of last year's players except Jack Smythe and expect to make trouble for the other contenders. It will be St. Mary's first appearance in senior hockey. Argonauts and Parkdale will be the other Toronto teams in the series, while Niagara Falls, Galt, Stratford and Kitchener will form the Big Four group.

Timmins has dropped out on the N.O.H.A. senior series, but Iroquois Falls, Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury will be back as strong as ever. It is thought that the N.O.H.A. champions will be the team to beat this coming season for the Allan Cup.

There will be no falling off in entrants in the O.H.A. intermediate and junior series. Argonauts, Parkdale, Toronto C. C., St. Mary's, U. of T., St. Andrew's, Upper Canada College, U.T.S., St. Michael's College and Aura Lee are the Toronto entrants. Owen Sound is said to have rounded out a powerful squad and will make a bid for the championship.

In the West the teams are getting stronger, and it is thought that they will return to almost pre-war strength. Winnipeg Falcons, Selkirk, Port Arthur and Fort William have formed a powerful league and the winners will be favored to represent the West in the Allan Cup series.

The Allan Cup games will be played in the East this winter and so will the Stanley Cup series. Thus eastern fans are reasonably sure to see some thrilling struggles. Toronto will be the mecca for the hockey champions and their followers in the amateur play-off games but the Stanley Cup contests will be fought on the ice of the team winning the honors, each city having artificial ice plants.

It is expected that some interesting amendments to the constitution will be studied at the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association, which takes place on December 1, but there will be few changes in the playing rules from a year ago. The goalkeepers' territory is a thing of the past. It was not understood or appreciated last winter. Hockey goalkeepers will not be able to broaden out their pads beyond a certain width. This has been placed at sixteen inches, but evidently a mistake was made as this is wider than ever.

The Pacific Coast League opened on November 12, the earliest in history. The National League intends to start on December 1, this being possible owing to the artificial ice surfaces now available in all cities on this circuit.

FOOTBALL'S BIGGEST THRILLS

By WALTER ECKERSALL, All-America Star.

In 1920, Ohio State won the Western Conference football championship. The Buckeyes then were invited to meet California, Pacific Coast champion, in the athletic feature of the Tournament of Roses Carnival at Pasadena on New Year's Day, 1921. Ohio accepted and the middle west expected an easy victory.

Such, however, was not the case. It was only in the early stages of the contest that the Western Conference champion showed any signs of being the equal of the coast eleven and it was a little later in the game that the greatest forward pass play I ever saw was executed.

California had the ball in mid-field. An end sweeping run was called. The ball was passed to the halfback on direct pass. Brick Muller, the great end, followed closely. Before the play started, Quarterback Charley Erb hid behind one of the tackles and as the oval was snapped started to sprint down the field.

Muller followed the halfback with the ball very closely. As the defense rushed in to tackle the halfback, the latter passed the ball backward to Muller and then blocked the tackler. Muller then stepped back a few yards and hurled the ball 40 yards down the field to Erb, who scampered over the goal line for a touchdown. It was a great play, one which completely took Ohio State off its feet. California won the game, 28 to 0.

That play was unquestionably the turning point in the game. It was the most remarkable pass I have ever seen, never expect to see another like it. It killed off any confidence Ohio State may have had in its ability to win. The rest of the game was easy for California.

LOOKS LIKE A HARD WINTER FOR BOXERS

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(United Press).—With Jack Dempsey and Benny Leonard packed away for the winter, big boxing will have a lean season until the next outdoor boom gets booming next summer—if it does have another boom.

It has been pointed out frequently this fall that the boxers who are passing up good purses for indoor fights this winter to get a big shot outside next summer may be making a serious mistake.

Disregarding the possibility, rather remote, that boxing might be knocked out legally, there are good reasons to believe that there will not be as many places in which to stage outdoor bouts as there were around New York last summer.

It would be no surprise to see the major leagues, in the annual winter meetings, close the doors of their ball parks to boxing. The reasons have been thoroughly covered in previous discussions.

* * *

Other reasons to believe that ball park boxing will get a smacking from another quarter were gathered recently when William J. McCormick, the new boss of the commission, told the champions and their managers that it was not at all impossible that the commission would limit the admission price to bouts in ball parks to $5 a head.

This would be a sure knock-out blow.

It is generally agreed on all sides that ball parks are anything but proper places in which to hold big championship contests.

Because timid champions are killing most of the lighter class, the lightweight and heavyweight divisions are the only ones promising any interesting activity in the near future and nothing is in prospect this winter for Dempsey or Leonard.

The heavyweight champion cannot work inside and get the cash he demands, and Leonard feels that he is too big for anything but an outdoor fight.

Leonard was booked for a fight in Tijuana the first of the year, but Jimmy Coffroth, the promoter, has been unable to get a permit from the Mexican Government up to the present time, and the bout seems doubtful.

Several good heavyweight bouts might be arranged among the contenders, but they all have the outdoor fever and feel that they would be making a business mistake in signing for an indoor fight.

Joe Lynch and Mickey Walker are telling interest in the bantamweight and welterweight classes by refusing to defend their titles. Lynch is losing all his friends because it is apparent that he is afraid to risk his title.

Walker, however, probably will get into action this winter. He is a good little fighter and a worthy champion and he has good reasons for not defending his title.

He figured he had a right to choose his own field for activities when he had won the title, and it was quite within his rights to insinuate that the New York commission should attend to its own business when William Muldoon tried to make him meet the most dangerous fighters in the class, just as soon as he had won the title.

This yarn about a champion should take the best first is all right theoretically, but he gets little credit for doing it. When Eugene Criqui took on Johnny Dundee in his first fight after winning the featherweight championship and lost, all the credit he got was: "What a sucker he was!"

Pancho Villa can't do much in his class, because there is very little in the flyweight division. It is a freak class and good boys grow out of the weight too quickly. Frankie Genaro would make a good fight with Villa, but Genaro is a colorless fighter, and there is no great public demand for the match.

Johnny Dundee will never disgrace the featherweight class, but there are few in his division that threaten him. Dundee is such a great fighter than he can find plenty of work among the lightweights and even with a few of the welterweights.

The light heavyeight class is in the hole because of Mike McTigue and his bad hands. The division has little class in it. Tommy Gibbons might revive some interest in it, but he prefers to do his business with the heavyweights.

The middleweight division is at present in an almost hopeless condition. It has been dead since Johnny Wilson got in bad, and it will take a better champion than Harry Greb to pull it back into the place of popularity that it once held.

Dempsey and Leonard are the only outstanding fighters in the American ring, and the rest are comparatively a mediocre lot.

When Dempsey and Leonard are out of action the whole game slumps more or less.

Other divisions certainly would be in higher esteem if they had the same kind of fighting champions ruling.

QUEENS TO PLAY BADLY CRIPPLED

KINGSTON, Nov. 24.—(Special).—Coach Hughes announced that "Red" McKelvey and "Chick" Mundell would not start in the game with the Hamilton Tigers today. They will be in uniform and will go into the battle if needed. Airth will play middle wing instead of "Red" McKelvey and Gilbert McKelvey will replace Mundell on the safe line. Coach Hughes was free to admit Queen's are going into the game badly crippled.

TIGERS ARE READY

HAMILTON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Hamilton Tigers are ready. Everything possible has been done to fit Hamilton's gridiron athletes for the great struggle today in Kingston. If Tigers fall down it certainly will not be due to lack of practice or condition.

They have put in the most beneficial week of the season's campaign. There isn't an injured player in the squad, and, therefore, there cannot be any excuses.

Coaches Marriott and Awrey on the eve of the tussle announce themselves as confident the jungle kings will provide Inter-Collegiate champions with the greatest battle they have had in two seasons; and that, while Queen's may win and bear out the predictions of rugby experts the tri-color will know they have been through sixty minutes of the hardest kind of football they have ever tackled. Queen's are stout favorites, even in Hamilton. Odds of 2 to 1 and 8 to 5 have been offered freely locally, without a great deal of it being covered.

QUEENS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY TODAY

Coach Hughes Says His Team Expects to Down the Hamilton Tigers — Mascot Bear Will Be on Hand to Help.

KINGSTON, Ont, Nov. 24.—(Special to the Examiner)— Queen's spirit will not be downed. In spite of a badly crippled team, Coach W. H. Hughes last night stated that Queen's expected to win the game with Hamilton Tigers this afternoon. The forced absence of McKelvey and Mundell will put Queen's under strength. Gilbert McKelvey, who is taking Mundell's Place, goes into senior company for the first time this season. He has been a member of the Collegiate team for the past four year. Kingston had a lively snow storm tonight but as the playing field is protected with about ten tons of straw, it is believed that the ground will be kept in good shape.

It is the general opinion that on a wet field Queen's will be at a serious disadvantage. Batston, and Leadley will not be able to get in their famous end runs so well on a wet field. The Queen's squad held a signal practice in the skating rink this afternoon.

Thirty Years Ago

It is thirty years since Queen's and the Hamilton Tigers played off in a championship game, and on that occasion the score was 27 to 13 in favor of Queen's. The Tri-color got two touch downs in the last ten minutes. It is recalled that Guy Curtis, who now lives at Delta, was Captain of the Queen's team at that time, while other players included Magistrate J. M. Farrell, Kingston, Dr. Harry Farrell, Utica, N.Y., and Charles Webster, barrister of Kingston.

"Boohoo," the Queen's pet bear mascot will be on hand for to-day's game and if Queens wins, Bohoo's reward will be a trip to Toronto to witness the final game with the Western team. Boohoo will be sent to the main duck islands, Lake Ontario 28 miles from Kingston for the winter but will be brought back to college next spring.

The lineup for today's game was given out as follows: Flying wing, Campbell; left half Gilbert, McKelvey, right half, Batstone; centre half Leadley; quarter Evans; snap, Lewis; Inside wings Muirhead and Adams; middle wings, Airth and Reynolds; outside wings, Thomas and Walker; spares, McLeod, Baldwin, Mundell, J. McKelvey, Anglin, Brown, Grondin, McNeil and Bond.

YELLOWED CLOTHES

Clothes that are yellow from lying around should be dipped in boiling water and dashed with oxalic acid, putting two tablespoons of the acid to a gallon of water. Then wring them out, dry in the sunshine, and wash as usual.

BOWLING

WESTCLOX LADIES' INTERSHOP LEAGUE.

Last night the Westclox Ladies' Intershop League got away to a great start when the Swallows and Wrens met, the Swallows taking two out of three from the small birdies. The three games played were the openers for the Big Ben ladies, and judging by the enthusiasm displayed both by the players and spectators, it looks as if it will be a "knock-out." There are four five-lady teams entered in this league, and two teams will bowl on Monday and two on Friday, at 6.30, at the Water Street Bowling Alleys. The following are the scores:

AT THE GRAND.

"JUST MARRIED."

"Just Married," the famous laugh-in- success by Adelaide Matthews and Anne Nichols, with a clever cast of Broadway players and the New York production intact is announced as one of the most important attractions scheduled at the Grand where it will be seen tonight.

This farce comedy was the sensation of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston for the past three years and a half, and is playing a limited number of cities to the Pacific Coast on a tour around the world. Jules Hurtig and the Messrs. Shubert, producers of "Just Married," promise the same cast and scenic production when the play is presented here.

The locale of the piece is on board the French Line steamship "Lafayette," bound out from Bordeaux, France, to New York. Just prior to the ship's sailing, a hilariously intoxicated young man gets aboard the ship by mistake, and later in the evening, into the wrong stateroom. From that time forward the peace of everyone aboard is threatened, old and young, staid married couples, and several sets of honeymooners—willing and unwilling, become so hopelessly scrambled and mixed up that there is apparently no way out of their difficulties. But things are straightened out eventually, and the voyage peacefully proceeds. The play was staged by Clifford Stork.

"CHEERIO."

The Dumbells Company, Limited, will offer Captain Plunkett's fifth annual revue, "Cheerio," at the Grand for three days, commencing Monday.

"Cheerio" is a brand new show in every detail. New songs, new sketches, new stage settings, new everything—but the company. Al. Plunkett, Ross Hamilton, Stan. Bennett, Pat Rafferty, T. J. Lilly, Ben Allen, Jack Grace, Morley Plunkett, Bert Wilkinson, Gordon Calder, Al. Johnson and all the other favorites of the "Carry On" company are still with the show. Several new overseas stars have been added, the most notable being John Hagan, the famous "Ginger" of the 2nd division concert party in France.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"

In the latest edition of "Bringing Up Father," which is to be the new attraction at the Grand Theatre under title of "Bringing Up Father on Broadway," the army of admirers of this wonderful entertainment will have an opportunity of judging just why this particular production is miles ahead of its rivals. In the first place the idea of the offering is unique and distinctive. There is something about a "Father" show that lifts it above the pale of ordinary amusement. Those responsible for the production are always on the alert to keep things moving, up-to-the-minute and ever prepared to make its fame deserved. With the result that "Bringing Up Father" is not alone an institution. It is a public necessity for the world must have its laughs and forget the sidelights of tragedy and pathos. The vogue of the cartoons from which "Bringing Up Father" received its inspiration for stage purpose is far reaching. There is no doubt that Jiggs Mahoney, his wife, Maggie, and Dinty Moore are as well known in the jungles as they are in Canada. They are characters who will always be remembered and probably be immortalized for seasons to come. Every criticism of the shows in which these beloved characters appear there is a feeling of real happiness which is disseminated across the footlight and penetrative in its effects. So much so that the mere announcement of a "Father" play rouses an anxious theatre-going public to a high pitch of expectancy which is soon realized in screams of joy and guffaws. Such is the penalty of being able to make everybody laugh. And that is what keeps the world together—laughter. "Bringing Up Father on Broadway" opens at the Grand Friday, November 30, for two days, with Matinee on Saturday.

FAMOUS ENGLISH-SCOTCH COMEDY "STOP YOUR TICKLING JOCK" AT ROYAL MONDAY, DIRECT FROM PICCADILLY THEATRE, TORONTO

"Stop your Tickling Jock" is one of the most uproarious and screamingly funny pictures that has ever come over from the Old Country.

The action of the story takes place partly in London and partly in an old Scotch castle up in the Highlands. The principals in the picture are Lady Stilton, one of the highland Stiltons, who believes that the world is composed of two classes—Stiltons and others—young Guy Cheviot, Lady Stilton's nephew, who has an uncontrollable passion for certainties ranging from ten-to-one to thirty-to-one and upwards, and who manages to keep himself always in straightened circumstances by plunging on his uncertain certainties; Jock Jamieson, the faithful retainer at Loch Stickie Castle, whose forefather fought with Bruce at Bannockburn, which Jock is not likely to forget; the Earl of Cripplegate, an eccentric and ludicrous character; John Josephs, famous theatre backer and main owner of the London Follies, and Trixie, Tootsy and Tiny, famous soubrettes of the aforementioned Follies.

Up in Loch Stickie Castle Lady Stilton meets with the astonishing intelligence that her only son, Gussie, has become engaged to a show girl of the London Follies. The aristocratic lady is shocked out of composure and after a severe half-hour with her heir-apparent Lady Stilton decides spending the season in Monte Carlo and taking her young offspring away from the toils of these vulgar London show people.

The course of the story from here on is one sensation of screams, laughs and chuckles, which increase a pace on the arrival on the scene of the Dominie's daughter, Helen, the Earl of Cripplegate and lastly Lady Stilton and the unfortunate Gussie.

"Stop Your Tickling, Jock" now as a motion picture has established a run of unparalleled success that has hardly been equaled in Old Country film circles.

COMEDY AT ROYAL MONDAY HELPS BOOST BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT, "SCOUT PLUCK"

For the first time a serious attempt is being made to produce juvenile stories which will indirectly be of great aid in boosting the good work which is done by the Boy Scouts.

This is being done in a series of pictures to be known as Juvenile Comedies. The first of these, "Scout Pluck" is already completed and will be shown at the Royal Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Heading the cast of the first picture are Bennie Alexander and Ernest Butterworth. Bennie Alexander's most recent screen fame has been achieved in that highly successful motion picture, "Penrod and Sam." Incidentally, Benny, who is ten years old, has been recognized for years as one of the cleverest child actors of stage or screen, and was a D. W. Griffith discovery at the old Fine Arts Studio.

Ernest Butterworth, who plays the "tough" kid in "Scout Pluck," has appeared with Mary Pickford and Bill Hart in a number of dramatic productions. George Ovey, who has had the starring part in over two hundred comedies, will have a prominent part in the picture. The direction is by Norman Taurog, one of the screen's most successful comedy directors, who has directed Larry Semon in a number of his comedy successes.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"ZAZA" IS GLORIA SWANSON'S LATEST AND GREATEST

The character of "Zaza" probably has been played by more actresses in stock companies than any other role on the American stage in the last twenty-five years, yet there have been but three outstanding performances in this country. Mrs. Leslie Carter originated the role in New York in January, 1899, a few months after Mme. Rejane created the role in Paris. In the operatic version of the play Geraldine Farrar was the star and in the first Paramount screen production of the play, made in 1915, Pauline Frederick was starred.

Gloria Swanson will be the fourth "Zaza" to be given to the public in a stupendous production. The picture, which will be on view at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, was produced under the direction of Allan Dwan and it is said to be the greatest picture of her screen repertoire. For lavish settings and picturesque investiture the present production of the famous French play, which, according to reports, was suggested to Charles Simon, one of the authors, by Sarah Bernhardt, surpasses anything Miss Swanson has ever done on the screen.

Miss Swanson's interpretation of the role is radically different from that of her three predecessors. She has given "Kiki" touch to the famous "Zaza" and plays the actress as a gamin rather than a wicked woman. Miss Swanson was delighted with the part and she plays it with a fire that amazes her screen followers.

TOM MIX IN ZANE GREY'S STORY COMING TO CAPITOL THEATRE ON THURSDAY

"The Lone Star Rangers," the famous best-seller by Zane Grey, which has been made into a motion picture by William Fox with Tom Mix in the starring role, has been read by more than ten million people since its publication in 1915, according to Harper Brothers, publishers.

The noted author's work has been through more than seventeen editions and from the demand that still exists it is likely that it will pass through many more before it is finally shelved.

The book has been translated in many foreign languages and found fertile soil in the readers of these countries. The film will be shown at the Capitol Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

BELMONTS WIN FROM GUNNERS

Hap Harrison Pitched For the Club Men—Bowlers Defaulted to Triple Link

The Bowlers failed to trot out a team for their game scheduled at 7 o'clock with the Triple Links last night, so the game went to the Triple Links by default. An exhibition game was played in which the Triple Links defeated the team representing the Bowlers, by the score of 13 to 7.

Knights Lost.

The Kiwanis kept up the good form shown in their last few games and ran away with the second game winning from the Knights of Columteam by 11 to 2. The Kiwanians had only one error marked against them and they hit Abie Rose's offerings hard and often. Craig playing in the left garden for the luncheon crew dropped nothing that fell into his field. Green did the twirling for the winners and turned in a good game, fielding his position well.

The line-ups were:

K. of C. — Primeau ss; J. Rutherford ss; Murphy c; Rose P; G. Rutherford 2b; Claire Wolfe 1b; Cronin 3b; Cecil Wolfe lf; Sheehy rf.

Kianis — Mackey ss; Lacey rf; Byers rf; Browne c; Parker 2b; Green p; Morphet 1b; Craig lf; Cummers 3b.

Belmonts Won.

The Belmonts led out "Hap" Harrison to do their mound work and proved too strong for the Gunners, winning by 8 to 2. The game was to decide which of the two teams should meet the L.O.L. 50 for club section honours. The game drew a large crowd of fans who crowded the benches and who showed that they were not afraid of sore throats by the way in which they yelled.

The Belmonts go close to Piercy for some clean clouts. The Gunners' twirler weakened badly and showed the effect of the strain. He received good support but in the first stages of the game the Gunners were not on their toes and pulled some wild homers.

"Hap" Harrison on the rubber for the Belmonts pitched nice ball, but hes howed less class than in his last appearance in the Armouries, last spring when he struck out seventeen and allowed but two hits, hanging up a new pitching record for the league. His support was good and the Belmonts clouted the ball hard.

The Belmonts took a big lead right from the start and by the end of the fourth had their total of eight chalked up. The Gunners braced up in the last few innings, Wolfe scored both runs for the Gunners.

The line-ups were:

Belmonts — Batten ss; Lowe 1b; Heckman lf; Stuart 2b; Harrison p; Holyman ss; Jobbet 3b; Haskill 1b. Fanning rf.

Gunners — Ranger c; Helson p; Coursey 3b; Wolfe 2b; Ross 1b; Shaughnessy lf; McElroy ss; White rf; Piercy p.

GERMANY SAILS RUDDERLESS IN A STORMY SEA

No Coup de etat Followed Resignation of Stresemann Cabinet — Ebert Hopes for Workable Combination.

SEPARATIST MOVE

(By Carl D. Groat.)

BERLIN, Nov. 24. — (Canadian Press.)—The German ship of state wallowed rudderless in a stormy political sea to-day, as President Ebert resumed his deliberations with party leaders in the hope that somehow he will be able to find a workable combination for the support of a Cabinet.

The expected coup d'etat last night, following the resignation of the government of Chancellor Gustav Stresemann did not materialize.

It was not believed that the new Cabinet head would be announced before Monday and that the government would be entrusted to a right wing leader at that time.

Candidates for the Chancellorship included Dr. Johannes Von Hiber, State President of Wurtemberg Democratic Party, and Dr. Heinrich Albert, remembered for his exploits in the United States, where he was attached to the German Embassy during the early years of the war.

It was anticipated that General Von Seeckt would retain his post as national dictator possibly with stronger powers.

Stresemann's resignation later yesterday came after he had failed to obtain support for his Coalition Cabinet in the face of strong attacks, principally by Socialists. The Chancellor demanded a "show down" on his policies and a vote of mis-confidence followed, 230 to 157.

Name People's Party.

President Ebert has invited Herr Von Kardorff, a member of the German Peoples' Party in the Reichstag to form a new German Cabinet, says a News Agency despatch from Berlin this afternoon. It is anticipated that he will accept, the message adds.

New Republic.

A despatch from Mayence to-day says:

The German Separatist Republic was proclaimed last night at Ludwigshafen, and the city hall, post office and prefecture were occupied without resistance from citizens loyal to the Reich. More than ten thousand unemployed in the Ludwigshafen district joined the Separatists.

SEND THEM CANADIAN APPLES

When Christmas comes the question arises what can we send to our friends "over home" that will not be expensive, that will be appreciated and will savor of novelty. The answer this season is send them a sample of Canada's "sun kissed" apples. It will not only be patriotic, but they will be a treat. The Express Department of the Canadian National Railways has made effective a rate of $3.00 for a box of 50 lbs., and measuring not more than one foot and eight inches to be shipped in cold storage from Canadian ports to any station on the railways of Great Britain and Ireland.

"JUST MARRIED" SHOW ENDORSED BY OTHERS

Manager of Princess Theatre Sends Message of Approval to Local Manager.

The following telegram from the manager of the Princess Theatre, Toronto, speaks well for the "Just Married" show which appears here to-night at the Grand Opera House:

Manager H. Bickell,
Grand Opera House, Peterborough.

"Just Married," the farce-comedy that is to play your theatre, can be recommended to your patrons most highly. It is a clean, humorous, and laughable entertainment, and bound to please. Did good business at Princess Theatre. So do not be afraid to boost the "Just Married" company.

A. R. Loudon, Manager.

FEMININE

In the matter of people between 20 and 40 years old, France now has six women for every five men. So several million women are condemned to spinsterhood.

Professor Girault, French sociologist, studies this lack of balance between the sexes and decides that Europe in general, and France in particular, is destined to undergo an long period of femininization. He apparently believes that the minority always rules, and he's right. The majority just thinks it rules. Bolshevik Russia isn't the only sample.

RELATIONS WITH FRANCE ARE BAD

Argument Used by Lloyd George in Campaign

GLASGOW, November 24. Canadian Press. — The former Prime Minister Lloyd George, declared in a campaign speech here to-day that Great Britain's relations with France were never worse.

"I doubt whether in living memory they have been quite so bad as now," he said.

Referring to the European developments of the last twelve months Mr. Lloyd George said: "Owing to what has happened the last year, the restoration of normal conditions throughout the vast population of Central Europe probably has been postponed, not for a matter of months, but for a matter of years."

LAND

A real estate deal in New York City involves the sale of a strip of land 10 feet deep and only two-thirds of an inch wide. A surveyor made a mistake in Civil War days, and this tiny slice had to be be bought to clear the title.

Our generation worships land rather than the golden calf. Land ownership is the keystone of our system of economics, also the foundation of a lot of our troubles. The speculative value of land in cities is created by the activities of people who work on the land or nearby, rather than by the owners.

SMALL BOY HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Slipped and Fell Off His Wheel in Front of a Car That Missed Him by a Few Inches.

A small boy riding a bicycle this morning on Aylmer Street opposite the Fire station had a narrow escape from being run over by the Indian Village stage which was going south on Aylmer Street. The boy in turning off the main thoroughfare of the road slipped and fell in front of the truck. The driver swinging the car to the left missed the boy and his wheel by a few inches.

SUNDAY EVENING AT ST. ANDREW'S

An Invitation to Hear Rev. Jas. Rollins on Special Address.

To those who have no particular place of worship is extended a hearty invitation to attend the Sunday evening service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where the pastor delivers a special evening sermon each Sunday. To-morrow's subject is "Changing the Emphasis," and to those who attend they will find it real helpful and interesting. Excellent music by the choir and you will be made very welcome.

STEAMER ASHORE BUT CREW SAVED

HALIFAX, Nov. 24.— (Canadian Press). — Steamer Riverwys from Swansea to Boston is ashore and breaking up fifty miles west of here according to wireless message reaching this city early today.

The crew was taken off safely and brought to the mainland in small boats that put off from the shore. The scene of the stranding is about ten miles from Liverpool and nearer the village of Port Mouton. Few particulars have been received but it is believed that Riverwys is not in hopeless position.

The Government steamer Lady Laurier has been despatched to the scene.

IN MEMORIAM.

WEAVER.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Robt. Weaver, who died Nov. 24th, 1904:

When the evening shades are falling,
and I'm sitting alone
To my heart there comes a longing
if she only could be home,
Oft and oft my thoughts do wander to a grave so far away
Where we laid my darling mother
just nineteen years ago to-day.
Surrounded by friends I am lonely,
amidst pleasures I feel blue,
A smile on my face and a heartache,
aching and longing for you.
Friends may think I have forgot you when at times they see me smile
But they little know the sorrow which that smile hides all the while.

WEDDING BELLS

RISHOR—MACDONALD

Avery pretty house wedding took place at 2 o'clock to-day, at the home of Charles Rishor, 168 London street, when Betty Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. MacDonald, Jefferson avenue, Detroit, Michigan, lately of Peterboro, was united in marriage to C. Maxwell Richor, the eldest son of Charles and the late Mrs. Rishor of Peterborough.

The wedding ceremonw was performed by Rev. Robert Pogue. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of 'mums, roses and carnations in pink and white.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a striking costume of Chinese blue cut chiffon velvet with a large black hat of panne velvet, mink stole and gold brocade slippers. Her bouquet was a large sheaf of ophelia roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Janet Stapleton, was gowned in pearl grey canton crepe, with small ha tof grey velvet and ribbon and bouquet of Columbia roses., A brother of the bridegroom, Mr .Noel Rishor, acted as best man.

The wedding march was played by Mr. George Schneider, and a charming vocal solo, "Until," was sung by Miss Elva McIntyre, who wore a French frock of nigger brown crepe, large brown velvet hat and corsage bouquet of orchid sweet peas and valley lilies.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast to the immediate family was given, catered for by Messrs. T. Hooper and Sons. The guests were received by Mrs. T. A. MacDonald, the bride's mother, wearing black beaded satin crepe and by Mrs. F. S. Schneider, in green canton crepe, trimmed with silver lace. Both wore corsage bouquets of Ophelia Roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Rishor left later by motor for a trip through Western Ontario after which they will reside at the "Manhattan" Apartments, Church street, Toronto. The bride's travelling dress was of black canton crepe, trimmed with Spanish lace with black suede sandals, grey wrap and small grey velvet hat, trimmed with uncurled Ostrich tips.

Gifts to the bridesmaid and soloist were sapphire earrings; to the best man a gold watch chain.

PARENTS SUICIDED ON SON'S GRAVE AFTER MASS

BERRYAUBAC, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).— After attending anniversary Mass in the Parish Church for the repose of the soul of their son, Pierre, killed in an air fight in 1918, Baron and Baroness Emmanuel de Montigny yesterday went to the churchyard and shot themselves to death on his grave.

HELD FOR THEFT.

Tommy Rice, Indian, who stole the canoe from L. S. Coon's summer cottage at Pidgeon Lake, and later abandoned it on Curve Lake to make his way to the military camp at Cobourg, is being held there on a charge of theft. He will probably be brought to Peterboro by Provincial Constable R. F. Davis for trial.

One dollar, invested for 100 years at 6 per cent. compounded, will earn $339.50. At 3 per cent. it would earn only $19.21.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR. There are those who claim that in order to get men to turn from sin to righteousness it is necessary to preach Satan's lie, "Thou shalt surely die," and the other lie "endless torment." The Scriptures state that "the goodness of God leads men to repentance." History and observation go to prove the falsity of doing evil that good may come. It is not surprising that error (either through ignorance or wilfulness) is preached, seeing men mentally and morally is imperfect. Notwithstanding imperfection and no-helpful environment, there are those who in honest endeavor have walked out into light and received the truth, and by yielding up themselves to the guidance of the Holy Spirit, have received an assurance Divine, and like the Master can speak with authority. — M. T. Butcher.

REGULATING THE SALE OF CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES

(Experimental Farms Note)

During the past few years a favourable reputation has been acquired by certified seed potatoes of Canadian origin, not only throughout the Dominion, but also in many parts of the United States and the West Indies, and it is incumbent upon all growers of certified seed to do everything possible to maintain this reputation.

As is now fairly well known, the Dominion Department of Agriculture issues certification tags and attaches one of such tags to every bag, barrel or other container of seed potatoes which, as a result of two inspections made in the field and two made of the crop after harvesting, have been found to measure up to the standards set for certified seed. However, it has been found that from time to time attempts have been made by dealers to copy in part at least, the certification tags issued by the Department. This practice has had a misleading effect and has also been the cause of a good deal of compilation and misunderstanding, so much so that the Department recently found it necessary to make application for some legal enactment in order that such practice might in future be dealt with according to law.

For the information of all growers, dealers, shippers and buyers concerned, it is desired to give full publicity to a clause in the revised Destructive Insect and Pest Act regulations, which will take effect from September 1, 1923.

"An inspector shall have the power to inspect before export to any foreign country, or shipment within the Dominion, any plant, and to grant a certificate according to the requirements of any country demanding such, or for domestic purposes."

PRINCE ADALBERT AFTER A PASSPORT

Wants to Visit the Former Crown Prince

LONDON, Nov. 24. — (United Press).—Prince Adalbert, third son of the former Kaiser, has arrived at Merino, Italy, a despatch from Berlin said to-day, presumably for an interview with the former Crown Prince, who is at Castle Oels, Silesia.

The Crown Prince has asked for an Italian visa to his passport so that he can go to Merino, the despatch said.

Society

Eastern Star L.O.B.A., No. 525, is holding a bazaar to-day in the Farmers' Store on Simcoe street, where home-made goodies and pretty Christmas gifts are displayed in the two windows. The president, Mrs. E. Staples, is general convenor, assisted by Mesdames I. Stokes, M. Sexsmith, R. Guthrie, and the Misses S. Doig, F. Brown, Rose Sexsmith, and N. Sedgwick.

The ladies have a quantity of pretty things for sale, and plenty of home made cooking and candy. There are embroidered towels of every variety, embroidered pillow slips, aprons galoer, and pretty Christmas novelsties, including a number of dainty silk boudoir caps and delicately-tinted handkerchiefs.

A very successful progressive euchre party was held under the auspices of the Sons of England in their newly decorated hall last evening. At the conclusion of the card games refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent. Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. L. Campbell and Mr. Sedgewick, with consolation awards to Mrs. B. G. Robinson and S. Ward.

Mr. B. Jinks is here from Rochester visiting his family, 344 Simcoe street.

The many friends of Mr. Leo Conroy, Sault Ste. Marie, will be pleased to learn that he is recovering from his recent illness.

Mrs. D. J. Conroy and daughter, Miss Mae, have returned home after spending two weeks at Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. Howard Knox of Winnipeg, is the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Knox, Gilmour street.

The Triple Link Club, I.O.O.F., held their annual progressive euchre party in their rooms last evening, attended by about a hundred and twenty-five members. Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. C. Wylie and Mr. E. Francis. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

Mr .and Mrs. Walter Squires of Toronto, are spending the week end in the city.

Mr. G. White, Miss Jean White and Master Bob are attending the Royal Horse Show in Toronto this week.

Miss Helen McQuaig of Toronto, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. D. McQuaig, Sherbrooke street.

Mrs. B. H. Brooks, of Plattsburg, N.Y., is the guest of Mrs. H. F. McKeown, 536 Waterford Street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. MacDonald, of Detroit, were in the city to-day for the wedding of their daughter Betty, to Max Rishor.

Miss Betty MacDonald, whose marriage took place to-day, was the recivient of two handsome pictures and a cheque from the staff and management of the Peterborough Milk Products Company, and a dainty flower-holder from the clerical staff of The J. A. MacNabb Co.

Mrs. James Edwards and Miss Clara Edwards left to-day for Toronto to visit friends in the city.

The second day of the bazaar held by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. in the Hall yesterday sugered slightly from bad weather conditions, in point of attendance, but the total results of the two-day sale are very gratifying, nevertheless, and the ladies are very pleased with the results of their energetic labours for relief work. Last evening drawing for various articles took place with the following winners: Two "Mama" dolls, Mrs. P. Smith, Kent Street, and Mrs. Angus McIntosh, Ceda- Street; jardiniere stand, Miss K. Weston, 339 St. Joseph Street; silk scarf, Mrs. W. Sharpe, 412 George Street; 20lb. Christmas cake, donated by T. Hooper & Sons, won by Mrs. B. F. McNeeley, 269 Charlotte tSreet.

Music last evening was rendered by R. J. Devey and George Howden in a piano and violin number, and Eric McKinstry in instrumental selections.

Miss Babe M. Martyn, of Providence Hospital, Detroit, Mich., is home convalescing from an operation for appendicitis.

Invitations have been issued for the Rose Ball, which will be held in the G.W.V.A. Hall on Tuesday evening next, under the auspices of the Rotary-Annes, the ladies' auxiliary to the Rotary Club of Peterborough. Patronesses are the president, Mrs. F. L. Roy, Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. J. H. Seels, Mrs. C. H. Rogers, Mrs .H. O. Fisk, Mrs. Gerald Wood, Mrs. Dickson Hall, Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan. Stewards are Messrs. V. J. McElderry, R. Dobie, J. F. Linton, L. A. Potvin, R. L. Dobbin, A. O. DeGraw and J. D. Kenneally.

TEN RULES OF HEALTH

John Harvey Kellog, Superintendent of the Battle Creek Sanitarium, has given ten rules entitled "Live Every Day for Health." These are worth remembering. We pass them on:

1. Live, work, play and sleep in the open as much as possible, and secure an ample amount of outdoor air when indoors.
2. Eat and drink for health and strength (biologically) and evacuate the body wastes at least three times a day.
3. Exercise sufficiently each day to induce perspiration and moderate fatigue. Walk more, ride less.
4. Hold the chest up when sitting, standing, walking, and so far as possible when at work.
5. Take proper rest by change of occupation and recreation, and endeavor to sleep eight hours daily.
6. Keep the skin clean, and harden it by exposure to the sun and air and by daily cold bathing.
7. Avoid poisons.
8. Avoid infections.
9. Dress comfortably and sanitonably.
10. Cultivate calmness and contentment and avoid depressing and exhausting emotions.

Treat the body as a delicate and nicely balanced machine, and in all things avoid excess.

Live the simple life.

EBERT INVITES DR. ALBERT TO FORM MINISTRY

Von Kardroff, Who Was Selected As Stresemann's Successor, Disapproved By the Nationalists — Coalition Fell Through.

DIFFICULT TASK.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, Minister of the Treasury under Chancellor Cuno, has accepted President Ebert's invitation to form a new Cabinet.

The decision to ask Dr. Albert, who was Minister of the Treasury in Cuno's Cabinet, was reached after a prolonged conference which President Ebert had with Heinrich Brauns, Minister of Labor; Dr. Jarres, Minister of the Interior, and Dr. Otto Gessler, Minister of Defence.

It is assumed that these three men will be members of the new Ministry if Dr. Albert is successful in forming it, and it is possible that the other outgoing Ministers may also remain in office.

Former Chancellor Stresemann, however, has refused the Foreign Ministry. The attitude of the Socialists toward an Albert Ministry would, it is said, deepnd not only on its programme, but also on its composition.

Herr Von Kardroff, who was selected by President Ebert Saturday to undertake the task of forming a new Ministry, appeared willing to undertake the work, but the German Nationalists refused to co-operate with him. Thereupon he tried to form a coalition from among the Socialists and German People's Party, but the German People's Party declined to co-operate with the Socialists.

Herr Von Kardroff was therefore obliged to renounce the task of Cabinet-making, and withdrew.

FAKE DENTISTS DRAW NEW FIRE

New York Deputy Turns Guns on 500 Suspected of Fraud.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26—New York City's search for quacks took a new turn here, when Deputy Attorney-General Dwyer trained his guns on some 500 fraudulent dentists alleged to be practicing in this city.

At the same time, City Health Commissioner Monoghan denied the statement mad, by his subordinate, Dr. S. Dana Hubbard, in connection with the Connecticut investigation of medical diplomas, that 1,5000 or more persons were fraudulently practicing medicine here.

In connection with the dental investigation Mr. Dwyer said that 20 convictions already had been obtained and that the campaign would be pressed vigorougly. Many unlicensed dentists, he said, were found to be working with licensed members of the professions. Most of them, he added, were without even elementary knowledge of dentistry and many turned out to be barbers or tailors who only recently had come to the country.

Mr. Dwyer cited instances where patients had suffered indescribable agony and one man had lost his jaw bone. The fakers h, said did not even bother to acquire a forged license or certificate from 'diploma "mills."

Meanwhile the search for graduates of medica l institutions under investigation spread to Englewood, N. J., where an inquiry was started in a local hospital into a case of one interne.

"Ten Days," Judge Roars at Sleek, Rouged Sheik.

WITCHITA, Kas., Nov. 26.—Lewis Robertson, 16-year-old high school boy, was sentenced to serve 10 days on the Municipal Farm by Judge Carl H. Davis. He was arrested at a dance hall charged with drunkenness. Police found in the youth's pockets two powder puffs and a dozen lipstick and eyebrow pencils.

Judge Davis said he imposed the sentence rather than a fine because the boy "never had worked and did not have to work because his grandmother kept him in funds."

Robertson appeared in court with his cheeks rouged and his eyelashes penciled. Asked why he used the cosmetics he said:

"Judge, my complexion is so poor I am peaked. I have to put on my complexion."

"Ten days at the farm," growled the judge.

Dan Casper, Municipal Farm superintendent, said he needed a boy to push a wheel barrow.

Water Diversion Hits Rum Runners

WINDSOR, Ont., November 26 (Canadian Press). — The operations of Border rum-runners have been hampered this last few months by the low water levels, caused, it is said, by Chicago using water from the Great Lakes for sanitary and power purposes.

Docks of the rum-running syndicates between Sandwich and Amherstburg are now almost useless because the water has receded from two to three feet, leaving the ends of the wharves high and dry.

FRANCE ALARMED AT PROTECTION

Wavering Between Hatred of Lloyd George and Fear of Baldwin Tariff.

LONDON, November 26. Canadian Press. — The Paris correspondent of the Canadian Press, wires that France is no-plussed over the British elections, public opinion wavering between hatred of Lloyd George and fear of the Baldwin tariff. The dilemma is causing some of the newspapers to ease off on their criticism of the ex-premier and are foretelling instead the disadvantages to France of British protection. Government circles display a neutral attitude, alleging that the outcome of the British campaign will not change the diplomatic attitude.

Will Unload Goods.

Premier Baldwin is an enigma to the majority of the French people although they are ready to grant his honesty and sincerity. Business men are taking no chances and if Conservatives are successful they will be ready to send a large amount of goods to Great Britain before duties can be imposed.

The agricultural people of France are wholly indifferent to the British elections. Their opinions are formed from journals like the Petit Parisiene and the Petit Journal, which are anti-Lloyd George, and ascribe to him the non-payment of reparations by Germany, the fall of the franc, the United States demand for debt payments, and most of the other evils, real and imaginary.

Desire Cooperation.

At no time since the war has a genuine desire to cooperate with the British been more evident in France than at present providing Poincare remains behind the lines, says the correspondent.

HEAVY TRAFFIC AT SAULT LOCKS

Tonnage Last Month 16 Per Cent. More Than in October Last Year.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26. —(Canadian Press).—Traffic through the Canadian and American locks at Sault Ste. Marie showed an increase of 1,770,000 tons or 16 per cent. over October 1922, it is shown in a report prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Iron ore shipments accounted for practically all of this inrease although they reached the peak in August with an average of 338,000 tons per day and declined to 316,000 tons in September and 273,000 tons per day during October.

This closing up in ore shipments the report continues released more boats for grain and with the heavy movement to the elevators, grain shipments aggregated 63,639,000 bushels compared with 30,945,000 bushels during September and 65,256,000 bushels during October 1922, when ore shipments averaged 129,000 tons per day.

Of 577,710,000 bushels of Canadian grain, which passed through the canals during the month 33,9111,000 bushels were destined to Canadian ports and 23,799,000 bushels to the United States port.

Canadian vessels carried 36,418,000 bushels or 65 per cent of the total which was about 50 per cent more grain than they carried during October, 1922. United States vessels varried 19,749,000 bushels or 34 per cent and Norwegian ships accounted for the remaining 542000 or one per cent of the total.

RUM SCHOONER SEIZED AFTER CHASE TO SEA

"Rum Smugglers' King" Discovered on Board of British Vessel With a Cargo of Whiskey.

OFF NEW JERSEY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The British auxiliary schooner Tomako was seized by Coast Guards early Sunday after a sharp engagement six miles off Seabright, N. J., and in her hold was found William "Rummy Bill" McCoy, characterized by Government agents as the "Rum Smugglers' King."

A machine gun was captured on the schooner and another one was tossed overboard by th crew of the schooner, their captors said.

The Coast Guard cutters Seneca and Lexington, acting on information furnished by the Treasury Department special agents that the Tomako was off Seabright, lying in close to dispose of the 200 cases of whiskey, all that remained of a 4200 case cargo shipped recently in the Bahamas, proceeded to Sandy Hook long before daybreak.

As dawn broke the Lexington sighted the schooner, its two sticks standing over the top of the early morning haze, and sent a radio message to the Seneca to proceed When the cutters were a short distance away a look out on board of the schooner announced their approach. Immediately the little sea vessel's sea anchor was a-weigh, her auxiliary engine began throbbing and she was scampering to sea.

But the speed of the little vessel, which has taken part in many of the largest rum-carrying expeditions from the Bahamas, according to the government agents, could not match that of the cutters, and in less than a quarter of an hour they were close upon her heels.

LOVE TRAPPED JAIL BREAKER

Alexander Bell Captured By Police at Social in School Near Oshawa.

OSHAWA, Ont., Nov. 26.—(Special to the Examiner).—Quick action by Chief O. D. Friend and the local police, after being tipped off that one of the escaped prisoners from Guelph Reformatory would be in the neighbourhood of Oshawa at nine o'clock Friday night last, led to the capture of Alexander Bell, alias James Alexander, one of the five that brooke jail at Guelph on Wednesday of last week, and who also wanted locally on charges of alleged issuance bogus cheques and breaking jail while confined in Ontario county jail at Whitby sometime previous to his western venture.

On Friday evening, Chief Friend received word that the escaped man was to meet a girl friend at Harmony School House, two miles east of Oshawa at nine oclock, when with Sergt. Paxton and Constables Venton, Walker and Greentree they made a quick run and surrounded the two school houses which are some two hundred yards apart, after watching for some time they decided to make a search. On entering the porch of one of the schools Segt. Paxton pounced upon his man before he had any chance of offering resistance, placed him under arrest and conveyed him to Oshawa after which he was taken to the County Jail at Whitby where he awaits trial on a local charge of breaking jail, before being handed over to the authoritiies at Guelph.

The prisoner told Chief Friend that the five who escaped from the Reformatory, Joseph Burns, Hiram Miller, Stewart Olmstead, William Patterson and himself had journeyed to Milton where they remained in hiding until midnight at which time the other four left with a stolen car headed for the border in an effort to cross into the United States.

Grains Sprout in Children's Heads

WASHINGTON, C.H., Ohio, November 26. — Operations for the removal of cereal grains from the heads of two children were performed in a hospital here on the same day.

Surgeons took from the nose of a six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chasteen, living near here, a grain of corn possessing a two-inch sprout.

Four hours were consumed in removing from an ear of Helen Jane Turner, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Turner, Hillsboro, a grain of wheat, a root of which had grown along a bone in the middle ear.

The surgeons were forced to remove decayed bone from.... Helen's head.

SEEKING UNITY OF CANADIANS SAYS LAPOINTE

Minister of Marine and Fisheries Claims Some Success For the Government in That Respect.

REPLY TO CRITICS.

MONTREAL, November 26. Canadian Press. — Hon. Ernest Lapointe addressing the Montreal Liberal Women's Club here on Saturday, combatted a number of assertions by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen made by the latter in a speech here last week.

In regard to the Washington halibut treaty, he said: "It was my privilege to sign this treaty for His Majesty the King. As plenipotentiary of the King, I signed the fisheries treaty at Washington, and my signature was the only one which appeared on the document for our country. Mr. Meighen is losing sleep over it. I am proud to have been chosen to represent my country in this instance and I have the temerity to believe that when a Canadian is designated in the constitutional way to negotiate a treaty concerning Canada exclusively with Canadian matters his signature does not need to be proved or countersigned. This is what has been recognized by the Imperial conference and this 'temoignage' is of value."

Ontario Boasting.

Mr. Lapointe said that both Mr. Meighen and Premier Ferguson of Ontario had been speaking recently and Mr. Ferguson made the statement in the presence of Mr. Meighen that Ontario was always dominating Canadian politics. He asked — "What would he and his friends say if Premier Taschereau indulged in such boasting?"

It was the aim and the ambition of the present government to re-establish order and unity and peace in Canada and he thought that they had attained some measure of success.

Mr. Lapointe quoted figures financial and commercial to show the increase in the volume of Canadian trade and its effects on conditions in the Dominion. He thought these were proof that the Liberals had been achieving success.

He was a party man. He believed in parties; in their sincerity and in their honesty of purpose, and in this connection he took the Earl of Birkenhead severely to task for his recent utterance to the effect that self interest should be the motive of private and public enterprise. National interest, the Minister said, should be "the polar star guiding our steps.'

Justice to All.

So far as the Liberals were concerned they had been guided by a pillar of fire which was equal justice to all classes and to all citizens, irrespective of creed or race or political persuasion. In carrying on this work they hoped for the support of all those in Canada who were striving to find the solution of the present day worries.

Sir Lomer Gouin, the Minister of Justice, who was present at the meeting responding to loud cries of his name at the end of the address, said that he was deeply touched at the reception given him, and thanked the club most sincerely.

BRITISH WOMEN TOSS CHAPEAUX INTO THE RING

More Than Forty Will Be Candidates in Coming Elections — Emulating Lady Astor.

LABOR LADIES TOO.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Forty or more women candidates are expected to contest seats in the coming general elections. The nominations have not yet been made, but eighteen women candidates have already been announced.

The list is headed by Lady Astor, the present Conservative candidate for Plymouth, and Mrs. 'Vintringham, Liberal. The list contains many other prominent names, including the Duchess of Athol, who is expected to be the Conservative candidate for Linross. Lady Irene Curzon, daughter of the Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and Lady Barlow, the wife of Sir Mantague Barlow, the Minister of Health, both prominent in feminine activiti , are expected to become candidates .

BORDEN AGREES WITH POINCARE

Difficulties Avoided If the United States Had Ratified the Engagement to France.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—Addressing the Young Men's Canadian Club here Saturday the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden said that he agreed with the statement of Premier Poincare, of France, that if the engagement which the U. S. and Great Britain made as a guarantee to France over a number of years had been carried out a great number of the difficultics we were facing to-day would never have occurred. It was a treaty to which Great Britain and the United States guaranteed to protect France against attack during a certain number of years but it had never been ratified by the United States and as such ratification was contingent to its acceptance by Great Britain, it had fallen through.

Sir Robert urged greater interest and participation in public life and said he was convinced that "unless the best elements of our population do this, democracy cannot be a success." He added that if politics were dirty today—and he did not say they were—it was the fault of those who stood aside and assumed the "holier than thou" attitude.

As to world conditions, he said, they were not very hopeful to-day. He felt that if Germany had been heard on reparationns, then conditions would have been better today.

He bespoke the support of everyone to the League of Nations. The League had prevented several wars and had done more to inculcate ideas of world peace than had been achieved by the chancellories of the world and had in addition built up a great sanitary organization, a great secretariat and a court of international jurisdiction, the whole cost of which annually was less than the upkeep of one first-class battleship.

FIVE MEN GET A HEAVY TERM BANDIT CASES

"Tubby" Perrin Has Been Located and Placed Under Arrest—Cases Heard in Orillia.

MEN IDENTIFIED

With the capture of "Peg-leg" or "Tubby" Perrin last night and the sentencing of five others of his gang to long terms of imprisonment, ends the long series of hold-ups, robberies and burglaries committed by a gang that made itself notorious throughout the province. For a time these men terrorized all this district, visiting a dozen towns and cities and taking their toll from each. In Peterborough, where it is said they held up Miss Mervin, they succeeded in none of their attempted enterprises, except in securing a little gasoline from two filling stations some weeks ago. On the same night, it is said, that they held up a farmer at Elmvale.

In Orillia on Saturday, with Chief of Police Samuel Newhall present, the four men and the woman were sentenced by Magistrate Clarke to the following terms:

William Anderson, 5 years in Kingston penitentiary and 10 lashes.

George Anderson, 4 years in Kingston penitentiary and 10 lashes.

Owen Smith, 4 years and 10 lashes.

Russell Wilde, 2 years in Burwash.

Mrs. Owen Smith, 6 months in Mercer reformatory.

The above sentences may be extended, sentence being passed on each count, but running concurrently.

The two Andersons were identified without hesitation by Chief Newhall as the men he surprised at Lieut.-Col. Ackerman's house, William being the one who shot at him and whom the Chief believes he wounded. This man appeared in court on Saturday swathed in bandages.

Mrs. Smith, it was alleged, was the spy for the gang, investigating possible paying "jobs." She was described by the prosecuting attorney as "the snake in the grass who spied out the victims." Perrin, it is said, used her for this purpose. She was the only member of the gang who pleaded not guilty, but the charges were proven against her.

Mystery Cleared.

Stepping from his train as it slowed up near a siding, Foote failed to notice the other train, which struck and hurled him into a ditch

Foote is at Hotel Dieu here, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries.

Disregard Veto of Gov. Leonard Wood

MANILA, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Governor General Leonard Wood, before he left Saturday night for a visit to Java, vetoed a bill providing for the remission of penalties for the non-payment of the land tax during the calendar year 1923, and today it was understood that both houses of the Legislature would pass the measure over the veto, thus placing the matter before President Coolidge for consideration.

The fight over the bill is likely to precipitate a "showndown" between the leaders of the movemen for Philippine independence and the United States administration.

DOESN'T MIND SOBER BANDIT

Young Lady Injured by Hold-up Man Says She Doesn't Like Drunken Amateurs in the Game

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 26.—Jean Mattison, dressmaker, said she isn't afraid of bandits when they are sober and know how to handle firearms, but hopes she never again will have to see a drunk amateur bandit flourishing a revolver at her.

Miss Mattison, who is employed in a dressmaking establishment at 2536 Beaubien Street, was shot in the left leg by an armed robber, who held up her and two male customers in her shop Saturday. She believes she was wounded through the bandit's carelessness with his weapon, rather than malice. After treatment at Receiving Hospital, she was able to return to her home.

"While I was waiting on two patrons, an intoxicated man entered the shop and suddenly produced a revolver, ordering us all to reach for the sky," Miss Mattison related. "He took a watch and some money from one of the customers, and a purse containing $35 from a pocket in my dress. I had expected to use the money to-day to make a payment on my new winter suit.

"Then he flourished the revolver and ordered me to unlock the rear door for him. I made no objection, but as I turned to obey him, the revolver suddenly went off and the bullet struck me in the thigh. Very much excited, he unlocked the door himself and disappeared. The customers ran for their lives out the front door and I was left alone until the neighbors heard my screams.

The next time I'm robbed, I hope the bandit is sober."

THE BELGIAN GOVT. SEIZED GERMAN ROLLING STOCKS

BRUSSELS, Nov. 26.— The Belgian government to-day seized German rolling stock at Duisburg and Hamborn, in view of Germany's failure to reply to Belgium's ultimatum demanding an indemnity of one and a quarter million francs for the assasination of Lieut. Graff, near Dusseldorf in March, 1922. Time limit fixed by the Belgium ultimatum expired last night. Belgium had previously rejected an offer from Germany to submit the matter to the Hague Tribunal for arbitration.

PROTECTING THE CHILDREN FROM DREAD DISEASE

Dr. McNair Explains to Rotary Club the Efficacy of Toxin Anti-toxin as a Safeguard.

DIPHTHERIA FACTS

A strong argument in favor of the immunization of Peterboro from diphtheria by means of toxin antitoxin was presented for the approval of the Peterboro Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon to-day by Rotarian Dr. Allan McNair, Provincial bacteriologist, who gave a series of striking statistics in regard to the prevalence of diphtheria, the extent of susceptibility at various ages and the effect of anti-toxin in reducing the death-rate.

The subject was introduced by Rotarian Dr. A. W. McPherson, who referred to the steps that were being taken towards the immunization of the pupils of the local schools, and who discussed the various forms of diphtheria. Dr. McPherson pointed out the danger that existed of a mild type of the disease being undetected, with the result that the child who has recovered from the mild attack may infect other children in the same family or in the neighborhood with a much more virulent type of diphtheria. He referred to the success of the Schick test in determining susceptibility to the disease.

Dr. McNair dealt with the advance that had been made in bacteriological science, and instanced the success of the anti-typhoid innoculation and anti-tetanus injection treatment used by the British and Canadian armies in the world war by which deaths from typhoid fever and lockjaw were reduced to a minimum, contrasting this showing with the experience in other wars.

In regard to diphtheria, Dr. McNair explained that anti-toxin as an agency with which to fight that disease had been discovered between 1890 and 1895, and quoted figures to show that although the population of Ontario had increased by one million between 1880 and 1918, and the prevalence of the disease had also largely increased as indicated by the number of cases, the death-rate had been reduced by 75 per cent. because of the use of anti-toxin.

Explaining the Schick test as a very simple means of determining whether or not a child was susceptible to diphtheria, Dr. McNair declared that no harmful result followed its use. Over 200,000 school children in New York had been given the test, and not one case of any harm resulting had been reported. The children found to be immune needed no other treatment, while

BISHOP FALLON ASSERTS FAITH BROADENS MIND

Is Justified By Jesus Christ, His Church and Teachings — Demands Belief That Christ Is God.

FAITH BRINGS PEACE.

"Peace Through Faith" was the subject of the sermon preached by His Lordship, the Rt. Rev. M. F. Fallon, D.D., Bishop of London, at the evening devotions at St. Peter's Cathedral last night, to mark the solemn blessing and re-dedication of the Cathedral, which has lately undergone a general overhauling and some extensive renovations.

Taking as his text the words of St. Paul: "Without faith, it is impossible to please God," His Lordship defined faith as a state of quietness, the possession of spiritual calm, an absence of agitation of soul regarding eternal things. Faith was the assent of the mind to revealed truths, and was a condition possessed by Catholics. An absolutely necessary condition, consequent on man having been raised to his supreme state, was that he should be given some external and internal aids to enable him to enter into relation with the supernatural.

Aids to Faith

External aids were those provided by God's revealed truths and by His church, and the internal aid was an illumination of the soul, an infused gift of mind by which the soul is raised to a position where it can accept and believe. In the infant, this gift is merely a potentiality, like the potentiality of reason. Co-ordination of the external and internal aids fits all the pieces of machinery together in one perfect whole.

"But nothing will subdue a man determined to use his will as he pleases. The law of the land can subdue the man who undertakes to use his own free will against that law, but God has no policemen or clubs, and nothing but the gentle influence of His grace can subdue the man who is determined to use the beautiful but perilous gift of free will otherwise. First there is the presentation of the revealed word of God in the Bible, secondly the exposition of these truths by the church of God, and then the concord of the will with the intellect, making a perfect co-ordination between man's will intellect, and life, and the will of his Creator."

"Before a man can have faith, he must have belief in God. Art, philosophy, mathematics, are not objects of faith. They depend upon man and the changing fashions of the hour, but the revelation of God is unshakable and immutable. Human science is this today and that tomorrow, but faith is the most certain thing in the world, while at the same time the most obscure and incomprehensible. To the many clever men who balk at the mysteries of religion, I would say: If you do away with the mysteries of religion, you must do away also with the mysteries of nature and of science. You are swallowing mysteries every day. Life, death and growth are mysteries. Sleep, space, the color of your eyes, sex, all these are mysteries, and the most mysterious thing of all is the equality in the number of men and women born down through the six thousand years of the human race."

Faith a Joy

"Faith, while it is a mystery and obscure, is also the greatest joy that can come into man's existence. The prayer of life has always been: "I believe. O Lord, help my unbelief.' No man in his senses would desire to face the bleak, blank ignorance of disbelief, which leads nowhere and gives no answer to the mysteries of life. There is no hope where unbelief exists. You might as well be a horse or a dog."

"The truths of faith have an external force which is not equalled by any other branch of human learning. The first element in the force with which faith comes to us, and which justifies us in believing it, is Jesus Christ, the supreme perfection of humanity and the glory of our race. Earthly systems have risen and disappeared, but His divine system remains more full of life and youth and promise than on the day when He gave His message to the world, and Christ said: 'There is no way of being My follower except through faith.'"

"The second element that forces us to believe in the revelation is the Catholic church, almost two thousand years old, immense, but not decrepit, universal but not disjointed, standing irrevocable in her decrees, declaring herself the mouthpiece of the Most High, a mission and a message which will never end."

"The third element is in the truths themselves, which are lovely and attractive, these truths of the Christian faith that make for generosity and kindness and charity, and establish brotherhood."

"We are told that faith fetters freedom, but that is true only in the sense in which freedom of any kind has its limitations. If I live in a desert, I am free, but the limits of the desert bound my freedom. There are social, and municipal and federal laws that define the limits of my freedom in the world. It is only God's law that is disregarded because there are no iron bars, nor stone walls, nor uniformed representatives to insist that these laws be kept.

"Faith limits freedom only in the way that all freedom is fettered where civilized men live in society or even outside the limits of society. There is no freedom so broad, no liberty so high or blessed or full of promise, as the freedom that follows faith. The fetters that faith imposes upon a Christian is his belief that Christ is true God and true man. Once a Christian has said that, will you consider the boundless field of intellectual freedom that stretches out before him, and the opportunity to defend Jesus Christ, the Son of God, before all peoples?"

Articles of Faith

"No Catholic is allowed to deny that Mary is the Mother of God, and having accepted that belief, consider the privilege of defending the sweet Mother of Christ as the model mother, our hope and joy. No Catholic is allowed to deny the doctrine of the seven sacraments, nor the primacy of Peter. Not all the Peters are easily defended, I grant you, but the majority of them glow in history's pages."

"The man who says that Jesus was not the Son of God has to stop there. He has no further proof than his own denial. When he denies the doctrine of the sacraments he stops there in the same way. When he denies reverence to the Mother of Jesus, he does not stop, because any man who loses his reverence for the Mother of God loses reverence for all women. When he denies the primacy of Peter, he stops there. I say that there is nothing that broadens out the intellect like the freedom which follows the acceptance of the truths of God."

"Jesus Christ was the final word in revelation, and the Catholic church cannot establish any new dogma. It cannot so attack Divine prerogative and assault human liberty. We are told that when we accept revealed dogma, we close up the casket of the mind hermetically. I say to such gentlemen that they are exceedingly impertinent and unspeakably offensive, when they tell me that I make shipwreck of my intellect by accepting the truths of the Christian faith. There are certain people who think they can say anything they please of us. We are backward, stagnated, suppressed, and you, my friends, are priest-ridden. If one single dogma of faith ties my mind, I will not accept such tyranny, but this is not the case. I resent as insulting the declaration that my intellect is rendered stagnant by accepting the truths of God."

Search For Truth

His Lordship went on here to record the activities of the Catholic church through the ages, in her explorations into the vast field of revelation, her study of the ancient Hebrew and Greek and Syro-Chaldean, to determine the exact meaning of the word of God, in its original form; the comparisons by another school of apologists of the revealed word of God with the truths of nature and of science, and their final conclusions that there is no opposition between the various truths.

"This is the second cause of my quarrel with the men of science. In their own field, I have nothing but praise for their work, but when they intrude in my sphere, I say they are like bulls in a china shop, and I would say to them: "Stop. Take the primer of Christianity and study it. You are ignorant of the matters you are attempting to discuss.'"

"But faith passes beyond simply believing. The just man lives by faith. The essential difference between the carnal man and the spiritual man is the absence of the spirit of faith. And it does not depend in its birth or progress upon the intellectual attainments of the individual. Its growth and progress depends upon the sanctifying grace of God and upon our own Christian lives. Pride and lust and worldliness kill faith. To be preoccupied constantly with the things of the world and time kills faith, which deals not with relations between man and man, but between man and God, and not with time, but with eternity. In faith is found peace and joy and quietness and spiritual silence, so far as doubt and denial are concerned, and these are great blessings and graces."

Trust in God

"The man who possesses faith is not unduly uplifted by success nor unduly cast down by misfortune. It is all in the day's work and he accepts as the will of God, just as he accepts the truths of Divine revelation. He feels that he is held in the hollow of God's hand, and that is infinite peace and joy for him."

Instances in Scriptures

His Lordship referred to some of the lessons regarding faith and unfaith contained in Holy Writ, in the story of the leper who was cleansed, and the blind man who received his sight, through faith, of the centurion whose faith worked the cure of his servant, of the Apostle Thomas who would not believe through faith alone, and to whom Jesus said: 'Because thou hast seen, thou hast believed. Blessed are they that have not seen and have believed.' In Peter was exemplified a wonderful act of faith, when he replied to Jesus' query by saying: 'Lord, to whom shall we go but to Thee, for Thou art the Son of the living God, and hast the words of everlasting life.'"

The formal blessing and re-dedication of the Cathedral took place yesterday at the High Mass at half past ten o'clock, which was sung by His Lordship Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D. D., Bishop of Peterboro, assisted by clergy of the city and district.

LOOK! BOYS AND GIRLS! CAN YOU FIND TOM MIX?

In his latest and best picture, "The Lone Star Ranger," from the famous novel by Zane Grey, Tom Mix is pursued by Texas bandits and forced to hide from them. The bandits could not find Tom and his famous horse "Tony." Can you?

To-day, Tuesday, and Wednesday, The Examiner will print a portion of a picture of Tom and Tony. Just clip these parts out, save them, and paste them together in the way you think they ought to be placed to complete the picture, and you'll find Tom all right.

The first ten children bringing the picture properly pasted together to The Examiner Office will be given a free pass to the Capitol Theatre to see Tom Mix in "The Lone Star Ranger' next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Here are to-day's parts. Watch for more to-morrow and Wednesday.

MARMORA HEARS CHANT LECTURE

Wonders of the Planetary System Second Address in University Extension Course.

MARMORA, November 26. — On Friday evening, the second lecture in the University Extension Course, was given by Dr. Chant on the subject, "Our Little System and the Great Beyond."

Rev. Father Traynor acted as chairman for the evening and in a few well chosen words introduced the speaker. The lecture was illustrated by slides.

Dr. Chant spoke of the sun as being the centre of our universe. Each of the other planets of our system, Mercury, Venus, Mars, the Earth, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune, rotate around the sun. The planets are all in the same paine. They however take different amounts of time to rotate once around the sun and all the planets are composed of the same materials but the four planets nearest the sun are dense while the four farthest away are rare. Mercury, Venus, Mars and the Earth are the smallest in size, and the other four are larger.

Between Mars and Jupiter are many small planets called planetoids or asteroids.

The sun rotates on its axis in 25 days. Dr. Chant showed some slides showing how spots on the sun photographed on succeeding days, had moved.

Complete Journeys.

Mercury rotates around the sun in approximately 3 months; Venus in a little over 7 months. The Earth takes 12 months to make one rotation while Mars takes about 24 months; Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune take 12, 30, 84 and 165 years respectively to make one rotation.

Dr. Chant showed some interesting motion slides illustrating the respective speed of rotation amongst the planets, the rotation of the moon around the earth and the rotation of various other planets.

One of these motion pictures illustrated a comet which returns into our view. The comet always moved with its tail turned away from the sun.

He showed the different appearances of Venus as it rotated around the sun. When it is on the left hand side of the sun it is our evening star and when on the right hand side of the sun it is a morning star.

He showed the appearance of masses of hydrogen on the sun as they appear through the telescope.

Mars Inhabited?

An interesting question among astronomers at the present time is the question, "Is Mars inhabited?" Lines have been seen on photographs of the planet. An Italian gave these the Italian name for channels, which is canali. In translating these the word canal was applied to these lines. These canals are so numerous and long that it hardly seems possible that they have been dug by people. Another fact against the theory of human life on Mars is the fact that there is very little water there, and the planet is so cold that we could not live there.

Travelling at the rate of ligth, it would take us only 8 minutes to travel from the sun to the earth, four hours from the sun to neptune, four years and four months from the sun to the nearest star. This illustraes the distance that the stars are from us. These stars are found to be suns larger than our sun but on account of their distance they appear small to us.

Dr. Chant showed many interesting slides concerning these stars and the formations of nebulae which are present in this great beyond.

Snow Clogs Traffic.

The heavy snow storm on Friday afternoon played havoc with the motor traffic around town. A large oil truck from Peterboro, in trying to make a steep hill west of the village, backed down, and it was a mircle that it did not go into the river.

STOCKS AND BONDS

There is a great boom in the mining industry. I have had many years experience in practical mining, both in Cobalt and Porcupine, and have a wide connection there. I am therefore in a position to get early and reliable information in both camps. I have made a profit for every one of my clients up to date, and shall be pleased to advise any one interested. There will be a strong market this summer and now is the time to get in.

HOPE ABANDONED OF FINDING TWO

Supposed That D.A. Watson and Son Were Swept Over Falls to Death.

LINDSAY, Nov. 26.—Practically all hope has been abandoned by friends of D. A. Watson, a former well known Beaverton resident, and his son, of the finding of their bodies at Shawinigan Falls. On October 16 last father and son went for a walk near the Falls and were supposed to have been caught by the rushing waters of the dam and swept unconscious into the pool beneath the Falls, where every effort to recover their bodies has been unsuccessful.

The falls are usually dried up by a huge dam situated above them, but at intervals the dam gates are opened to allow logs to go through, and the water rushes over the dam falls.

Mr. Watson was a druggist and was well known in this district. His son, Leigh A. Watson, is a graduate of McGill University, and a former student of Toronto University.

FINDS CO-EDS' FEET BIGGER.

Ohio State Professor Also Reports Increased Weight and Waist Line

COLUMBUS, Ohio Nov. 26.—The feet of the modern college girl are steadily increasing in size, according to Miss Lydia Clark(head of the women's department of physical education at Ohio State University.

Miss Clark says that modern clothes and the great interest shown by the modern co-ed in outdoor activities are causes for the increase in size.

Not only are their feet increasing in size but statistics show that the increase is general. Figures from Vassar, Smith and Leland Stanford show that the average weight of the college woman has increased from 123.8 pounds to 125.8 and that the waistline has increased on an average of 1.3 inches, Miss Clark says.

A PLANT EXPERT WILL VISIT PETERBORO FRIDAY

On Friday evening next, November 30th, Mr. H. J. Moore, Forester of the Department of Public Highways, Provincial Government, will deliver an illustrated address on "Plant Breeding and Improvement and the Value of Trial Plots" to the Horticultural Society and all others interested.

Mr. Moore was the designer of Victoria Park at Niagara Falls and has recently been appointed as the Ontario representative to the Plant Registration Bureau of the Canadian Horticultural Council.

This Council is arranging to place trial plot for plant breeding in the various cities in Canada, and Mr. Moore will explain its application to the City of Peterborough during his address, which will be given in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms on Friday next, at 8 p.m.

A VERY FINE OIL WELL WAS STRUCK IN ALBERTA

Mr. Harry Long, who owns property in the vicinity of Irma, Alberta, is in receipt of a copy of the Irma Times, dated November 16th, in which it is recorded "the greatest find for Alberta in years," in the striking of a commercial oil well, capable of producing from 100 to 200 barrels of oil per day, by British Petroleums, Limited. N. W. Emmens, the company's geologist, has tested the oil and computed the capabilities of the well, the oil from which is of a light color and entirely free from water.

The oil was found at around 2,033 feet and followed the drill to the top of the casing. At noon of the day when the flow was established, there was 1,535 feet of oil in the casing and at three o'clock of the same day it had increased to 1,750, an increase of 215 feet in three hours. Drilling for this well was started in June last.

Tanol Ca omel Much Better Than Ordinary Calomel

CLEANS AND TONES UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

Instead of rising in the morning feeling tired, dull, with headaches, bad taste in mouth, sick stomach or after eating a bloated, heavy feeling, indigestion, constipation, kidney trouble, etc., can instead both look and feel as fresh as a daisy by flushing the poisons that have accumulated in the stomach, kidneys and bowels by following a doctor's advice by taking one Tanol Calomel Tablet 15 minutes before meals or two at bedtime. This will flush the previous day's indigestive waste, sour bile and poisons from the system before more food is taken. Tanol Calomel Tablets are recommended because they have no bad after effect. No salts or seidlitz are necessary to remove them from the system, as they are self-eliminating. Get a few of these tablets from the druggist and you will feel 100 per cent. better. Sold by Weber, druggist, Charlotte street.

QUACK DOCTORS' TERRIBLE TOLL

Grand Jury in Hartford Will Deal With 10,000 Death Certificates Signed by Fake Medicos.

HARTFORD, Nov. 26. —(Canadian Press.)—Wholesale indictments of quack doctors for manslaughter as one result of the grand jury investigation were predicted last night by two officials.

State Health Commissioner Osborne announced that a painstaking examination of all death certificates in Connecticut for five years is revealing an immense total signed by alleged quack doctors.

More than 200 of these, he said, would be turned over to the grand jury Monday.

Dr. George F. Sutcliffe was located last night at the Bond hotel annex, where he is staying with his [illegible] Dubois, of Albany. He is wanted on a manslaughter charge based upon his cans of ether to Albert C. Hoody, who came to his office with a crushed finger and died an hour later on Sutcliffe's [illegible] from Albany to Toronto, escaped [illegible]

On the basis of one death a month confessed by Sutcliffe, 200 factors during the last five years would have signed more than 10,000 death certificates. Whatever the number, the grand jury purposes to scrutinize each carefully, according to Foreman Holden.

HIS HANDICAP

A very stout and portly gentleman was once asked why he did not play golf, and this was his reason:

COSMETICS ARE NOT LIFE NECESSITIES

Judge Rules Powder Puffs, Powder, Face Creams and Perfumes Are Not Necessary to Anybody

LONDON, Nov. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—Cosmetics are not necessities of life, Judge Edward A. Parry ruled this week in Lambeth county court.

A big firm of London druggists sued George Standard to recover the cost of powder puffs, powder, face creams and perfumes his 10 year old adopted daughter had ordered as necessities."

"I see the young lady called these things necessities," Judge Parry said in giving judgment. "I don't see anything in the list of articles that is necessary to anybody. Powder and French entente.

AT 42, WOMAN WEDS MAN.

So Justice Morschauser Holds in an Alimony Hearing.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Nov. 26. —"At the age of 42 it is not the man that marries the woman, but the woman that marries the man," Supreme Court Justice Morschauser said when a motion was made for temporary alimony in the separation action brought by Mrs. Ida Chabot Weizer of New York against Samuel Weizer, manager of the New York offices of the Amherst Knitting Mills.

Mrs. Weizer, a pretty French Canadian, and the defendant were married in New York last September. She alleges that he deserted her a few days later. Charles E. Long, her attorney, told the Court that a man of Weizer's age, 42, should know what he is doing when he ventures into matrimony. It was this statement of Long's that provoked the remark from Justice Morschauser. The Court granted $100 alimony until the motion is further argued to-morrow.

OBITUARY

SAMUEL P. WICG.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 24. — The death of Samuel Phillip Wigg occurred very suddenly on Friday, November 23rd, at his home on Queen Street, and was a shock to those who knew him, as he seemed to be somewhat improved in health lately. He was the son of the late Ghent Wigg and Adelaide Strickland Wigg, and was born in Norfolk, England, sixty-five years ago, and with his parents came to Canada in 1869. Mr. Wigg was identified with the lumbering business for years, being engaged with R. C. Strickland in Lakefield, and later with J. G. Ross and Co., of Quebec. Mr. Wigg had a substantial interest in the latter company. He retired from business owing to ill-health, and for some years past he made his home in the village.

He was twice married, first to Agnes Strickland, younger daughter of the late R. A. Strickland, and later to Adelaide Dill, of Montreal, who predeceased him a few months ago. One daughter, Agnes, Mrs. Williams, of Sussex, England, survives him, also two brothers, Thomas of Thessalow, Ontario, and Edward of Toronto, and three sisters, Mrs. Ferdinand McCulloch of Westmount, Quebec; Mrs. George Becker of Summerland, Cal., and Mrs. Harry Heaps, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Owing to his delicate health, Mr. Wigg was unable to enter into the active side of municipal life, but possessed many warm friends, who will miss him very much.

Mr. Wigg was a devout Roman Catholic.

The funeral took place yesterday at 3 p.m. from St. Paul's Church, Lakefield, to St. Mary's Cemetery, Young's Point, for interment.

APPROPRIATE INDEED

The special preacher was asked if he would like any particular hymn to be sung to agree with his sermon.

"No," he replied. "The fact is, I seldom know what I am going to say until I arrive in the pulpit."

"Well, in that case," said the vicar, "we had better have the hymn, 'Fer Those at Sea'."—Tit-Bits (London).

SETTLED AT LAST.

The decision of the commission appointed to investigate the claims of the Mississaugua and Chippawa Indians in regard to their fishing and hunting privileges over a section of Northern and Central Ontario means much to the Indians of this district, as it entails the award of a quarter of a million dollars to the Chemong, Hiawatha and Alnwick reserves, the other half of the award going to the Chippawas.

The $500,000 to the two tribes will be paid by the Ontario Government in settlement of a claim that has for many years been pressed by the Indians.

The grant is a final settlement by which all rights in regard to the land in question are relinquished by the Mississauguas and Chippawas, and the satisfactory conclusion of these long-drawn-out negotiations will be satisfactory, it is hoped, to all the parties concerned.

The $500,000 will be held in trust by the Department of Indian Affairs and will double the capital held by the department on behalf of the Indians.

The assistance thus made possible will be of much benefit to the two tribes, while the fact that a settlement has at last been reached will be a source of satisfaction to both Federal and Provincial Governments.

NO MOB RULE WANTED.

The six Stirling youths who pleaded guilty to assaulting a minister whose conduct had brought down upon him the ire of a portion of the community were lucky to escape with suspended sentences and the payment of costs.

Mob rule cannot be tolerated in Canada, and no body of men can be permitted to take the law into their own hands and deal out punishment, no matter how provocative may be the actions of the person singled out for such drastic treatment.

Canadians are inclined to condemn their neighbors to the south for the frequent demonstrations of lynch law that take place across the line, but the spirit of lynch law ran riot at Stirling not long ago, and the treatment accorded the victim differed only in degree from that meted out to the unfortunates who find themselves at the mercy of an American mob.

The arrest and prosecution of the offenders at Stirling and the scathing condemnation of their conduct by the magistrate who heard the case should go a long way towards correcting the idea that seemed to have got into the heads of these young men that they were called upon to act as unofficial envoys of law and justice in their neighborhood.

There is no need of mob rule in Ontario where the machinery of the law is always quick to act and usually effective in locating and punishing those who have by their conduct merited punishment.

MERCY AND CROOKS.

If all United States judges were to adopt the policy laid down by Geo. W. Martin, a county judge in Brooklyn, last week the Examiner feels confident that there speedily would be a falling off in the number of crimes of violence recorded.

"I'll show you the same mercy that you show your victims," this excellent judge informed a burglar. "A plea for mercy from robbers and burglars is only wasting my time."

And he sent the prisoner to jail for ten years.

With the present outbreak of crime any other treatment than this would be folly.

There are certain super-kind-hearted people in the world, of course, who have no trouble in working up a maudlin sympathy for the criminal who gets into the toils of the law. The more revolting the crime, usually the more hysterical the sympathy and the more vehement the plea for mercy.

But the Brooklyn judge is on the right path, notwithstanding these sentimentalists.

The crime wave cannot be stopped by short sentences for the convicted offenders.

As a New York paper puts it: "When it comes to breaking into a house at night or sandbagging a helpless pedestrian upon a dark road, or using any kind of force or fraud to part a man from his honest earnings, the culprit displays such an insane idea of the difference between right and wrong that to extend mercy to him is to do harm not only to all honest men but to the culprit himself.

"The greatest mercy that can be extended to any human being who sinks so low as to commit burglary or theft by force is to lock him up long enough to see the error of his ways.

"And for such thinkers a quarter of a century is not too long."

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

At a meeting of the executive of the Owners' and Tenants' Association last week it was decided to hold a general meeting in the near future at which public questions will be discussed, and the municipal elections are expected to have an important place in the agenda.

In view of the all too few opportunities there are of having civic issues discussed in public, and in view, too, of the general apathy of the citizens in regard to municipal problems and the election of civic rulers, the announcement of the decision of the Owners' and Tenants' Association is welcome.

There should be a place for such an organization as this in Peterborough—in fact, the Examiner has often felt that an amptification of the scheme with a similar association in each ward would produce even better results.

The objects as set forth on the membership enrollment are such as can be endorsed by every citizen.

The applicant simply pledges himself as follows:

"To individually and with others take and show personal interest in our city, its aims and projects. In its municipal business as bearing on our taxes rates, liabilities and such progress as we endeavor to make.

"To give my personal service with others in concerted movement for the future good of the city and to do this irrespective of race, creed, groups or party politics. Such affiliations left absolutely out of consideration.

"To consider how our public revenues shall be secured and particularly how expended. And to this end will try and gain information of our municipal affairs that I may be able to intelligently judge in matters affecting the city.

"To watch the operation of our publicly elected bodies, to the end that I and others may grow to learn how to select and who to support for election of those who will participate in the handling of our municipal affairs.

"As a member of this association I agree to participate in its movements and operations, subject to my judgment if in all things as submitted I may not concur."

There can be no quarrel with any of these objects, and the association of a large number of ratepayers co-operating in an endeavour to carry them out would seem to be a splendid thing for Peterborough.

The danger is, and always has been, of course, in such organizations that the association is liable to degenerate into a "kicker's" club, with little constructive to offer in the way of criticism and a fondness for passing multitudinious resolutions.

Peterborough's association, however need fear no such fate if sufficient co-operation is accorded by the citizens generally, whom it offers a forum for the discussion of municipal affairs and a chance to put into circulation plans and ideas that have for their objective Peterborough's betterment.

The coming meeting, affording an opportunity for a threshing out of the situation particularly as regard the civic elections, should be of considerable service in awakening the community to the necessity of a greater interest in such matters.

THE AMERICAN PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES.

While the British elections have the centre of the stage, our American neighbors are already getting ready for their quadrennial "free-for-all" next year. The slow and stodgy British put through a whole political campaign, ending in the selection of a Parliament which may govern the Empire for five years, in three weeks; but the "peppy" and brisk business nation to the south of us warms up a year before polling, holds endless primary elections for six months prior to the great party conventions in mid-summer, and then plunges into a super-heated campaign which absorbs the entire attention of the community for at least two months before the ballots are cast. It is a great thing to be a people of "quick decisions" and time-saving efficiency.

The business of the moment is the selection of Presidential candidates. Both the Republicans and the Democrats are decidedly at sea. The death of President Harding removed the only figure which seemed a certainty. President Coolidge starts with a long lead over all rivals for the Republican nomination; but he has by no means the firm grip on the situation enjoyed by the elected and experienced Man from Ohio. It is always said that a sitting President can nominate himself at his first convention if he chooses, because of his control of the large and active office-holding element. But this does not apply so completely to a "stop-gap" President with far fewer relations with "the machine" and a serious handicap in the way of geographical unavailability. That is, Coolidge would probably not be spoken of at all for next year if he had not happened to be Vice-President when Harding died. He is a New Englander, lacking in affability, not a "good mixer" and with no appeal to the West, middle or otherwise.

Still he has some strong qualifications. He is in office. He made a fine record in dealing with a dangerous police strike. He has given proofs of his courage. He has made no enemies. His only serious opponent so far is the fantastic Hiram Johnson. Safe and sane Republicans would support almost anybody to keep Johnson out of the saddle. Johnson is not only a Radical and a sensationalist, but he is hampered by the support of Hearst.

* * * *

Something depends, of course, upon the drift in the Democratic camp. McAdoo is so far the most active candidate. He is classed as a Radical, a favorite with the workingmen, an heir to Wilson's small but vociferous following, and a capable administrator. Senator Underwood of Alabama is the conservative contender. He would make a splendid President, but—like Coolidge—he comes from a safe State and so lacks the valuable ability of being able to win a doubtful State for his party. Both parties like to pick candidates whose personality will swing debatable States into line.

The ever-popular "Al" Smith of New York would be the obvious nominee if it were not for an element in American politics which is happily absent in Canada. Governor Smith is a Roman Catholic. His best friends admit that this would seriously hurt him in a national campaign—those not quite so close to him say that it would be fatal. At any rate, this outstanding New Yorker, who admittedly could surely swing the great State of New York into the Democratic column—as Cleveland did—and who would be as good as nominated already if he worshipped at some other altar, is hardly mentioned today, and then only as a "favorite son" who may keep the New York delegation away from McAdoo until its owners are ready to deliver it to someone else. Our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens—with Sir John Thompson and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in their minds—might well consider this little incident when they are weighing the possible consequence of "The Whisper of Death" becoming more audible.—Montreal Star.

You Can Eat Anything You Like And Not Have HEARTBURN

In all cases of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by a disturbed appetite, as when too much food is taken into the stomach it is liable to ferment and become extremely sour, vomiting occurs, and what is thrown up is generally sour and bitter. When you are in this condition you will find that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will give you relief right away.

Mr. Joseph H. MacDonald, Christmas Island, N.S., writes:—"Two years ago I suffered all the time from heartburn. I took one vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have never been troubled since.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press)—A moderate business was done in the cash grain market Saturday. Trade in flour was fair. A good steady trade was done in millfeed and the rolled oats market was fair. Storage eggs are in good demand. Receipts for the season to date are 493,773 cases against 473,015 for the same period of 1922.

The butter market is quieter. Receipts to date have been 159,530 packages less than in the same period of 1922.

The cheese market was quiet. Total receipts from May 1 to date have been 136,275 boxes in excess of the same period of 1922. .

Egg prices yesterday were: Extras —40 to 41. first 35 to 37; seconds 30 to 32.

Butter No. 1 creamery 38 to 38½. No special or pasteurized grades quoted.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here Saturday as follows:

Demand 4.4613.

Cables 4.4638.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Wheat averaged lower in price to-day largely as a result of Washington reports that the Administration was opposing new schemes of government aid to finance American exports to Germany. The market closed unsettled, at a range varying from 5-8c. net decline to 1-8 and 1-4c. advance, with December $1.03 to $1.03 and 1-8, and May $1.08 1-4 to $1.08 3-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8c. up; oats unchanged to 1-4c. higher and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

Primary receipts of wheat to-day included 200,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, duty paid at Toledo, but the week's total arrivals at United State primary centres were to a material extent less than for the previous week or for the corresponding time last year. On the other hand, no domestic wheat whatever cleared from United States ports yesterday, whereas a year back the amount for the day was 1,153,000 bushels. Domestic milling demand was reported to-day as of a hand-to-mouth character.

With receipts of corn here reaching good volume, liquidating sales of December delivery were heavy in the corn market, but May and July held about steady. Oats were scarce and the market grew firm. Provisions tended upward with hogs.

ANNUAL BANQUET SUNDAY SCHOOL

Newly Elected President Honored by the A.Y.P.A.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 24.—The Sunday School hall of St. Thomas church was en fete on Thursday evening, the occasion being the annual banquet under the auspices of the local branch of the A.Y.P.A., especially arranged this season in honor of the newly-elected president, Rev. M. G. B. Williams, and his bride, formerly Miss Cole, of Toronto. The room and banqueting tables were beautifully decorated with the A.Y.P.A. colors, blue and white, and the abundant supply of good "eats," including chicken salad, scalloped potatoes, jellies, cakes, pies, etc., made a tempting array that would have satisfied the most epicurean appetite.

Addresses were delivered by the rector, Rev. Canon Allen, and by Rev. Mr. Williams, the latter expressing his pleasure in his new office of president of so flourishing an organization, and requesting hearty co-operation that continued and greater success might be their portion. Mrs. (Dr.) D. C. King, of Peterboro, contributed a number of vocal solos which were much enjoyed. Mrs. (Canon) Allen being the efficient accompanist.

Midway on the programme, Miss E. Grandy, on behalf of the A.Y.P.A., presented Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Williams with a handsome pyrex casserole, oval-shaped and with silver setting, Miss Lila Clarke reading the following address:

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Williams:

The officers and members of St. Thomas Anglican Young Peoples' Association have gathered here this evening, not only to partake of a Branch banquet, but also to welcome you to our A.Y.P.A. With you, Mr. Williams, as president, and Mrs. Williams as your helper, we are sure of a very successful year.

We ask you to accept this casserole as a welcome to our Branch, and wish you much happiness in the coming years.

Signed on behalf of St. Thomas A.Y.P.A.

E. GRANDY.
M. ATTWOOLL.
L. CLARKE.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Williams were taken completely by surprise, the former, however, making suitable reply on behalf of his wife and himself, and briefly thanking the young people for the gift and the spirit of kindly thoughtfulness which had been the motive power prompting their action.

A community sing-song and other social activities completed an evening that will long be remembered as one of the most enjoyable in the history of the local Branch. About sixty guests were in attendance.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Nov 26—Word was received by relatives here of the death following an accident at Kansas City, Missouri, of Mr Robert Morrow, a son of the late Mr Thomat Morrow, who for many years conducted a shoe store here Mr Robert Morrow was associated with his father for a time in business before leaving Cobourg for Kansas City, where he was engaged with the Kansas City and Missouri Railroad He was a member of St John's Lodge, No 17 A F & A.M., Cobourg. Surviving Mr. Morrow are two brothers, John, of Boissevain, Man., and Thomas, of Port Hope, and two sisters, Mrs. C. F. Webster, Toronto, and Mrs. Pleus of Cobourg. Mr. Morrow had a leg taken off and did not survive the accident and shock.

Attended Funeral

A number of Cobourg citizens went to Beamsville to attend the funeral of the late Mr. F. W. Barry, who died suddenly at Hornell, N. Y., while on a visit to relatives. Mr. Barry, formerly resided at Trenton where he conducted a dry goods store and also a gent's furnishing store. About eighteen months ago, having disposed of his business interests there, he came to Cobourg to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. M. W. Sparling, having been bereaved a short time before by the death of his wife. Mr. Barry was also a former resident of Port Perry. He was a man who was held in very high regard and was deeply interested in church work, and all other activities that were for the betterment of the community where he resided. About ten days ago he went to New York State to visit relatives and his death occurred apparently quite suddenly there. The remains are being taken to Beamsville for interment beside those of his late wife.

Edward Bundy Funeral

The funeral of Mr. William Edward Bundy took place from his late residence, Darcy street here, to St. Peter's cemetery. Mr. Bundy died at the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, on Tuesday, where he went some months ago to take treatment. He was a war veteran and had resided here for the past four years. He enlisted with a Bobcaygeon regiment, and his death is attributed to illness caused by effects of the terrible war. With his wife and two children very much sympathy is felt.

YOUNG'S POINT

REINCARNATION

A professor in England claims he "lived before" on earth and can vividly remember his former lives or incarnations. In one of these he was a high priest in Egypt, he says, in another life a great Phoenician artist, later a Greek philosopher.

This has a familiar ring. You never find a reincarnationist recalling he was a nobody in a previous existence.

NEWS TRENT RIVER AND THE DISTRICT

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 24.—Mr. W. Allen, of Toronto, spent the week here on business concerning the disposal of his property, returning to the city Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Allen expect to sail for Liverpool about the 9th of December.

Beyond the Reach of Your Creditors

Suppose you should die to-morrow and your executors were called upon to wind up your estate, what would be left for your wife and family?

Precious little, perhaps. But if you hold an Imperial Life policy made payable to your wife, and you should die hopelessly in debt, your creditors couldn't touch the life insurance money. That would go intact to your widow.

You never knew that? Well, there's a whole host of other features of Imperial Life policies equally attractive.

Write for our booklet, "A Few Facts." It's full of interesting information about the advantages of Imperial Policies — and it's free.

MOST IN FAVOR OF THE LEAGUE

United States Doctors Say Majority of Thinkers Realize Country's Duty.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 25.— (Canadian Press).—"The majority of the people in the United States who do their own thinking believe that we should have gone in to the League of Nations," said Dr .Franklin H. Martin, Director General of the American College of Surgeons, in an address her,, Saturday before the Canadian Club Prominent statesmen in the United States, he said, among whom he mentioned Taft, Hughes, Root and Hoover were to-day ready and anxious to stand behind some program of adherence to the League if they could only do so without too palpable a right-about-face. The dominating political party, however, backed by wealthy press, had conducted a campaign of deprecation and ridicule of the League, and it was now necessary for some outstanding American statesman, such as those mentioned, to come out in downright support of the League, notwithstanding his previous attitude

Mr. Martin asserted that there was an influential group in the party which was growing restless and outspoken with regard to the League, and he gave it as his opinion that a new pronouncement would be made in the near future.

Dr. Martin's references to the League of Nations were made at the conclusion of an address on "Adventures in Medicine." He advocated a periodic medical examination asserting that surface and stomach cancer and many other diseases could be cured if caught early. He paid a tribute to the work of General William Crawford Gorgas in stamping out yellow fever in Havana and in Panama, and emphasied this as an example of what could be accomplished by co-operation between physician and patients.

HAS NO PATIENCE WITH PESSIMISTS

Lord Leverhulme Says General British Opinion Favorable to Emigration to Canada.

TORONTO, November 26 (Canadian Press). — Questioned here last night as to the general opinion in England upon emigration to Canada, Lord Leverhulme Believed that the attitude, upon the whole ,was favourable.

"F your part you can do nothing better than to bring in British people," he declared. "They are the sort which will build a good citizenship for this country."

Refusing to utter the usual platitudes concerning Canada, Lord Leverhulme spoke with the sincerity of a true business man:

"I have not been here long enough this time to comment upon the present situation," was his summary, "but I will say this—I have always been a strong believer in the future of Canada, and I have no patience with pessimists of any sort, especially those who paint black pictures of the present or the future."

That the Protectionist policy now mooted will not be acceptable in Britain was the firm opinion of Lord Leverhulme.

Speaking of the policy of Protection as the dead horse of the Conservative Party for the past fifty years, Lord Leverhulme — who is strictly a trader, and a "Free Trader" at that, as he naively confessed — said it was his belief that Lloyd-George would again lead the Liberal Party which could not do without his leadership.

Nationalization of Mines Hodge's Plank.

LONDON, Nov. 25. —(Canadian Press Cable.)—Frank Hodges, secretary of the miners' federation of Great Britain is standing for parliament in this election for the first time.

PETERBORO BANDIT TRIED AT ORILLIA

Chief Newhall Said to Have Identified Man Who Held Up Miss Mervin — Called "Peg-leg" Perrin.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 26. — (Canadian Press). — Good work in this city last Wednesday was nicely rounded out last evening by the arrest of Russell Perrin, of Gowan Avenue, in Todmorden, on charges of robbery, burglary and shopbreaking, although "Peg-Leg" Perrin twice last week slipped through the meshes of the law.

Police allege he masqueraded in women's clothing.

While he was taken to Orillia this morning for trial, the city police have two charges against him of stealing autos.

Chief Newhall, of Peterboro, also alleges Perrin was one of the men who were recently given an exciting time by the young woman clerk at Peterboro.

Another charge of robbing a garage at Pontypool has been laid against Perrin, who was born and brought up in the vicinity of Lindsay.

Chief Newhall claims Perrin was in woman's clothing when seen at Peterboro.

INDIAN IMMIGRATION IS OPPOSED IN KENYA

Any Person Wishing to Bring An Employee Into Kenya Must First Satisfy the Immigration Officer.

LONDON, November 26. Canadian Press Cable. — The question of Indian immigration in Kenya which has raised such a storm in India, where the restrictions imposed in the African colony are warmly resented, has been carried a step further by a bill just published in Kenya, which, according to Reuter's Nairobi correspondent, aims at obtaining the desired object of restricting Indian immigration without making any racial distinctions.

Thus in addition to prohibiting immigrants who are without visible means of support and are likely to become charges upon the public from landing, the bill lays down that any person desiring to bring an employe into Kenya must first satisfy the immigration officer that he is unable to obtain a suitable employe in the colony, upon which a certificate will be granted. Any immigrant who is not possessed of a certificate will not be allowed to enter unless able to show hat he is a desirable immigrant and if necessary has the cash deposit required.

BETHANY LADIES HELD A BAZAAR

Christmas Bazaar by St. Paul's Church in the Town Hall.

BETHANY, Nov. 26.—The annual Christmas bazaar held by the ladies of the W.A. of St Paul's church, was on Saturday, Nov 24th, in the town hall The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion with streamers, penannts and evergreens The booths were very prettily arranged with the different articles articles for sale and were in charge of young ladies dressed to represent notables of fifty years ago. The booth containing fancy guest towels, shopping bags, boudoir caps, etc, was in charge of Mrs. McGrath and Mrs. Carscadden. The farmers' table, which contained preserved fruit, pickles, apples, chickens, cakes, etc., was in Mrs. Arthur Flack's capable hands and did a rushing business. Miss Annie Sisson had charge of the knitted wear, such as mittens, socks, etc. Miss Emily Preston and Mrs. Geo. Twigg had the sale of aprons, big, little and fancy of all designs. Miss Laura Morton and Miss Flo Smith were in charge of the booth containing Dutch dolls, fancy knitted sweaters, dainty pocket handkerchiefs, etc. Miss May Smith had charge of the fish pond which the children greatly enjoyed.

Miss Mae Magill and Miss Fireheller had charge of the home-made candy booth. Miss Magill's costume and make-up represented Mrs. Geo. Washington.

The tea room was in charge of Miss Lila Vance, Miss Hazel Swanson, Miss Violet Thompson and Miss Nellie Williams and other ladies, all in fancy costume. The tables were decorated with white and pink carnations and yellow chrysanthemums. The refreshments were dainty and appetizing and sufficient to satisfy the most hungry person present. Mr. J. J. Preston had his table near the door to receive the admission fee. Ice cream was on sale for those desiring it. Strains of music floated out from behind a bank of evergreens, by which the performers weer screened and created a festive feeling among those present. The performers were Mr. Kirkconnell of Lindsay, Miss Alice Ryley, Miss Kathleen McCartney and Miss Beryl Dafoe. Taken altogether this has been the most successful bazaar ever presented by these ladies. It was said the bazaar was getting better and better every year, which speaks well for workers and interest taken by them.

The Crow of Croup - A Warning To All Mothers

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat; after which the croup crow gives warning of the diseases. The child, after tossing restlessly about, will start up with a flushed face, protruding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expectoration of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.

On the first sign of the "croupy crow" mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permament relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this precaution.

Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with the croup and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it too highly for the relief it gave him."

DR. WALTER S. VERRALL DIED VERY SUDDENLY

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 26—(Canadian Press).—Dr. Walter S. Verrall, superintendent of the Toronto Orthopedic Hospital died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the office of Dr. W. H. Brydon at Brampton. Dr. Verrall was returning from Caledon when he suffered what he thought to be an attack of Indigestion. He was driving at the time and remained at the wheel until he reached the office of Dr. Brydon in Brampton. For a time he showed some improvement, but while Dr. Brydon was away making a professional call Dr. Verrall died unexpectedly.

FRENCH AIR ACE IN WAR NOW EXILE FOR RELIGION.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—The mystery concerning the disappearance after the war of one of the greatest French heroes, Bourgade, the aviator, who shot down 28 German machines, has been solved. Bourgade, one of the most decorated men in the army, has been discovered in New Guinea. He is a missionary, having joined a French religious order, taken the vows of poverty and exiled himself in one of the least known parts of the world to aid humanity.

ASQUITH AND GEORGE REVEAL REUNION ON PLATFORM AT PAISLEY

"Sincere Grief to Me That We Were Ever Separated," Confessed the Little Welshman at Formal Reconciliation — Conservatives Gain Confidence.

OPPONENTS DIVIDED

LONDON, November 26 (Canadian Press). — The most arresting feature thus far of the present election campaign occurred on Saturday night when a public formal reconciliation between Herbert H. Asquith and David Lloyd-George, after about seven years' estrangement, was staged at Paisley, where the two ex-Premiers, to every accompaniment of Liberal enthusiasm, appeared to speak on the same platform, in Mr. Asquith's constituency.

Premier Baldwin, it was remarked by those present, could scarcely have foreseen what seemed, but a few months ago, such an improbable event when he decided to dissolve Parliament and appeal to the country.

The Town Hall, the scene of the meeting, holds 3,000 people, but fully 10,000 struggled for admission.

The hall was uncomfortably crowded, but the discomfort did not prevent the gathering from giving the two statesmen tremendous ovations.

In introducing the speakers, the chairman said the marriage of the Liberal Party had been celebrated in London, but that the honeymoon was to be spent in Scotland.

Mr .Asquith, rising first, spoke rather briefly, remarking that he shared to the full the impatience of his constituents in awaiting Mr. Lloyd-George's address.

"In the presence of my Right Honorable friend and colleague," he added, "I may say that his presence here is conclusive and sincere evidence that we are all one."

Joy of Re-union.

Mr. Lloyd-George, replying, after a storm of cheers and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," said:

"It has been a deep and sincere grief to me that we ever separated. It is a real and sincere joy to me to find ourselves on the same platform and side by side in the same battle."

The remainder of his speech constituted an attack upon the Protectionist policy of the Government.

Mr. Lloyd-George had spoken earlier on Saturday at Glasgow, making his theme a severe attack on Premier Baldwin's foreign policy and a repetition of his strictures against the Premier for his share in funding the debt to the United States.

This he characterised as "a foolish settlement," insinuating that Mr. Baldwin had been bluffed by the United States.

This question of the funding of the debt is becoming rather a favourite subject for Mr. Baldwin's opponents, who elaborate on the theme that through it the British taxpayer is paying the United States income tax, this being a reference to the report of the probable reduction in the amount of that tax in the United States.

Conservatives Cheerful. ....

The end of the first week of electioneering found the Liberal and the Labour Parties if anything less confident, while the Conservatives are much more optimistic over their chances than they were on entering the campaign. This change of feeling is due to the now acknowledged fact that there is not the slightest chance of any agreement between the two Free Trade parties, Liberal and Labour, for the allocation of seats to avoid split votes and a three-cornered contest.

The Liberal organisers made a number of tentative overtures for a concordat, which have all been rejected by the Labourites, and the more frank among the Liberal newspapers are beginning sorrowfully to envisage the possibility of a repetition of the last general election and a victory for the Conservatives on a minority vote of the electorate.

Strong Opposition.

But even if the Conservatives were returned as the largest party in the House of Commons, justifying the retaining of the present Government in power, they would still probably be faced by tremendously strong opposition, consisting of Liberals and Labourites, both strongly committed to Free Trade, while there would be a number of Conservatives almost certainly elected on a Free Trade ticket; so that the Government would need to tread warily in its Protectionist policy.

Winston Churchill, who, with the exception of Lloyd-George, is the most picturesque figure in the election struggle, speaking at Leicester on Saturday, predicted that there would be thirty Conservative Free Traders elected, which, he explained counting sixty in a division, would almost wipe out the Government's majority of seventy in the last Parliament.

Both Mr. Churchill and Mr. Lloyd George continue to attack Labour.

Mr. Churchill declared that while the Protectionists would tax the poor, the Socialists would pillage the rich.

Baldwin's Warning.

Premier Baldwin, speaking on Saturday when he had been formally adopted as a candidate for the Bewdley Division of Worcestershire predicted that once Germany had recovered, Great Britain would be called upon to face exports from Germany in a mass exceeding anything ever known before. Obviously Great Britain would be Germany's easiest market, and whatever Government was in power in Great Britain would be obliged to take action . He warned his audience that panic legislation at such a time might play havoc with British industrial life.

Bootleggers in $2,000,000 Frauds Have Grip on Bankers, Says Offical

SYRACUSE, Nov. 26.— Charges that the "up-State bootleg ring" has defraunded the Federal Government of more than $2,000,000 in tthe last two months and thatit is sufficiently powerful to influence bankers to hinder Federal investigation, were made today by Internal Revenu, Collector Clarke.

He announced that Federal indictments against ten prominent Syracusans, reputed to have made fortunes through the sal, of liquor would be sought at the December term of the Federal Court at Utica. He added:

"Not only have the Syracuse bootleggers succeeded in cleaning up staggering sums, but we hold evidence that they partly control banks in this section. The bankers will not cooperate with us. They fear our investigation may deprive them of some of their wealthiest depositors."

Delight in this method of combating film on teeth

Whiter teeth have come to millions in the past few years. You see them everywhere. The dingy film which used to coat them is now combated daily.

Those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth. You will want them when you know. Learn how to get them by this simple test.

The cause is film

Film is the cause of cloudy teeth —that viscous film you feel. Under old methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats, which once were more common than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All of these troubles became alarmingly common under old methods of teeth cleaning.

Then dental science found two film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it, and now it is used the world over.

New requirements

Pepsodent meets other new requirements. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva—there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva—there to digest starch deposits.

Thus every use of Pepsodent gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

You'll quickly see

You will quickly see and feel these good effects. And you will realize what they mean to you and yours.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

The results will be a revelation to you. They will bring a new conception of clean teeth. Cut out coupon now.

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested, Dinwiddie declaring that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter, but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering manages to meet her, and she tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; that Mary is ill in a sanitarium in Vienna.

He does not believe her story and frankly tells her so. Each is aware of a more than passing interest in the other, Clavering, as time goes on, becoming as distraught over the affair that he goes for advice to his friend, Gora Dwight, who is just creating a stir with the publication of her first novel.

XV.

She was listening now as Clavering told her of his adventurous meeting with Madame Zattiany, of their subsequent conversations, and of his doubts.

"Are you sure she is not playing a part deliberately?" she asked. "Having her little fun after those horrible years? She looks quite equal to it, and a personal drama would have its attractions after an experience during which a nurse felt about as personal as an amputated limb. And while one is still young and beautiful—what a lark!"

"No. I don't believe anything of the sort. I fancy that if she didn't happen to be so fond of the theatre she'd have come and gone and none of us been the wiser. Her secret is sui generis, whatever it is. I've racked my mind in vain. I don't believe she is Countess Zattiany's daughter, nor a third cousin, nor the Countess Josef Zattiany. I've tried to recall every mystery story I ever read that would bear on the case, but I'm as much in the dark as ever."

"And you've thought of nothing else. Your column has fallen off."

"Do you think that?" He sat up. "I've not been too satisfied myself."

"You've been filling up with letters from your correspondents after the fashion of more jaded columnists. Even your comments on them have been flat. And as for your description of that prize fight last night, it was about as thrilling as an account of a flower show."

He laughed and dropped back. "You are as refreshing as a cold shower, Gora. But, after all, even a poor columnist must be allowed to slump occasionally. However, I'll turn her off hereafter when I sit down to my typewriter. Lord knows a typewriter is no Wagnerian orchestra and should be warranted to banish sentiment. . . . . Sentiment is not the word, though. It is plain raging curiosity."

"Oh, no, it is not," said Miss Dwight coolly, lighting another cigarette, which she carefully fitted into a pair of small gold tongs; neither ink nor nicotine was ever seen on those long artistocratic fingers. "You are in love with her, my child."

"I am not!"

"Oh, yes, you are. I've never been misled for a moment by your other brief rhapsodies—the classic Anne!—the demoniac Marian—but you're landed high and dry this time. The mystery may have something to do with it, but the woman has far more. She is the most beautiful creature I ever beheld and she looks intelligent and keen in spite of that monumental repose. And what a great lady!" Gora sighed. How she once had longed to be a great lady! She no longer cared a fig about it, and would not have changed her present state for that of a princess in a stable world. But old dreams die hard. There was no one of Madame Zattiany's abundant manifestations of high fortune that she admired more. "Go in and win, Clavey—and without too much loss of time. She'll be drawn into her own world here sooner or later. She confesses to being a widow, so you needn't get tangled up in an intrigue."

"You forget she is also a very rich woman. I'd look like a fortune hunter"——

"How old-fashioned of you! And you'd feel like nothing of the sort. The only thing that worries you at present is that you are trying to hide from yourself that you are in love with her."

"I wonder! I don't feel any ragin desire for her—that I can swear."

"You simply haven't got that far. The mystery has possessed your mind and your doubts have acted as a censor. But once let yourself go . . ."

"And suppose she turned me down—which, no doubt, she would do. I'm not hunting for tragedy."

"Oh, she looked the same when she was talking to Din and Osborne that night at dinner. She is merely a woman of the world who has had scores of men in love with her and is young enough to be interested in any young man who doesn't bore her. To say nothing of keeping her hand in. . . . But there is something else." He moved restlessly. "She seems to me to be compounded of strength, force, power. She emanates, exudes it. I'm afraid of being afraid of her. I prefer to be stronger than my wife."

"'Oh, no, it is not,' said Miss Dwight 'You are in love with her.'"

"Don't flatter yourself. Women are always stronger than their husbands, unless they are the complete idiot of man-crazy. Neither type would appeal to you. The average woman—all the millions of her—has a moral force and strength of character and certain shrewd mental qualities, however intellectual, that dominate a man every time. This woman has all that and more—a thousand times more. A mighty good thing if she would take you in hand. She'd be the making of you, for you'd learn things about men and women and life—and yourself—that you've never so much as guessed. And then you'd write a play that would set the town on fire. That's all you need. Even if she treated you badly the result would be the same. Life has been much too kind to you, Clavey, and your llittle disappointments have been so purely romantic that only your facile emotions have played about like amiable puppies on the roof of your passions. It's time the lava began to boil and the lid blew off. Your creative tact would get a ploughing up and a fertilizing as a natural sequence. Your plays would no longer be mere models of architecture. I am not an amiable altruist. I don't long to see you happy. I'm rather inclined to hate this woman who will end by infatuating you, for, of course, that would be the last I'd ever see of you. But I'm an artist and I believe that art is really all that is worth living for. I want you to do great work, and I want you to be a really great figure in New York instead of a merely notable one."

"You've both taken the conceit out of me and bucked me up. . . . But I want you to meet her, and I don't know how to bring it about. I have an idea that your instinct would get somewhere near the truth."

"Suppose I give a party, and, a day or two before, you ask her casually if she would like to come—or put it to her in any way you think best. Nobody calls these days, but I have an idea she would. People of that type rarely renounce the formalities. Then, if I'm really clever, I'll make her think she'd like to see me again and she will be at home when I return her call. Do you think you could work it?"

"It's possible. I've roused her curiosity about our crowd and I'll plant a few more seeds. Yes, I think she'll come. When will you have it?"

"A week from Saturday."

"Good. You're a brick, Gora. And don't imagine you'll get rid of me ever. If she is unique, so are you. This fireside will always be a magnet."

Miss Dwight merely smiled.

XVI.

Clavering walked rapidly toward Mr. Dinwiddie's club. He was in no haste to be alone with himself, although he should have been at his desk an hour ago. But it was time Dinwiddie had some news for him.

The club was deserted as far as he was concerned and he went on to Mr. Dinwiddie's rooms in Forty-eighth street. There he found his friend in dressing gown and slippers, one bandaged foot on a stool.

"Gout?" he asked with the callousness of youth. "Wondered why I hadn't heard from you."

"I've tried to get you no less than four times on the telephone."

"When I'm at work I leave orders downstairs to let my telephone alone, and I've been walking a lot."

"Well, sit down and smoke. Standing round makes me nervous. You look nervous yourself. Been working too hard?"

"Yes. Think of taking a run down to Florida."

"Perhaps I'll go with you. But I've something to tell you. That's the reason I called you up"——

"Well?"

"Don't snap my head off. Got a touch of dyspepsia?"

"No. I haven't. If you had to turn out a column a day you'd be nervous too."

"Well, take a vacation"——

"What have you found out?"

"It took me a week to get in touch with Harry Thornhill, but he finally consented to see me. He's lived buried among books for the last twenty years. His wife and two children were killed in a railway collission"——

"What the devil do I care about Harry Thornhill!"

"You're a selfish young beggar, but I would have cared as little at your age. Well—a cousin of his, Maynard Thornhill, did move to Virginia some thirty-five years ago, married, and had a family, then moved on to Paris and remained there until both he and his wife died. Beyond that he could tell me nothing. They weren't on particularly cordial terms and he never looked the family up when he went over. Has Madame Zattiany ever said anything about brothers and sisters?"

"Not a word."

"Probably married and settled in Europe somewhere, or wiped out. You might ask her."

"I'll ask her no more questions."

"Been snubbing you?"

"On the contrary, she's been uncommonly decent. I got rather strung up the last time I was there and asked her so many leading questions that she'd have been justified in showing me out of the house."

"You impertinent young scamp. But manners have changed since my day. What did she tell you?"

"Clavering stood up suddenly and looked down on Mr. Dinw iddie. 'Well?' he asked sharply.

"Nothing. I'm as much in the dark as ever. What have you found out about Josef Zattiany.?"

"Something, but not quite enough. I met an Austrian, Countess Loyos, at dinner the other night and asked her about the Zattianys. She said the family was a large one with many branches, but she had a vague idea that a Josef Zattiany was killed in the war. Whether he was married or not, she had no idea. . . ."

Clavering stood up suddenly and looked down on Mr. Dinwiddie, who was smiling less triumphantly than ruefully. "Well?" he asked sharply. "Well?"

"I see you've caught it. It's rather odd, isn't it, that this Austrian lady, who has lived her life in Viennese Society, knows nothing apparently of any young and beautiful Countess Zattiany? I didn't give her a hint of the truth, for I certainly shall not be the one to loose the bloodhounds on this charming young woman, whoever she may be. Told her that I recalled having met a very young and handsome countess of that name in Europe before the war and wondered what had become of her. . . . But somebody else may let them loose any moment. A good many people are interested in her already."

"Well, they can't do anything to her. She's a right to call herself whatever she likes, and she asks no favors. But I'd like to hypnotize Judge Trent and get the truth out of him. He knows, damn him!"

VARICOSE VEINS

Construction of the veins, which in many parts of the body are subject to surface pressure, causes varicose veins in many cases. Its beginning is hardly ever realized by the person who at some future time becomes the real sufferer.

Simply stated, varicose veins are enlargements or dilations of the veinous blood vessels through unnatural pressure and resultant weakened vein walls.

Persons who work in mills or factories, where they are almost constantly on their feet, seldom are troubled by varicose veins.

The cause is in lack of real physical condition and non-use of the muscles for real aid to the various circulation. Tight clothing, impeding the veins in their work, also causes this trouble.

Remember that the veins carry impure blood back to the purification plant, the heart and the lungs. They are under constant pumping and valvular pressure and, if constricted and impeded, become distended and weakened, showing after a time a swollen, thickened and torturous condition.

Begin life right. In your youth, assume and keep a body posture that does not weaken your muscles or impede proper circulation. Keep up some kind of exercising through middle life.

For sufferers, any mild exercise in walking or using the legs and feet will aid the muscles in helping the pressure on the veins to induce strengthening and proper circulation. Some relief may be afforded by rest or reclining with the feet elevated 15 or 20 minutes, a number of times each day.

Sometimes in extreme cases a rubber stocking may be used to prevent more serious trouble.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

There are times when nearly every woman wants "just something" to serve to a large group of women in the afternoon. The hostess without a maid may find even a cup of tea too much of an undertaking for a large number of guests and will prefer something that can be prepared and placed on plates ready to serve before the meeting begins.

Home-made candy is always appreciated but this involves hours of tedious as well as hard work, so why not serve one of the following delectable sweetmeats? These are about two bites more than candy but are quite rich and sweet enough to serve as a confection without tea.

This rule for "Hard Tack" will serve about thirty persons.

Hard Tack

Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 cup dates, 1 cup walnut meats, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1-8 teaspoon salt.

Beat eggs until light with a dover beater. Beat in sugar. Sift soda with flour and salt. Beat into first mixture. Add dates stoned and cut in small pieces, and nuts chopped or cut in small pieces. Mix well and spread very thinly on the bottom of a well oiled and floured dripping pan or cookie sheet. Bake twelve minutes in a hot oven. Remove from oven, cut in long narrow bars and let cool on the molding board.

Cocoanut Macaroons

Two eggs (whites), ¾ cup shredded cocoanut, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. Put in top of double boiler over hot water. When lukewarm add cocoanut, cornstarch and vanilla. Mix well and drop from a small spoon onto sheets of oiled paper. Bake in a slow oven until tops are lightly browned.

Hicksroons

One cup hickory nut meats, 1 cup light brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup flour; ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Pecans or English walnuts can be used instead of hickory nuts.

Chop nuts. Beat egg until very light with sugar. Add flour, salt, nut and vanilla. Mix well. Roll and cut with a tiny cutter or form into mall ball, and flatten with the fingers. Bake in a slow oven.

These confections have crackers for foundation. They require even less work than the two little nut affairs.

Fresh crisp oyster crackers are split in halves and filled with jelly, candied fruit, a plump stoned raisin or half a teaspoonful of rich vanilla butter cream. Put halves together and dip in melted confectioner's chocolate. The small sized oyster crackers make the daintiest affairs. Perfectly fresh marshmallows can be cut in quarters and used for fillings.

Saratoga flakes are spread with an egg mixture and browned in the oven to make a "Marguerite."

Marguerites

One egg (white) 3 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup chopped nut meats, ½ cup chopped and seeded raisins, 1-8 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Beat white of egg until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. Stir in nuts and raisins and spread on crackers. Bake in a hot oven until brown.

Another cracker goodie is made with marshmallows. Small square or round wafers are chosen for these. Cut marshmallows in halves. Put half a nut meat in the center of each wafer, cover with half a marshmallow and put in a hot oven or under the broiler to brown and puff the mallow. These are prepared, all but the browning, early in the day.

SUPPER WAS HELD IN THE LOCAL "Y"

The Feature of the Evening Was a Striking Address Given by Frank B. Slack of India.

The usual Friday evening supper was held in the Y.M.C.A. The feature of the evening was an address given by Frank B. Slack, national student secretary of India. Mr. Slack has spent some fourteen years in Y.M.C.A. work in India and has had intimate contact with all types of service carried on by the Y.M.C.A. He spoke on the work in Calcutta where John Watt, son of Dr. John Watt, general secretary of the International Committee of North America, is carrying on a special type of work for the industrial workers. The living conditions are terrible and one undertaking is the erection of a model village. Mr. Slack also spoke on the work in Madras where the Y.M.C.A. physical director is carrying on a school of physical training to which the Government sends many students each year. This director has been appointed manager and coach of the Olympic team which will compete in Paris next summer. This is the first team from India. The work of the students was described and the service rendered by the Y.M.C.A. hostel was emphasized. The speaker, in concluding his address, emphasized the thought that the members of the association both in Canada and United States considered it a great privilege of helping these boys of foreign lands who have such limited opportunities and terrible handicaps. The address was close with the quotation from a story written by a great Indian poet, illustrating the privilege of giving.

The attendance last evening was excellent, each one of the five departments of the Y.M.C.A. being well represented. Mr. Slack also addressed a meeting to the smaller boys at 8.15.

THE BIG SISTERS HELD A MEETING

Officers Elected for the Year With Mrs. J. Knox as President.

A meeting of the Big Sisters Society of Peterboro was held Friday evening in the board room at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, with a good attendance, despite the inclement weather. The president of the society, Mrs. J. Knox, presided.

The meeting was addressed by Miss Emily M. Mohr, of Toronto, general secretary in that city for the Big Sister movement. Miss Mohr, an interesting and eloquent speaker, gave a pleasing address, outlining the history of the Big Sister movement; and the progress of the work which is international in scope. In Toronto city, six trained social service workers, with a few clerical workers, are taking care of two hundred and eighty-eight girls.

Miss Mohr stressed the fact that the Big Sisters looked after girls who presented some problem, slight or serious, of conduct or behaviour. It was not rescue work that they were engaged in, and the speaker objected to the term of 'uplift' as applied to their work, also to the expression 'fallen girl.' It was to prevent the delinquency of girls under sixteen years of age that the society aimed. Their work dealt with girls who were in unfortunate environment, who were employed at too early an age, surrounded by bad influences, had no opportunity for fun at home, or desired and deserved further educational training.

Volunteer workers helped in the furtherance of the aims and objects of the society, helped by trained executives. The movement depended for its success on support from all sections of the community.

Reorganize Locally

A discussion with regard to reorganization of the local society took place, resulting in the appointment of officers, who will call a public meeting later, for the purpose of completing the organization and making plans for the winter's work. Mrs. J. Knox was appointed president once more; Mrs. W. G. Brown, secretary, and Mrs. B. McClellan, treasurer. An executive committee is composed of Mesdames W. R. Morris, Lawrence, D. O. Legendre, P. Grady, McQuaig, J. Fanning, E. Maybee, W. Darcey, M. T. Breckenridge, A.A. Perring, J. Welsh, Miss D. Langford and Miss Josephine Burry, representative for the Mothers' Allowance Commission.

LOOK! BOYS AND GIRLS! CAN YOU FIND TOM MIX?

In his latest and best picture, "The Lone Star Ranger," from the famous novel by Zane Grey, Tom Mix is pursued by Texas bandits and forced to hide from them. The bandits could not find Tom and his famous horse "Tony." Can you?

To-day, Tuesday, and Wednesday, The Examiner will print a portion of a picture of Tom and Tony. Just clip these parts out, save them, and paste them together in the way you think they ought to be placed to complete the picture, and you'll find Tom all right.

The first ten children bringing the picture properly pasted together to The Examiner Office will be given a free pass to the Capitol Theatre to see Tom Mix in "The Lone Star Ranger" next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

WHITEY NOSE TRIES A STUNT

"I declare to goodness!" he panted.

Whitey Nose Squirrel was sitting on top of a fence in Dixie Land when the Twins came along. He was puffing his cheeks and sucking them in, and puffing his sides out and drawing them in in the most excited manner.

"I declare to goodness!" he panted. "I've tried and tried but I can't do it. I tried it off a tree and nearly broke my neck and I tried it off a bush and fell flat, and now I've been practicing off the top of this fence and it's the same thing over again. I've stubbed my nose and knocked out a tooth, and I'm bruised all over."

"What is it you've been trying to do?" asked Nick as soon as he could get a word in edgeways.

"Fly," said Whitey Nose, much as though he were saying, "eat" or "sleep" or "run" or anything in the world that wouldn't take your breath away.

"Fly!" exclaimed the Twins in one breath.

"Yes," declared Whitey Nose. "I was trying to fly. I saw another squirrel do it, so why shouldn't I? I saw him fly from the top of a great high tree right down to the ground like a bird."

"Are you sure?" asked Nancy. "Maybe it was a bird. Perhaps you didn't see right."

"Bird!" exclaimed Whitey Nose. "Well, if it was a bird, it was a queer one; it had whiskers and a big bushy tail that curled up over its back and gray fur all over it. No, sir! It wasn't a bird any more than I am, and I haven't got a feather on me."

At that very minute there was a "Chirr! Chip! Chip!" right over their heads and right before their astonished eyes a fat furry figure floated down gracefully from the branch of a tree and landed on the ground.

"There! Didn't I tell you?" cried Whitey Nose dancing around on two legs.

"We—we were just talking about you!" said Nancy breathlessly to the newcomer. "We never knew that squirrels could fly! Where did you learn? In a circus?"

"Why, no! Nobody taught us," answered the curious fellow.

"Who is us?" asked Nick.

"My brothers and I. We always could."

"Fly up and let's see you do it again. Perhaps I could learn," begged Whitey Nose eagerly.

The squirrel shook his head. "No, I can't do that," he said. "When I want to go up a tree, I have to use my sharp claws and climb up same as you. I'll tell you a secret. I don't really fly at all! I jump! But the skin on my hind legs is joined to my sides in such a way as to make a sort of parachute and it lets me down easy. They do call us flying squirrels, but we don't fly at all."

"Wisht I could!" sighed Whitey Nose enviously.

"My goodness!" said Nick. "You ought to be glad you can climb. What would you do if you were a toad or a turtle?"

Whitey Nose laughed and ran off into the woods.

RUBBER RUGBY PANTS.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., November 26. — The rubber pants used by West Virginia University football layers here last Saturday, when St. Louis University was defeated on a muddy field, were designed and originated by Glenn Warner, coach of the University of Pittsburgh squad, according to C. W. Spears, head coach at West Virginia.

They are designed not to make the player slippery and elusive to would-be tacklers, but to shed the rain and prevent the matting of mud on the players.

Dr. Spears adopted them when the actual experiment showed that a pair of pants used on a muddy field weighs thirty pounds more after the game than they did before.

According to the West Virginia coach, Pitt and West Virginia are the only two schools in the country who keep these rubber pants as a regular part of their playing equipment.

There is a fly farm in London where the pests are deliberately bred, as a means, however, of studying methods of extermintaing the species.

Were the "Good Old Days" Really Good?

WHEN you hear an old-timer sigh for the days of his forefathers, smile quietly to yourself and think of this:

The ancients got along without automobiles, soap, stoves, tooth-brushes, window-glass, breakfast foods, telephones—without practically all of the things we consider the bare essentials of life.

There never has been a time when life bettered itself so rapidly and so consistently as now. New conveniences and new comforts are continually being thought out and brought out for your benefit.

In order to reap the advantages that are yours today, you must read the advertisements. They bring you news of all that the world of invention and discovery is doing to make your work easier, your home life more pleasant, your clothing and food problems less difficult. The Court of Christmas Gifts

T

CHRISTMAS is the station on the road of life where all trains stop for one day each year to feed the hearts of men. The Court of Christmas Gifts reveals its treasures in riotous splendour as the Christmas season approaches. Our customers of past years tell us they have learned that the Gift Shop never goes wrong. It may be something strictly useful, as an electric toaster or heater; purely decorative, as a gratifying picture in a harmonious frame, or again it may be one of the hundred articles that combine beauty with every-day utility—a lamp for instance, or a chair that invites to hours of luxurious ease when the day's work is done. Almost anything may be found in this Shop. Twice the space being used to that in former years, therefore everything is complete. If you are constantly looking for something new consult the Court of Christmas Gifts. We suggest that you take your Christmas list there some quiet morning before the crowds arrive and learn how pleasant gift shopping may be.

Mission Closes at All Saints

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when he shall appear we shall be like him for we shall see him as he is."

With these words for his text taken from I John 3:2, Ven. Archdeacon Perry spoke most inspiringly last evening to a very large congregation, at All Saints. The occasion marked the close of the parochial mission which has been in progress for the past eight days, and the discourse of the speaker fittingly pointed his hearers to the wonder and power of the Christian life.

"We are Sons of God NOW," says St. John; the wonder is one of present realization. Our lives may seem very petty to us. If so it is because we are not making the most of the divine-human relationship. Everyone of us has great power, which is not realized and used. We must be conscious of our wonderful potentiality as God's children. By waking up to a realization of our heritage our lives will become fuller and more satisfying than they have ever been.

Moreover it doth not yet appear what we SHALL be." We have little conception of the extent of the divine reservation—the things that God is waiting to give us. Even the Christian is not what he is capable of becoming. As we look at life we ought not to be discouraged. If we are in loving, saving, relationship with God our present condition is but the promise or what is yet to be revealed to us. Speaking of death a great Christian once said, "I look forward to it with great and reverent curiosity." God's universe is so big, so full of promise, so inexhaustible in its reserve!

We have assurance of what the end shall be. WE KNOW. "We know that we shall be like Him." Jesus is God's guarantee of future manifestation in us. The stature of the God man is the goal of every one of the children of God.

The sermon was resonant with the spirit of optimism, and constituted a fitting climax to the preacher's endeavours throughout the mission, to inspire his hearers to new consecration.

Archdeacon Perry's last words were in the form of a personal appeal for immediate decision on the part of everyone of his hearers.

Amid a silence that was felt, and and which evidenced the effect of his words, he challenged each to dedicate his life to the Saviour and to take his place among the children of God.

The Rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb, took occasion to express his appreciation of the series of services during mission week, commenting upon the wonderful way in which the attendance and interest had been sustained, and thanking the missioner, on behalf of all, for the spiritual uplift which he had given to the parish.

At an informal gathering in the school room after the service, many were enabled to meet Archdeacon Perry, and express their personal appreciation of the mission, while the Peoples' Warden, Mr. R. J. Bolton, interrupted the happy family gathering by a little ceremony which came as a great surprise to the Archdeacon. On behalf of the congregation he asked him to accept a small case containing a gold fountain pen, and Eversharp pencil, each beautifully engraved, as a memento of his visit and as a very slight token of apreciation. In a felicitous reply Archdeacon Perry expressed not only his thanks but also the joy which his visit to All Saints' had brought to himself. He also wished every blessing for Rector and people.

GOOD SERVICES AT BETHANY TABERNACLE

Norman Greenway of Toronto, Was Present For Occasion.

The services at the Bethany Tabernacle on Sunday were of a special musical character, being taken by Brother Norman Greenway, of Toronto, a gifted violinist, who not only gave two stirring addresses on the old-time Gospel, but gave several excellently rendered solos on violin, of which he is master. The evening service was particularly well attended, and Mr. Greenway took for his subject, "A Crowd of Girls in the Dark," his text being taken from Matthew 25, the crowd of girls being the five foolish virgins who had no oil in their lamps. After a masterly talk on the subject, Mr. Greenway gave the audience several examples of his wonderful talent on the violin, which kept them interested until nearly nine o'clock. His beautiful rendering of "There Were Ninety and Nine" was appropriate, and was skilfully executed. He was accompanied by Miss Mabel Collins on the piano. The singing was heartily enjoyed and went with a swing and joyfulness (accompanied by the small five-piece orchestra) which will not easily be forgotten.

BRITISH SCHOONER WAS SEIZED OFF NEW JERSEY

LONDON, Nov. 26. — If the schooner Tomako, seized by United States' authorities off the New Jersey Coast, is proved to be a British ship with her papers in order, the British government will probably lodge a formal protest to Washington against her seizure outside the three mile limit, it was stated here to-day.

As yet the British Foreign Office has received no report regarding the Tomako incident from the Embassy in Washington. There is considered no likelihood of the seizure becoming an International incident.

The United States possesses 40 per cent of the world's railroad mileage.

The British Elections

(By WICKHAM STEED)

(By Wickham Steed, former editor of the London Times, Editor Review of Reviews. Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act, 1923.)

LONDON, November 26. — Nature has taken a hand in the electoral symbolism. A thick fog has covered the greater part of England since Saturday The movements of candidates and canvassers are being impeded, yet the stream of oratory still pours over the patient telegraph wires, filling endless columns with print The meetings everywhere are crowded. Public interest is far keener than last year. The electors are anxious for instruction and want facts. They care nothing for rhetoric. The difficulty is to find facts. The Prime Minister and other Conservative spokesmen have singled out two trades to prove the necessity of protection—the iron and steel trade, and the automobile industry. The former they declare is languishing, and the latter flourishing, thanks to the 33 per cent import duty on foreign touring cars. Baldwin stated that the French and the Belgian iron masters can undersell British steel by two pounds. The managing director of a big iron company in Birmingham replies that this is sheer nonsense. The last eight months figures show indeed that iron and steel imports from Belgium, France and Germany are stationary or decreasing, and actually two-thirds less than in 1913. On the other hand British touring automobiles are suffering from successful foreign competition, whereas the imports of motor lorries —which are not protected—are decreasing rapidly. These phenomena are probably due to factors other than the presence or absence of protection but hitherto no party has produced figures striking enough to convince doubtful voters.

Lord Rothermere issued yesterday a personal manifesto in the Sunday Pictorial, of which 2,000,000 copies are sold each week. He declares that he himself is protectionist, but he urges that free trade should have one more chance, because the foundations of the British fiscal system ought not to be changed in a three weeks' election campaign on a vague issue. During the life of the new Parliament, which cannot last more than twelve to fifteen months, practical measures for protection should be carefully studied, he declares, in order to enable the country to make up its mind how to vote the next time. He believes that imperial preference cannot solve the difficulties of Great Britain. He proposes to allow only British built and owned ships to carry British coal overseas, relieve from local taxation factories engaged in export trades, spend five million pounds annually on developing cotton growing within the empire, but a ten per cent. standard duty on all imported manufactures, except those from the Dominions and India, besides a prohibitive duty on foreign automobiles, 25 per cent duty on foreign boots, cutlery, textiles, machinery, and 50 per cent. duty on foreign watches and jewellery.

Since Premier Baldwin will be able to do all these things if he gets a majority for a general tariff, Lord Rothermere's opposition to the government seems factious or inspired by personal reasons.

In the London Observer J. L. Garvin writes that though nominally a Conservative, Lord Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrooke are trying to crab Baldwin because they hope that Lloyd George at the head of a queer coalition than before will be a prisoner of their trustiiied press. "That," says Garvin, "may easily become in its way an issue as big as the levy on capital."

The week-end speeches have been uninspiring. Baldwin hammered away in his blunt downright style urging the need to arm the government against the German and other foreign dumping of manufactures, predicting that the common people of Britain are going to win a great victory for themselves in this soldiers' battle.

Asquith and Lloyd George on the same platform at Paisley were wildly cheered. Lloyd George asserted that the restoration of peace in Europe was only remedy for British unemployment.

He challenged the tariff reformers to deny that British exports under free trade are greater proportionately to output than those of any other country and that British shipping is incomparably greater, wages higher, credit better and the necessaries of life cheaper than anywhere else. Asquth ridiculed protection, denouncing Baldwin's policy as the first step down a steep hill towards a fatal morass.

Asquith's chances against the labor candidate at Paisley are doubtful. Winston Churchill is in difficulties in Leicester

Other prominent Liberals also are in danger because the Labor party insists on putting up candidates everywhere possible to split anti-Conservative votesin order to retain for Labor the position of the second strongest party in Parliament. Two hundred of these three cornered fights are going on. The Tories do not dislike these tactics because they think the issue in future lies between Conservatism and Labor. They reckon also that some sections of the Labor party, especially the trade unions, are more amenable to protection than are the Liberals. All the parties pretend they are gaining ground, but no impartial judge yet ventures any forecast. Scotland apparently is going towards the Liberals, who are likely to divide the Scottish seats with Labor. England and Wales are more uncertain. The Conservatives are tending to make the Rothermere and Beaverbrook campaign against Baldwin the foremost issue, claiming that Baldwin is an honest man independent of press trusts and politico-personal coalitions. The indirect support of the press trust is undoubtedly damaging the Liberals and inducing many to vote Tory who would otherwise abstain or vote Liberal.

Candidates of all parties were nominated to-day, 38 Tories, 10 Liberals, and 6 Laborites being returned unopposed.

FIELDING GETS GREAT OVATION

Political Leader Honored at Birthday Party at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Nov. 26.— (Canadian Press).— In addition to the cablegram read at the Banquet tendered to Hon. W. S. Fielding, on the occasion of his 75th birthday, Saturday night, Premier King sent the following message from the Liner Montclare to Mr. Fielding.

"Heartiest congratulations on celebration of your seventy fifth birthday anniversary."

Features of the banquet were a thirty pound birthday cake elaborately decorated with 75 candles, and an art engraved menu measuring about 12 by 15 inches with engravings of Nova Scotia and Dominion Parliament buildings and photo of Mr. Fielding, and having on it an inscription, "Hail to the Chief who in triumph advances."

Not in the memory of anyone present had there ever been in Nova Scotia such a demonstration of personal affection for a political leader.

For five minutes, the great company consisting of 250 dinner guests on the floor of the dining hall and scores of others crowding corridors and orchestra balcony, saluted their illustrious, venerable, fellow countryman. For five minutes, the "Little Grey Man" stood bowing before the tidal wave of cheers which swept toward him.

He said, no words I can employ can fittingly express the thanks I owe. It wouud be a strange thing indeed to receive these evidences of your friendship and confidence and not respond to them. So from the bottom of my heart I give you my sincerest thanks."

"I do not want to treat this entirely as a liberal function for among the many congratulations which I have received to-day, from all parts of the country there are evidences that many with whom we do not agree politically desired to do me hon our on this occasion. Therefore, I want you to forgive me if I say little in a party sence, and indulge in reminiscences.

NEXT YEAR SHE'LL KISS WITH FLAVOR YOU LIKE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. —By this time next year, lip stick makers forecast, it will be possible to recognize a girl by the flavour of her kiss.

Perfumes plan to flavour next year's lip sticks with strawberry, cherry, peach pomegranate and other "red taste."

Orange, lemon, cinnamon and such classified as being other than "red tastes," will not be used.

U.F.O. COMPANY HAD HEAVY LOSS

The Shareholders of Company Announeed Saturday That Their Net Loss for Last Year Was $161,-146.66.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—In closing out unprofitable branches of its business the U.F.O. Co-opertaive Company, Limited, suffered last year a net loss of $161,-146.66, according to the annual financial statement mailed to shareholders on Saturday. Of the $875,107.50 paid up capital with which the firm entered the retail store business, there now remains but $269,140.76. Yet there is a note of optimism running through the directors' letter to the shareholders. "The company is now on a sound foundation," they state, "the unprofitable features are being eliminated and the departments now in operation provide the nucleus of a co-operative enterprise, the possibilities of which are unlimited. We look forward with the utmost confidence to being in a position to recoupe our losses in the very near future."

OSHAWA NEWSPAPER ENTERS DAILY CLASS

Parks Board Rejects Tenders For New Grand-Stand.

OSHAWA, Nov. 26.—The Oshawa Telegram entered the daily newspaper field Thursday, when it put out its first copy on the streets as the Daily Telegram, the first daily newspaper ever published in this town.

Tenders Were Rejected.

At a meeting of the Parks Board tenders were opened from nine contractors for the new grandstand to be erected in Alexandra Park at the approximate cost of $25,000. As only one of the tenders covered the full work desired they were rejected, and new tenders will be called.

Plan Christmas Fair.

A large attendance of merchants and business men decided to revive the "Christmas Fair," at a meeting held in Oshawa. The Fair will probably be held in the Armouries about the middle of December.

Increase in Building.

Oshawa reports an increase over September's building returns, although the volume for October, 1923, is below that of October, 1922. In October this year permits totalled $97,330 as compared with $74,870 for September.

To Open New Greenhouse.

Oshawa has a new industry in a $7,500 greenhouse just erected at 151 Park Road North, by Russell Perkins. The formal opening took place Saturday, when every lady visitor was presented with an American Beauty rose.

Young, Pretty, Wealthy—and She Wants a Hubby

GLORIA FOY.

DETROIT, Nov. 26.—Hey, fellows!

Wealth, happiness and a beautiful wife—

Some young man will win all three if he can convince Gloria Foy, 22-year-old heiress, that he would make her a desirable husband. And furthermore, keep her so convinced for 10 years.

Miss Foy, once an understudy of Marillyn Miller and now a star of current musical attraction, has received $1,500,000 through the will of her uncle, Richard Foy, wealthy coffee planter of Rio de Janeiro.

She gets a third of it immediately. The next half million is hers only if she marries before she is 25. And the third and last installment comes ten years from her wedding day, if she and her husband still are living togther happily.

And she says she hasn't a prospect in the world.

BANK OF MONTREAL ISSUES ANNUAL REPORT

Total Assets Stand at $692,382,109 of Which Liquid Assets Are $391,221,832, Equal to 62.55 Per Cent. Liabilities to Public—Substantial Gains in Deposits.

The Annual Report of the Bank of Montreal for the fiscal year to October 31st, is now going forward to shareholders.

The total assets reported are $692,-382,109, as compared with $655,608,-249, at the end of the half year period and $637,351,168 one month ago. This increase is evidently due in part to the deposit of Dominion Government funds resulting from the Government Loan which was placed with the public shortly before the end of the Bank's year.

Of the total assets of $692,382,109 liquid assets amount to $391,221,837 equal to 62.55% of liabilities to the public and included in these liquid assets are cash on hand represented by gold and silver coin and Dominion notes equal to 13.41% of public liabilities.

The value of Dominion and Provincial Government securities now stands at $62,185,030, as compared with $44,779,182 at the end of the half year. Other accounts include Canadian Municipal securities and British Foreign Colonial and Public securties of $37,601,758 compared with $35,192,972; cheques on other banks $41,298,174, compared with $21,656,980.

The general business of the Bank has been well maintained the total loans standing at $276,968,486 compared with $275,848,086. The principal account is, of course the current loans and discounts in Canada, these now standing at $236,656,924 against $230,135,636.

Inrease in Deposits.

The deposits of the Bank have shown substantial gains and now stand at $579,056,783, compared with $548,572,174. Of this amount deposits not bearing interest are $158,695,407, up from $135,209,015., and deposits bearing interest $420,360,-375, up from $413,353,158. The notes of the Bank in circulation are $41,602,735 up from $39,236,021.

The profit and loss account shows profits for the year, after deducting charges of management and making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts of $4,496,416. equal to 16.50% on capital, and 8.15% on capital, rest and undivided profits.

To the profits of the year there was added $558,815. brought forward from the previous year and this made a total amount available for distribution of $5,055,232. This was applied as follows: Regular dividend and bonus $3,815,000 provisions for taxes Dominion Government $530,650. reservation for bank premises $50,000 making a total of $4,395,650. and leaving the amount to be carried forward at $659,582.

JOKER KILLED BY HIS VICTIM

Blows Out Smoker's Match--Victim of Frank Draws Gun and Shoots to Kill.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 26. — It was the playful blowing out of a match that led to the killing here of Harvey Bell, 37 years old, 2568 Seyburn Avenue, and the wounding of Mrs. Sabra Murch, 917 Marcy Street, according to Dennis Joyner, who is under arrest as a witness.

Joyner and Bell worked together as painters and decorators. After work Friday each had a few drinks in a blind pig near Third Avenue and Brainard Street. They were standing at the corner when a stranger came up, paused and started to light a cigarette. Bell blew out the match. Denoupcing him, the stranger lighted another match, which was also blown out by Bell.

The stranger reached for his pocket, and Bell knocked him down. He arose with a pistol in his hand.

Shot During Chase.

"You can't pull a gun on me," said Bell, stepping toward him.

The stranger ran and Bell pursued. Three times the fugitive fired at him. The first shot passed close to Frank Bogan, and shattered the windshield of an automobile at the curb. The second entered Mrs. Murch's right foot. The third hit Bell between the eyes, killing him almost instantly.

The slayer disappeared in the darkness.

Overcome by her husband's death, Mrs. Bell is being cared for by neighbors.

Room-Mate Held.

Joyner was arrested in his home a short time later. His room-mate, Robert Autwis, 32 years old, was also taken into custody.

Mrs. Murch is in Receiving Hospital.

Mrs. Murch was returning home with her nephew, Mahlon Brady. Her son, Wilson, is blind. He works as a pianist in a moving picture theatre.

For nearly a year, Mrs. Murch has nightly taken her son to work and has called for him after the show was over. Friday night, she permitted another member of the family to escort the blind boy while she went with her nephew to look at an automobile.

WAITED FOUR YEARS AND FOUND HIS MAN

Looked for Four Years for Thief of $4,000--Caught Him Last Friday.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 26. — Joseph J. Sikorski believes he is better equiped to face the world than most men. He says he possesses what few men do, a woman's intuition.

Four years ago when Joseph roomed on the East Side with Marcell Kulesza, he decided to take a flyer in real estate. One night he came home with $4,000 with which he was to make an initial payment on a lot. The money he placed in his bureau drawer. When Joseph awakened next morning, Kulesza and the $4,000 were gone.

Joseph refused to seek the aid of the police. Instead—

"Something in the back of my mind told me to wait," he declared. "It was a hunch, but it was so strong that I could not disregard it. Months passed and it grew stronger. It seemed as if a small voice was saying to me: 'Wait, and you will find him yourself.'"

So Joseph waited. For four years he searched the crowds on the streets as they passed, hoping to get a glimpse of Kulesza's face. Many times he was discouraged, and turned toward the Chene station to make a report of the theft, but the 'hunch' always turned him back.

Last Friday, Joseph ran into Kulesza on Chene Street. He grabbed his man, holding him until Chene police, who had been summoned by a bystander, arrived. They charged the prisoner with larceny. Friday Joseph obtained a warrant signed by Judge John Faust.

"Everything comes to him who waits," Joseph concluded.

The King cobra is the only reptile that will attack everything it meets.

COUNTY WANTS A NEW BRIDGE CHEMONG LAKE

ominion and Provincial Governments Will Be Asked to Share the Costs.

STRICKLAND RETIRES

At the County Council session which concluded on Saturday the retirement of J. C. Strickland of Lakefield was regretfully noted.

Mr. Strickland referred to the harmany and concentrated efforts of the County Council during the period that he represented Lakefield.

W. N. Jones of Havelock also retired. Both of these men have sold their properties in their respective districts.

A grant of $500.00 was made by the County Council on application of a deputation toward the Salvation Army Maternity Hospital.

The village of Lakefield has been elevated to a High School section, and three trustees were appointed by the County. They are James Ridpath, Dr. S. J. Gibson, and Mrs. Wm. Graham. It is believed that there will be sufficient accommodation for the High School pupils without the erection of a High School building at the present time.

Want New Bridge.

Following discussion at length and an interview with W. H. Bradburn, M.L.A., the County Council decided to ask for the erection of a new bridge on the site of the famous floating bridge now spanning Chemong Lake near Bridgenorth. Their resolution declared that the Chemong Bridge is over half a mile long as a result of te Dominion Government harnessing the waters tributary to Mud Lake for general public purposes, and the present bridge is not adequate to carry the necessary traffic.

Council suggested that steps be taken to have the bridge rebuilt, on condition that the Dominion Government subsidise the County for the purpose in a grant of $120,000, and that the Provincial Government under the Highways system, contribute to the 40 per cent., together with a substantial grant.

CLARENCE TOPPING ON MURDER CHARGE

One of His Victims Died Over the Week-end.

LONDON, Ont., November 26 (Canadian Press). — Clarence Topping, aged 23, who wounded Geraldine Durston, aged 18, last Friday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cook, where the girl boarded, because she refused to continue his courtship, will be formally charged with murder when he appears in the Police Court next Friday, according to Crown officials.

It is not likely that Topping will be brought before the magistrate until his week's remand is up.

The inquest into the death of the girl will be held the same evening.

Topping was informed of the death of Miss Durston to-day. He broke down and cried when the information was imparted to him, and he appeared to be on the verge of a complete collapse, jail officials stated.

Relatives are permitted to see him, but are not allowed to discuss the case with the prisoner.

Violet McNaughton, who was seriously wounded in the shooting, is reported by the Victoria Hospital physicians to be in an improved condition. She has a slight fever, the doctors state, and it is feared that pneumonia may set in. She is putting up a game battle for life, and the fact that she has passed the shock stage is taken as a hopeful sign.

Detectives have now three of the reputed five bullets fired in their possession. There are two yet to be located, one being the .38 calibre missile fired by Police Constable Harper.

The doctors are of the opinion that there are no more bullets in Miss McNaughton's body.

A further search for the remaining pellets is being made in the bedroom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cook, where the shooting occurred.

The three bullets recovered are .25 calibre, and were fired from Topping's revolver.

MOONLIGHT SONATA FOR BAND CONCERT

A Splendid Effort Next Sunday by Mr. R. J. Devey.

The 'Moonlight Sonata' by Beethoven, will appear on the programme of the Peterborough Rangers 'band at their concert next Sunday night, Dec. 2, in the Grand Opera House.

This Sonata is as widely played, and as passionately loved, as any of Beethoven's piano works. It is one of his most original productoins. (Groves). The "Scherzo," (Second Movement) was made the subject of a wonder girl painting by A. C. Michael, "wherein a troop of glimmering fairy forms come dancing through the midnight forest."

The Sonata will be played by Mr. R. J. Devey on a pianoforte kindly lent from the Heintzman Co. store by Mr. Hutchinson, local manager.

Henry Ford's company paid more than $50,000,000 in Federal taxes in 1921. Because of the abolition of the excess profits tax it paid only $16,000,000 in 1922.

El Paso Sleeps Better

Nights are far more comfortable in El Paso now. Have been since the war on mosquitoes got going good. Here is one of the city's fighters spraying crude oil on water to smother the larvae. And there is a municipal fish hatchery, too. It provides millions of tiny "Gambusia" fry that eat billions of the larvae.

JOKESMITH HAS BEEN AT LARGE

Roland Denne Given a Meagre Bill of Fare for Mayoralty.

That Roland Denne is willing to run in the mayoralty contest in Peterboro' on a platform in which the principal planks are increase of the tax rate and longer hours for employees in civic offices, is the statement appearing in a Toronto paper Friday night. Shown the article in an interview by The Examiner, Mr. Denne laughed heartily at the meagre platform given him to stand on.

The article in question, recounting how Mr. Denne was defeated in a three-cornered fight for parliamentary honors, says on good authority there are five business men who have expressed a willingness to run for for aldermen should Mr. Denne run for mayor. Mr. Denne had not, up to this morning, learned the names of these five business men, "We haven't picked them yet," he smilingly declared.

The Toronto article remarked that Mr. Denne would try for a higher tax rate of about two mills, believing that the extra taxes paid by factories with fixed assessments will more than make up the added taxes to ratepayers and at the same time materially reduce the outstanding liabilities of the city. "He will also ask," says the article, "that employees in civic offices begin work at eight instead of nine o'clock, or in a word, work as they would in any business office."

Mr. Denne told the story to visitors in his store this morning as a good joke.

FORM ONTARIO BRANCH.

On Friday night last in Toronto a big step was taken by the Silver Black Fox breeders of Ontario when an Ontario branch of their association was formed. This new branch will be called the Ontario Branch of the Canadian Silver Black Fox Breeders Association, and John Patte of Gilmour street, manager of the Patte & Wolff ranch at Chemong was appointed a director. The head office of the Association is in Summerside, P.E.I.

PROTECTING THE

those who were discovered to be susceptible could be made immune by harmless injections of toxin anti-toxin. Susceptibility was greatest among children and eighty-five per cent. of the deaths from diphtheria were of children under five years of age. Eighty per cent. of adults were immune, and Dr. McNair pleaded that the children be given the same protection by means of toxin anti-toxin as was enjoyed by their elders.

President V. J. McElderry, who was in the chair, called attention to the Rotary-annes rose ball to-morrow night, and also reported that the survey of the city in regard to the crippled children had been completed. He expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to the Rotary-annes, the wives of the Kiwanis Club members, the Big Sisters and other ladies who had given splendid assistance in securing this most valuable information.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the ladies.

Among the guests to-day were Dr. N. H. Sutton, district officer of health; Mr. R. F. Downey and Capt. Mert Plunkett of the "Dumbells." Capt. Plunkett led the club in the singing of "Way Down Yonder in the Corn Field," and then sang most delightfully a little darky lullaby that was enthusiastically received. Capt. Plunkett's kindness was much appreciated by the Rotarians.

FIVE MEN GET

battle between Chief Newhall and men who were endeavouring to break into the home of Lieut.-Col. Ackerman has been cleared up by information elicited in evidence, of the mysterious "wine colored" car, the "woman in the case," and other features. The wine colored car was a big maroon car, the woman was Perrin in disguise, the hat found in an automobile here was one discarded by him, and the "scappo" which Chief Newhall heard as he challenged the men, was Italian, both the Andersons being of Italian descent. It is supposed that Perrin remained in the stolen Chevrolet car on Gilmour street while the battle was waged between Chief Newhall and the other desperadies, citizens declaring to the police that they saw a car of that description with a lady driver at that time.

Interviewed this morning regarding the action Peterborough police will take with reference to the escapades of these men in the city, Chief Newhall said that on their release they will be brought here to answer charges for which warrants have already been issued. One of the charges will be "shooting with intent to kill."

Farmer Fooled Them.

Turning against each other as the prison sentences loomed closer, the gang on Saturday gave evidence which pieced together, shows a long train of crimes in which life was often threatened. After stealing the gas in Peterborough, when they broke the tank at the corner of Charlotte and Park streets, and another tank, they went to Elmvale, in Floss township, where they held up Lorne Draper, a farmer. Perrin and Mrs. Smith, it is said, went out to find "easy money," leaving their companions in a restaurant. On their return they said they had found a farmer who owed them $100 adding they knew that he had $300. Travelling to Draper's farm they awoke him and asekd the way to a garage, saying that their gasoline was nearly done. Draper wishing to oblige them, said he would give them some. He dressed and came downstairs. Walking to the automobile he kept his right hand in his pocket, where he had $285, and carried a lantern in his left hand. He had $85 in his left hand pocket. On nearing the car William Anderson appeared with a rifle and ordered Draper to put his hands up. Draper complied, but as he drew his right hand out of his pocket, he brought with it the $285, and in elevating his hand flicked the money into the darkness where it fell unseen. The bandits found the $85, tied Draper to a wagon wheel, gagged him, put a sack over his head and one stood over him with a stick while the other rifled the house. The man left to guard him grew suspicious of the others and left to watch them. Draper worked his hands free, untied himself and went to the house, entering by one door as the bandits left by another. He seized a shot and fired just as Anderson raised his rifle to shoot him. The birdshot entered Anderson's head, blowing his cap off. The bandits brought their car around, threw the wounded man in, and made off, leaving Draper to pick up his money and Anderson's rifle and cap.

Admitted Crimes.

The gang admitted, it is said, the Campbellcroft burglary, committed after they had eluded Chief Newhall in a fog, and Wilde pleaded guilty to the Coldwater burglary.

It was found that Perin made use of the "smoke screen" in making his get-away from pursuers. When closely pursued he threw out a cloud of smoke that blotted his license number and made it difficult to follow him.

Chief Newhall picked one of the men from a party of seven, and the other from a party of four for identification purposes.

Perrin was arrested, it is believed, as a result of a description and information furnished the Toronto police by Chief Newhall on Saturday night.

WASHINGTON, Nov .26.—(United Press.)— Three treaties will be asked of the Canadian goverament by the United States in the conference to prevent liquor smuggling which begins to-morrow at Ottawa, it was learned here to-day.

THEATRES

"JUST MARRIED."

From the moment "Robert Adams" staggered up the gangway of the Atlantic steamer "Le Fayette" with a "jag" of pre-war proportions until the final curtain, there was not a dull moment in the action of "Just Married," the effervescent farce comedy which was the attraction at the Grand on Saturday. "Just Married" was written by Adelaide Matthews and Anna Nicholls, who have succeeded in draping most entertaining dialogue around a very clever plot, with the result that the farce is 100 per cent. effective from a laughing standpoint. The centre figure is the aforesaid Adams who, under the influence of too large a quantity of champagne at his brother's wedding, conceives the idea of going on a honeymoon "all by himself." He arrives on board the La Fayette and immediately lands into a bushel of trouble in which he involves himself and half the people on board, including a pair of honeymooners, an engaged couple and a married duo whose honeymoon days have long since waned. A night spent in the wrong stateroom causes most of the difficulty and incidentally a large share of the fun so far as the audience is concerned. It all ends happily, of course, but before the blissful ending there is a series of highly diverting complications that keep the audience convulsed.

The company at the Grand Saturday was a thoroughly adequate one. George E. Snyder, who played the part of Robert Adams, proved one of the most amusing and cleverest comedians seen here in a long time. As the intoxicated Adams of the first act and the worried Adams of the last two, he was irresistibly funny.

Miss Ruth Thomas was excellent as the girl in the case. Constance Cameron shone as the bride and Lilian Paige scored heavily as Mrs. Whittier. George W. Paige gave a convincing portrayal of the part of the hen-pecked husband, and the other roles were well looked after. The stage settings were in keeping with the standard of the comedy and the excellence of the acting.

"CHEERIO" IS LATEST "DUMBELLS" REVUE.

"Cheerio" is the snappy title which so accurately describes Captain Plunkett's fifth annual "Dumbells" revue, which comes to the Grand tonight.

In order to make "Cheerio" the best of all his former overseas revue, the captain arranged to borrow Canada's foremost comedian, John Hagan, from the George Edwardes Company. Mr. Hagan is an old time professional. Because he is a Canadian he gave up a starring engagement in New York 'way back in '14 and joined the army.

When the divisional concert parties were formed over in France, Hagan was given carte blanche with the "C. 2's" or "See Too's", as they were called, and they still say that he was the funniest thing in France and Flanders. At all events he made such a hit entertaining the troops that the George Edwards Company had him tied up with a long contract almost as soon as the echo of the last shot had died away.

For the past four years he has been the featured comedian of the Daly's theatre productions such as "The Lady of the Rose" and the star of the George Edwardes revue, "Whirled Into Happiness."

The cast of "Cheerio" includes, in addition to Ross Hamilton, Al. Plunkett and John Hahan, all the favorites of the "Carry On" show. Among them being Stan. Bennett, Pat. Rafferty, Ben Allen, Jack Grace, T. J. Lilly, Morley Plunkett and the genial Captain Plunkett, himself—and his overseas orchestra.

BRINGING UP FATHER

To the millions of friends, admirers and Canadians, who have followed the adventures of Jiggs Mahoney, the George McManus comics, will be pleased no doubt with the announcement that a new "Bringing Up Father" play will be the next attraction at the Grand theatre commencing Friday, Nov. 30th. The piece which is in two acts and five scenes is entitled to "Bringing Up Father On Broadway." All the beloved characters, to even Maggie, who still has lofty social aspirations, will appear in the flesh. They will be impersonated by a carefully selected cast, augmented by a beauty chorus of twenty young women. The latest chroniclings and adventures of the Mahoney "Clan" takes "The Gang" as "Father" is pleased to call them, to extreme, portions of the globe; even as far as King Tut's tomb. The fun is kept at top speed throughout and the song hits along with other surprises, features, novelties and laugh-compelling situations add to the gayety of the occasion. Matinee on Saturday.

AT THE REGENT.

100 High School Graduates Help To Make "A Noise in Newboro"

Graduation night in the auditorium of the old high school back near the farm is shown in Viola Dana's newest starring picture for Metro, "a Noise in Newboro" now at the Regent Theatre. The best thing about this particular episode according to Harry Beaumont who produced this Edgar Franklin story, is that it was possible to cut short the speeches of the head of the Board of Education, the Mayor, Principal, leading students and others who invariably clutter up the program at such an event.

Whether clothes make the man is still an undecided question but in "A Noise in Newboro" it is easily apparent that clothes make the woman. Gone are Miss Dana's curly bobbed locks. Her hair is plastered back and tied with hair ribbons whose only virtue is their serviceableness. Her attire consists of a straight lined white cotton dress with a full skirt, cotton stockings and a pair of the kind of shoes with elastic cloth in their sides that old men wear when they have reached the point where they are no longer able to lace them.

The other members of the graduating class are dressed in a like manner. Newboro is one town where the flapper is as yet unknown.

According to Mr. Beaumont, half the graduates of the high schools in Los Angeles and Hollywood must be entering motion picture work. He judged this by the ease with which the casting director met his request for a hundred young women who were high school graduates. He sought them, believing they would more readily lend atmosphere to the scene.

Among those in the supporting cast who are participated in the graduation exercises with Miss Dana were David Butler, Betty Francisco, Alfred Allen, Malcolm McGregor, Eva Novak and Allan Forrest. The story was adapted by Rex Taylor and the picture was photographed by John Arnold.

AT THE CAPITOL.

GLORIA SWANSON AT CAPITOL THEATRE

When "Zaza," the great French play was produced in Paris some twenty-five years ago, and which was the starring vehicle for Madame Rejane, it was believed by many critics that it would be impossible for any American actress to portray that arduous role as artistically as the actress named, but these critics were in error as the evidence showed. The play was for many years a reigning success on the American stage with many notable actresses in the title role.

The picturization of this charming play by Paramount with beautiful Gloria Swanson in the title role is said by many to be a far more powerful characterization than has ever been seen on the American stage or screen. In this splendid picturization, which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre starting today, Miss Swanson relies entirely upon the power of pantomimic art in which the French always have been adepts, but those who have seen the great screen artist in her wonddrful emotional interpretations, in which she has appeared for several years, will be the first to declare that Miss, Swanson is the only American screen star who vests the role of "Zaza" with a power never heretofore witnessed in silent drama productions.

The support provided for Miss Swanson in this play, headed by H. B. Warner, is exceptionally praiseworthy, each role being in the hands of an artist. The photoplay was splendidly produced by Allan Dwan and in point of direction and photography, as well as sterling portrayals, it ranks as a masterpiece of the screen.

TOM MIX COMING TO THE CAPITOL THEATRE

Tom Mix in Zane Gray's "The Lone Star Ranger" will be the feature at Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

AT THE ROYAL.

"STOP YOUR TICKLIN', JOCK" AT ROYAL TONIGHT

The feature at the Royal Theatre tonight will be the famous Scotch comedy hit, "Stop Your Tickling, Jock," based on the popular play that ran two years in the Lyric Theatre, London, and one year in the Palace Theatre, Glasgow.

"Stop Your Tickling, Jock," is one of the most uproarious and screamingly funny pictures that has ever come over from the Old Country.

The action of the story takes place partly in London and partly in an old Scotch castle up in the Highlands. The principals in the picture are Lady Stilton, one of the Highland Stiltons, who believes that the world is composed of two classes—Stiltons and others—Vount Guy Cheviot, Lady Stilton's nephew, who has an uncontrollable passion for certainties ranging from ten-to-one to thirty-to-one and upwards. Young Mr. Cheviot manages to keep himself always in straitened circumstances by plunging on his uncertain certainties—Jock Jamieson, the faithful retainer at Loch Stickle Castle, whose forefather fought with Bruce at Bannockburn, which Jock is not likely to fogret—The Earl of Cripplegate, an eccentric and ludicrous character—and John Josephs, famous theatre backer and main owner of the London Follies—and Trixie, Tootsy and Tiny, famous soubrettes of the aforementioned Follies.

Up in Loch Stickee Castle, Lady Stilton meets with the astonishing intelligence that her only son, Gussie, has become engaged to a showgirl of the London Follies. The aristocratic lady is shocked out of composure and after a seven half-hour with her heir apparent, Lady Stilton decides spending the season in Monte Carlo and taking her young offspring away from the toils of these vulgar London show people.

The course of the story from here on is one sensation of screams, laughs and chuckles, which increase a pace on the arrival on the scene of the Dominie's daughter, Helen, the Earl of Cripplegate and lastly, Lady Stilton and the unfortunate Gussie.

The comedy "Scout Pluck" is a good example of what a comedy should be in providing laughs and at the same time is a boost for the Boy Scout movement. "Under the Border," a half-hour western and a "See Canada First" scenic complete a well-balanced program at usual Royal prices: Matinees, 11 and 15c. Evenings, 11c, 20c, 30c.

GREATEST YEAR IN RAIL HISTORY

Lull in Grain Shipments Through Here Did Not Mark End of Rush.

LINDSAY, Nov. 26.—After a lull of some days, there has been a revival of activities in grain shipments on the C.N.R. from Midland through Lindsay and Peterboro to Belleville. This activity, it is believed, will continue, until the lake harbors freeze up and lake navigation ceases. The elevators at the northern terminal is filled to capacity. The unusual weather conditions have been decidedly favorable for lake traffic and shipments, it is believed, will leave the head of the lakes for some days. The Soo locks will, however, be closed early in December.

The same story can be told relative to operations on the C.P.R from Port McNicoll. The big elevator at that port is filled, and the grain has been moving eastward as rapidly as possible.

Unprecedented in the history of the lake ports this esason has been the great flour movements. The Canadian Pacific Railway had at the end of October shipped by steamer to Port McNicoll and thence by rail through Lindsay and Peterboro, 239,085 tons of flour. About 70,000 additional tons will be shipped before navigation closes. Much of the flour is going overseas, and considerable of it will reach Germany, the German having expressed a preference for Canadian flour over its United States competitors.

So great has been the movement two vessels of the Great Lakes Transportation Company.

If the Company ships the additional 70,000 tons by the end of the season, the total shipment will reach 306,085 tons. In a loaf of bread there is approximately one pound of flour, and the 306,085 tons, if made into bread, would approximate 618,170,000 loaves.

SHIP OF STATE IS FLOUNDERING

Germany's Official Dictator Will Be Power Behind the Throne.

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, November 26. — General von Seetes, Germany's official dictator, still will be the power behind the Government if Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, latest to try a hand at the helm of the floundering ship of state, succeeds in forming a Cabinet.

Von Seektes' ower is growing.
